—"THE ATLANTIC CHARTER and the Four Freedoms are good propaganda among the other races of the world, and ,as such, should not be argued too seriously here at home, but Americans and the British and, we may hope and suppose, the Russians, and of course, the Italians and French, should be satisfied with nothing less than the extermination of the German nation as a menace to the peace and safety of the world"

—Westbrook Pegler, August 27, 1942

We said in last week's column that Westbrook Pegler is an enemy of the United States Gov't. and that his writings represent an open conspiracy against the people of this country. If further proof were necessary Pegler's August 27th essay has presented it. I consider this column seditious and will heartily join any demand calling for Pegler's immediate prosecution on that score.

Pegler's vilification of American war aims may be viewed as an attack upon the Negro since he has chosen to pooh-pooh the solemnly established war policy of the United States government as a deliberate lie designed to hoodwink "other races." I think we may include ourselves among those whom Pegler would fool concerning the nature of the war. It is important to the Negro people as to all other Americans that we are able to spot and analyze the sort of anti-war propaganda that is Pegler's forte, —indeed, his claim to $60,000 per annum.

By labelling the war policy of the United States so much hot air, what does Pegler hope to gain for his bosses, the American friends of Hitler, the anti-war saboteurs, the High Lords of race hate. Roughly, as follows:

1—To confuse the significance of the war through discreditting those documents and aims which establish this as a people's war.

If America is lying about the kind of war she fights, we can never hope to rally the people of the East to the anti-Fascist cause. If this is the same old imperialist scramble, even the spirit of the American public will be shaken. (Of course, this is nonsense,— neither the British, American, Chinese or Russian people will permit another Versailles.)

2—It is designed to strengthen the arguments of Axis agents in the East ,who will represent Pegler as a genuine expression of U. S. public opinion—one which consciously practices deception for the benefit of "other races." (This is untrue No people is so thoroughly anti-imperialist as we. American apathy in the face Indian oppression is maintained only through the conduct of a disgraceful campaign of misrepresentation in the public press. Yet already two preponderant sections of our people have gone on record demanding Indian liberation, Organized Labor and the Negro.)

3—It is designed to strengthen the position of the German government within Germany. Although no plan for "extermination" of the German people has come from any authoritative source of the United Nations, Pegler dares to rank this as a real war aim of the anti-Fascist peoples. Both our President and the British Prime Minister have repeatedly assured the German people that this war is directed against that clique which would enslave them as well as the rest of the world. Joseph Stalin has told the enemy that his armies can harbor no hatred against the Germans as a people and reaffirmed their right to a representative government. That statement has influenced the desertion of thousands of Nazis and has aided the German Underground. It was made despite of unspeakable atrocities perpetrated against the Russians as a part of German policy. Pegler's gross misrepresentation of the United Nations' with regard to post war Germany can ONLY give aid to Hitler's propaganda machine, which, no longer able to justify the sacrifices and torments of the German peo-

Negro, Chinese Found Guilty

At the end of its second day of deliberations, a jury in Superior Judge Arthur Crum's court yesterday found Simon Robinson, Negro, and G. T. Tong, Chinese guilty of second-degree murder in the killing of the latter's cousin, Miss Helen Wong last May 12.

Judge Crum will pronounce sentence today. The men also were found guilty on assault charges which carry a sentence of 10 years. The verdict carries five years to life.

Despite the brutal aspects of the crime, which was city-wide sensation, the second degree verdicts, with their possible light sentences was a surprise and is creditted with being another feather in the well upholstered cap of brilliant defense Wright, who pilotted Robinson's admittedly sad case.

CHARLES S. OWENS, EMILE JOLET AND ALBERT JONES, above, are sheet metal workers at the Harvey machine company of Long Beach. They are daily engaged in vital war production, makparts for Uncle Sam's air armadas.

These three lads, sober and intelligent, appeared at the EAGLE offices yesterday and reported a case of rank discrimination.

At noon, they stated they entered Mrs. Ben's Coffee Shop at 1616 Pacific Coast Highway anr asked for food. They were told by the proprietor that she did not serve colored people at her counter.

Plan Huge City-wide Mass Meet

Plans for a giant city-wide mass meeting to be held at Philharmonic auditorium were in process of final polishing up today by the new United Citizens for Victory committee, headed by Judge Pierson M. Hall and William Morris, jr.

The huge gathering is scheduled for Sept. 14.

Among topics which the meet will discuss are full integration of all availible man-power in the battle of production minus racial discrimination, whole hearted support of the nation's war policy, emphasizing Los Angeles' determination to endure all sacrifices necessary in the immediate establishment of a second front, and the importance of citizens' participation in all civilian defense activities.

The partially completed committee follows:

Edward Arnold, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, James H. Burford, Philip Chandler, Philip M. Connelly, David R. Faries, C. J. Haggerty, Mrs. E. B. Hershberger, Preston Hotchkis, Sharles J. Katz, Rapheal Konigsburg, John B. Long, William P. Nutter, Mrs. C. H. O'Neal, Morris Pendleton, William Pomerance, Judge B. Rey Schauer, O. A. Smith, Robert Y. Smith, E. C. Thomas, Carleton Tibbets.

"Unification of the people of Los Angeles on the essential issues of this war, establishment of a second front in pursuance of our present war policy, the cancellation of discriminatory practices which limit our production for victory, is a valuable contribution to the national unity of our whole country," a spokesman for the committee said.

MORE EAST, WEST COAST AIRCRAFT PLANTS HIRING NEGRO WOMEN

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON,SEPT. 30.—Severe shortages in war workers are in the offing for this area, said the WMC in a special Western statement issued today. Emphasis in training and employment will be shifted to women workers to a degree previously undreamed of. Discrimination on the basis of race will not be tolerated but local Communities must insist that the WMC's policy is carried out, it was stated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—An increasing number of aircraft plants on both the East and West coasts are beginning to utilize Negro women as production workers, Paul V. McNutt, chairman, War Manpower Commission, was informed this week.

This development was reported to McNutt by Dr. Robert C. Weaver, director, Negro Manpower Service, WMC, on the basis of reports received from field representatives of the commission.

According to these reports, the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation recently placed 45 Negro women on production work at its San Diego, Calif., plant. Nine of these production workers were upgraded from custodial work in the plant, and 36 were hired for jobs in spot welding, finishing, salvage and other departments.

CITIZENS RAP RULING UPHOLDING PROPERTY RESTRICTIONS IN GARDENS

Growing city-wide opposition to property restrictions against Negroes and other minority gronps was seen this week in the vigorous condemnation of a decision handed down by Superior Judge Roy Rhodes upholding a restrictive covenant which will prevent them from occupying duely purchased homes in the Central Avenue Gardens area by the Los Angeles branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The Lofton-Laws case, lost last week before Judge Rhodes, promises to be a test case as to the constitutionality of property restrictions on the basis of race. An

ACT TO HALT DISTRIBUTION OF MGM ANTI-NEGRO FILM; U.S. AROUSED

Vigorous action to halt distribution of the anti-Negro film scheduled for early release by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "Man on America's Conscience," was urged this week by Negro organizations and progressive groups throughout the nation.

The film paints an utterly false picture of the great Abolitionist leader, Thaddeus Stevens, portraying him as a deep died villain, while showing Andrew Johnson, Lincoln's Vice-President and successor, an avowed Copperhead stooge who vetoed every Congressional measure extending democratic rights to Negroes, as a great hero. In the film, Stevens, who was a member of the House of Representatives, is played by Lionel Barrymore, and the role of Johnson is filled by the studio's new box office sensation, Van Heflin.

Letters condemning the film as injurious to national morale should be directed to Lowell Mellett, chief of the Bureau of Motion Pictures, Office of War Information, Washington, D. C. Mellett's action last week in con-

Coming of Robeson Stirs Interest Here

With a committee of 100 hard at work, the Sept. 17th Paul Robeson mass meeting in Los Anglees began this week to shape up as one of the most exciting events in the city's history.

Robeson, who will be accompanied by distinguished Max Yergan, president of the National Negro Congress, has recently triumphed in an East Coast presentation of "Othello."

With clamor for the opening of a second front mounting daily, the meet will stress importance of this move to American Negroes, pointing out that the very perpetrators of the 'delay second front' campaign are those who oppose extension of Negro rights—which further blocks prosecution of the anti-Hitler war.

Although place for the meeting has not been set, it will be held in one of the city's largest auditoriums.

POLL TAX JOLTED AS SENATE OKs SOLDIER VOTE

WASHINGTON,Sept. 3—The nation's capital today is in uproar as the hoary dykes which have held Dixie's oppressive poll tax system from the wrath of the American people found new fissures rent in its its rotting walls. Senate passage of a bill enfranchising ALL U. S. soldiers, whether they have paid poll taxes or not, ranked today as the healthiest swat which poll taxx has suffered in years.

Important to Los Angeles, however, is the apparent failure of the California anti-poll tax drive to jar the nine Congressmen of this State who maintain their refusal to sign the House discharge petition for the Geyer anti-poll tax measure. They are:

THEY ARE CONGRESSMEN:
ANDERSON
BUCK
CARTER
LELAND FORD
JOHNSON P
LEA ROLPH

Supreme effort of the anti-poll tax forces now is to secure presence of a House quorum when the Senate Soldiers Vote measure., with its anti-poll tax amendment, comes before the lower body. Electioneering Representa-tives must be bundled off to Congress, where their votes can prevent Southern Representatives from blasting the anti-poll tax legislation out of existence.

General situation in the tax fight is as follows:

1—The Senate passed a bill last week giving all soldiers in the armed forces the right to vote without poll tax limitations.

The bill must be passed in the House, where there isn,t a quorum.

2—The Attorneys General of 8 Southern States have asked to appear at Judiciary Committee hearings on the Senate, Pepper Anti-Poll Tax bill. This is clearly a delaying move. The Pepper bill has been before the Committee for the past two years and there has been adequate time for all parties to be heard.

3—The House Geyer bill is still held in the House Judiciary Committee, chaired by Texas poll taxer Hatton Summers. There remain only 18 signatures ont of a required 218 on a petition which will force the measure out of committee and on the floor for a vote.

The fight for the passage of the Pepper and Geyer bills will reach a climax in the next month and a half with the return of Congressmen to Washington. Every effort should be made now to reach Congressmen and Senators so that this essential war measure will be guaranteed passage at this session of Congress.

Ask Atlantic Charter Take in India

—BULLETIN—

To help win victory over the Axis, the Los Angeles Industrial Union Council today urged President Roosevelt "to insist that Great Britain extend the Atlantic Charter to India.

NEW DANGER to the United Nations has developed in India as a result of British failure to break the deadlock caused by rejection of Indian demands for independence and partnership in the United Nations.

Dispatches from India indicate Britain's obstinacy continues to play into the hands of the followers of Mohandas K. Ghandi at a time when the threat to India from Japanese and Nazi aggression is daily increasing.

Disorder, suppressed in big cities, is reported to be spreading underground, boiling up in little towns and villages. More than 30 instances of violence in widely separated districts in India tell of sabotage, arson and mob ac-

WASHINGTON. D. C., Sept. 3.—Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, this week commended four southern newspapers, one a Negro weekly, for investigating and exposing false undercover rumors of impending racial conflicts in southern communities.

Davis' commendation was contained in letters to L. I. Jaffe, editor, The Virginian-Pilot, Norfolk, Va.; Jonathan Daniels, editor, The News and Observer, Raleigh, N. C.; Virginius Dabney, editor, The Richmond Times-Dispatch, Richmond, Va., and P. B. Young sr., editor, The Journal and Guide, a Negro weekly published in Norfolk, Va.

Commending the editors for their contributions to national unity, Davis wrote:

"I should like to commend as heartily as possible your recent editorial exposure of false and inflammatory rumors about the danger of racial conflicts.

Twenty-two Negro women, the only colored female trainees available, were recently employed for mechanical work at the Boeing Aircraft plant in Seattle, Wash. Similar employees have been at work for several months at the Lockheed-Vega and Douglas Aircraft plants in Burbank and Santa Monica, Calif. The Douglas Corporation recently transferred several colored production workers to clerical and stenographic jobs.

Negro women are already employed on production and inspection work at the Glenn L. Martin Company in Baltimore, Md.; the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the Bell Aircraft Company, and at the Buffalo and Columbus, O., plants of the Curtiss Wright Corporation.

In reporting this development, Dr. Weaver pointed out that the employment of Negro women in the production phases of the aircraft industry is still in the initial stage and that large numbers have not received employment at present. Agreements reached with aircraft manufacturers, however, indicate broader employment opportunities for Negro women in the future, he said. At the same time, he urged colored women to enroll in war training courses in areas where aircraft plants are located.

Mass Meet on India Held in New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The role that labor and the people must play in achieving the full independenec of India was pointed out sharply last night at a mass meeting at Manhattan center where Paul Robeson, Michael Quill, and Max Yergan made stirring statements to the effect that "elements within the United Nations and in India are obstructing a speedy solution of the Indian crisis based on the just demands of the Indian people for ana Indian government of national unity in a fighting alliance with the United Nations."

"Labor must take the lead in defeating these elements in order to achieve a 'natural alliance with the Indian people' in a common struggle against the Axis," said, Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, CIO.

Denouncing those who are spreading insidious propaganda that the American people and the American government should remain aloof from the problems of India and not be 'distracted' from the vital task of winning the war, Dr. Max Yergan, executive secretary of the Council on Afrcian Affairs, declared, "To win a free India as an equal member of the United Nations would be one of the major victories in this people's war. We cannot underestimate the grave price the United States and the United Nations will have to pay in lives and extended warfare should we fail to win India as an ally now."

Speaking on the same program at which many trade union, fraternal organizations, and civic groups were represented, was Dr. Channing H. Tobias, secretary of the National Council of the YMCA, and Kumar Goshal, Indian scholar who is writing and lecturing in this country.

In Memoriam

It comforted our hearts indeed to receive the flowers, cards and words of comfort from friends during the loss of our precious sister, Margaret Brown. We especially praise Dr. J. D. Grodon and Rev. E. A. Anderson for their comforting words of hope. May God bless all who shared our sorrow. Upon the request of friends, we submit our original poem in honor of our departed sister.

MY SISTER

Your memory shall ever linger,
In my heart that's broken now.
Soon God with His healing finger
Will mend it back somehow.

Precious you were to us indeed
Though quiet, humble, and mild,
Many times your heart did bleed,
You kept on as God's child.

I know you're only blooming
With God's other roses gay,
You left us in the glooming,
But why did you slip away?

I envy not your homeward flight,
From this sad world of woe.,
God needed a jewel, clean and bright
And you were fit to go.

Rest in peace, my darling kin,
Your work on earth is through
When the saints are marching in,
Dear Margaret, I'll be there, too.

I? Wiser than you?
No, my love, tis not so—
For that which you call wisdom is but my cloak of hope for no gift exchange of pain between us
On this day
. . . or the next . . .

Well, Eddie Smith didn't get to LA, after all. He arrives in Noo Yawk on the 14th, bag 'n baggage, for a month's course in gyroscopic study, the only tan tone lad from his Georgia camp selected to make the trip with his pale-face brethren in khaki. Nice goin', bub . . . I wonder if his LA cronies know Eddie's not returning to LA when he finally is released from the army? He confides to us he'll enter Mass. Institute of Technology, then settle on the Atlantic coast . . . Sic transit Eddie Smith!

Homesick Reggie Beane will grab himself an armful of train the minute the cameras stop grinding on his current film assignment. Well, by golly, Reg, we'll all be leaving these parts on the 19th for Chi. Why not meet us there, since you have to pass thru Windy Town to hustle onto NY?. . .. Folks doin' more going and coming than enuff----Gladys (Boo) Dent, busy controlling her social destiny from her hotel suite in Sacramento these waning summer days, will wrap herself in furs and the family's last pearls and sweep down to LA in late Sept. I wouldn't miss her Entrance Fatale for anything in the world, and not even the bubonic plague will keep me from haunting the Station that day she ankles in, redcaps scufflin', etc. and "Boo" blowing kisses. . . . . Lawdy. . Lawdy . .

Ernest Anderson, I hear, is in the army, his budding movie career put behind him for the time being . . . The more big towns we explore, the more obvious it becomes the growing mob of gals without available boy friends is becoming a problem! They're getting serious and all of 'em want somebody, or something, they can call their own. How 'bout that, now? . . . yes, yes . . . Tues. note: from Rob Wagner's widow, a simply worded but oh, so beautiful thought expressed in memorable manner . . . Fingersnap: Did I ever tell my fellow travellers, who are at home here 'a there, that Rae Olley Dudley is expecting, in NY? . . .

Folk who have followed the incident with growing curiosity, want to know why the SECRET meeting of film folk at Rochester's home to discuss the Tales of Manhattan biz? Further, the film has been rather mysteriously withdrawn from NY, no one knowing much about its next showing . . . which, for the time being, will give the Harlem pickets a chance to soak their weary dogs in hot salts, for they're a-sittin' and a-waitin' for the film to pop up so they can go gleefully to work. . . .and, bub until you've seen a line of Harlem pickets go to work, you aint seen nothing . . . Aside to Maurine Browning: Again, I'm so sorry I won't be in the East to join that stag line . . . Ben Carter has had a busy fling of it in NY . . . Deep yawn: The perennial baby rumor for Marva has cropped up again, I guess you know? Well, deal me out on this hand, bub, I was one of those who got stung on that last set of baby rumors for the gorgeous Marva . . .

In New Mexico: Joe Crawford, and that's that. . . Murray Barton, he who wins sweepstakes and stuff, will spend part of next Spring in Pasadena, visiting from NY . . . which means many a steak will be broiled and many a pop corked for Murray. Few hosts around the land (those who are left, that is) can outdo him when it comes to a royal, truly royal, dinner party, down to the last engraved gold finger-bowl and that very last gold-stitched napkin . . . Tardy item, these, but we'll insert 'em, anyhow: The Allen girls, Hortense, sr. and Hortense, jr., vacationed in Oregon, while Marcery and Henry McPherson hied themselves off to the Yosemite for their annual month . . . Has my memory failed me, or didn't Alice DeCuir have a birthday somewhere along thru here, or just recent? . . .

Musing: Strange, but there are no feminine cartoonists on any of our weeklies. What about that, gals, aint there no artists among ya? . . . Hasty add to that last item: Nope, I ain't offering a job, I'm just asking, thats all!

I also asked a well-known journalist, just this a. m., to verbally list a half dozen really profound, prolific writers on weeklies. He couldn't list more than four. It's a job, try it . . . .

From the originial score for Cabin In The Sky, only the title song and Taking A Chance will remain in the film. Everything else will be new . . .even the chilly looks betwen the principals . . . By the way, Rita Christiani will delite in learning here her NY pals thinks she could've done the role of Georgia Brown in the MGM version of the same show! Confession: I can never resist entering agreeting card shop . . . Irving Berlin's This Is The Army will play the jim crow National Theatre in DC, under the shadow of the Capitol dome, yet the cullud lads in the cast won't be able to get a glass of water in any of the drugstores, 2-bit joints or spots within a radius of a thousand miles, and more . . . To Mabel and Ed Hurd: Chas. Lofton asks to be remembered to you both.

Howard University's widely publicized art curator, Lonnie Aden, was turned down by the Coast Guard. Blood pressure . . . Ol Harrington, the cartoonist who does Bootsie, is due in the army any day . . . You can discredit that theatrical article carried by PV last wk. about Georgette Harvey and Todd Duncan feuding and not speaking. They're the best of friends, always have been, always will be . . . & to the item anent Nelson Rockefeller canceling a picnic outing o' the Potomac River (Dee Cee because the boat co. refused to carry the tan tone members of his office staff, you may add there were 26 race members of Rockefeller's staff of 500. Democracy in action, as Mrs. Bethune says . . . And tell me, why doesn't some weekly send a crack writer to Des Moines and investigate the growing (founded) rumors of flagrant jim crow and shameful treatment accorded our girls in the WACCS? What are we waiting for? The A train? . . . How nice it would be if our celebrity friends would remember to keep all their human faults at a minimum, if they know the spotlight is a terrific magnifying glass!

Sight: The Catholic church, deep in Harlem, with an 8-ft. iron fence topped with ugly spikes, everything locked tight, except Sunday a. m., heavy wire netting over the windows!

VOGUE ART CLUB MEMBERS REPORT ACTIVITIES

Helen Trammel and Sara Wallace were hostesses to the Vogue Art club at the last two meetings. Mrs. Mary Garrott Arnaud was guest at the meeting at Mrs. Trammel's and at Mrs. Wallace's home the members welcomed back Mrs. Louise Clark, absentee member, who has been in Sacramento for the past few months.

Due to the fact that some of the girls are defense students and workers, sometimes the club has to meet on swing shift hours, but as yet has not arrived at the graveyard shift.

The new hobbies Miss Brown, clever instructor, is teaching the members are so interesting that odd hours and dates are not considered an inconvenience.

Elsie Rakestraw, president of the club, is missed from the fold, but is enjoying an extended eastern vacation and will have plenty of travel news to relate when she returns.

Zerech Beaman is vice president; Sarah Wallace, secretary.

Johnson Is Host

Mr. S. P. Johnson was gracions host to a party of church folk that journied to Landon Sunday afternoon to help Rev. Bentley celebrate his "Free of Debt" anniversary.

The party included Deacon Eugene Allen, Mrs. Samella Daniels and Mrs. J. Rozell, all off St. Paul Baptist church, and Mrs. C. A. Bass, who was the afternoon speaker.

Mrs. Johnson Entertains Fashionette Social Club

The girls and escorts of the Fashionette Social club were most graciously received at the beautiful home of the president, Mrs. Anna Mae Johnson, 709 E. 47th street.

Refreshments and delicious food was served to the happy guests in a very elite manner, following which brdige was played.

Listen, folks! Keep your eyes open and yuor ears perked for an evening of fun in the month of October. The date? Watch for it. Thelma Pierce Brasmon is reporter.

Mrs. Leona E. Jones Entertains Goodyearites

Mrs. Leona E. Jones, socially prominent young matron, entertained a few friends at her palatial home, 1391 East 33rd street, last Friday evening. A delectable chicken dinner served with hot corn bread and biscuits, and fresh peach cobbler with whip cream was enjoyed by the guests.

Those honored included Mesdames James Donald Ross, James Estes and Miss Frances Graves, all are fellow employees of Mrs. Jones in the Barrage Balloon Department of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

After dinner the guests talked of the contemplated trip to Australia by Mrs. Ross in the interest of the USO.

S. P. Johnsons to Honor Christopher Scott

The beautiful summer garden of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Johnson will be the scene of a reception Sunday in honor of Christopher Scott, recently appointed superintendent of Station K. and Mr. Garrott, assistant superintendent. Prominent citizens will gather to honor these men on their appointments.

Estella Broady Is Surprise Party Honoree

One of the year's unique, real, and genuine surprise parties was recorded on last Wednesday evening when Mrs. Estella Broady, wife of retired police officer Chas. S. Broady, walked into a group of 100 friends and relatives who were waiting in the spacious dining room of the Dunbar Hotel to greet her with "Happy Birthday To You Dear 'Stella'". So quietly and cleverly did her husband plan the affair that the sighting of a Jap Zero over Los Angeles could not have caused her more complete surprise or utter astonishment. Momentarily Mrs. Broady stood transfixed, but, after regaining her composure, she sauntered in and out among the tables bestowing a kiss here, a pat there, mingling both with pleasant rebukes.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William T. Green, parents of Mrs. Broady; Mr. and Mrs. Wiley T. Broady, parents of Mr. Broady; Mr. and Mrs. William C Broady, son and daughter; William C. Broady, jr., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Broady; Mr. and Mrs. Brogan Aaron; Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hooks, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sheppard; Mr. and Mrs. Inman McGruden; Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts; Mr. and Mrs. H. Woosencraft, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Horey, Dr. and Mrs. B. A. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Jones. Mesdames: Naomi Dorsey, Yola Brinson; L. Siegal, Jessie Woods, Rev. Moreland.

Mrs. Bowdoin 'At Home' to 150 Guests

Mrs. Lorenzo Bowdoin was "at home" to 150 ladies last Thursday afternon at her lovely home at 2248 S. Harvard Blvd.

Those of us who were visiting the home for the first time had a pleasant surprise in store in seeing the beauty of the artistic furnishings which created such a home-like atmosphere.

Those assisting Mrs. Bowdoin in receiving her guests were, Miss Frances Bowdoin, her lovely daughter, Medames Edna Bowdan, Helen Coleman, Lavell Jones, Vivian Bowdan, Viola Knox, Minnie King, Edith Skanks and Lou Mayer.

Mrs. Lottie Anderson furnished the music for the afternoon, and everyone enjoyed the lovely refreshments that were served.

HARRIETT BEECHER WHITE and Charlotte Hampton, two Los Angeles girls in WAAC training at Des Moines, Iowa.

Orchid Girls to Give Annual Cocktail Dance

All highways leading to 2122 W. 29th street will be crowded with pleasure seekers Sunday, headed for the Orchid Girls annual benefit cocktail dance.

This gala event, which is enjoyed annually by charitable minded friends and admirers of the Orchids, promises to top all previous cocktail parties given by this hard-working, unselfish group.

The affair is to raise funds for toys to be given to underprivileged children at Christmas, and this year more than ever will the need be greater as children of soldiers will be left behind to be card for. Put this date on your must list as your contribution to war babies. The admission is 25c; time, 6 until 11 o'clock.

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

Last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 sharp, Mattye Bridgett and Fred Bluett took their vows at a very impressive ceremony held at historic Eighth and Towne church. The center aisle of the church was flanked with white candles, which made a perfect setting for the occasion. Sarah Lumpkin served as a flower girl. Bridesmaids Franzanna Slated, Nancy Balch, Vivian Staten, Norma Lee Mcdaniel, Paullyn Garner, and Cornelia (Maid of Honor), were Beautiful in delicate shades of pink and blue velvet and marquisette gowns. Mattye made a beautiful bride, garbed in the traditional white satin.

Guests witnessing the affair included Hope and Joye Spelghts —looking 'chic,' in black and white, Rosalia Saffold, back from recent vacation, bride-elect Catherine Johnson, Albertyne Record, Margaret Prince, and Felix Williams. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held and the bride and groom received many useful

LAST WEEK

The pace of entertaining quickens as the fall looms ahead. Visitors to the city are departing and the locals are returning from their vamations. Naomi Davis, who departed for Tuskegee Institute Sat. morning, received many warm receptions from the townsfolk and spent several days solidly balling. Friday evening a farewell get together was given in her honor. Such notables as Naucy Pitts and John Lee Johnson, Ernest Ashford, Gwendolyn Harris, Harold Faulkner, Ouida Pruitt, Wendell Brown, John Taylor, Bill Johnson, Darrington Weaver, Neal Collins, Billy Benfield, Juanita Adams, Roy Loggins, and Dorothy Pierre, Joe Jones (visiting up North), Tommy Clarke, Reaper Shaw, Randolph Williams, Marion and Harriet Paterson, William Spencer and a host of others were there to bid her goodbye. The lovely home of Doris Garrison was the setting.

Getting back into the swing of things, the Ivy Leafs met Friday evening at the home of Joye Spieghts. Regianal director, Superior Manila Smith was present and favored the girls with a discusion.

Saturday night Margarite Lewis and Sarah Palode feted the the boys returning on o five day leave fhom the ship yards up north. Those honored were Wallace DeCuir, Quteen Taylor, Chester, Danny and Arnette Lewis. The old crowd was there to give the boys a hearty welcome. Bert Kenner, Leonard Grimes, VVergie Donnelly, Gloria Jones. Doris Colley, Jane Criner and Dick Terry, Maethilde Kenner and Hank Milton, Ralph Kaufman and a group of others were among the welcomers.

The same evening. Alma Herd and Nellie Goosby did their bit for the USO by giving a cigarette ball.

Regardless of the draft, and odd working shifts, local boys still outnumber the girls at these different afairs. How this works out, the local debs don't know because every week, two or three gents depart for the armed forces.

Prominently marked on the calndar as an event of the season is the semi formal patio party to be given by the Lomax sisters, Gertrude and Lillian, tomorrow night. According to tow talk, the cream of the crop will be there.

Sunday afternoon from two o'clock 'til five, the girls of Second Baptist church are holding their Girl's Day Victory Tea at 987 E. 41st street. Bety Mae Pratt, financial chairman of the day is asking that the public at large do its part, by attending this affair. Girl's Day is scheduled to take place the second Sunday in September.

WELL, WELL, WELL!

Kappa man Lorenzo Morris is taking life easy up North nowadays. Wonder if he'll be back in time for the Kappa black and white, which is scheduled for the 20th of Sept. . . . Empress Charlene Matthews, Bessie and Mary Buford, Eddie Gory and several others had a ball at the Flying Horse Ranch last Sunday morning. Following the ride, the group had breakast at the Dunbar. Now how 'bout that? . . . Congratulations are in order for Jerry and Lionel McQuillon, who were blessed with a bouncing baby boy . . . Rice and Arbazine Walder celebrated their first wedding anniversary last Monday. May they celebrate many more . . . Arnette Lewis broke rank with the Three Northern Musketeers, to work in the local shipyards, and keep an eye on his one and only . . . Hear that Saul Reese surprised Luana Edwards, by returning to the city a day ahead of schedule . . . Booker Stevens is in a class by himself when he says "Mah Baby," with that cute drawl . . . When cavalry man Earnest Ashford returned to the city in his fine uniform, he found that things weren't what they used to be with his old flame . . . Wasn't Roy Loggins' face red when he walked into Mel and Gene's last Sat. night. Reason for embarrassment, his flame, Geraldine Monroe was there, and not with him . . . Here's wishing Elweis Davis a speedy recovery. 'Til next week.

ARTISTS AID BABIES SHELTER BODY

The Babies Sheltering League, an organization of young women whose special interest is the care of children during this war period, gave its first public program Sunday at the Mayan theatre to raise funds for the McKinley Nursery school.

MARIE JOE BROWNE

Marie Joe Browne will present a dramatic recital—a one woman show—at Hamilton Methodist church, E. 18th street and Naomi avenue, Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 8:15 p. m., when she will give an evening of dramatic readings and impersonations.

AUXILIARY OF HOME DEFENSE BENEFIT SHOW SATURDAY

Besides receiving a hundred per cent entertainment on your investment you will be supporting one of the finest organizations that has come into being during this time of trouble and strife. On Saturday night, September 5th, 1942, the Auxiliary of Home Defense of Precinct 606 are combining talents of some of the world's most renowned as well as famous local artists in producing their First Gala Midnight Show of the Season.

Just to acquaint yourselves with what you may expect, we will give a slight peek into this top notch bill of entertainment, which of course is Mantan Mooreland, Nicadimus, Ben Carter, Earnest Whitman and other stars.

Lilac Girls Meet

The Lilac Girls club met at the lovely home of Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, their vice president. The meeting was called to order by the president, with all members present.

Following the meeting a lovely Spanish dinner was served and bridge was played. The bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Ella Cotton, Miss Velda Pedess, and Miss Lora Johnson. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Washington.

At the meeting with Miss Velda Pedess as hostess, a lovely repast of fresh water 'rout was served. Three changes of bridge were played. Miss Frieda Myers, Mrs. Dora Johnson, and Mrs. Alice Cotton won the prizes.

1940 Jolly Twelve Matrons in Santa Monica

The 1940 Jolly Twelve Matrons, OES, spent a delightful Sunday in Santa Monica as the guests of the grand associate matron, Beatrice McCarroll.

It was our happy privilege to worship with her at the women's day service of the AME Zion church which was a grand success. From the church we journeyed to the beautiful home of Sister McCarroll. There we were the happy recipients of a well-planned and served chicken dinner, which was enjoyed by the party of 16. After dinner we went into our regular meeting where we discussed business of vital importance and listened to the reports of our recently held grand session of the Order of the Eastern Star.

There were 11 members present to enjoy the day and to wish our past matron, Beulah Sims, a happy birthday. Our next meeting will be held in Pasadena at the home of Mrs. Sims.

THE ROOT OF EVIL

An exil disposition ,like the weed, needs no cultivating, and one has to use patience and perseverance to avoid its growth. Weeds grow without effort of man, but seeds of kindness which nourish and uplift him, take constant care and attention. It requires an army of good habits to destroy the evil out of us and to keep us on the victorious side of life.

The healthy mind is just as susceptible to evil thoughts and suggestions as is the healthy soil to weeds, so we must all become good gardeners of the mind, as well as the soil.

He who plants a multitude of good thoughts in his mind is the happiest, for he need have no fear that the root of evil will beat him down to his very socks.

A. H. H. Since I have moved to this town, Prof. Herman, I've had many opportunities to tell others of your work and I never fail to thank the Divine Power for leading me to you.

S. M. Will I get work where I have planned to go?
Ans. It comes to me that you shall be offered work in your present community, however, if you must go away, I'm sure that you shall be fortunate in obtaining work.

E. S. Will I marry the man I'm now corresponding with?
Ans. It comes to me that your friend is contemplating upon proposing to you soon. Marriage will follow after a long engagement.

L. J. F. Will I ever be able to find a good husband?
Ans. What you determine to be a good husband, depends upon your ideals. With so many boys being called to their country's service I hesitate to say that you shall find your ideal soon. Be patient and keep your morale high. You are young and will have plenty of time to find a suitable husband.

E. F. W. What does the future hold for me in regards to marriage?
Ans. According to your lucky stars and guiding planet, you shall have several proposals of marriage within the next two years. I vision marriage for you after your nineteenth birthday.

M. M. P. I'm a young girl in love. I want to marry and I would like to finish school. What shall I do?
Ans. Giving your question careful thought, I suggest that you complete your schooling. After two years both you andthe boy will be wiser and more able to cope with economic responsibilities.

Pvt. P. P. Shall I be able to marry in the Fall?
Ans. Due to many intervening circumstances, you may not be able to return home this Fall. Your girl friend loves you and is true blue. I'm sure that she shall wait for your return.

I. L. W. Will I ever have a place of my own? I'm so dissatisfied.
Ans. Satisfaction comes from within and until you learn to use your talents the future shall always be vague to you. The opportunity for you to house-keep is within reach now. Read your horoscope for help.

E. T. I live in Canada and would like a private reply to my questions.
Ans. My opinion on three questions is given for the price of twenty-five cents. Mail your questions and remittance to me in care of this paper.

Overflow Throng Hears Dr. Morris in S. F. Church

DR. CHARLES SATCHELL MORRIS II

Standing in the pulpit of the flag-draped and flower-bedecked Third Baptist church of San Francisco, Dr. Charles Satchell Morris II, of Los Angeles, was greeted by an overflow throng last Sunday morning when he delivered the 90th anniversary sermon in California's oldest Baptist church.

Serving as anniversary preacher for the second time in three years, Dr. Morris made a profound impression upon the multitude assembled from every section of Northern California and from points as far away as Los Angeles and Pasadena.

The eloquent and dynamic visitor whose great grandfather, the Rev. Charles Satchell, was one of the founders and second pastor of the church 87 years ago, stirred the crowd Sunday morning when he delivered an impassioned message from the theme: "What the Years Take and Bring." There were few dry eyes in the jammed auditorium when he concluded and there were numerous accessions to the church.

Dr. Morris was introduced by the pastor, Rev. F. D. Haynes, formerly of Los Angeles.

Several hundred dollars was raised at the Sunday morning service. Large delegations of both soldiers and sailors were present at this service. Pictures of the occasion were taken immediately afterward for distribution throughout the country. The Third church was gracious host at dinner to more than 200 members and friends.

Dr. Morris shared the platform at the monster afternoon service when clergymen throughout Northern California congratulated the historic congregation upon their achievements. Third church is the only Negro Baptist group in San Francisco, and Dr. Morris declared he believed no other city in the nation of comparable size and population had but one Baptist church. There have been no splits or divisions during the 90 years. He was invited to supply the congregation during September while the pastor is engaged on his annual vacation.

Sunday evening Dr. Morris was guest speaker at Mount Pleasant Baptist church in Berkeley of which the Rev. John Wilson, formerly of the Third church, is pastor.

IN SAN DIEGO SUNDAY

Next Sunday morning and evening Dr. Morris will be greeted by hundreds at San Diego when he serves as guest speaker at the Bethel Baptist church. He goes to the famous seaside city on the personal invitation of the Rev. Charles H. Hampton, pastor of the church and president of the Western Baptist State convention. He spoke at the church on Race Relations Sunday in February, while three years ago he was homecoming speaker and on both occasions made a tremendous impression upon his hearers. Dr. Morris will be the guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Hampton while in San Diego.

On the second Sunday in September, Dr. Morris will speak throughout the day at the Calvary Baptist church of Santa Monica, of which Rev. W. P. Carter is pastor. He is also executive secretary of the Western Baptist State convention.

Dr. Morris is Pacific coast representative of Tennessee State college and public relations counselor for the California EAGLE.

Cornerstone Baptist Closes 26th Annual Service

REV. D. C. AUSTIN

The Cornerstone Baptist church closed its 26th annual appreciation service of the church and the sixth year for the pastor and his wife on last Sunday afternoon. It was acclaimed one of the greatest in the church's history.

The church, beautifully decorated with huge baskets of flowers, was not able to seat the huge crowd, which gathered to honor the pastor, Rev. D. C. Austin, and his lovely wife, Mrs. Austin. Rev. A. Moten, of Bethlehem Baptist church, was guest speaker of the afternoon.

Rev. Austin has in the past six years of his pastorate won the respect and admiration of hundreds of men, women, and children by his clean life and zeal to minister to humanity the spiritual aid and comfort they needed. He is at present the first vice moderator of the Pacific Baptist association and treasurer of the Baptist Ministers' union.

When Rev. Austin was called to Cornerstone Baptist church six years ago, he found only 36 members. Today the church has 585 members.

The church is proud of its financial record, which has topped all others. In the period of one year it has raised the sum of $6625.85, and at present has $1000 on hand toward a new church building.

At the close of the service, Rev. and Mrs. Austin received many lovely gifts. Each department of the church presented Rev. and Mrs. Austin with a gift of money during the anniversary, the total of which was $327.14. Including the money from the church, the pastor and his wife were presented with $200. May God forever bless them both with many such anniversaries.

The church is now preparing for a great revival service. Rev. C. H. Johnson, a great singing evangelist, who is the pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church of San Diego, will be in charge. The revival will begin Sept. 14-24 at 8 p. m. The slogan is "Help to win a soul, and we will win the war." Everyone is invited to come.

CME Board to Present Artists

The Stewardess Board No. 2 of Phillip's Temple CME church is presenting Yvette Snedden, soprano, and Muffie Moore, player of the musical saw, Thursday evening, Sept. 10, at 8 p. m., at 971 E. 43rd street. The admission is 25 cents. Mrs. B. C. Holden and Mrs. B. R. Pharr are sponsoring the program and Mrs. C. D. Frederick will be mistress of ceremonies.

This program promises to be of unusual interest in that both the artists are accomplished musicians. Miss Snedden, a recent graduate of Monrovia High school, was an outstanding member of the glee club during her school career. This 17-year old girl holds great promise of becoming one of the outstanding musicians of America.

Dick Turpin, Retired Navy Hero, Picks 1st Seattle Sailor

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 3.—Dick Turpin is a chief gunner's mate, retired from the navy in 1919. After Pearl Harbor Dick brushed off the old uniform and tried to make the grade again, but there wasn't a chance.

Commander H. J. McNulty at the recruiting station did this for him, though. Dick was allowed to pick the first colored sailor enlisted for combat duty, to kind of take his place. He picked H. J. Rudisell, a likely looking Seattle boy.

Rudisell will be a fine sailorman if he fills Dick's shoes. Dick rates two side-boys when he comes aboard ship. Dick rates the starboard gangway. Dick rates a salute from the President of these United States. For Dick Turpin wears two Congressional Medals of Honor.

Turpin swaggered through the gallant adventure story that was his life in sea boots, cutlass in hand.

STARTED IN SAIL

There was the young Dick in sail, cap'n of the forrard top, or steering by the wind in the main tops'l. Streaking up the rigging or heading for the Horn and being blown back to Africa, and eating cracker hash twenty-one times a week.

On a night in 1898 Dick was blown out of his hammock by an explosion. A second lacerated him terribly, a third blew the ship apart. Despite injuries, Dick saved the life of the captain, C. D. Sigsbee. The ship was the Maine and that was Dick's first medal.

There was that thunder of guns at Santiago when Cervera made a run for it, and the flaming wrecks of Spanish ships; Turpin was there. Turpin crashed the Forbidden City of China with the Tommies and Krauts in the Boxer rebellion; the United States was a world power.

There were native sharpshooters in the palm fronds of Apia and the deadly swish of long-bladed knives. Dick made that one, too.

19 MEN SAVED

In 1905 the Bennington blew up. Dick saved two officers and seven men from the water, then returned to the ship, dived into the blazing boiler room and saved ten more, some by pitching them through the hatch. His second medal.

In 1914 the S-4 sank in 400 feet of water off Honolulu. It was the first U. S. major submarine disaster. Dick was the diver.

Turpin crawled up the streets of Vera Cruz and hot lead whapped on the sun-baked flags about him, but Turpin squinted down the rifle barrel carefully and squeezed the trigger ever so gently, just like he did it on the rifle range.

Then he retired, but came back to ride the convoy lanes in World War I.

MASTER DIVER

Then he came home to be master diver at the Bremerton yard until thye retired him, too.

Today there is a thunder of guns in the Pacific and Dick Turpin is seventy-six. He wished Rudisell luck wistfully and sat staring out the windows of the station long after the clatter of feet faded from the halls.

Yes, sir, Rudisell will be one fine sailor if he fills Dick's shoes.

New Director Begins Work at Trinity

EARL J. PLEASANT

Earl J. Pleasant, former director of the choir of the Triangular Truth church and at present director of an interdenominational chorus, will be the new director of the Celestial Choristers of the Trinity Baptist church in their new home at W. 35th street and Normandie avenue.

Pleasant succeeds Mrs. Virdes Shortridge, organizer and only other director of this now famous group of youthful singers. Mrs. Shortridge welcomed Pleasant last Tuesday evening on behalf of the church, of which she is financial secretary, and pledged her wholehearted support. She is now a Federal employee in the U. S. Army Recruiting Office, doing stenographic work and cannot be sure of her Sundays.

Pleasant comes to Trinity at a most favorable time and has an opportunity to become one of the city's most successful directors. The voices he inherits are better now than ever and all must read notes before being admitted to the group. They have the advantage of being youths who have had special musical training in high school and many of them are receiving further instructions in college, and yet the great spiritual life of Trinity church has given them spiritual content.

To hear them sing a service in the past has been one of the features which has made Trinity one of Los Angeles' great churches. Under Pleasant and their fine upstanding president, Francis Robinson, they bid fair to

Second Baptist Minister in Special Sermon

Have you ever had to face a man whom you did not want to meet? Have you ever been called to task and stood speechless, without excuse and unable to shift the blame upon another? Have you ever been tempted to push aside the ancient idea of Judgment Day? Do you believe that there are "Little Judgment" days which constantly confront man? Do you somehow believe that you can escape the consequences either of what you do, or fail to do? Do you believe God will not hold you responsible for every chance he has given you to do good and live nobly?

You and your friends are cordially invited to come to Second Baptist church Sunday morning and hear the message by the minister, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, preaching from Job's great question, "What then shall I do when God riseth up? and when He visiteth, what shall I answer Him?"

Music will be furnished by the junior choir under Mrs. Eloise Lee. The minister will not preach again until the last Sunday in the month.

LABOR DAY PRAYER SERVICE AT AZUSA

The Azusa Pentecostal Temple, 1001 E. 27th street, is inviting everyone to prayer service Labor Day. Services, under the direction of Mother Cotton, will begin at 10:00 a. m. and continue as the spirit leads.

A Swedish newspaper reports that Russian prisoners of war, forced to build Nazi coastal defenses in Belgium, are being slipped cigarettes, foodstuffs and clothing by the Belgians.

Rev. J. L. Caston Returns to Active Pastorate

DR. J. L. CASTON

The many friends of Dr. J. L. Caston, who for several years has been the successful pastor of Trinity Baptist church, will share the joy of Trinity church this Sunday, not only because they go into their new church home, but because their pastor has been granted a leave of absence from his duties as chaplain of the 7th regiment, California State Guard.

Dr. Caston was appointed chaplain in September, 1941, and commissioned as first lieutenant Oct. 15, 1941. Since that time he has served the Guard as chaplain, morale officer, and recreational officer.

He gave up the active pastorate of his church because as he said, "I want to do all in my power to demonstrate that a Negro unit can be officered by Negroes and get the respect of all."

When not engaged in Guard duties, he visited his church and kept an eye on its work. Last week it was announced that the church, which has grown from 150 members when he came to more than 700, had acquired the Japanese property on W. 35th and Normandie avenue, and would occupy the same this Sunday. Feeling that he should sacrifice everything for the welfare of the church, the pastor offered his resignation from the Guard. The resignation was not accepted, but he was given indefinite leave without pay, which served his purpose.

It will be the good fortune of church lovers to know that once again they may journey to the Westside and hear one of the nation's eminent pulpiteers. There will be five services this Sunday, and Dr. Caston will preach at 11 in the morning and at 7:45 at night. Overflow crowds are expected.

Special Service at 2nd AME

Special evening service at Second AME church, 213 E. 43rd street, corner 43rd and San Pedro place, will be held Sunday. At 7:00 p. m., the service will be sponsored by the A. L. S. Utility club. Music will be by the senior choir. The evening message will be delivered by Rev. C. N. Austin sr., former pastor of the church. Musical numbers will be given by Mrs. Louise Cooke.

Harmony Baptist Church Services

The Harmony Baptist Church, 327 East 42nd Street, "The Friendly Church Around the Corner"; C. Allen Hemphlil, minister, enjoyed a great service last Sunday. Rev. C. Johnson of Progressive Baptist Church, Dallas, Tex. was the guest speaker, an old friend of the pastor, his words were well received by the congregation; two accession, Revs. S. C. Hawkins and F. Webb both of Dallas, Tex., Providence Baptist Church and Morning Star Baptist Church respectively.

BYPU was splendidly carried on Wednesday night of each week a Bible class is conducted by the pastor, reading and study-

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

This affirmation from the Psalms, "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord: and he delighteth in his way," will be the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

John's remarks to his brethren, as given in his first epistle, are included in the Lesson-Sermon. "Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous. . . . Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God. In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother. . . . And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment."

As a part of the Lesson-Sermon the following citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy are included: "The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death." "Let us rid ourselves of the belief that man is separated from God, and obey only the divine Principle, Life and Love. Here is the great point of departure for all true spiritual growth."

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

It has been proven time after time to the American people and especially to the American Negro, by the more militant and progressive press, that there is a large, strong, fascist, defeatest element in our country and that it is against the Negro people.

The fascist plan against the Negro people is a part of a gigantic and terrifying plan against the United States government, its policies and its war effort. There are many striking examples of this viscious element which proves, and very significantly, its purpose. Let the facts speak for themselves.

Governor Talmadge of the "great state" of Georgia, who is a professed and constant nemesis of the Negro people, whose policy is in direct accord with that of the Axis powers, and who indulges in Hitler's most favorite fascist principle, that of minority suppression, is a full grown and easily distinguishable rat.

Dixon of Alabama is outstanding in his particular field. He had the unmitigated gall to refuse a defense contract, and based his refusal on a clause, contained in the contract, which stipulated against discrimination. He put a veritable dent in our war effort by limiting production and limiting the employment of Negroes. It's not very clear how a man like this can sleep with himself.

Another incident in Georgia. An attorney, and a very noted one, rises to address a large gathering and says, "Since there is a National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, there should be a national association for the preservation of white supremacy." Undoubtedly a member of that "highly esteemed" master race who would need the adi of a hook and ladder brigade and the telescope at Mt. Palomar to see out of the gutter.

There are many other significant examples of the U. S. Hitlerites. Representative Rankin, although he was floored, tried desperately to suppress the rights of Negro soldiers in Congress. The Scottsboro Case in Louisiana is a milestone for Fascism in the United States. The defeatist press is rampant. Just read the New York Daily News, the Chicago Tribune and the Hearst papers. And you don't have to look far to smell Pegler. Poison Pen, alias Westbrook Pegler, is a rodent of the highest degree. An intellectual one. He writes. Scurrying to do his master's bidding, he pooh poohed (in his column which quite a few good Americans read) the Atlantic Charter. Mr. Pegler, in his paw scratchings, said, "It is only a piece of paper (the Atlantic Charter) and propaganda for the other side." Creatures like this turn strong men's stomachs.

But the Negro people are not entirely ignorant of these facts. They are the strongest anti-fascist group in the nation. They were the first to bring to light the nature of the defeatist purpose. They were the first to identify the fascist plot against the policies of the President. The Negro press has been recognized as more than capable to identify the fascist individuals in our country.

Every Negro newspaper, even the weaker ones, saw the stupidity of the British government in clinging to its imperialistic policy in India. They were the only mass section of the people of the United States, together with the labor movement, who recognied the Indian crisis as a threat to the Allied Nations' war effort. They saw through the distortion of facts and the fascist press lies that such a policy was against the Atlantic Charter and had no business being a part of an anti-fascist war.

There are many militant and progressive Negro groups thruout the country who are struggling for equal rights and by doing so are battling the forces of fascism. They are not split because there is a oneness of purpose, but they are diversed and scattered, disunited in sporadic groups and ineffective.

There is only one hope for coordination, not only in the Negro people but in the whole war effort. The labor movement can unravel this maze of entanglements and can bring together all of these small groups into one great force with but one thought and purpose, the defeat of fascism and all it stands for, and with unlimited power to successfully prosecute this end.

And labor, as always, is moving. In a recent conference of the UAW (whose secretary is a Negro) one of its most important adopted resolutions was in regards to Negroes. The joint action of the CIO and AF of L southern unions in branding Talmadge and Dixon as traitors to the United States are sure signs that a great change is taking place, and that a unity will come out of it, the likes of which the world has never seen.

These are not the only two cases, there are thousands thruout the nation. The labor movement is relentlessly engaging the enemy in every way, shape and form. Here in Los Angeles the significance of this was seen. At a meeting held under the auspices of the CIO Anti-Discrimination Committee, fighting resolutions against discrimination were accepted; future meetings of that calibre were planned. The people were begged to organize and unite themselves with this more effective group. Negroes and Mexicans, the most oppressed minority groups of California, were urged to merge their forces with those of each other and to unite in the labor movement.

Power can only come thru unification and unification can only come about through the labor movement. Labor itself is striving for unity. Unity negotiations late in September, between the CIO and the AF of L is the present schedule. Labor is closing its ranks. It knows that we must have unity in every thought, word, deed, and action. To go even higher an attempt is being made to establish world unity of labor of all United Nations.

Hasten victory with your fellow workers through UNITY.

ATTY. PERRY B. JACKSON

OHIO GOVERNOR JOHN W. BRICKER
. . . had the courage, conviction, opportunity."

Ohio Governor Names Race Attorney as Municipal Judge

Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio had the courage, the conviction and the opportunity . . . so on Wednesday of last week, he joined the increasing ranks of great Americans by appointing a Negro, Atty. Perry B. Jackson of Cleveland to the Municipal Court judgeship vainly sought by Negro leaders in Ohio for more than a half-century.

At Columbus, Wednesday, a history-making scene was enacted in the governor's office. A scene that took but a few minutes to enact, but which will echo and re-echo through Ohio's political history for years to come.

With a few of his close associates standing by, Governor Bricker signed the commission that named Jackson to the Cleveland Municipal Court vacancy created by the death of Judge David Moylan. The governor then handed the commission to Lawrence O. Payne, Republican member of the Ohio Parole and Pardons Commission, who left immediately to bring it back to back to Cleveland, where in the offices of the Call-Post, it was presented to the happy but grave recipient of possibly the greatest honor to come to a Negro Clevelander in recent years.

Elks Buy War Bonds Worth $105,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—With the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks pledging the purchase of $105,000 worth of war bonds at its 43rd annual convention in Philadelphia last week, Negro fraternal groups continued their drive to assist the war effort through the purchase of bonds and stamps.

The Elks staged a daily bond rally during the course of the convention after William Pickens, chief Negro Organizations Division, War Savings Staff, Treasury Department, discussed the war savings program. Aided by Mrs. Nell Hunter of his staff, Pickens also assisted in a program of selling war stamp corsages to delegates at the convention.

Pledges and checks from individuals and organizations included a purchase of $42,000 worth of bonds by Major R. R. Wright.

★ WISDOM OF FOLLY

By CHARLES EDWARDS

That old saying about a girl and a gob will have to be changed now. The President has signed the bill putting women in the navy. From now on they not only will have to give a sailor's rating, the will have to give the sex . . . In the last war it was the flappers who went out with the sailors; in this war the soldiers will be going out with the sailors . . . all the tattoo artists at the port will have to learn manicuring and fingerwaving, too; the most popular tattoo designs may not be mermaids and ships under full sail, but Clark Gable, and Gary Cooper, in red hearts . . . When you see some sailors from behind these days in those tight pants you won't know whether they are wearing a life preserver or whether it is just hips . . . some of the new girl sailors no doubt will be petty officers. This expression is not to be taken too literally; you might get slapped. If we get to the point of having lady admirals the battle may have to wait until they pluck their eyebrows. They won't yell for the gun crews to pass the power; they will yell for the powder puff . . . anyway, it certainly shows that we are girdling for war . . . Now the Japanese know what tough guys really are . . . those American marines and the commandos in the Dieppe raid would make Tarzan look like litle Bo-Peep . . . If that guy Samson or Hercules wanted to join up with the outfit they would have to take a muscle refresher course in 12 lessons before they could even see the recruiting officer . . . Those marines and commandos have set a new world record for strong men; they would put fellows like Jesse James, and Billy the Kid in kindergarten with a lady teacher to wipe their noses and put Superman in charge of pouring tea . . . The natives on the islands thought the marines were the Texas Rangers, but it turned out that the Japs were the only ones seeing stars . . . The Japs have got a new one now. They say the marines are hopelessly marooned on the Solomon Islands; 10,000 of 'em . . . Maybe we should get up one of those goofy contests in Tokyo, asking everybody, "Who would you like to be marooned on a lonely island with?" . . . and you can bet your shirt they would say, "A U. S. marine." The marines apparently haven't learned hey are marooned. They have just gone right on making mincemeat out of the Japanese as if everything were under control . . . This "hopelessly marooned" gag is a good one to remember. Maybe Tokyo will start using it as an excuse when we take over the Imperial palace of the Sun of Heaven. (Course this is just talk) . . . It might make a good slogan for the marines, whenever they wipe out a bunch of Japs, they might report back to their base, "Hopelessly marooned" and we will know that our side has won another big victory . . . It just goes to show that the Japs are trying to pull the wool over their own eyes now that they have found they can't pull it over ours. If they can't win with ships, tanks, guns, planes, and men they are going to try to win with phrases. That's all right with us. We had rather have a phrase than a bayonet in our face any time . . . ask the "marooned marines" . . . So for another week, goodbye and God bless you all . . . and did you know that Noah was the first drunkard. See the Bible, Genesis 9:20, 21, 29.

'Man on America's Conscience' -- Must Go!

Planned for early release is a new Metro Goldwyn Mayer motion picture called, "The Man On America's Conscience," which is supposed to tell the story of the struggle between President Andrew Johnson, Lincoln's successor, and the great Abolitionist, Thaddeus Stevens. If permitted exhibition, the film will rank along with "The Birth Of A Nation" as a libel upon the fight for freedom of the Negro people and, in fact, the whole crusade toward the realization of democracy in this nation. In the picture, Stevens, arch-enemy of the Dixie Bourbons and their appeaser friends in the North, the Copperheads, with whom Johnson was solidly aligned, is depicted as a deep died villain, plotting against the best interests of his country.

Stevens, one of the great democrats of American history, shares the fate of the Negro in American history texts—largely because his life was so inextricably bound up with the whole struggle of black America and their indomitable will to be free.

A member of the House of Representatives during Lincoln's Administration, Stevens was his stauch ally, often blazing trails which 'Old Abe' later followed. Stevens was the first to demand Emancipation and offered a House resolution to that effect. He led the great revolutionary Congress sessions which armed the Negro, liberated him,and finally gave him the rights of citizenship. Friend and coworker of Frederick Douglass, he was one of the great monuments to the integrity of American democracy. Because of his relentless attack upon the enemies of freedom and the Negro people,—especially his advocacy of a measure to split the great plantations, which remain in our own day the fountain heads of Sonthern reaction, and distribute the land in 40 acre lots to poor whites and ex-slaves,—Stevens has become the foul conspirator of Reconstruction in the crooked histories which have come out of that period. .

As a matter of fact, President Andrew Johnson, whom the new MGM picture glorifies, was the open tool of the former slave masters and reactionary Northerners. So contrary to the progressive spirit of the times was Johnson's appeasement policy that he escaped impeachment by one vote in the Senate and did not dare run for re-election.

There is something more than meets the eye in the deliberate glamorization of a known American appeaser and the untimely assault upon the record of one of the nation's greatest liberals. Certainly the parallel between these days and those of the Civil War is abundantly clear. First, we are again engaged in a battle against the enslavement of mankind (thus diffrering from the last conflict over the possession of raw materials and markets; this one involves the grim prospect of total conquest). Part of that struggle is the liberation of the Negro people, whose complete freedom was sabotaged after the Civil War in a vast plot which included the assination of Lincoln, the appeasement of Johnson, the operation of the KKKlan, and the corruption of the whole Federal government. Lincoln was bound and surrounded by Copperhead conspirators, so Franklin Roosevelt is opposed by a whole legion of defeatists, appeasers and poll taxers, frightened at the progressive nature of the war, hysterical at the Administration's pronounecement, "the world can no longer exist half slave and half free, half democratic and half colonial," and scared stiff at the potentialities of the President's Executive Order 8802. The completion of the great tasks of the Civil War lie before us,—enfranchisement of the South, integration of the Negro into American life, accomplishment of real national unity,

Discrediting of one of the leading figures of the Reconstruction era, then, becomes an unveiled attack against the progressive forces, —the anti-defeatist, win-the-war forces of today. "Man On America's Conscience" is a threat to the development of national unity, an insult to the Negro, aside from being a shocking corruption of history.

An indication of the kind of democrat Stevens was and the extent of MGM's libel against him may be gained from a glance at the inscription on his grave in a Negro cemetery at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, written by himself:

I repose in this quict and secluded spot
Not from any natural preference for solitude; But finding other cemeteries
Limited by charter rules as to race,
I have chosen this that I might illustrate in death
The principles which I advocated though a long life,
Equality of man before his Creator.

For the Heroes of Bataan

Last week's decision in a Los Angeles Superior court upholding a property restriction covenant which will deny a Negro and a Filipino family the right to live in property in an allegedly 'white' neighborhood is a somber reminder that the home front requires close attention lest the whole purpose of the war is denied and negated.

At a time when the country yet thrills to the exploits of Negro and Filipino troops which fought at Corregidor and in the hell of Bataan peninsular, when Douglas MacArthur has just decorated three colored soldiers for bravery—in this case, a daring exploit which saved the life of a white pilot —a solemn court order in our own county decrees that American citizens may not occupy duely purchased propérty because of racial identity.

There is no excuse for the Negro people of Los Angeles taking this decision lying down. The legality upon which it is based is out-moded. Today this country is a single people, fighting for national survival. There can be no place for hate-as-usual in America. its proponents are a danger to all of us and they must go. This is true of Gov. Eugene Talmadge; it is true of California's property race restrictions. This battle has been fought successfully in other States. It can be here.

Under the expert handling of Atty.'s Loren Miller and Thomas L. Griffith, president of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, an excellent defense of the defendant Negro and Filipino families has been conducted, and a planned appeal may reverse the current court opinion. But we need something more than a defense in particular cases. It is time that the people launch an all-out offensive against the whole property restriction racket. It is harmful to the drive for national unity and the fullest prosecution of the war. It ghettoizes American communities.

In such a contest, it is important to know the nature of our enemy. Creation and enforcement of property restrictions is not a spontaneous outburst of racial hatred on the part of various white communities involved. The race restriction system is conducted with loving care by huge real estate interests. The Negro "Corner" is a goldmine. Exorbitant rents are charged and upkeep is nil, since even ordinary improvements are usually denied in the Negro neighborhood. Penned into this high-rent area, the Negro's escape is cut short by the property restrictions of surrounding sections. The maintance of this profitable trap, which exploits a section of the people least able to bear such extra-curricular burdens, is the special province of large realty firms. These grasping firms support special trouble shooters whose business it is to plug any hole in the restriction dyke through which their victims may seep. A familiar pattern of these operations was that seen in the celebrated reinstitution of lapsed property restriction by the township of Maywood, which borders the Central Avenue district, largest local ghetto, to the Sontheast. The restriction's lapse inspired no violent reaction in the town and would have passed unnoticed had it not been for tender solicitude of that great friend of all our little Maywoods, the Los Anigeles Title Guarantee Company, which dispatched a special agent to the townsmen, informing one and all that the lapse meant a black invasion, ruination of "property values," and inspiring a front page editorial in one of the town newspapers which trumpetted the race-baiting challenge, "KEEP MAYWOOD WHITE!" Seizing upon the latent prejudices of simple people, the perpetrators of this foul fraud upon the people are active carriers of the virus of racial hatred and are worthy candidates for Herr Hitler's pay roll.

The forces which maintain property restrictions will not be bowled over by this editorial or any number like it. What WILL do the trick, however, is a unified campaign by the Negro people, the Jewish and Mexican groups, both of which suffer the same ailment, working closely with the trade union movement, which took a pompt and vigorous position in the Maywood case. This situation, placed clearly and emphatically before the citizens of Los Angeles and the state of California will bring its own answer. Westbrook Pegler to the contrary, prejudice-as-usual is a luxury that warring America cannot afford.

Scuttling local property bars is the least we can do to vindicate the sacrifice of blood and tears on Bataan and Corregidor!

Dark Laughter . . . . BY OL HARRINGTON

★ SPEECH OF THE WEEK

Our Destiny Is at Stake in the Caucasus

Address by DR. MONROE E. DEUTSCH, vice president and provost of the University of California at San Francisco Civic Auditorsum, Sunday night, August 9, 1942.

This outpouring of men and women reveals many things—it shows that there are American people who realize that the war comes first and that everything else is—and must be—placed subordinate to it; it shows we know that, wherever men are fighting against the Axis, they are fighting for us and our cause; it shows that the American people want action—and more action.

We remember that early in World War II there was a considerable period that we called a "phony war"; nothing happened, both sides seemed to be safe behind their lines, the Siegfried and the Maginot lines. But while the French waited, thinking themselves secure, the Germans made their plans, and when they were ready, they struck—and with lightning speed.

We want action—and more action.

. . . Every blow struck at one of our Allies is a blow struck at us. Don't take it calmly, as if it were merely a news item of interest to be read or heard and then dismissed.

Every defeat of the Chinese armies is a defeat for us; every slaughter of their people is weakening the cause of the United Nations. When we think of the heroic resistance that the Chinese have been putting up for more than five long years, when we but recall that they were fighting against this dreadful monster of Fascist-Naziism while the rest of the world was complacently looking on, we must realize the debt we owe these valiant people. Think what a different war we should now be facing if China had yielded—and Japan were free from danger from that quarter. We owe the Chinese more, far more, than we yet realize for holding the Japanese at bay for these five long years—and for so dauntlessly fighting on today.

And that return we cannot make by sending them some tanks or planes or even through the gallant fighting of the Eagle Squadron and the fine cooperation of General Stilwell and his men.

It is not merely a return for their stubborn resistance to the aggressor that we must make; it is our own coasts, our own lives that every Chinese soldier is really protecting.

. . . But in our minds today are above all the people of Russia, the soldiers and peasants of the USSR. They are fighting on a line two thousand miles long—fighting valiantly and desperately against the concentrated might of the Nazis and their hordes of mechanized equipment. Their fight is a superb one and in our hearts we feel admiration at the glorious stand they are making. That they have been forced back is no indictment of their courage; it is clear that with equal numbers and equal equipment they would have readily held their own. For more than a year they have borne the brunt of the German onslaught—and it is evident that, having failed last summer, Hitler is determined to throw in all his strength and deliver a knock-out blow this year.

They too have been fighting our fight; their stubborn resistance has protected us. Every dead Russian soldier fought and laid down his life in our common cause.

And should the Russian troops be overwhelmed, the whole course of the war will inevitably be altered. Think of the ease with which German reinforcements could be sent to North Africa; even if some were destroyed on the way, so many would get through safely that Rommel could strike back at the British and seize Egypt and the Suez Canal; next would come the attack on the Near East and the Middle East, and finally India assailed by Japan as well as Germany.

And then the Germans will have again as their only opponent in Europe Great Britain, and they can concentrate on an invasion, secure from any enemy army in all the rest of Europe.

The situation is critical—yes, very critical.

And so we assemble to express our sense of danger, our realization that this is the moment which may well decide the fate of mankind for centuries, as Hitler foretold.

We know that if a second front could be created, it would force the Germans to transfer many of their divisions from the Russian line to the new front—and thus give the Soviet soldiers a chance to fight on even terms and overwhelm their—and our—enemies.

And if a second front can be created, it must be created NOW. We don't know WHERE the attack on the Nazis can most readily be made, we don't know exactly at what moment we should strike. We realize thatt risks must be taken, and the risks are tremendous. But you can't fight a war without risk and danger. The Russians didn't pick the moment of combat, nor did our men who died at Pearl Harbor.

Surely we would not wish to throw thousands, yes hundreds of thousands of our men and those of our allies into an absolutely fruitless, hopeless attempt. Others who know the details as we do not, can tell us if it is hopeless. But if this is not the case, we say: "The turning point of the war is here. There is a risk involved; but it is only by taking chances that we can win. Hitler took them—and thus far he has succeeded. Has life grown so soft and freedom so worthless that we will not take chances?" We know too that if we can once gain a foothold on the continent and bring sufficient guns and munitions, the peoples of the conquered countries will flock to us and swell our armies. Never forget the nations that the Nazis have overcome that are longing for the day of deliverance. If they have half a chance, they will rise. Give them the tools and everyone of them will strike at a Nazi.

. . . We wish our government and our army to know that we see the danger, the critical danger to the allied cause in the steppes of Russia and we feel ashamed that we are not fighting side by side with them—or striking our and their enemie, where they are most vulnerable. We want to help. President Roosevelt, Secretaries Stimson and Knox, generals and admirals, we citizens of San Francisco, Americans, urge you to remember we feel and put forth every possible effort to set up a second front. If it is absolutely hopeless, certainly we do not wish to undertake it and wantonly destroy the lives of our fine young men without even a chance of aiding the allied cause. This we agree—but the plan must not be rejected unless it is clear that it is impossible. Risks we are ready to face as our Allies are facing them—and as Americans have through our entire national existence faced them. If there is even a good chance, let us take it. Remember the fate of the various nations that waited too long. There is danger either way, and we Americans are prepared to face it. For we see so clearly the horror of a Nazi victory. Do you recall the statement: "We'd rather die on our feet than on our knees."? If we must die, it is infinitely better to perish aiding the cause of freedom and justice than in a concentration camp before a Nazi firing squad.

When we balance chances, let us not think only of the dangers of an invasion now—but weigh against it the dangers to the entire cause of the allied nations if Russia should be crushed. Either path abounds in dangers; that must not deter us from a second front if there really is a fighting chance. Our government knows the facts as we do not—and it must decide. But do not forget too the appeals of our Russian allies who have sacrificed their homes, their land and their lives in this common struggle. Don't demand that we see complete security in this enterprise; uor comrades are calling to us. Let us aid them if we possibly can.

And you, fellow Americans, I remind that in the light of the issues involved, in the name of the young men who on land and sea are risking their lives for us and our cause, we must with cheerfulness and joy do whatever we can to gain victory and to stand behind them; nothing—absolutely nothing—should be permitted to serve as an obstacle to that goal. We must all make sacrifices— you and I— capital and labor, the farmer and the industrialist. No internal dispute or feud must weaken our national unity. How Hitler would love to hear of strife between the various groups of our citizenry! How Goebbels would magnify it until the Germans would read of civil war in our very streets! How it would hearten our enemies and dishearten our friends and allies! You remember Benjamin Franklin's statement at the time the Declaration of Independence was signed: "We must all hang together or we'll all hang separately." Too true, to fatally true is that statement today. You have only to look at ome of the European countries and you'll see it proved.

And unity demands that we be willing to place the well-being of our country and its success above—far above—any advantage to our individual selves. It is only by such devotion to our cause, such willingness to throw everything into our great struggle that we can count on victory.

Never forget that a democratic peo le cannot be united unless discrimination of all kinds be trodden under foot. Whatever a man's ancestry, his place of birth, his religion or the color of his skin, he is an American, ready to fight and die in a common cause—and worthy of fair and equal treatment in [illegible] of American life.

DOCTORS AND DEBTORS

A praiseworthy forward step has been taken with the Senate Finance Committee approving individual income tax deductions for unusual medical expenses. This marks the first time a congressional body has recognized the very real fact that there's a human, as well as a fiscal side, to taxation.

Millions of families have debts that must be paid, debts that are not the result of wild extravagance, but of legitimate obligations. Let's not forget that during the 1930's, the government was eager for cars to be purchased, homes to be built or modernized, all in the very proper hope of speeding the lagging wheels of production and employment. For Congress to ignore these obligations now is to work an unjust hardship on the public.

Happily, a beginning has been made with the Senate committee's action in approving deductions for burdensome medical bills. Notably enough, it isn't Congress which has been the first to bring relief to the American family's medical expense problem, but private banking institutions, and more particularly, California branch banking, which pioneered in offering low-cost personal credit to meet doctor's and dentists' bils. Even today, California remains unequaled by any state in the wealth of personal credit services made available by branch banking, services Californians have long taken for granted--until a visit to Eastern and Midwestern states reveals how many benefits they enjoy which are non-existent in other states.

Now that Congress, too, recognies the need of extending a helping hand, hard-pressed breadwinners are gaining a measure of deserved relief.

WE, TOO, WANTED PEACE

Argentina clings stubbornly to her "splendid isolation," but the loneliness of her position grows more acute with each passing week.

America regrets and deplores Argentina's stand, but are we in no position to harshly criticize her. Only a direct and violent assault upon American territory on the morning of December 7 last, awoke us to the fact that the fire-breathing war lords of Germany and Japan really meant business, really meant to destroy every nation blocking their path to world conquest. Up till then, we had given half-reluctant aid to the humble soldiers and citizens fighting our battles on the soil of France, England, Russia and China, while with great impartiality we had continued supplying Japan with the necessities of war.

So with little justice, can we condemn Argentina. That same force of events which led the United States to take up arms may likewise son lead Argentina to take her stand with the United Nations in defense of her true interests as a free and independent country.

MARKET BASKET BLUES

Before launching into a refrain of the market basket blues over the failure of partial price control to block the march of HCL, shoppers are anxiously awaiting positive remedies that will extend those ceilings to cover the prices and union wages that are still sending living costs up.

We have, fortunately, not yet reached the terrific peak to which prices soared in 1920, when housewives were paying 27 cents a dozen for eggs. For one thing, the nation's 40,000 chain retail outlets, through their price savings, are helping keep the uncontrolled prices of all retailers from sykrocketing, and at the same time they are securing general compliance with the price ceiling program. There will be little "hedging" on these price ceilings with thousands of multi-unit outlets, through their posted prices, acquainting the public with what the approximate level of these prices ought to be.

Nevertheless, so long as many items are left uncontrolled, so long as the grocer must pay more for goods than he's permitted to sell them for, old HCL will hold the whip hand until a full-scale frontal attack overpowers him. A limited flank attack won't do the job!

STORY OF THE SHIPWAYS

"Firsts' are the specialty of Henry J. Kaiser. His proposal for large-scale production of giant air cargo carriers marked the first bold step toward eventual conquest of the submarine menace and ther development of a great network of air supply lines. His shipbuilding yards at Richmond, Calif., have just hung up another record in completing a 10,000 ton merchantman in 24 days from start to finish, while at Portland the other day, they recorded a "first" in another field when Mrs. Walter Harris, Negro wife of a janitor at the yards, christened a Liberty ship. The democracy these Liberty ships are defending begins at home on the ship ways, and the yards of production expert Kaiser have affirmed it by a beed that speaks louder than lip service. More power to production by and for democracy!

Trample on a minority—and you do exactly as Hitler does and play Hitler's game. And we now see clearly that those who sought to sow disunity by attacking special groups and tried to stir up racial and religious prejudice, were indeed guilty of endeavoring to weaken our country's strength; the courts of our nation have branded them traitors.

In the fires of war let us forge a true unity, a true democracy in which men and women are rated for what they are and the doors of opportunity are open to everyone according to his own merit, not the place where he or his parents were born, what the color of his skin, or the faith that he professes.

Unity—and unity alone—will win the war, and from it will come a greater and a more democratic America.

Victory is our goal and anything that stands in the way of it is treason.

. . . No war has ever been like this one. None before touched the lives of every being on the entire earth. None before seized so many nations, so many continents in its toils. None has ever threatened world domination as this has—for it is world rule at which the Axis aims, a rule intended to last for centuries. None before trampled so completely on mercy and justice and made brutality and slavery so avowedly its aim. In none was freedom at stake for all mankind—freedom of work, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion; yes for us all.

We must moreover remember that the words of Churchill and Roosevelt clearly implied a second front. The Russians had a right to feel that meant a second front in 1942—and the time remaining available for fighting in Russia is less than two months. If a second front is not created this year, will not the people of Russia feel they have been betrayed? Hard enough is it to fight desperately and be driven back step by step, hard is it to see one's comrades slain or desperately wounded; hard is it to have one's home destroyed and one's fields burned. To add to this loss of confidence in one's allies is indeed a last straw.

When the statement concerning a second front was made, it must have been based on knowledge of the conditions necessary to a successful invasion; in short, we have a right to believe that our leaders spoke with understanding of the entire situation. If they did, why are we not carrying out our pledge?

. . . Let us then fulfill our pledges to our gallant allies in Russia.

And unless we do so at once, it will be too late. "Too little and too late"—these words used so often before would then once more give the reason for allied failure.

Cannot freemen fight as hard for freedom as our enemies fight for mastery and world enslavement?

Let us not fail our allies—and thereby strike the greatest of blows at our cause. We must form a second front—and there is no time to lose.

★ SPREADING JOY

BY JOHN FOWLER

This is our war, too. We might as well get into the full realization of it and be prepared to participate in every phase of it.

We, like all other Americans, are expected to make sacrifices and many of them. Let's make them cheerfully and in the same spirit our brave boys are making them on foreign soil.

We must buy war bonds and teach our children to buy war saving stamps.

We must give of our time and talent in the Civilian Defense in the Red Cross and where ever we may be expected to serve.

This is no time to stand back and wait for a formal invitation to help. It there is an organization either of Civilian Defense Red Cross set up in your immediate neighborhood go down to the City Hall and there get information. Seek out the emergency center in your locality and there offer your services.

In these emergency centers all over the city preparation is being made to take care of the injured in case of an air raid.

These centers are in need of doctors, nurses, first aid workers, canteen workers, stretcher bearers, motorcycle messengers and autos for transportation.

If such a calamity befalls any one of our many Negro districts we alone will have to bear the stretchers, give first aid and in every way perform the function of relief. We must be ready.

I want to cite a group of our women who are doing a fine job of Red Cross work. I am thinking of the unit under the direction of Mrs Jane Hayes, a fine worker, they meet at the 109th St. Playground eery Monday afternoon where they have classes in first aid and knitting.

I also want to cite Dr. N. Curtis King for the unselfish service he is giving in organizing and directing the Emergency Station in the Watts Area, located in the 102nd Street School.

This group meets every Tuesday night at 8:30, here is truly an interracial group, Americans of African decent; Mexicans and Caucasian Americans all working together and being prepared for any emergency.

If you live in the Watts area, we need your help. We are in need of autos and trucks for transportation, if you would like to offer the service of your car or truck call me or see me at the meeting Tuesday night and sign up.

Hats off! to Captain Hattie McDaniel of the WWVS, who has gone east on a bond selling tour. High up in her editorial watch tower sits Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, the Afro-American Joan of Arc Keeping watch, always ready to warn us of approaching danger. She has just been appointed member of the United Citizens Victory Committee of which Pha-

You "h-hurt?" she asked, catching hold of his
He leaned forward in the chair and rested his face in the palms of his hands.

--"Bigger, what's the matter?"
--I'm tired and awful sleepy," he sighed.
--"Let me fix you something to eat"
I need a drink."
"Naw; no whiskey. You need some hot milk."

He waited, hearing her move about. It seemed that his body had turned to a piece of lead that was cold and heavy and wet and aching. Bessie switched on her electric stove, emptied a bottle of milk into a pan and set it upon the glowing red circle. She came back to him and placed her hands upon his shoulders—her eyes wet with fresh tears.

"I'm scared, Bigger."
"You can't be scared now."
"You oughn't t've killed her, honey."
"I didn't mean to. I couldn't help it. I swear!"
"What happened? You never told me."
"Aw, hell. I was in her room . . ."
"Her room?"
"Yeah. She was drunk. She passed out. I . . . I took her there."
"What she do?"
"She . . . Nothing. She didn't do anything. Her ma came in. She's blind . . ."
"The girl?"

"Naw; her ma. I didn't want her to find me there. Well, the girl was trying to say something and I was scared. I just put the edge of the pillow in her mouth and . . . I didn't mean to kill her. I just pulled the pillow over her face and she died. Her ma came into the room and the girl was trying to say something and her ma had her hands stretched out, like this, see? I was scared she was going to touch me. I just sort of pushed the pillow hard over the girl's face to keep her from yelling. Her ma didn't touch me; I got out of the way. But when she left I went to the bed and the girl . . . she . . . she was dead . . . that was all. She was dead . . . I didn't mean . . ."

"You didn't plan to kill her?"
"Naw; I swear I didn't. But what's the use? Nobody'll believe me."
"Honey, don't you see?"
"What?"
"They'll say . . ."

Bessie cried again. He caught her face in his hands. He was concerned; he wanted to see this thing through her eyes at that moment.

"What?"
"They'll . . . they'll say you raped her."

Bigger stared. He had entirely forgotten the moment when he had carried Mary up the stairs. So deeply had he pushed it all back down into him that it was not until now that its real meaning came back. They would say he had raped her and there would be no way to prove that he had not. That fact had not assumed importance in his eyes until now. He stood up, his jaws hardening. Had he raped her? Yes, he had raped her. Every time he felt as he had felt that night, he raped. But rape was not what one did to women. Rape was what one felt when one's back was against a wall and one hand had to strike out, whether one wanted to or not, to keep the pack from killing one. He committed rape every time he looked into a white face. He was a long, taut piece of rubber which a thousand white hands had stretched to the snapping point, and when he snapped it was rape. But it was rape when he cried out in hate deep in his heart as he felt the strain of living day by day. That, too, was rape.

"They found her?" Bessie asked.

"Hunh?"
"They found her?"
"Yeah. Her bones . . ."
"Bones?"

"Aw, Bessie. I didn't know what to do. I put her in the furnace."

Bessie flung her face to his wet coat and wailed violently.

"Bigger!"
"Hunh?"
"What we going to do?"
"I don't know."
"They'll be looking for us."
"They got my picture."
"Where can we hide?"
"We can stay in some of them old houses for awhile."
"But they might find us there."
"There's plenty of 'em. It'll be like hiding in a jungle."

The milk on the stove boiled over. Bessie rose, her lips still twisted with sobs, and turned off the electric switch. She poured out a glass of milk and brought it to him. He sipped it, slowly, then set the glass aside and leaned over again. They were silent. Bessie gave him the glass once more and he drank it down, then another glass. He stood up, his legs and entire body feeling heavy and sleepy.

"Get your clothes on. And get them blankets and quilts. We got to get out of here."

She went to the bed and rolled the covers back, rolling the pillows with them; as she worked Bigger went to her and put his hands on her shoulders.

"Where's the bottle?"

She got it from her purse and gave it to him; he drank a long swallow and she put it back.

"Hurry up," he said.

She sobbed softly as she worked, pausing now and then to wipe tears from her eyes. Bigger stood in the middle of the floor, thinking. Maybe they searching at home now; maybe they talking to Ma and Vera and Buddy. He crossed the floor and twitched back the curtains and looked out. The streets were white and empty. He turned and saw Bessie bent motionless over the pile of bedclothing.

"Come on; we got to get out of here."
"I don't care what happens."
"Come on. You can't act like that."

What could he do with her? She would be a dangerous burden. It would be impossible to take her if she were going to act like this, and yet he could not leave her here. Coldly, he knew that he had to take her with him, and then at some future time settle things with her, settle them in a way that would not leave him in any danger. He thought of it calmly, as if the decision were being handed down to him by some logic not his own, over which he had no control, but which he had to obey.

"You want me to leave you here?"
"Naw; naw . . . Bigger!"
"Well, come on. Get your hat and coat."

She was facing him then she sank to her knees.

"Oh, Lord," she moaned. "What's the use of running? They'll catch us anywhere. I should've known this would happen." She clenched her hands in front of her and rocked to and fro with her eyes closed upon gushing tears.

"All my life's been full of hard trouble. If I wasn't hungry, I was sick. And if I wa'nt sick, I was in trouble. I ain't never bothered nobody. I just worked hard every day as long as I can remember, till I was tired enough to drop: then I had to get drunk to forget it. I had to get drunk to sleep. That's all I ever did. And now I'm in this. They looking for me and when they catch me they'll kill me."

She bent her head to the floor.

"God only knows why I ever let you treat me this way. I wish to God I never seen you. I wish one of us had died before we was born. God knows I do! All you ever caused me was trouble, just plain black trouble. All you ever did since we been knowing each other was to get me drunk so's you could have me. That was all! I see it now; I ain't drunk now. I see everything you ever did to me. I didn't want to see it before. I was too busy thinking about how good I felt when I was with you. I thought I was happy, but deep down in me I knew I wasn't. But you got me into this murder and I see it all now. I been a fool, just a blind, dumb, black drunk fool. Now I got to run away and I know deep down in your heart you really don't care."

She stopped, choked. He had not listened to what she had said. Her words had made leap to consciousness in him a thousand details of her life which he had long known and they made him see that she was in no condition to be left behind. It was not with anger or regret that he thought this, but as a man seeing what he must do to save himself and feeling resolved to do it.

★ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Yesterday (Aug. 26) we sent to the EAGLE a statement appealing for the immediate opening of a second front, over the signatures of 57 youth leaders from all parts of the country. We are now having this statement printed in large quantities for national distribution. We had hoped to have it printed in full in a number of Negro newspapers but have been unable to raise the necessary funds.

In view of the great importance of the second front as it relates to the problems of Negro youth, we hope we may have the cooperation of the EAGLE in giving this statement wide circulation.

I have been planning for some time to write and congratulate you on the excellent address you made at the NAACP convention. I read the address with great care and called it to the attention of a number of young people along the seaboard.

Yours sincerely,
EDWARD E. STRONG
Field Secretary
National Conference of Negro Youth
200 West 135th Street
New York City.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

It was interesting to read, in the Christian Science Monitor, that you had addressed the annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on the subject of national unity.

The Christian Science Monitor ardently supports this policy, and advocates true democracy. Besides the account of the conference, in the July 21 issue, there are two other news items of interest on the same line of thought.

An intensely interesting article by Miss Dudley Harmon, relating an interview with Felix Eboue, Negro governor general of the Free French colony of Equatorial Africa, appeared on the front page of the July 20 issue of the Monitor. The issues of August 13 and August 19 also contained informative items.

With all good wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
BESSIE M. DOYLE,

LETTER
Dear Editor:

We, the pastor and members of Zion Temple, Occult Church Inc., feeling a deep sense of gratitude and appreciation for the encouragement you have given during the past eight years, desire to extend to you our sincere thanks and goodwill though the columns of your newspaper.

No one of the eight anniversaries would have been comlete without you. And year after year you have come. During our periods of sunshine, your resence and your courageous messages hive been both an insparition and a benediction. And when we have walked through the valley of the shadow of adverse criticism, they have stood as a bulwark of strength to us.

The type of friendship and loyalty and love which you exemplify is the kind of stuff God is using as He goes forth anew into the creation of a new Heaven and earth.

Lovingly yours in

NEW AERONAUTICS WAR TRAINING COURSE OFFERED AT JEFFERSON HIGH

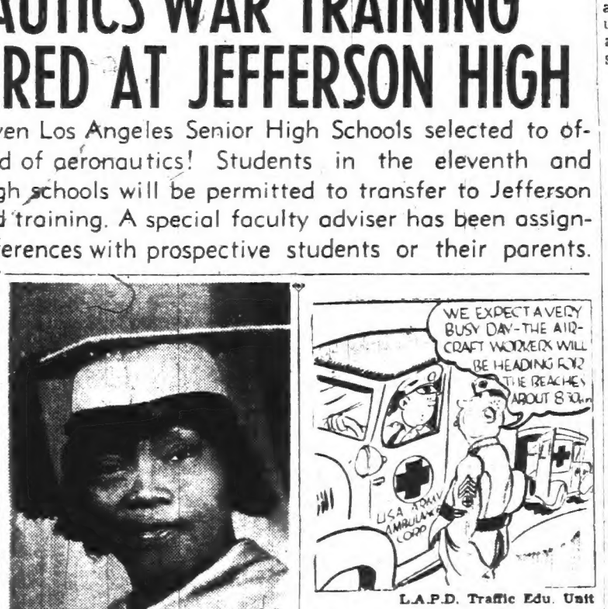
Jefferson is one of seven Los Angeles Senior High Schools selected to offer war training in the field of aeronautics! Students in the eleventh and twelfth grades of other high schools will be permitted to transfer to Jefferson if they wish this specialized training. A special faculty adviser has been assigned and is available for conferences with prospective students or their parents.

All interested either in this special curriculum or in any of the courses listed below should make further inquiry at the school.

Science of Aeronautics is to be a two semester course designed primarily for eleventh and twelfth grade students who are interested in the United States Army and Navy Air Corps or in aeronautics as a career. Only students who have special aptitude in mathematics and science should register for the course.

Military and Industrial Mathematics is to be an intensive, streamlined course in applied mathematics, arithmetic applications to shop problems and drawings, the use of measuring instruments, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry as aplied to industrial and military work, and interpretation of graphs and maps.

Aircraft Maintenance and Service is to be a course offering two hours shop experience in maintenance and service of aircraft including aircraft engine mechanics, instrument mechanics, propeller mechanics, metal aircraft repair, controls, aircraft factory methods, and hydraulic systems.



Intensive Aeronautics Vocational Training is a two semester program for aeronautical majors preparing for service and maintenance or production jobs.

Students may select from the fields of radio communication, sheet metal, machine shop, motor and plane service, aircraft design drafting and mechanical drawing.

An Rirplane Rivetting Class for girls over 17 years of age who hope to secure jobs in defense plants is being organized. Assurance has been given school authorities that girls trained and recommended by the school will be given an opportunity to work in industry. Any young women in the community interested in securing further information about this course should make inquiry at the school.

Mrs. Emma Surrey, 1225 East 27th Street, is the prond possessor of a cap and gown awarded for the Scholarship fund of the Elks' Department of Education, I. B. P. O. E., Hiawatha Temple, No 91. She wishes to thank her many friends for their loyal support.

SABBATH SABOTEURS

Last year 42 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents happened on Saturday and Sunday. Weekend joyriding during wartime, when military vehicles need clear highways, is dangerous as well as definitely unpatriotic. To the array of stirring war slogans which are going to help win the war, we'd like to add: DON'T BE A SUNDAY "SABO-TOUPIST."

★ 96 Easy Lessons on How to Run Linotype

By John Kinloch

If, Gentle Reader, throughout this session of the West's Best you should occasionally run into an etaoin or a shrdlu do not tear out for the nearest exit. It is merely that the fraternity of linotype operators has been joined by that celebrated wit, wag, boulevardier and chronic faux pas, Jonathon Spears Kinloch, otherwise known as yours truly or HEY, JERK.

It is a very complex art which requires years of training but which I have fully mastered in the last two weeks. To those of you who are really extraordinarily ignorant may I point out that the linotype machine is a simple little gadget of some seven thousand moving parts which is operated more or less like an upper class typewriter and produces in various manners the jive out of which a newspaper is printed. It is this contraption which is responsible for such literary experiences as the Russian armies today came close to shrxzfivbget - SHRW3': escv vbgk ____. cmfw TH following vbg-12) ETA although it is as cmfta vbgkachv cmft UNDOUBTEDLY.—sic— thirty.. xzfi zvb

The linotype machine is famous because it is one of the few mechanisms which employs every known law of motion, including jiu jitsu. Looking dead into it, there are six wheels, five levers, two leather belts, no end of active metal sliding back and forth and up and down—to say nothing of a blazing pot of hot lead. At first it is all very confusing and so far has managed to stay that way. When agitated, the machine spits a neat stream of molten metal and is a dangerous party to cross under any circumstances. Morally it is female and has no conscience whatever.

But perhaps the most interesting thing about them are the sterling characters who operate the beasts. As a group, they are a singularly whacky agregation, given to dark moods and mild wife beating. One of the distinguishing features of the linotype man is an expression of profound cynicism with vague overtones of bewilderment,—as Almena Davis would say, they are sort of deindividualized.

The reasons for this unfortunate situation are many and pitiful,— very, very pitiful. In the first place, the lino man is one of the most defenseless creatures on earth. He must sit on his little stool ALL day long and copy, verbatim ,mind you, the worst goldanged drivvel that comes to the mind of man. In Los Angeles, the situation is particularly gruesome. One unfortunate veteran of local newspaper setting has been reduced to a perennial promenade through the city streets, grinning merrily and occasionally pointing out, "Hearst is a rat and I WON'T take it back!"

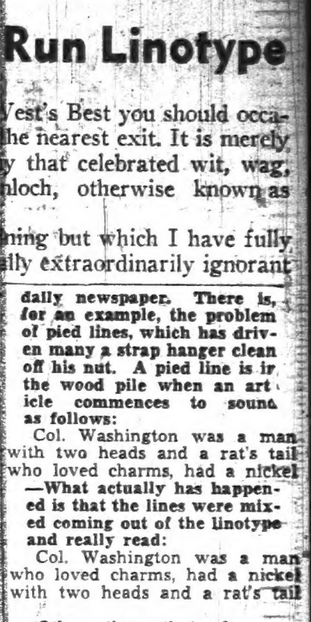
Then there is the case of the guy who sets Bill Smallwoods' column and perfumes his machine before and after. came to an untimely end recently upon publication of Mr. Leon H. Washington,jr.'s notable triumph of double dealing, the election issue of The Los Angeles Sentinel,in which every candidate for public office was duely endorsed, Olson and Warren, Patterson and Houser, Dones and Hawkins, the meek and the mighty, the lion and the lamb. While setting this double barreled horror, my friend was suddenly seized with an old fashioned canipption fit, jumped from his machine, ran shricking from the shop, "NO! NO! I WON'T BE A PARTY TO IT!" He finally ran smack into a Mack truck, the net result being so much goo. It was a revolting affair for one and all, especially him.

There is really nothing so heart breaking as an honest man on the linotype at the L. A. Herald, for instance. There is a legend at that institution concerning one fabulous operator who used to set quaint and original catchlines on his copy. (For the dopes: a "catchline" is set by the lino man on each article he turns out so that the compositor can easily identify it. Thus a story concerning the recent election will carry the catchline,to wit, "election story." They are for printers consumption only and positively never appear in the paper) Well, this operator always got cute with his catchlines, some of them running about like this: Parson's Putrid Palaver, Carter's Crap, Negligee Murder and Woo Woo story,and the piperoo he customarily hung on Willy Hearst's own front page concoction, Papa's Damn Lies For Today,—Read and Puke Away. I suppose you know what happened. Yep, one day the printer forgot to kill that catchline, and there it sat, big as life, right on the front page

Hearst called sixteen lawyers and an even dozen private Dicks, tried to have the guy jailed as an enemy agent and wrote an editorial on how the whole thing was probably a Communist plot to bore from within and destroy the American system of free enterprise.

The operator was made —by unanimous choice—International Chairman of The Society of Would-be Pall Bearers of William Randolph Hearst and has been a celebrity ever since, drawing down huge sums for the endorsement of Hilda's Catnip, Johnson's Limburger and Earl Warren, which only goes to prove how wealth can change a man.

However, some acquaintance with the linotype arts may be of service in the undistracted perusal of your daily newspaper. There is, for an example, the problem of pied lines, which has driven many a strap hanger clean off his nut. A pied line is in the wood pile when an article commences to sound as follows:



Col. Washington was a man with two heads and a rat's tail who loved charms, had a nickel

—What actually has happened is that the lines were mixed coming out of the linotype and really read:

Col. Washington was a man who loved charms, had a nickel with two heads and a rat's tail

Other than that, however, I should advise total abstinence from linotype machines and their evil genuises. That is, with —ahem— one or two exceptions.

Thomas E. Stubblefield slipped out of this troubled world last ek. His funeral was held Wednesday. In a business way he was own as T. E. Stubblefield, but to newspaper row, he was just in "Old Stubby." His home was the rendezvous of newspaper- n. It was sort of an unofficial city press bureau.

"Old Stubby" was born in Paducah, Kentucky, more than three re years ago. Irving Cobb, the celebrated humorist, was also n there and he and "Old Stubby" were friends. "Stubby's" her made fame as an inventor and created one of the utility lgets that aided in the advance of radio.

He was a great believer in the Negro Press and did all in his wer to advance it. He wasn't always right. Being human, he de some mistakes. But his motive was always to advance the gro Press and the Negro race. He believed that the Negro news- pers could bring home the gospel of racial advancement. That s the theme of T. E. Stubblefield; his creed, his philosophy and ligion.

AS PRIMAS GIRLS TO GIVE RUMS TO SOLDIERS

The Las Primas Girls, in a quiet way, are doing their duty. ey are doing everything possible to make the life of the soldiers ittle easier. They have purchased a set of drums for the boys form an orchestra in camp.

That set of drums will be presented by the greatest drummer an that America has produced, Lionel Hampton. Colonel Hamp- n will bring all of his musical battalion from Fort Casa Manana, cluding Captain Ruble Blakley, to entertain the soldiers.

HERE ARE GOING TO E SOME CHANGES MADE

War changes many things. And people must change, too. Races nations which you hated before the war are now your allies. ghting side by side with you for the same cause. Wives, mothers, eethearts, must give up their husbands, sons, lovers and bro- ers. All must make sacrifices. All must adjust themselves to e change brought about by war.

Many of the conventions, traditions, customs, et cetera, must e set aside. They must give way to the war effort. So if you are lled, make up your mind to adjust yourself. The same is true of our family.

There are many whites in the South who do not believe in mis- eating other races. But those whites who do mistreat the Negro, specially the soldier, definitely are not doing their part to win his war. Many of these whites cling to the idea that the Civil War still being fought and they hate all northerners and Negroes must e ground into dust.

Government intervention must be made in southern localities. t costs too much to train soldiers, feed and clothe them and to have he southern reactionaries to cause casualties, before the troops ave had a chance at action. There must be some changes made.

Lt. Frank Terry, former newspaper photog, got a break in that e is stationed in California and his sister, who is a hostess with the ank of 2nd lieutenant, have quarters in camp, side by side.

Both Frank and Beulah Terry are serving their country, in the ame state, same camp, and sleeping next door to each other.

This war is teaching us, that aside from our duty to our coun- ry, that love transcends all conventions, ideals, traditions and mo- ality. Women, let your men go into war knowing that your love or them will transcend all else.

Many people do not know of the heroic efforts put forth by our merchant marines. On their shoulders falls the job of delivering supplies to our allies in the different ports in this global war. They annot take direct routes, but must go 'round about ways, dodge ubmarines, enemy planes, ships, mines, and what have you.

Such a marine is Juan Ray. The guy who used to sell furniture n Central avenue, along with Halley Harding. I have received letters from him in Hawaii and Australia. The following letter from him was received by this writer:

"LONDON, Eng. CENSORED. Hello Earl:

"Well, here is your world correspondent again. Having a great time in dear 'ole Lunnon.' Boy, if ever I return home and find 45th street in the shape that I have seen some of the streets here—I'd finish the war alone. There is no question as to the abili- ty of these people 'to take it.'

"Well, kid, I have just about been around the world, but there is still no place like Los Angeles. Picadilly Circus is alreet, but I'd rather be standing on the corner of Vernon and San Pedro now. Hope to see you soon. Juan Ray."

Muriel Rahn will leave the concert stage to appear on the legit- imate stage with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine in a play titled, "The Pirate." Carmen, the opera, will be changed to "Carmen Jones" with a Negro cast. The locale will be changed from Spain to the Deep South.

From the standpoint of the cast, it will mean employment at good salaries. The audience will hear some mighty fine singing, as wlel as the usual dis, dat, dese and dems.

PROTEST FORTHCOMING MGM FILM AS DISTORTION OF POST-CIVIL WAR LIFE

Whether the motion picture industry will rise to the challenge which these perilous day s relentlessly force upon it is a question whose answer will be forthcoming within a few months. A supreme test of the industry's ability to interpret the nature of new res ponsibilities which the nation's war effort thrusts upon it lies in its treatment of the greatest national minority and the one group which has suffered most grievousy at the hands of the film producers in the past, the American Negro.

Still unaltered plans for the re- lease of MGM's lying story con- cerning the great liberal Ameri- vens, is an ominous, if not sinister vens is an ominous, if not sinister indication that here is at least one studio which intends to continue its corruption of U. S. history, re- gardless of the effect upon na- tional unity. The film, "Man on America's Conscience," purports to tell the story of Stevens, a member of the House of Repre- sentatives during Lincoln's ad- ministration, one of the Martyr President's staunchest supporters, a man who was buried in a Ne- gro graveyard "to prove the equality of man before God."

Letters protesting distribution of the "Man On America's Con- science" as a threat to the nation al war effort should be directed to LOWELL MELLETT, chief of the Bureau of Motion Pictures, Office of War Information.

In MGM's picture, Lionel Barrymore, as Stevens, por- trays a thorough-going vil- lain, is actually presented as an enemy of Lincoln! An- drew Johnson, his Vice-Pres- ident, played by young new- comer, Van Heflin, is shown as a friend and collaborator of Lincoln. Actually, John- son was an open Copperhead conspirator (the defeatists and anti-Negrophiles of that day) and would have been impeached for his crimes by the U. S. Congress except for the lack of one vote.

The danger of this film lies not only in its vile falsification of American history but in its libel of the progressive movement of the Reconstruction period It happens that the very things for which Stevens stood are the pro- gressive measures of today. Ste- vens fought for the right of fran- chise for Negroes and poor whites in the South. He fought for the complete overhauling of the Southern economic system -from which he clearly perceived that the remainder of its miser- ies flowed. He fought for the full integration of American Ne- groes in every phase of the na- tion's life. Aren't these the vital questions of today and doesn't the repudiation of Stevens re- present a repudiation of the whole struggle of the Negro peo- ple now?

LET'S FIGHT

A demonstration of the fact that Hollywood can be whip- ped into line on this question is the recent cancellation of a reissue of the old Gary Cooper starrer, "The Real Glory," a film which insulted the Fillipine people, because of protests received from trade unions and other bodies by the U. S. government.

We must announce to the Hollywood producers that the day of apology for the Civil War and the principles which moti- vated loyal Americans who fought it is at an end Today, for the first time since the Civil War, Americans are fighting for the same principles. Any motion picture which defiles the very core of the American Belief— another time for the purpose of which glorifies the appeasers of justifying the appeasers of today —is a threat to the welfare and the war effort of this country.

ROBESON'S 'OTHELLO' RATES RAVES

By RUDOLPH ELIE JR.

Last night (Monday) in Cam- bridge, at the Brattle Hall sum- mer theatre, when Paul Robeson took the stage in Shakespeare's "Othello," it was the first time in America a Negro ever played the role of that towering giant of tragedy with a white company in support. It was also the first time in modern times that the incredibly powerful tale of the insensate jealousy of a man goaded beyond endurance by the fancied infidelity of his wife ever really made sense. And it was, moreover, the first time that this fanatically recalcitrant drama, which has confounded actors, critic and public alike for three centuries, ever appeared to be headed for financial success. It is absolutely tremendous with the audience. This, incidentally, is not the first time Robeson has done "Othello"; he first played it over a decade ago in London.

There can hardly be a question that the play would hurl Broad- way on its practically invulner- able ear. Given a theatre with more than three square feet of stage and something besides closets for wings; given a hand- picked cast of professionals to support the principals, and given a little more time for the cast to play itself in, and "Othello" would floor a pulp magazine au- dience, let alone the hand-picked crowd which cheered it last night. With Robeson playing op- posite a white girl, the effect is electric and this aside from the fact that his portrayal is an ar- tistic triumph in any category.

As given last night, the play silences for all time the folderol centering around the furious con- troversy that Othello was not in- tended as a Negro, and should consequently not be played by one. Fact of the matter is that Robeson's performance is of such a stature that no white man should ever dare presume to play it again, especially since it is to be strongly questioned that any member of the audience, no mat- ter how delicate of sensitivities, was offended by a single mo- ment of the action.

Robeson's performance is a re- velation. He accomplishes the transition to the terrible rage of a betrayed husband with a dev- astating power of expression. His voice, a magnificent instrument, is capable of the utmost inuance, from the ineffable tenderness of his troth with Desdemona to the dreadful gibberish of an epileptic in the throes of insane jealousy. Beyond that, however, is his ter- rific capacity for changing pace, and every tortured thought finds its logical expression. By the time his passion is spent, his au- dience has been through the roll- ing mill.—"Variety."

JOHN THOMAS BEGINS LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE QUEST, BOXES VIGIL AT LEGION

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Initiating his campaign for the lightweight championship of the world, unbeaten John Thomas takes on Toby Vigil, veteran Mexican boxing master, tomorrow night in the 10-frame feature at Hollywood Legion stadium.

Thomas, but 19, seeks his 23rd consecutive victory as a professional. Under the management of Bert Lewis and George Tolson, Thomas is considered ready for the cuter and smarter boys of the division. This fact became obvious after his convincing and decisive victory last July over Petey Scalzo, former featherweight kingpin of the world. Thomas took every round of that battle, completely dumbfounding the experts.

Smart, ring-wise Scalzo, managed by Pete Reilly, the "silver fox" of the ring, was a stiff test for Long John, but he came through with flying colors. Some few weeks before that tiff, Thomas fought Cleo Shans over the six-round route at the Olympic auditorium, winning all six heats handily. And Shans, by the way, is going like a house afire in eastern rings.

Vigil, a pupil of prominent George Blake, figures to offer Thomas not a little opposition. A boxer who darts in and away from his quarry, Vigil will give the sharp-shooting Thomas an elusive target at best.

INVESTS WITH UNCLE

Having knocked out, technically or otherwise, 12 out of 22 of his pro opponents, Thomas has lookde good in gym rings against any number of national headliners, including such "names" as Jimmy Garrison, Jackie Wilson and Henry Armstrong.

Long John, who registered in the last draft, is married and the father of an 8-months old boy, and is putting a goodly portion of his ring earnings in war bonds and stamps to help Mr. Whiskers prosecute the bigger fight against the Axis, and assure Johnny Junior's future.

Tolson, who handles Thomas and as shrewd a gent, fistically speaking, as one would care to meet, told the writer this week that since Long John has hurdled the young, rough lightweights hereabouts, like Mike Delia, Jimmy Doyle, Jimmy Florita and Lupe Gonzales, in Vigil he begins another cycle in his campaign for the lightweight toga—meeting the cuties, be they boxers or punchers, in the upper strata, the guys who can figure your next move and beat you to the punch or make you miss.

It's a fact that Thomas, against all of his pro opponents, has looked so much better the bouts appeared like mismatches, and that included the Scalzo go.

In the semi-windup over the six-round route tomorrow night matchmaker Charley MacDonald has youngsters Eddie Marcus and Jimmy Doyle trading leather.

Looking Over Gridiron Prospects

What with Fall madness—football—already upon us (Army All-Stars 7—minus Jackie Robinson—and Washington Redskins 26, as of last Sunday in the Coliseum) a few names are at hand of Negro gridders who are apt to make headlines between now and January 1.

Brightest prospect, and the one to watch, according to those in on the know, is sophomore Dave Alston of Penn State. A triplethreat, Alston is being touted as a lad who will make fans forget such greats as Ozzie Simmons of Iowa, Kenny Washington of UCLA, and Frits Pollard of Brown. Likable and cheerful, Alston nevertheless can hit the line like an army tank, is as slippery as an eel in an open field, and kicks and passes. Hefty, he scales 205 pounds.

Phi Beta Kappa Sam Pierce, 185-pound will-o'-the-wisp, back at Cornell; Bill Willis, a 202-pound sophomore tackle, who is scheduled to see plenty of work on Paul Brown's Ohio State Buckeye eleven; Martin Chapman, Akron (O.) fullback; Ted Mason, Western Reserve back; Norman Houston jr., 195-pound soph University of California end; Jack Kelly, 185, Fresno State back; and Marion Motley, he-wolf of the University of Nevada Wolfpack, are among the old and new names which figure to add lustre to the gridiron picture during war-colored 1942.

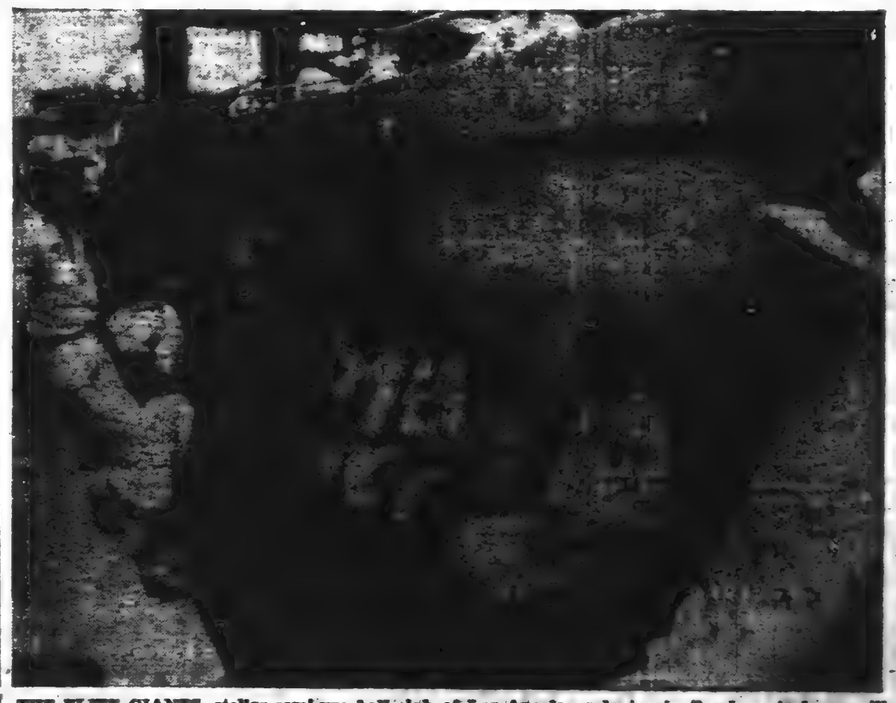
There are others, of course, but these are the ones getting the pre-season notices.

Then, too, since there is a war going on, in the U. S. Army is John Reagan, former University of Montana backfield ace.

Bobby Yaeger Now Under Tutelage of Tolson

One of 1941's "boxers most likely to hit the top," Bobby Yaeger, good young welter, will henceforth wear the George Tolson banner, as does young John Thomas. Tolson developed such ring worthies as Leon Zorrita and Georgie Crouch . . . Note George, former 28th street YMCA physical director, is making democracy work as USO director in Monterey. The center is used by both white and colored soldiers. Nate will be remembered as a former Whittier college track great . . . Note to Tommy Farmer; Belated, 'tis true, but congrats on piloting Manuel Ortiz into the bantamweight championship of the world . . . A feature of the Zeta Phi Beta sorority hobby show Sunday at the YM was Paul Hickman's gun display; enough to arouse the envy of any hunter . . . Emmett Ashford, former high and jaysee all-around athlete, is making quite a "rep" as the only Negro umpire in the L. A. Municipal Officials association. Ashford, whose chief is Hugh Foster, is one of the most popular men officiating the current league softball games . . . The column is picking John Thomas to thump Toby Vigil in the Hollywood stadium headliner tomorrow eve . . . Fans of Henry Armstrong had better start taking the former three-crown wearer's present comeback campaign seriously. Reason: His 8-round TKO over Rodolfo Ramires. Because Ramires is no ninny . . .

Mack House, who dominated the heavyweight picture here about a decade ago, was introduced from the Olympic squared circle Tuesday night. It is now 1st Sergeant Mack House, of the U. S. Army . . . Corporal Jackie Wilson makes his debut in New York's Madison Square Garden Sept. 10 . . . Corporal Joe Louis and Marva reportedly expect an heir in November . . .



Chief of Police Says Kenny Won't Play Football; He May Be Hurt

Kenny Washington, former UCLA football great and Hollywood Bear pro star, won't play any football this year!

This fact became known last week when the police commission ruled on a request made by Paul L. Schissler, coach of the Bears, that police officers Washington, Floyd Phillips and James Austin, all college stars, be permitted to play on his team at a Coliseum benefit for United Nations relief.

Ross R. McDonald, acting chief of police, advised against permitting the men to take part in such activities because they might thereby be incapacitated for their police work.

A few days later it was announced that Schissler, who is a former college and pro grid mentor, had been appointed a captain in the Army Air Force.

THE ELITE GIANTS, stellar semi-pro ball club of Los Angeles, relaxing in the dugout above, will take off the North American Aviation Mustangs in a twin bill at White Sox Park, 41st and Ascot, Sunday, September 6. Kenny Washington, football great, is slated to play shortstop for the Elites.

Hank TKOs Ramirez in 8 Stanzas

OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—Staging one of the best fights of his comeback campaign, Henry Armstrong last Wednesday night scored an impressive 8th round technical knockout over Rodolfo Ramirez, Mexico City, in the scheduled 10-round main event at Oakland auditorium.

Armstrong scaled 144½; Ramirez 145½.

The Los Angeles fighter, who formerly held three world crowns simultaneously, piled up a lopsided advantage in the first 7 rounds. In the 8th round he dropped the Mexican with a left hook and right cross in 1:38, and Ramirez' handlers threw in the towel.

The gate was $16,204 net, one of the best in Oakland fight history.

He who wishes to secure the good of others has already secured his own. —Confucius.

COAST TENNIS TOURNEY STARTS HERE SATURDAY

The West's greatest tennis players will cavort here Saturday through Labor Day when the Western Federation of Tennis Clubs presents its 21st Annual Pacific Coast Champions on the courts of Ross Snyder playground, E. 41st street and Compton avenue.

Tournament general chairman Lloyd Thomas, said today that entries are expected from San Diego to Seattle.

Defending titlists include Harold "Schoolboy" Mitchell, of Oakland, in the men's singles, doubles and mixed doubles. He won the 1941 doubles crown with Richard Dempsey, also of Oakland, who will not be available this year because of war work. Mrs. Eloine Thornton teamed with Mitchell to capture the mixed doubles championship.

Clarabelle Scott will seek to retain her women's singles honors. Last year she teamed with Miss S. D. Miller of Pasadena to also capture the women's doubles title.

Leonard Fuller, who has been junior boys' singles titleholder for six and one-half years, celebrates his last year as a junior in his event.

Miss Muriel Foley is the defending junior girls' titlist.

Keen competition is expected in all events.

Runners-up in 1941, most of whom will be shooting for the titles again, were Mrs. Thornton, women's singles; L. Scales, men's singles; Alma Oliver, Pasadena, junior girl's singles; L. Spaulding, Chicago, junior boys' singles; O. Warde and S. Stoghin, men's doubles; Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. Elsie Buie-Thornton, women's doubles; and Mrs. Cecil Ward and O. Ward, mixed doubles.

MANY FINE TROPHIES

The trophy committee, Mrs. Josephine Brown, chairman, and including Mrs. Elaine Thornton, Lloyd Thomas and Mrs. Elsie B. Thornton, has announced the Thornton, announces many handsome trophies donated by the following individuals, businesses and organizations:

Your Victory Market employees, Strider's Service Station, Central Avenue Bowling Center, Bill Robinson theatre, Harriet Gourdine Memorial, by Emily Brown Portwig; John E. Hargrove, Edward Taylor Memorial, by Atty. Curtis C. Taylor; Dunbar Grill, Conner-Johnson Co., Mrs. Jessie Louise Terry, Nate George, Angelus Funeral Home, and many others.

For the past five years, the Edward Taylor Memorial, for junior boys, has been donated by Atty. Taylor in honor of his father. The Harriet Gourdine Brown Memorial, for junior girls, is in honor of the mother of Emily Brown Portwig.

The Hargrove trophy goes to the junior boys runner-up; the Jessie Terry trophy to the runner-up for junior girls honors.

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Mexico, Sept. 3.—Another world's record fell Sunday at Caliente when the popular Quiniela paid Jerome K. Miller of Los Angeles the small fortune of $4334.40 for two dollars. Alaskan, a 50 to 1 shot, was the winner, while Come to Taw, quoted at 7½ to 1, was second. Alaskan was last nearly all the way in the last race, which was a mile and one-sixteenth. Coming in the stretch in eighth position, Jockey Yarling took the horse to the outside in the middle of the track and from there to the winning wire you would have thought that it was Whirlaway. He won by two lengths. Alaskan was at one time thought to be a good horse, bred in the purple, by W. M. Ingram. His sire was Whichone, and grandsire, the famous Omar Khayyam.

Bing Crosby, the famous crooner, now has the last laugh on comedians who are always kidding him about his horses never winning. His Tangazo showed some of the best two-year olds heels by winning one of the feautre events, running the five and a half furlongs in the fast time of 1:06 3/5. Hasten Henry made it four straight wins by taking the eighth race at a mile and a quarter.

Generalissimo Walter Marty has completed all arrangements for two big, gala days of racing Sept. 6 and 7. Twenty-four races in all for the two-day program. Racing director and presiding steward, Judge George Shilling, with racing secretary Joe Walters, are planning some surprises in the feature events. For these two big gala days, money exchanges hvae been set up at the border for the convenience of all those crossing into Mexico. No charge is made for the exchange.

The form players had their share of winners, while the second and third choices were also in the picture. The ring took a pretty good beating when two or three goodies came right down in front.

The Daily-Double paid $12.40 when Keaton Light won the second race and the heavily played favorite, Sky Ginger, won the third.

We have just received the good new that Santa Anita will open its beautuiful gates once again this winter. (Sorry, George, nothing to it.—Ed.) Well, more about that next week. So, until then, when the news of the turf will be told, this is your turf reporter saying, keep smiling, buy more war stamps and bonds. We've got them Japs and Huns on the run. So keep buying until it hurts. So long, GEORGE.

Yaeger Tops Action Card at Olympic

Top young sluggers who have been providing the customers with the best fights in local arenas will stage another all-action melee Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium.

The all-star program, comprising the coming champions of this sector, which was held a couple of weeks ago at the Olympic, proved such a popular, slambang affair that Snowy Baker, promoter, decided to give the fans another such smashing exhibition of fisticuffs.

These lads who are battling for the main-event spot in the limelight go into the ring with everything they have and wage a fast and furious fight to the last gong.

Some outside talent will be imported by Harry Ussery, San Diego pilot, who has been developing some outstanding navy material. Jimmy Frattini, known as the sailor thrill fighter, is one of them. He will toe the mark with Don Lemos, hard slashing brother of Ritchie, in a five heat go at 137 pounds.

Al Morey, another leather pusher from the Ussery stable, will meet Bobby Yaeger. The latter, who is pointing for Tony Canelli, knocked out Rudy Campa two weeks ago in one minute and 57 seconds. Morey defeatd Al Grayson last Friday in San Diego and put up two hectic fights recently at Hollywood. He will give Yaeger his best opposition since Yaeger's comeback. They are inked for six rounds at 144 pounds.

Dudge Everitt, Ussery's other importation from San Diego, will clash with speedy Jack Stebbins. They will travel the five stanza route at 155 pounds.

Another five round bout will be Chuck Railey vs. Matthew Oglesby, a rematch. They pounded each other in a terrific fracas which ended in a draw at Ocean Park recently. Oglesby stopped Frankie Antuna two weeks ago in a sensation tussle. They will enter the ring at 140. Fighting at 153 pounds in a six round duel will be Jimmy Brooks vs. Roscoe Smith, which should be surefire for action.

Elite Giants, North American Mustangs Tangle at White Sox in Doubleheader

Sunday, Sept. 6, will be a stellar doubleheader day, with double-edged, or maybe triple-edged, power for the baseball fans of the Los Angeles area.

When the first of the two games gets underway at White Sox Park, 41st and Ascot, at 1:30 p. m., the fans will be seeing and participating in:

1. A whirlwind contest between two track semi-pro teams, with some top-notch performers of the diamond doing their stuff.

2. Another blow to the already sagging body of old Jim Crow.

KENNY PLAYS

Playing for the Elite Giants will be such aces as Kenny Washington, shortstop, who won nationwide fame in the football backfield of UCLA.

Probable lineups:

Giants—Renfro, lf; Davis, 2b; Washington, ss; Mathews, 1b; Brewer, 3b; Wade, cf; Mackey, c; Moreland, p.

North American: Driskell, 2b; French, rf; Cox, ss; Ellis, 1b; Conzales, cf; Valenicia, lf; Gibbs, c; Babbit, p.

So fans put it down as a "must" on your calendar: The doubleheader between the Elite Colored Giants and the North American Mustangs, 1:30 p. m., Sunday, Sept. 6, at White Sox Park, 41st and Ascot. You'll have a chance to cheer Negro and white players doing their stuff for you and for the West coast daily which has been right in the leadership of the drive against un-American Jim Crow in baseball and in every other field.

Clisby Takes Northern Golf Honors

OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—Approximately 125 golfers teed off at the Chabot course for the two-day Northern California Golf Association tournament held last week.

Shades Shapiro Wins Award in Poets Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Cleo Shans, Los Angeles lightweight contender, scored an unimpressive 10-round decision over Maxie Shapiro of New York before 10,000 fans at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Shans, winner of a split decision over the rugged New Yorker two weeks ago, gained the unanimous verdict of the referee and judges.

After building up an early lead, Shans weathered a Shapiro offensive in the 8th canto and finished strong. He was bleeding from the nose in the 10th, but slashed Shapiro's right cheek just before the final bell.

The Los Angeles fighter weighed 131, Shapiro 132.

Prominent Leaders at 8th, Towne

One of the most brilliant years in all the history of the First AME church, 801 Towne avenue, will come to a spectacular close with the services scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 6.

Bishop and Mrs. Noah W. Williams of St. Louis, Mo.; Dean and Mrs. J. Russell Brown, of the Bishop Williams School of Religion at Western university, Kansas City, Kansas; and the Presiding Elder and Mrs. X. C. Runyon of Berkeley, together with other distinguished visitors, will add the inspiration of their presence to the services.

The morning message will be delivered by the pastor, but Bishop Williams will deliver the communion meditation, and will be the chief celebrant. The choirs of the church will furnish special music throughout the day.

At the morning hour, the senior choir, directed by Jester Hairston, will sing Mueller's arrangement of Luther's great hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." The young people's choir, directed by Mrs. Laura Salisbury, will sing "Great Is Thy Love" by Carl Bohn.

At the evening worship, Dr. Frederick D. Jordan, the pastor, will deliver the fourth in his series of sermons on the Apostle's Creed, entitled "The Holy Catholic Church." The J. E. Edwards choir will present special gospel selections with William Gillespie as soloist.

Monday night, Sept. 7, at 8 o'clock, the annual business meeting of the church will be held. This is the opportunity for members of the church to obtain a clear picture of the work which has been accomplished during the past year both in the church at large, and in the several departments. Since the annual conference will meet this year in San Diego, this meeting will also give the members of the church an opportunity to hear the report which their minister will make to the annual meeting.

A few days ago nearly $700 remained to be raised to complete the financial program of the church for the year. Rev. Jordan stated today that at the close of services last Sunday less than $100 of this amount remained unpledged and this is expected to be paid before the business meeting Monday night.

Baptist Temple in New Place of Worship

The Baptist Temple has erected a new place of worship at the corner of 48th and Avalon, under the leadership of Dr. J. C. Sweeney, and is progressing nicely.

Dr. Sweeney is a son of Texas and was partly educated in Texas schools. He was licensed and ordained by Dr. A. L. Boone, now of Cleveland, and the late Dr. Lacy Kirk Williams, formerly of Texas.

He has pastored some of the leading churches in the nations. He served on the Home Mission Board of the great National Baptist Convention, Inc., and was appointed national evangelist for more than six consecutive years. He was president of the Federation of Colored Churches of Maryland and dean of the Maryland Bible institute.

Dr. Sweeney would be glad to meet the many Texas friends and especially those out of the South who have no church home. The Baptist Temple is a southern church with a welcome to all.

Founder's Day at Your Victory Mart

Your Victory market is having its first founder's day celebration Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week honoring the Rev. Clayton D. Russell, founder and president of the People's Cooperative association.

This Saturday will mark the 32nd birthday anniversary of Rev. Russell, who will return from his vacation in time to participate in the celebration.

The store has been well stocked for the occasion; there will be many specials offered at the lowest prices possible, and the staff has been increased to take care of the expected crowd.

Community support will make this a historic occasion for the market. In this manner, too, the community can extend to Rev. Russell its appreciation for his militant leadership, which has so valiantly served the Negro people of Los Angeles. This is your market; it deserves your support.

Salvaged from Lake Cayuga's waters in up-state New York, the old steamer Frontenac has yielded 16 tons of steel, 350 pounds of brass and 300 tons of lead for the salvage drive.

DR. E. I. ROBINSON

Dr. E. I. Robinson, of this city, was elected president-elect of the National Medical Association which closed its meeting in Cleveland last week. The convention, held around the theme, "The Status of the Physician in the War Effort," elected Dr. T. Marcus Smith, of Chicago, as its president.

Dr. Robinson, widely known on the coast and in the East, holds many professional offices, besides carrying on his regular duties at 2510 Central avenue. He is examining physician for the State Athletic Commission and for the Washington National Insurance, advisor to the Colored Graduate Nurses, and medical adjutant of the Newton Street Station for Civilian Defense.

Born at Brunswick, Ga., Dr. Robinson is a graduate of Meharry Medical college. He is a member of the trustee board of the Second Baptist church and is the former president of the local medical association. His wife, Mrs. Florence Robinson, is ppresident of the ladies' auxiliary of the association.

Rev. Percy Williams at Lincoln

REV. PERCY WILLIAMS

This Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service, the Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, Vernon and Hooper, will receive for the first time its newly elected acting pastor, the Reverend Percy Williams.

The young Rev. Williams, who is a graduate of Chapman college, and who at present, is a student at the University of Southern California in the process of attaining his master's degree in theology, will deliver his first sermon Sunday morning from the subject, "The Church in a World of Confusion."

Rev. Williams received most of his practical experience under the guidance of the Rev. S. M. Malone, his father-in-law, who is pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist church in Pasadena where Rev. Williams served in the capacity of assistant pastor.

His temporary selection at the Congregational church was arranged by Rev. Harold Kingsley, director of the Department of Negro Work for the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational churches.

In every age and clime, "On earth peace, good will toward men" must be the watchword of Christianity. —Mary Baker Eddy former pastor at Red Bluff, in his 56 years in the ministry has pastored from the extreme north to the extreme south. He was convertde in St. Louis, Mo., in 1880, at Beth church, 11 Christ avenue, under Rev. T. W. Henderson. He did missionary work in Helena, Montana, and Portland, Oregon, prior to his coming to California in 1886. He was assigned to pastor Red Bluff under Bishop E. F. Lee, where the first church was built during his ministry. He has served under seven bishops.

REV. ROBERT ARRINGTON,

GRANDMA GOT ALONG

AUTOMOBILES were fools' dreams and aluminum was only a laboratory metal when Grandma was a girl.

She couldn't have bought an electric refrigerator, an automatic water heater, a shiny white stove or a radio.

Most of these things we can't have today were unknown to Grandma. But she got along all right—and so can we.

And, in one way at least, we're much better off than Grandma ever was. A journey that might then have taken her half a day is now a comfortable half-hour ride for us. Public transportation today is safe, fast and dependable. It's an important factor in the war effort and the Los Angeles Railway is doing its level best to deliver war workers to factory and field with minimum delay and maximum efficiency.

4—PEGLER'S DANGER TO THE NEGRO is tremendous! Read by uninformed millions, he may so becloud issues connected with a progressive conduct of the war that a good deal of liberal action may be prevented. His position on Labor is a threat both to the nation's battle for production and the Negro's fight for justice, which is increasingly part and parcel of the Labor struggle. He has consistently ridiculed every measure that has placed the war where the people it—as a positive crusade against the oppression of all races, including Negroes.

But, most dangerous of all, he operates as a front man for the Nazi propaganda machine and is one of the most potent defeatist forces in this country.

He will help us lose this war. In such an event, the Negro's position is a horrible thing to contem[illegible]

FSA Will Set Up Labor Recruiting Offices in Mexico

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3—Government plans to import Mexican farm workers advanced further today when L. I. Hewes, jr., regional director of the Farm Security Administration at San Francisco appointed H. F. Brown of the agency's regional office at Amarillo, Tex., to represent the FSA at Mexico City in carrying out its labor recruiting program at the Mexican end.

At Mr. Hewes' direction Brown will establish headquarters in the capital city next week, and will at once begin staffing field offices in districts which the Mexican government is now designating as areas where labor may be recruited. This action by Mexico was requested yesterday by the Secretary of Agriculture, when it was also announced that the San Francisco FSA chief would officially direct the Mexican phase of his agency's overall task of obtaining emergency farm labor for shortage areas.

It is expected that Mexican harvest hands will be brought to this country by late September. They will be used chiefly to help harvest California sugar beets and Arizona long-staple cotton-crops affected most severely by domestic labor shortages.

Transportation, housing, health and general working conditions of all farm labor recruited by the government will be supervised by the Farm Security Administration under directives issued by the War Manpower Commission. Needs for such recruitment are certified by the United States Employment Service.

Ft. Huachuca Plans Labor Day Recreation

PORT HUACHUCA, Ariz., Sept. 3—Entertainment will be in full swing in the 93d Infantry Division here on Labor Day with the recreational program that has been planned for the soldiers. Beginning at 8:30 in the morning Field Meets will be held in all the Infantry regiments and the Division Artillery. Champions will be crowned in the various athletic events. In charge of these meets are the Special Service Officers of the various units.

In the afternoon a matinee dance will be held in the big Sports Area here with thousands of soldiers expected to attend. Girls will be brought from Tucson, Ariz., and the fort. A popularity contest will be held to select the most popular girl at the dance.

After the dance a carnival and puppet show will be held also in the Sports Area.

★ ORCHIDS OF MERIT

BY ANON

GUEST OF THE WEEK
SIR JOSEPH H. BANTAM, Jr. ,75th Chem. Smk. ,Gen. Co. Inglewood, California
His Interlude:
COURTESY, Miss SARAH HUNTER
(A correction— Last week's an- nouncement "Babes Sheltering Leaague "5:00 p. m., Aug. 30, 1942.

CANTEEN SERVICE

Joey promised to say hello to some of his intimate friends, also Joe said he'd leave off the "Lo" to othed unworthees. To get ri- ght down to business and let you you in on some of the 75th "Glamour Boys"—well, here they are:
Running first and still holdiing the lead, Pfc Georgie Lovie Brownie; running second and los- ing fast Cpl. Ira Hoot Gibson; taking third place and grabbing for second, Sgt. Maceo Love Strugoff Anderson, first that guy's got one adame, then another—he grabs for anybody's barl. He'll probably tnd up in the dog house lonely as ever These past few days our very "liked by all" 1st Sgt. Jaskson has been rather busy, but that guy has a past for taking your girl and mine 10 miles long. Imight add that the so- called Colonel Ady Dixon is revolutionizing our salutiog and about facing. Pfc. Al K. P. Hamp- ton is having a great deal of trouble keeping his Orcids picked. If that guy's not too careful, I'm afraid Cprl. Jim C. Franklin will undertake the job.
STRICTLY DEDICATED TO THE AIR MINDED:
Jim R. Hurley of Ohio State is now a member of the 75th Chem- ical Co. at Inglewood If its air- planes you want to know about, see Jim. What Jim doesn't know about a climbing turn, slow roll, 9—G pull-out, snap roll, spin, flu- ttering leaf, dime turn, Immel- man turn, barrel roll, side slip, jockeying the stick. or walking on right and left rudders, you can paint it on a ½ cent stamp. In- cidentally, the P.X. next door to Motor Pool is now the temporary "Pilot's Lounge." You might down some evening and learn how to pull out of a spin: I feel assured, you'll be well entertain- ed by Pfc.'s Hurley, Joe Bantum ,Bil Haley, Sgt. Maceo Campbell, or Cprl. Archie Doc Britter. I Ross Davis or Early Bird Graham —these boys are o. k., but they just need a little more experi- ence. Hey, fellows, let's get to- bether on a paper for the old 75th Chem. Co. I feel she sure needs one. Well, that's about all for now —see you soon. Keep up the good work for our swell issioned officers, help retain the the 75th as the leading Chemical Co. in the 9th Corp area.

Appeals to FDR for War Job; Gets It

A 22-year-old youth who ap- pealed to President Roosevelt for assistance in obtaining a war production job is now employed in an instrument factory as a re- sult of his plea to the White House.
The Negro youth, Harvey An- derson, of New York City, was worthy group.
Captain Faustina Johnson of the Women's Ambulance Corps says the supposed purge of State Militia has not affected her placed in a job at the Polarizing Instrument Company in that city by Local 1225, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, after union officals had been informed of his appeal.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes To Visit Texas

Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes, long time resident of Los Angeles will visit in the State of Texas dur- ing the month of September, among the many cities she will visit include San Antonio, Hous- ton, Beaumont and Dallas where she will spend a while with re- latives.
The vacation trip of Mrs. Rhodes is a gift of her daughter, Mrs. Leona E. Jones.

It used to be TABOO for girls to discuss this kind of help

Many a girl has suffered from cramp-like pain and other dis- tresses due only to periodic functional causes simply because that was a subject people didn't talk about.
Nowadays thousands of women rely on the 2-way help of CAR- DUI. Started 3 days before the time and taken as directed, CAR- DUI should help relieve purely functional periodic pain. Used as a tonic, it often perks up appe- tite, increases the flow of gastric juices, thus aiding digestion and thereby helping to build up strength and resistance for the time it's most needed.
CARDUI may help you. A 62- year record says it's worth a trial.

ARE YOU 3-A IN THE DRAFT?

If so, your chances of being called into active service is not likely. Since you cannot become a member of the United States Army. You will be doing your part by enlisting in the 7th Regiment of the California State Guards. Being a member of the Reserves does not interfere with your work. And you will be called out only when invasion by the enemy seems imminent.

ARE YOU IN CLASS 1-A OR 1-B?

Those of you in Class 1-A may be inducted into the army at any time. You should enlist in the Reserves of the 7th Regiment California State Guards, so that you will know something about this man's army in advance. In the State Guards you have a chance for promotion and the training you get in the 7th Regiment will help you when you become a member of the U. S. armed forces. Learn now and you have a chance of becoming a non-commissioned officer when your number is called. Join the 7th Regiment.

To every Negro man and woman in the United States—in the city of Los Angeles, this is a moment of supreme opportunity, of unlimited challenge.

One of the vital issues of the present world conflict is the liberation of the Negro people in the United States, just as is the liberation of the great Indian nation.

An astonishing aspect of the current conflict is its striking similarity to the Civil War, another of the world's great progressive struggles and an historical precedent contributing immeasurably to the clarity of Negro people in the present hour. A comparison between these two epochs in the advancement of our people is essential to grasp the vastness of the tasks which confront us today. We are not only "the test of democracy." We are not step-children waiting bitterly for our turn at the nation's bountiful table. We are one of the driving liberal forces in this country. Our power is vast and untapped. We make no plaintive and negative request for freedom, for that freedom is indispensable to our nation's victory.

The Civil War was the unavoidable explosion inherent in the glaring conflict between the Constitution of the United States and the philosophy which it voiced as opposed to the institution of chattel slavery. That this conflict raged from the moment of this nation's birth is clearly seen in the fact that, but for a single vote, slavery would have been abolished in the Constitution itself. Thomas Jefferson understood the volcanic nature of this compromise and wrote stirring condemnation of the Continental Congress' action in this matter. "In that awful moment," he wrote, "when one vote would have saved four million human beings from chattel slavery, the voice of Heaven stood still!"

The unique development of an industrial and commercial democracy alongside a feudal oligarchy was the history of the first fifty years of the American nation. The South recognized early that the Constitution was its deadly enemy and we find that hallowed document frequently attacked during this period by the Southern Congressmen on the grounds of its objectionable "glittering generalities." On the other hand, there grew an increasingly conscious opposition to the slave power in the North and the new West. The Bourbon, however, retained control of Congress and the White House through able exploitation of his Northern allies the cotton-dependent banking and commercial classes. Arrayed against these forces was the manufacturing Northern industry, beginning its great conquest of the American scene,—Labor, and the Negro people.

Agents Shoot Hold-up Suspect

Find a suspect, order him to raise his hands, and then shoot him.. If he acts slightly frightened, shoot him before he raises his hands. Such is the latest technique of apprehending a criminal, as employed by special agents Bliss and Tinsman of the Los Angeles Railway Company.

Richard Aaron, 1027 East 29th street, is in the County hospital today suffering from a bullet wound in the stomach because he looked like one of the three men who held up a bus at 41st and Ascot Saturday night at about 11:50 p. m. When accosted by the special agents, he backed away and put his hands to his sides, which action was followed by a shot in the stomach.

The only witness to the accident—a woman, gave the rather incomplete descriptions of the three men, which led to the supposed apprehension of one. Stolen were the money changer, the wallet, and the equipment box of the driver, Walter W. Erickson.

Leaders Ask Second Front

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—An appeal for the immediate opening of a second front in Europe to bring about the downfall of Hitler and the Fascist armies was voiced today in an urgent message addresed to the President and the nation by fifty-seven youth leaders from all parts of the country.

The speedy defeat of Hitler was linked to the struggle of Negroes in this country against the pro-Hitlerites in the United States, according to the statement. "As a people we support the war not only to maintain the existence of the United States as a nation," it read, "but the world of jim crow nd segregation. and to bring equality and freedom to the Negro people."

Those opposed to fighting on a second front, it was pointed out, include the Ku Klux Klan, men like Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and Frank Dixon of Alabama, Martin Dies, Father Coughlin, and others who are busy reviving the "white supremacy" movement and who would be glad to make a deal with Hitler to in-

ROBESON, YERGAN ON WAY FOR GREAT RALLY

An added assurance of success was given the Mass Meeting and concert at which Paul Robeson and Dr. Max Yergan will be honored guests at the Philharmonic as president and executive director of the Council on African affairs, today, when the Committee of Citizens sponsoring the meet decided to make it really a benefit—a benefit to the whole community—by having it FREE to the public.

--In an effort to make this meeton the opening of a second Front one in which the masses of the people will contribute and receive as much as possible, this responsibility was undertaken by the committee.

Pouring into the office of the chairman, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, have been the hearty responses to the news of the coming of Robeson and Dr. Yergan. It is felt that the community is looking forward to this meeting because of the urgent need for clarity on the issues surrounding establishment of the SECOND FRONT and especially what the people can do about it.

The committe , of sponsors, which will meet at the EAGLE office tonight at 8 p. m. includes Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins, Clarence Muse, Revels Cayton, State Vice-president of the CIO; Philip Connelly, Secretary of the Los Angeles Industrial Union Council; Mrs. Faye Allen, member of the Board of Education; Lloyd C. Seehger, Local 26, ILW U; James A. Gray, Red Cap Porters union; Rev. Baxter Carroll Duke, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, Rev. Clayton D. ,Russell Mrs. Faustine Johnson, of the California State Guard; Miss Laura Slayton, AWVS; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Satchel! Morris, Atty Thomas L. Griffith, Rev. Karl Downs , Atty. Clarence Jones and a host of others.

Following his appearance here, Mr. Robeson will be presented in San Francisco on Sept. 20 in a similar meeting.

Sharecropper Saved from Extradition

ELIZABETH, N.J., Sept. 10—David Williams, 47-year old sharecropper won the first round in his battle against a South Carolina land owner who wants him put into a Southern jail for failing to farm cotton crop after receiving several hundred dollars in advance.

With Harry Weltchek, volunteer attorney, contending that to force Williams to return involuntarily would be "reducing him to slavery," the Negro won a stay of extradition from Common pleas court Judge Hetfield.

Williams, who says he and his wife and six children couldn't live on the $25 a month—5 months a year and share of the profits they were paid, will be given a chance to present his arguments for remaining in the North to a habeas corpus hearing this week.

The man and his family had worked for about twelve years on the farm of Cleo Young at Florence, S. C. but left in April. Wiliams worked in a cement factory at Linden until he was seized on the complaint filed by the farmer. The charge is a criminal one in South Carolina. Four attorneys volunteered their services to prevent his removal from New Jersey.

The case has attracted wide attention nationally. Some observers find a historical precedent in the great Fugitive Slave controversies between the North and the South during the last century.

Seek Pardon for Festus Coleman

An immediate and unconditional pardon for Festus Lewis Coleman, the young San Francisco Negro sentenced to San Quentin for 65 years on a false charge of "rape and robbery," is being sought by the Coleman Defense Co-ordinating committee, it was announced from San Francisco today.

This action followed the losing of the appeal for a reversal of judgment in the District Court of Appeals, San Francisco, by a split decision of two to one, despite the fact that Judge Ray Peters, the presiding justice, wrote a dissenting opinion in which he stated that Coleman was entitled to a new trial because in his opinion the prosecutor was guilty of "error of the most prejudicial character."

Said Judge Peters, "As important as it is to society to see that those guilty of criminal activity should be punished, it is far more important to society as a whole that the fundamental principle that every defendant is entitled to a fair trial should be preserved."

The committee is circulating a petition to accompany the formal application for pardon so that the governor will know that the citizens of this country are interested in righting the injustice done Coleman and his people.

Firm Short of Machinists Yet Janitors Can Do Job

AT WORK AND WAR FOR VICTORY

Management at the Cannon Electric Manufacturing Company, 3201 Humboldt street, a 100 percent defense plant, is worried about the shortage of skilled laborers.

But, on second look, the firm is not too disturged about the situation.

Why?

Because maids and janitors at the company are prepared to do the jobs for which there are such "shortages."

A janitor is a trained drill press operator and experienced on the thread machine.

--A maid holds a diploma from a defense training school which certifies her an accredited drill press operator.

And these are not isolated cases. The situation holds true throughout the firm's persouuel.

Raw recruits are rushed on expensive, vital war machinery,

THRONGS ROAR APPROVAL

4000 APPLAUD DEMAND FOR INDIAN NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—More than four thousand people, representing a large number of trade union and Negro people's organizations, packed New York's Manhattan Center and wildly applauded as groups of notable speakers, including Paul Robeson,

Kumar Goshal and Liang-mo when they called for the immediate formation of an Indian national government as the best guaratee of defending India against Japan and winning this great nation as a full and equal Second Front ally of the United Nations.

The meeting, a free-India rally, was sponsored by the Council on African Affairs.

Other prominent leaders who addressed the meeting were Michael Quill, International president of the United Transport Workers Union, CIO; Frederick V. Field, of the editorial board of magazine, Amerasia; New York City Councilman A. Clayton Powell, jr.; Dr. Max Yergan, secretay of the Council On African Affairs; Dr. Channing Tobias, of the National YMCA; and Mr. Ntombi Tantsi, ffrom South Africa.

Mr. Goshal, a noted Indian scholar and lecturer on India, told the audience that the problems facing the Indian people must be solved as the war proceeds. "We shall have to solve them," he said, "not by sending leaders to jail, not by shooting the people down, not by dragging in such archaic laws as the whipping laws. That is why we want to form a national government that can defend India."

"The Indian people," he declared, "have demonstrated fully their right to stand beside the United Nations as a full and equal ally. Only full mobilization of all the Indan people, with the tools to develop a people's army can change the present conditions facing the Indian people," he said,"— conditions which must be changed to carry forward the aims of this people's war.

"The only way we can prevent Japan from attacking India tomorrow," he went on, "is by opening a second front in Western Europe today—and giving India a national government

'CLIMAX' IN OCTOBER

URGE BOTH PARTIES TO 'SHOW BY DEEDS' ANTI-POLL TAX SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept 10—Because the American people want to unite the country for victory by giving free political expression to ten million Negro and white citizens living in the eight poll tax states, they demand that the leadership of both major parties "prove by their deeds support of the Anti-poll tax legislation," spokesmen for the National Association to Abolish the Poll Tax declared this week.

The Committee, whose headquarters are located in the nation's capital, issued the following statement to clarify the present situation which has arisen in Congress on Anti-poll tax legislation.

"The overwhelming majority of the American people who have expressed themselves clearly in favor of Anti-poll tax legislation in this session of Congress are confronted with a peculiar set of circumstances: Senator Barkley, spokesman for the administration, declared himself in favor of the abolition of poll tax laws and in favor of the men in the armed forces having the right to vote. But at the same time he confesses his impotence to prevent a wilful minority of defeatists obstructionist poll tax Congressmen in his own party from sabotaging the war effort by preventing Congressional action on both these important war measures.

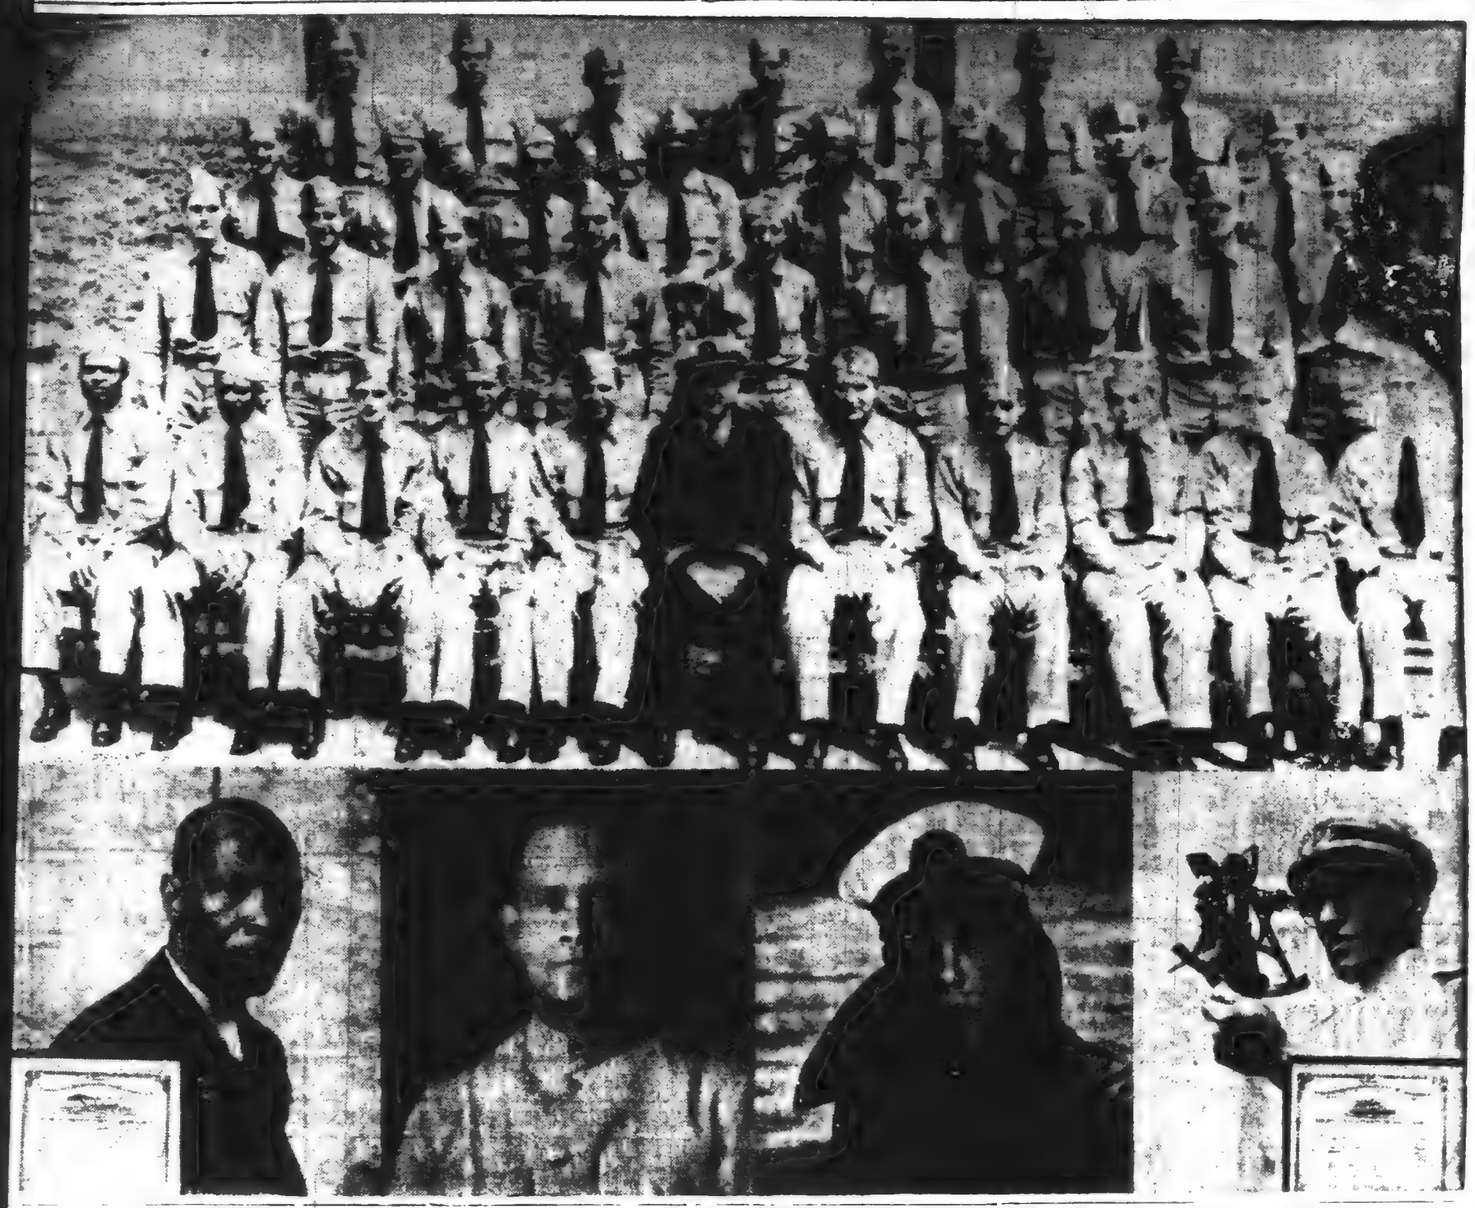
"The responsibility rests with Senator Barkley and Majority Leader McCormack in the House and with the Administration to seeto it that the House and Senate are permitted to vote on both the Pepper-Geyer poll tax bills and the Pepper-Brooks amendment to the Soldiers Vote bill, which removes poll tax requirements from members of the armed forces."

Pointing out that the Pepper-Geyer bills can be passed and that the fight to wipe out the poll tax will reach a climax in October,

ASK CLEMENCY FOR SOLDIERS IN LOUISIANA

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—an appeal from the death sentence for three colored soldiers convicted for rape in Alexandria, La., is being prepared by lawyers for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, it was announced here today.

Formal notice of appeal was filed Aug. 13 by lawyers who were appointed to defenr the threesoldiers in the civil court. At that time, after the first trial, the conviction, and the death sentence, the case was brought to the attention of the NAACP and parents of one of the men asked NAACP aid in fighting the case further, The convicted men are Privates Richard Adams, of Columbus, O.; John Walter Bordenave, New Orleans, La.; and Lawrence Mitchell, of Michigan.



Marshall will go to Louisiana to aid local lawyers in preparation of the appeal.

Now the Scripture Says:

"Let not your heart be troubled." So my Aunt admits that we servants of the Heavenly King should, through our faith, be calm though the very earth trembles and reels about us. But who can be calm in a world where we never know whether a silver streak we may see darting toward the earth is a falcon or a bomb!

Yours until the eye will be swifter than the bullet,

EUGENE HENRY HUTTMAN.

Pauline Slater New Assistance League Prexy

Assistance League members have chosen Miss Pauline Slater, prominent city high school teacher, to succeed Mrs. Della Williams, whose term in office as president has been so highly successful.

The recently elected officers were officially installed by Mrs. Jessie Coles Grayson during the regular September meeting at the home of the organizer and sponsor, Mrs. Fannie Williams. Miss Slater, as president, will be supported by the following officers: Mrs. Emily Thompson-Woody, vice president; Mrs. Edna Mae Cohen, recording secretary; Mrs. Clothilde Woodard, corresponding secretary; Miss Iva Washington, treasurer; and Mrs. Marjorie McPherson, parliamentarian.

These officers will further the manifold accomplishments of the league, which, when viewed in retrospect, have been little short of phenomenal.

Originally a mere brain-child of that valiant philanthropist, Mrs. Fannie Williams, long outstanding in civic endeavor, the Assistance league was organized June 16, 1937, at the home of Mrs. Jessie Grayson, with the avowed purpose of assisting in every possible financial and spiritual way, the Outdoor Life and Health association, at that time in its infancy. Charter members numbering exactly 16, formed the nucleus and were contacted by Mrs. Fannie Williams, Miss Iva Washington, Mrs. Ethel Bell, and Mrs. Jennie Dora Wagner.

It has been due in great measure to the unstinted efforts of this enlarged group that, in 1940, the Outdoor Life and Health association proudly opened the doors of its rest home in Duarte which accommodated 16 patients. Today, the Duarte rest home is a vast, beautifully landscaped 10-acre sanitorium, modern and scientific to the nth degree with a capacity for 34 accommodations.

These members again must be congratulated for their splendid work and for the almost incredible amount of money they have contributed to forward such a worthy cause. Since the time it has been in existence and under the leadership of its three presidents and sponsor, Mrs. Williams, the Assistance league has raised the mammoth sum of well over $5000.

No little share of the credit is due to the superb direction of its past presidents. Mrs. Ethel Bell, city teacher, was the initial president. Mrs. Seth Lee, popular civic worker and second president, made history with ambitious and successful undertakings such as the Ford Raffle contest of '38, the popularity contest, as well as the baby contest.

Mrs. Della Williams, wife of Paul Williams, has done marvelous work, having directed the second baby contest, a children's recital, and a three-act comedy directed by Mrs. Marjorie McPherson. Mrs. Della Williams also has brought in a great amount of cash money.

Past achievements notwithstanding, there still remains a great deal to be done. The Outdoor Life and Health association merits and requires even greater financial aid. With this fact in mind, the Assistance league looks forward to another highly successful year under the capable leadership of gracious Pauline Slater.

Women War Workers Told How to Dress

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Dr. Bertram P. Brown, director of the State Department of Public Health and chief of the Emergency Medical Service unit of the State Council of Defense, today offered suggestions on what women should and should not wear—that is if they are working in war industries.

"I make no claim to being an arbiter of women's fashions," said Dr. Brown, "but the rapid increase of women workers in shipyards, airplane plants and in munition factories, makes it necessary for me from a safety standpoint, to offer a few helpful suggestions to these women."

The physician said his suggestions on the proper wearing apparel for women war workers are based on clothes that are practical, comfortable and attractive. His suggestions follow:

1. Wear uniform type of outside apparel, such as slack suits, slacks and tucked-in shirts, or cover-all minus loose cuffs or pockets to avoid the possibility of becoming entangled in moving machinery.

2. Wear well-fitting, low-heeled oxfords giving firm support to the arches. Such shoes are an aid to good posture, help prevent fatigue and accidents. Open-toe or high heel shoes are neither safe nor practical in industrial plants.

3. Caps, nets, or wrap-around turban head bands to up long bobs to prevent hair from being caught in moving machinery. Women with short or boyish bobs should also wear head coverings. The same static electricity that makes hair follow a brush or comb can cause accidents if hair is permitted to fly loosely.

4. Do not wear bracelets, wrist watches, earrings, necklaces or rings. These accessories do not add to feminine attractiveness in shipyards or aircraft plants, but do add to the number of avoidable accidents.

Women working on certain jobs that are potentially hazardous to eyes, hands and other parts of the body should wear protective equipment such as goggles, gloves and aprons.

Asked what women should wear away from work in war plants, Dr. Brown answered with "No comment."

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts, and warm handshakes—these are secondary means of grace when men are in trouble and are fighting their unseen battles.—John Hall.

Santa Monica AME Church Burns $6000 Mortgage

Celebrating the burning of the church mortgage and the cancellation of the last of the indebtedness was Santa Monica's African Methodist church, under the pastorate of Rev. Alfred K. Quinn, this week.

The church, which had just completed a 60-day self denial campaign in which the members contributed a total of $1950, of which $1550 was used toward eliminating the church debt and was "matched" by an equal amount contributed by friends of the church including a number of prominent Santa Monica businessmen, held the ceremony at its 19th street and Michigan avenue address. The other $400 raised during the campaign will be used for educational and missionary work.

In connection with the mortgage burning, the congregation celebrated the completion of the Rev. Mr. Quinn's sixth year as pastor of the church. The church debt, when the pastor came six years ago, was $6000.

Assisting in the celebration were the Rev. David John Donnan, First Presbyterian; the Rev. A. Ray Moore, First Methodist; the Rev. Howard McConnell, First Christian; the Rev. Fred M. Judson, Trinity Baptist; the Rev. Wallace N. Pierson, St. Augustine-by-the-Sea, Episcopal; and Rabbi Maurice S. Kleinberg, of Beth Sholom temple.

Music for the service included a vocal solo by Mrs. Harry Markowitz, soloist for Beth Sholom temple, and a group of solos by Sherman Doll Jones, soprano soloist and member of the celebrating church. Accompanist was Edna Rosalyne Heard, Santa Monica composer, concert and radio artist.

Members of the board of trustees who, together with the pastor, were in charge of the 60-day drive are Frederick Gibson, chairman; Donald A. Brunson, E. H. Hughley, W. H. Dumas, Richard Dumas, W. W. Johnson, G. B. McCarroll, C. E. White and D. Hiram Cook.

Dr. A. Thomas King Celebrates First Anniversary

Dr. A. Thomas King recently celebrated his first anniversary faithful and capable service to the residents of this community.

In his present location and in one year's time, he has built up his practice to one of the largest on the West coast. His most modern establishment is divided into 14 booths and rooms equipped with the latest in electro-theapy mechanism. Everyone who visits Dr. King at his offices is a new booster.

Miss Ann Bell, well known masseuse from Chicago, joined Dr. King several months ago and gives special attention to the women patients.

Dr. King and Miss Bell invite the public to visit this modern office.

These Questions answer many a laxative problem

Ques. Are all laxatives alike? Ans. Certainly not. Ques. Are all laxatives herbal laxatives? Ans. No, some are saline, emolient etc. Ques. Is Black-Draught herbal? Ans. Yes, Black-Draught is purely herbal—usually gentle but thorough if directions are followed. That's why it is called "the friendly laxative."

Black-Draught has been a popular-selling laxative with four generations. Costs only 25c for 25 to 40 doses. Comes powdered or granulated, which many say is even easier to take. Be sure to follow label directions. Next time, try Black-Draught in the familiar yellow box.

Laud Theresa A. Bailey, OES Matron

One, two, three, who s ishe?
Theresa A. Bailey, don't you see?
Seven, eight, nine, whose on time?
Theresa A. Bailey, first in line.

The above named person is the capable and efficient Worthy Matron of the Queen of Sheba Chapter No. 7 O. E. S., who was the first matron to make her report, after returning from the North, where she was sent as a delegate to the Golden State Grand Chapter, O. E. S. which emt at Berkeley, Calif. More than seventy members and visitors assembled to greet her. All sat spell bound for one hour to listen to one o fthe best reports (if not the best) ever presented to the chapter. Nothing was left out and the chapter truly was proud of its amtron. With dignit, and pride in hre nautral poise, and her smiling face, she greeted each and all.

Mrs. Bailey is an unusual type of person, so kind, patient, understandable, and carries with her all the principles of a sister of the Order of Eastern Star.

She examples a true Christian of such brilliant character. She possesses many xecellent parts, of such extraordinary dependability, a shinning star of such brilliant guidance and a remarkable personalitay that shall always live in the lives of those of whom she contacts, for she gives joy and sunshine. A woman of keen mind, and unusual vision, a plentitude of advisability, always tempered with consideration and kindliness. A love of justice and caurage to stand for the right and above all she is sincere, a deep-rooted, genuine sincerity; always agreeing and contributing to whatever is given for the up building of this organization and others. "To know her is to love her, to name her is to praise.

Queen of Sheba has one of the outstanding matrons of 1942 they feel very appreciative, for she is a prepared matron and can fill any place, at any time. Hats off to Theresa. A group of members and friends.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

The cry has come up that the President is out of bounds, that he is over stepping his authority and, to put it in the language of the peepul, "that he is really messin, up."

There seems to be concentrated effort on the part of some of our people to confuse themselves on many issues, even one as obvious as this. The issue that is being so belatedly confused is that of the President's position on the stabilization of wages and farm prices.

Such chaotic thinking may be due to an ignorance of the facts or may be caused directly by a vicious campaign of rumors and whispers against Presidential policies. Is there such a need for confusion when the situation is pitifully clear? Either we have some stabilized control over wages, prices and profits or we have a disastrous climb in the cost of living, striking at every family budget in the nation. Which shall it be? Surely, no sane individual would choose a course that would lead to inflation.

The President has given Congress a deadline to enact the proper legislation to curb the cost of living. He knows the danger of dawdling at a precarious time like this. Congress has lost too much time ducking and dodging Maybe the Rep.'s and Senators don't realize that a country threatened with inflation cannot successfully engage in a war. Maybe they aren't aware that they might lose the war if some solution isn't offered, and soon, They may be afraid of political consequences, but what do we care about political consequences when the very life of the nation is threatened?

Mr. Robsevelt stated that at the "same time farm prices are stabilized, I will stabilize wages. That is plain justice and plain common sense." In his message on Labor Day, the President made his position clear by remarking that if Congress doesn't act by Oct. 1, he will act on his own responsibility.

This is also plain speaking. Mr. President; putting them down face up on the table. There may be some who won't agree, but most of us know that you're right in there epitching against a double-header, one game against the "murderer's row," Hitler. Mussolini and Hirohito and another against the "bushwcakers" here at home.

With the passing of Labor Day, the American people got many grave reminders of the nation's stake in this war. The nation approached the day set aside for the felicitation of its great Labor movement with much sobriety of thought. There were no gigantic Labor day spectacles or massive demonstrations. There were no frivolous celebrations and expensive outings. Instead, the holiday was spent working. Those unfortunate few who did not work., spent the day either listening to radio programe at home or attending some meeting or gathering held by their unions.

Here in Los Angeles at the Shrine auditorium, the American Federation of Labor celebrated the occasion with a mass meeting. Winning the war was the theme of the program and many notable speakers were on hand.

President C. J. Haggerty of the State Federation of Labor: "Today, just nine months to the day from the date of the cowardly attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor, there will be more ships launched on the four seaboards of this great country than were ever launchde before in the history of the world."

Gov. Culbert L. Olson: "Labor's interest in this war is as great, if not greater than any other group of our people because the workers know that they are the first victims of the of the Nazis who deride industrial democracy, labor participation in management, laber unionism and collective bargaining.

Secretary J. W. Buzzell of Los Angeles Central Labor Council: The job of continuing America on the sound basis on which she has lived up to this time lies in the hands of Labor and Industry together. They, working together, can preserve American traditions after the war is over and theirs is the responsibility. Labor is ready and willing to meet that responsibility and we think this, the occasion of its holiday, provides a great opportunity to say it publicly."

Thus was Labor's conception of the present emergency.

Let's all do our part and celebrate Labor Day everyday by opening the second front, killing good old U. S. War stamps and bonds!

tal, grasping, without conscience and supremely clear in its reactionary motives By nature, slavocracy must expand, just as its descendant, Fascism. So the contest of the years leading inevitably to the Civil War centered about the extension of slavery to the country's immense Western empire. Even then, the stupid, single crop policy of the South was taking its toll of the rich Southern farm land. Furthermore, the planters knew that they could not maintain their strangle hold upon the government with new, free States coming into the Union. The battle for the West was launched. In "bloody Kansas," the first shots of the Civil War were fired as small, independent farmers from the North met head on with with the greedy minions of of the plantation. An obscure lawyer in Illinois, Abraham Lincoln achieved national fame during the course of debates with Stephen A. Douglas in which the main bone of contention was the question concerning the extension of slavery.

When, a few years later, this same backwoods poultician was elected President of the United States, the event marked an end to the slavocracy.s control of the U. S. government. The answer of reaction was prompt. There was a shot—heard round the world.

Union Urges Strengthening of FEPC

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Noting a statement by President Roosevelt that the Fair Employment Practice Committee would be strengthened by its transfer to the War Manpower Commission, the American Civil Liberties Union last week urged Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the commission, to clear the way for unhampered committee action by insuring greater financial support and personnel, and by assuring independence in its investigations.

The president stated it was his intention "to strengthen, not to submerge, the committee, and to reinvigorate, not to repeal, his executive order." Fears had been expressed that the transfer had been made at the instance of hostile employers and politicians to cripple its work.

In a letter to McNutt, signed by Prof. Edward Alsworth Ross, chairman of the national committee of the ACLU, and Dr. John Haynes Holmes, chairman of the board of directors, the union declared, "It seems to us also important to emphasize that the committee's jurisdiction is not that exclusively of aiding in overcoming discrimination against Negroes. It would be unfortunate if it came to be so regarded in the light of the many other victims of racial and religious discrimination both in the public service and in private employment."

Rev. J. A. Dames Attends AME Confab in San Diego

REV. JONATHAN A. DAMES

The Rev. Jonathan A. Dames, pastor of First AME church, Pasadena, left this week, after a whirlwind campagin for conference claims, for the Southern California Conference of the AME church, which is being held at San Diego, Sept. 9-13. The Rev. Dames is completing his third year as pastor of this historic church.

The highlights of the year's work are:

1. The purchase of a valuable strip of property by the children of the church, increasing the boundaries of the church's property.

2. The 54th Anniversary celebration of the founding of African Methodism in Pasadena.

3. The mortgage burning on which marked the complete liquidation of the church's financial encumbrances.

Dr. Dames has setved this congregation with an increasing sense of satisfaction. As a result of his untiring efforts on their behalf, his officials have voted him a leave of absence to take effect the beginning of the next conference year.

Dr. Dames has the unanimous endorsement of the entire Fifth District for the office of bishop in 1944. This year his church makes the greatest annual conference report of its history. He and Mrs. Dames, his accomplished wife, will be visiting a few of the eastern conferences during their brief vacation.

★ MASONIC NEWS

By EDGAR HAMPTON

Last Saturday evening, the Nobles of Egyptian Temple enjoyed a charcoal broiled steak dinner along with the rousing welcome home of their imperial officer, Past Potentate Noble Joe L. Oliver, who attended the 42nd session of the Imperial Council of the Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine which convened in Wilmington, Delaware.

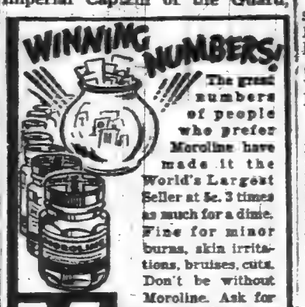
The Nobles were thrilled to learn that Noble Oliver was unanimously elected Imperial Assistant Rabbam Egyptian Temple is very proud of its Imperial officer, who made the longest trip of any delegate o the Imperial Council. The convention had many highlights which continue to prove the Negro's loyalty to his country.

One day was set aside by the Imperial Potentate, Raymond E. Jackson, for the sale of War Bonds. The goal was set to reach $25,000. Several Wilmington department stores allowed the delegates to take over the sale of War Bonds and Stamps for a four-hour period.

A resolution petitioning the President of the United States for greater protection of Negroes in the armed forces and war industries, from discrimination, abuse, neglect and wanton waste of life and morale, was passed by the Imperial Council. Imperial Potentate Raymond E. Jackson asserted that it is about time the darker races of the world are given an opportunity to enjoy the democracy of which they have heard so much, but of which they have thus far obtained so little. A program of cooperative effort for the welfare of Negroes generally is being developed by the Shrine in conjunction with the other fraternal organizations.

Governor Walter W. Bacon, of Delaware, extended greetings and said there are inequalities and needed improvements, but emphasized that they must come through orderly procedure. He also expressed his confidence that the Negro people will give their best effort in the support of the war effort and victory.

First prize honors in the drill competition went to Medina Temple No. 19, of New York City, commanded by Captain William Green. Mecca Temple No. 10 of Washington, D. C., won second honors, and the patrol of Suakim Temple of Wilmington, Del., won the third prize. How fortunate for Medina Temple that Egyptian Temple's patrol was unable to be there.



The next session of the Imperial Council will be in Chicago, Ill.

The following officers were elected to the Imperial Council for the next fiscal year: Imperial Potentate, Raymond E. Jackson, Buffalo, N. Y.; Deputy Imperial Potentate, Zack Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.; Imperial Chief Rabban, A. McKay, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Imperial Assistant Rabban, Joseph L. Oliver, Los Angeles; Imperial Treasurer, Charles D. Freeman, Washington, D. C.; Imperial Recorder, Charles C. Quander, New York City; Imperial H. P. P., Joseph W. Givens, Petersburg, Pa.; Imperial Oriental Guide, John L. Hubert, Wilmington, Del.; First Ceremonial Master, Benjamin H. Lee, Philadelphia, Pa.; Imperial Second Ceremonial Master, William A. Kelly, Buffalo, N. Y.; Imperial Captain of the Guard, Charles F. Cunningham, Richmond, Va.; and Imperial Outer Guard, William H. Jones, Chicago, Ill.

The convention and also the session of the Imperial Court Daughters of Isis, which were held concurrently ended with a grand ball at the state armory with music furnished by Andy Kirk's orchestra.

Egyptian Temple is looking forward to a visit by the Imperial Treasurer Noble Charles C. Freeman. Most of us associate Noble Freeman with the very fine contribution he made to the Shrine during its litigation in the United States Supreme Court.

You are requested to attend "Blue Lodge" meeting tonight.

Chapman College President Will Speak at Avalon

GEORGE N. REEVES, president of Chapman college at Whittier, who will occupy the pulpit of the Avalon Christian church on Sunday morning, Sept. 13. His subject will be "Christian Education and Tomorrow's World."

HUGH R. JACKSON

Hugh R. Jackson, of the Office of Civilian Defense, Washington, D. C., will give the principal address at the closing dinner session of the Conference on Childhood and Youth, Sept. 28-29, at the Ambassador hotel.

The purpose of the conference is to enroll all community sources in the development of a definite plan to care for all children during the war. Special attention will be paid the immediate community problems of juvenile delinquency. The meetings are open to the public with the exception of the dinner and luncheon sessions for which rservations must be made.

ERNEST A. THOMPSON, 56-year old clerk in the Adjutant General's office of the Headquarters, Ninth Service Command, who will leave his desk at Fort Douglas on Sept. 15, after 34 years of service dedicated to the U. S. Army. The day will also mark the end of Thompson's career in the army. Failing health has caused the loyal and soft-spoken public servant to leave the service.

Midnight Ghost Show Coming to Lincoln

Great mysteries will be unfolded and ghosts will walk the night of Sept. 19, at the Lincoln theatre, when Francisco brings his Spook Frolic for a special midnight performance.

This unusual stage performer seems to have an army of spirits at his command, for they write on slates for him, read sealed letters, and whisper their contents to him, toss bells out of cabinets while he is securely tied, paint spirit pictures, and make themselves generally useful about the place.

Francisco has traveled thruout America with his show, presenting it in nearly all the larger cities with great success. It is said to be the only show of its kind, as he presents th outstanding feats of celebrated spirit mediums. He also promises to show mystery feats from all parts of the world, including the Hindu turban trick as he saw it presented in India.

The NAACP has forty days from the date of the conviction, Aug. 11, to prepare the appeal. Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, and other lawyers are awaiting the transcipt of testimauy in the first trial to begin work on the case.

AME Patrons, Patronesses Surprised

One of the most surprised meetings of the Patrons and Patronesses club of the AME church was recorded Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis, 1413 E. 90th street.

Mrs. Minnie Tucker, president of the club, led the way into the beautiful summer garden. The garden was very unique; it consisted of vegetables, fruits, and flowers of all varieties. The garden was so beautiful and interesting that the club's business was suspended.

Twenty-five members were present besides the guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Burt, W. L. Martin, J. D. Dunn, and Rev. F. D. Jordan.

The host and hostess served the most delicious repast, consisting of barbecued spare ribs, southern fried chicken, with all the trimmings, and an unending supply of hot rolls. Everyone enjoyed themselves. S. L. Marshall is the reporter.

And glory in the larger deed,
Which smooths the road and lights the day.
For all who chance to come my way.—Edgar A. Guest.

Hargrove, Mrs. Grayson to Head Coming Chest Appeal

John E. Hargrove and Mrs. Garner V. Grayson have accepted appointments to head the coming Community Chest annual appeal here, it was announced today by Harry L. Masser, executive vice president of the Southern California Gas company, new volunteer general chairman of the campaign.

New territory which will be covered under the jurisdiction of Hargrove and Mrs. Grayson is Division 47, which extends from Santa Barabara to 54th street, and from Main to McKinley avenue. It is planned that Mrs. Grayson will take charge of solicitation here. The original and remaining territory lies, generally, between Olympic and Slauson, Main and Alameda streets, with Hargrove acting as "over-all" leader in both areas.

Both leaders have long been active in community service on the Eastside. Mrs. Grayson, who resides at 1749½ S. Normandie avenue, is a member of the First AME church, at 8th and Towne avenue; secretary of the Outdoor Life and Health association, noted for its work for the tubercular at Duarte; and chairman of the committee of management of the Woodlawn Young Women's Christian association, which receives Chest support.

Hargrove serves on the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association and the L. A. Urban league, both Chest agencies; is a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, is active in the Southeast Health association and the Baptist church, and is district representative of the Joint Council of Dining Car Employes.

Mrs. Anna B. Cleveland Entertains De Dona Girls

De Sal Leas Ye Dona Girls were delightfully entertained by Mrs. Anna Belle Cleveland with a buffet dinner Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Powell on W. 29th street.

The house was decorated with acacia and lilies. Each member was presented with red and white carnations which were the club coolrs. Mrs. Ruth Watkins and Harold Reed rendered several solos, accompanied by Miss Jean Morrow. Walter Johnson also rendered several piano solos. Champagne punch was served during the evening.

In the foreground are pictured Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshal as they appeared on the day of their Silver Weding Anniversary. Shown standing are Mrs. Lillian Beryman, matron of honor, from Kansas City, Mo., Lilla M. Godley and Mrs. Mabel Bates Jones, matron. The picture was taken in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall Celebrate 25th Wedding Date

On Sunday, Sept. 6, 1942, 25 years to the day, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall celebrated their 25th, or silver wedding anniversary.

This marked 25 years of marital bliss and the Marshalls commemorated it in just such a fashion. The day started just as it did 25 years ago. A double ring ceremony was held at Second Baptist church, and as Mr. and Mrs. Marshall re-exchanged vows the same bridal party, who witnessed this beautiful ceremony 25 years ago, were present on this Sunday, r score and five years later. The bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, bride and groom; Mrs. Lillian Berryman of Kansas City, Mo., was matron of honor, and William Gaines of Los Angeles was the best man.

During the ceremony Mrs. Margaret Pett sang "O Promise Me" and "Because." Rev. J. Raymond Henderson admitted the vows. Mrs. Marshall wore all white with an orchid corsage.

After the church ceremonies the day was further celebrated with a gala reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall. The house was decorated with beautiful garden flowers, which were strewn about, giving an air of freshness and sweetness. Many beautiful gifts were received from friends of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall who are living in numerous states throughout the country.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Beatrice Sellers, Mrs. Barbara Davis, Mrs. William Snell, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., who served as introductress, and Mrs. Grant Burnside, who registered the guests.

Among the many guests who were present were Mrs. Dorothy Booker, Mrs. Mable Bates Jones, Edward Booker jr., Edward Booker sr., Essie Hill, Corodah Snyers, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Charles, John Hill, Lillian Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. John Griffith, Grant Burnside, Bismark Ferris, Alitta Attins, Rita Harris, Blanche Groggs, and Miss Jessie Mae Brown.

Miss Lenecia Boggs gave out souvenirs.

I don't intend to forget you—
New symphonies will crash about your ears,
New stars will be born to live in your eyes,
And new candles will be lit at the altar of your soul,
Another hand will hold yours whilst resuming those strolls in moonwashed meadows,
No, I don't intend to forget—
(But let's enjoy these things now, just in case!)

Airmailed notes that must be gotten off to you: Westy Schulberg, who used to drag us outve our respectable Westside bed in the still of the California nite and haunt smoke-filled, rhythm-jumpin' Hollywood clubs, drinking coffee and brandy to stay alive, has just popped into Noo Yawk town, from his remote movie lot. He is, I'm afraid, still rarin' to go. So we'll bust our mutual vests and be on hand for the Monday nite opening of just-outve-LA Lee and Lester Young's band who will swing out at Cafe Society Downtown for a spell . . . well, no foolin', it'll be nice seeing those lads again.

Gwen and Sinky Bourne, who had such a gay fling of it on the West coast a few seasons or more and had folk falling—kerplunk!—in love with 'em, are Epecting A Lil Bourne in February, here in NY. I don't envy them their project of selecting god-parents, for they know more folk from here to there than Dies does likely Reds . . . Altho we missed his persistent jingle-jangle on our phone, Billy Strayhorn, who was here a few merrie nights from Chi, sashayed on back and none of us as much had a peep at the guy. We'll see him either somewhere along the dusty road, or draped over the Dunbar bar on Central avenoo . . . Add names to those who will lure the public into Madison Sq. to see a giant benefit for the Army: Hank Armstrong, who will sing, much to the printed astonishment of a dozen or so Bway columnists. Well, we'll be on hand, too.

Success Story: Clara Cassell, efficient, worthy, dependable and capable . . . I still do a flash-back to Dunham's dancers doing their torrid boogie each time I hear an all-out piano boogie woogie! And this may catch Dunham's eye, then it may not, but local folk still recall, but admirably, her shapely gams . . . Ran into Jay Clifford t'other p. m. Jay still holds his own. We both fell to wondering whatever had become of Joe Trent, than which there is no whicher . . . In town: Midge Williams . . . In case you've vaguely wondered, the let's-have-a-baby fashion is going great guns in the East, as well! . . . Charlie Bland, of Detroit, wishes to be remembered to Rosetta Cooper and her hubby . . . Musing: Wonder if Meredith Carter-Hatcher, now that she's a dashing divorcee, will make good her persistent idea to safari East and be a woiking gal? . . .

Concert piano artist and music prof Bill Allen (Bob's brother) was in NY last week. Was good seeing him again. He's hied himself back to Nashville after a Big Town rondelay . . . Before snow sets in, there's a strong chance of a prominent LA family packing up and moving East to NY to live . . . Tell me, is Gordon Croques still footloose and fancy-free in Oakland? We hear Uncle Sam got him . . . Wedding anniversary observing on the 25th: The Trezz Andersons. He was in LA a few years back, doing a complete job of upsettin' folks with his folding long-green, et al . . .

What's this we hear about LA's AWVS??? . . . Tues. is Jack Carr's birthday, so Ruby Elzy is whipping up a 4-star blitz of a surprise for her deep-throated hubby which should be a wow. Which is fine cause for us to drop everything and go tearing over to their place for the expected hilarity. Will tell ya about it . . . Mrs. Todd Duncan and her son, Chas., are in NY. He enters Dartmouth this month. When "Porgy and Bess" plays the Biltmore in '43, she'll join hubby Todd for the run . . . come to think of it, think we'll link our arm in hers and attend the forthcoming football benefit. She'd like that . . .

I dunno what I'll do for my well-dressed list this coming season! Guess it'll be a list of who looks the best in his uniform . . . Highest paid and the busiest quartet in NY: 4 Ink Spots . . . We joined the mob who packed onto NY's Central Pk. Mall last Tues. nite to see Dean Dixon conduct the Pepsi-Cola band. Twas our first time to see young Dixon handl his famous baton, and it was memorable indeed. Dressed in white, he made a commanding figure, altho we didnt think much of the selection of numbers alloted him. Definitely made you feel grand inside to see this young brownskin up there ably directing a full-blown and important orchestra of concert men! NY is quite aware of Dixon, in case you've wondered. And he's not only On His Way—he's arrived! . . . oyes, Robeson was on the program, too.

Must look into this: We've just been told Calif. is at the tail end of the nation's age-scale. 39% of our sunkist residents are under 25 . . . well, waddayaknow . . . and we just took Ed Hall's word for the fact Ruby, Colo. has the most snow. 467 inches is a year's average. "Really?" we murmured politely, picking up our beer. 467 inches of snow in Colorado somehow doesnt excite us, when we will mosey on to Calif. and settle for some inches of sun . . . Ed's a right nice guy, too, and so het up over statistics—task, tsk . . . NY is laying ten on youru one that the identity of the successor to dismissed-from-the-Urban League J. H. Hubert will be a total surprise, and from outve town.

NY is also getting ready to bid bon voyage to the group of tan tone nurses who will be ferried overseas via the Red Cross way of thinking . . . Dick Hough is on a fling about the land, hoping to wind up in Calif. providing the busy Dawn, Day and Dusk trio accept that Hollywood offer . . . You'd be amused as well as faintly surprised at the bull'seye flash of gossip between LA and NY! News travels faster over these 2900-odd miles than any mail plane, by cracky! It's worth scratching your head over, no kidding . . .

Aside to PFR . . . Thanx so much, really, but I'm too dog-gone busy having a merrie time in this hectic life of ours to be even briefly interested in what So 'n So is doing, and with whom, when I rightly figure its none of my business in this col. or outve this col. And I don't iron out these weely items to settle any feud betwixt folk, either, so you're out all 'rund, bub. An' how ARE you, anyhow.

LADIES SOCIAL OF '42 HOLD BUSINESS MEET

The Ladies Social club of '42 met at the home of the president, Mrs. Doshia Brown, on East 41 street, Thursday evening, Sept. 3. As this was the first meeting of the month, business was the topic of the evening. All business was orderly carried out. The club was pleased to have three of its members, Mmes. Leona Yates, Doshia Brown, and Ella Price back after a week's visit in Sacramento, and were delighted to know that they had a perfect trip. A lovely evening was enjoyed by all when Mrs. Gladys Whitfield,969 East 35 street, entertained the Ladies Social of '42' with a sea food supper and all the goodies that go with it to complete a fine time. At the previous social meeting the club was delighted to have Mrs. Emma McGruder as a visitor, who also became a member. The club motto is "Help Thy Neighbor." Please send all communications to 694 East 48th street, Mrs. Leona Yates.

With J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Since Sailor Jack Coggins has been listening to words of advice from Barney Ross, former boxing great, but now of the navy and stationed in San Diego, he has won the California state light-heavyweight crown, and is a top attraction in the booming coast city . . . Jimmy McDaniels, one of the nation's best tennis players, went to the finals of the Municipal tourney, lost, but over the week-end bagged the Western Federation of Tennis Clubs coast championships on the Ross Snyder Playground courts . . . Jackie Robinson, former Pasadena jaysee and UCLA all-round athlete, has been in town on six-days furlough from Ft. Riley, Kansas. Understand he's going to play some Army football, which is good news . . . John Thomas still has the experts guessing as to how good he is. He took 10 straight rounds from Petey Scalzo, former featherweight ruler, and Friday night at Hollywood Legion stadium duplicated the routine with Toby Vigil, pupil of prominent George Blake, the victim. The match held promise of being a stellar boxing exhibition featuring two great boxers. Instead, it was a one-man show, with Long John the THE star . . .

State Slates Exams for Auditors

Announcement is made by Wm. G. Bonelli, fourth district member of the State Board of Equalization, that an examination for auditors to fill vacancies in the auditing staff of the board, will be held on Oct. 3 at Los Angeles and San Diego, for the Southern California area.

The examination is open to citizens of the United States residing in California for at least one year, who have had experience in general accounting and auditing.

Successful applicants will be classified as Auditors, Grade 1, with an entrance salary of $160 per month and may qualify to take promotional examinations for higher classifications as they are announced.

Bulletins, giving more detailed information on the examination, as well as application blanks which must be filed with the State Personnel Director not later than Sept. 21, may be obtained from the Personnel Board offices in Los Angeles and San Diego.

"As all examinations for state civil service positions are under the jurisdiction of the State Personnel Board," Bonelli said, those interested in the examination should direct their inquiries to that organziation and not to the State Board of Equalization."

Citizens Ask Shake-up at Jefferson

We, the Citizens Defense committee, in the interest and welfare of the Eastside and South Los Angeles (Watts) come to the public for an "all out" fight on the action of the Los Angeles City Board of Education's action in ignoring your request that Mr. C. A. Dickinson be removed as principal of Jefferson day school; that a Negro vice principal, a Negro counselor and more Negro teachers be added to the teaching staff of Jefferson, and that a Negro principal of the Jefferson Evening school be appointed and Negro teachers be paid from tax money instead of WPA funds. Ninety-five per cent of the students he attend the evening school are Negroes and all th board paid teachers are white with the principal teaching day school, principal of Jefferson and 111th Evening school. "Will we on the Eastside stand this another year?"

We asked that Mr. E. Manfred Evans be removed from the area because of his attitude toward Negroes and we have been informed that he will continue his work in this area. " Will we allow this czar to continue to discriminate against the people in the area as he did in the defense classes?"

FRED W. VALENTINE

Youngest Embalmer

Fred W. Valentine, an EAGLE newsboy for the last 8 years, is the youngest Negro to ever receive an embalmer's license in California. He was the only Negro in the class of 23 students graduating from the California College of Mortuary Science last June and succeeded in passing the California State Board for an embalmer's license with a general average of 88.8, in San Francisco, June 29 and 30. Fred is the son of Mrs. Effie Adkins of Pasadena.

All of Pasadena is proud of this 23-year old young man who served his apprenticeship under the direction of his uncle, James Woods, and is now employed by him.

L. A. PRIVATE AT CAMP WOLTER REHEARSES MUSICAL REVUE

CAMP WOLTER, Texas, Sept. 10.—Pvt. Francois Andre of Los Angeles, who arrived at Camp Wolter early in May, is making notable success towards his military career. In addition to his regular duties, Pvt. Andre, in his spare time is preparing a musical revue for Area Six.

Before his enlistment into the army, Pvt. Andre was the director of several dance groups in Hollywood. In view of the fact that he has many years of experience in this field, he is making all efforts to stick close to his entertaining profession. His comedy sketches and dance arrangements are all entirely new. Inspired ideas to construct these numbers were derived from various sources. The camp is looking forward to this treat which will make its debut in the early part of July.

Prairie View Scholarship Dance a Success

The 10th annual Scholarship Dance of the Prairie View College Alumni club, which was held on Tuesday night, Aug. 25, was a smashing success, according to reports from the office of Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, president of the Los Angeles chapter of th club.

This affair, held every year and sponsored by the club for the purpose of raising funds for scholarships for needy students, is rapidly growing to be one of the outstanding events of the year.

Hundreds of friends, and well-wishers of the club attended and such stellar lights as the Nicholas Brothers, famous dancers; the Three Chocolateers, and other stars and near stars of stage and screen were present and entertained the huge crowd. Clarence Muse, perennial master of ceremonies, was in charge of the occasion

Prairie View college, the largests Negro land grant college in America, boasts of an imposing array of local graduates and former students, among whom are Wm. McDonough Pushes Old-Age Plan

Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough will tomorrow (Friday, Sept. 11) urge the State Supervisors association to support his request that old-age pension recipents be permitted to earn additional money without deduction from their monthly check.

In carrying his plea to the state association, McDonough will be enlisting the support of boards of supervisors in the 58 counties of California.

He declared he would also urge support of his recent plea to the State Department of Social Welfare to discontinue the practice of deducting the interest received annually by old-age pension recipients on their small bank savings.

"Many of these people would like to do a little work and there are many opportunities," said McDonough,

Mass Meet for BTW Launching

The committee for the launching of the Booker T. Washington, the ship that will slide out of the Cal-Ship yards on Sept. 30, is planning a giant civic, patriotic mass meeting for Sept. 27, at the Second Baptist church at which Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune will be the honored guest. If it is possible, Mrs. Bethune will remain in this city until Sept. 30 for the launching at which Marian Anderson, and possibly Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will also be present.

Comedians and Leading Men in Football Game

The Comedians-Leading Men football game is scheduled for the Memorial Coliseum here Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18, it was announced this week.

Dr. A. H. Giannini, general chairman of the USO and Mount Sinai Hospital sponsored event, has given his assurance that most all of the big name stars of stage, screen and radio will participate in the event.

Clarence Muse, noted screen and radio player, and singer, is included in the list of notable sponsors.

A mammoth "parade of the stars and Allied Nations" under the direction of Dave J. Malloy, famous parade and pageant director, will start off festivities for the day, it is learned.

Booker Beats Bobby Birch

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—Eddie Booker, of San Francisco, successfully defended his newly won California state middleweight championship here last Friday night by pounding out a 12-round decision over Bobby Birch in a hard fought, mauling battle. Both battlers tipped the scales at 159 pounds.

Southeast Health Association Acts to Curb Disease

The Southeast District Health Association's special committee on venereal disease held its first big meeting Friday night, Sept. 4, in the Southeast Polyclinic, under the chairmanship of John Hargrove of the Brotherhood of Dining Car Waiters.

"This problem is one which concerns every man and woman in the nation," Hargrove told his hearers. Reports on progress were made by committees and fuuture plans were discussed. As an extra attraction motion pictures were shown. These new sound films, made in Hollywood studios with prominent actors offering a frank discussion of the problem of venereal disease control, followed the committee reports.

These films will later be made available for use by local groups to be shown at lodge, church,union and other meetings, without charge.

Russ Blunt New Florida Head Coach

SAINT AUGUSTINE, Fla., Sept. 10.—Russell Blunt, former all-CIAA tackle and head line coach at Southern university, has accepted the position of head coach at Florida Normal and Industrial institute, at Saint Augustine, Florida.

Coach Blunt goes to Florida Normal with an enviable record, both as a player and mentor—winning three and four letters at Saint Paul Industrial school and Bluefield State Teacher's college, respectively. These honors were received in football, basketball, baseball and track.

It is expected that the Florida Normal Lions will continue their winning streak and again become the national junior college champions for the second consecutive year, under the tutelage of Coach Blunt, who has starred under Harry Jefferson and Jimmy Moore with the "Big Blues" and made a national reputation as line coach with A. W. Mumford at Southern, turning out undefeated teams for the last two years.

Getting his fundamental in sports from expert white coaches at Andover (Mass.) High school where he was captain of football and basketball, Coach Blunt received further training at St. Augustine college, Raleigh, N. C., as assistant coch, and at Temple university, Philadelphia. He replaces Coach Hinson at Florida Normal, who is now football mentor at Georgia Normal at Albany, Ga.

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Mex.—Generalissimo Walter Marty again gave the fans, who are lovers of the sport of Kings, two big gala days of racing at beautiful Caliente, Mex. They came from the far Northern parts of the State as well as from Southern California. It was the first time in years that Caliente had races on Labor Day, and a big crowd turned out for both days.

The twenty-four races that had been arranged by racing secretary Judge Joe Walters were some of the best in many months. Close finishes marked most of the events. Form players as well as the boys that like to take a chance on box-car figures had their share of winners. Director of racing and presiding steward Judge George Shilling has completed the stkes' races for next month, with the closing of long acres at Seattle, Wash., some of the best horses on the Coast will ship to Caliente at oncee. Many new features are on tap for the fans in the near future. Riding honors for the two big days were stolen by the little Italian jockey, Charlie Bianco, who brought in five winners on Labor Day. The longest priced horse to win was Facilius, who won the last race of the day's sport at one mile and six furlongs, setting a new track record of 3:01-2/5, paying $35.20 with the Quinella paying $65.00, while the popular daily-double paid $50.20

Well, this Sunday another fine card of twelve races will be run with the boy and girl jockeys meeting in the feature race of the day. So far since this novel event was staged at Caliente, the girls have it on the boys in races won . Three other features will suport this novel race.

So, fan, that's the news from South of the border down Mexico way for this week. Could tell you plenty mo.., but I am late this week with my column, so that means I must hurry along —So, keep smiling, have a little fun, and, above all things, put some of your money in U. S. war stamps and bonds. Not just ten percent, but all you can spare. Remember, big interest in return, freedom for all. Remember, a Jap is a Jap. So we can't afford to nap. Keep them flying high and wide. We got to turn this great war tide. So long. .Geo.

Zurita Meets Hatcher at Legion

Jimmy Hatcher, young lightweight who boasts an impressive, though short, string of sensational ring victories, tackles Juan Zurita, of Mexico, tomorrow night in the main event at Hollywood Legion stadium. The bout is billed for 10 rounds.

Machinists Sought for War Industry

A drive to recruit trained machinists from among the Southland's more than 50,000 Negro workers was launched today under direction of Clarence Johnson, War Manpower Commission Negro employment representative.

Prompted by urgent appeals from local war production plants for skilled mechanics, Johnson asked all journeyman Negro machinists not now employed in defense work to register at his office in the Western Pacific building in Los Angeles.

"Many a technically trained man is pushing a broom when he could be operating a lathe or working at the drafting table," Johnson said.

"Several large defense employers in Southern California have awakened to this fact recently and in the course of surveying their personnel for hidden skills have upgraded a considerable number of employees who had been hired as janitors instead of mechanics trained in shortage fields."

Johnson said he is cooperating with local employers who have sent out a hurry-up call for experienced machinists to man key tools and keep military contracts rolling uninterruptedly.

'Cannot Rejoice Over Plight of Evacuees' -- Rev. Caston

On the historic occasion of the Trinity Baptist church holding initial services in property built for Japanese Christians on Normandie at 35th street, the pastor, Dr. Jonathan L. Caston, in referring to the enforced evacuation of American citizens of Japanese descent, stirred his hearers when he said very forcefully:

"We cannot rejoice over the plight of American citizens of Japanese ancestry, who have been forced to leave this beautiful and most useful site. It is unfortunate, indeed, that we could find no other way of handling this problem.

"One shudders to think that what has happened to this minority group, some of whom knew no other home and were our friends, might upon occasion be done to any other minority in America. I feel this matter very deeply and am aware that something fine has gone from our concept of democracy. We are all aliens by extraction. We found only the American Indian here.

"Nevertheless, we do rejoice that sinc this course has been followed, we of Trinity church are able to put this fine plant to the uses for which it was built. We consider ourselves fortunate and are humbled by the sacred trust this opportunity brings."

Dr. Caston's sermon topic was "The Spirit-filled Church, God's Earthly Dwelling Place."

The sanctuary of the new church seats 600 persons exclusive of the balcony, and as one worshipper was heard to say, "This church is packed and jammed to the rafters."

The senior choir, under the baton of minister of music, Marguerite Hoard, was equal to the occasion. Earl J. Pleasant, new director of the Celestial Choristers, took two lead parts. Other solos were done by Mesdames Thelma Taylor, Vera Romby, Mrs. Caston was at the organ. Hannah Dix and Esther Garland. Guest soloist was Mrs. Anna Miller.

Dr. James E. Dunning, executive secretary of the Church Extension board of the Methodist Church, in a few well chosen words wished the Trinity church great success and presented the keys to Paul H. Cassell, chairman of the trustee board.

The chancel of the church is pre-possessing and the church must be rated as Los Angeles' most beautiful Negro church. It was the mecca for hundreds who thronged the two buildings from early morning until the evening service was concluded. In the afternoon, one of the 50 clubs of the church sponsored an "open-house tea" under the leadership of Al Johnson and Ellee Jones. The evening sermon was delivered by the Rev. H. N. Mays and announcement was made that evening worship will be held each Sunday at 7:45. Many floral tributes were sent to the church by individuals and business firms.

REV. CLAYTON D. RUSSELL

Rev. Russell Returns to Pulpit

The community will this Sunday hail the return of Rev. Clayton D. Russell of the Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma.

Rev. Russell, who has been enjoying a month's vacation—his first in three years, will occupy his pulpit on Sunday and will address his vast audience from the subject, "Let My People Go." He will also present the usual program, "The Visitor," at the regular hour, 10:15 to 10:45, station KFOX.

Rev. Russell's return presages more militant activity on the part of the Negro community under his courageous, efficient leadership.

Harmony Baptist Lists Services

Harmony Baptist church, 327 E. 42nd street, "the friendly church around the corner," C. Allen Hemphill, pastor. We praise God from whom all blessings flow. A spirit worship was had Sunday at Harmony; the pastor was at his very best. There were visitors from Dallas, Texas, S. C. Hawkins jr., Charlie Mae and Harriet Hawkins; Mrs. Garner, Rosina Garner, Danny Andrews, of Los Angeles; and Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes of Shreveport, La.

Holy Communion sermon by Rev. Hayes. Sunday, Sept. 13, Rev. F. Webb, our assistant pastor, will preach at 11:30 a. m. Sunday night, 7:45 o'clock, Rev. S. C. Hawkins will bring the message. S. S. and BYPU as ususal; come and bring a friend.

Epochal Meeting Closes First AME Church Year

An epoch-marking church conference closed what members of long standing in the First AME church, 801 Towne avenue, pronounced as the most brilliant year in the history of that great church. Dr. Frederick D. Jordan presided, while representatives of all the organizations and departments made their reports.

A high point of the meeting came when the Women's Mite Missionary society, of which Mrs. A. W. Jordan is the president, reported over $1000 raised during the conference year. This is the largest amount raised by any society in the local church thruout the entire country.

Another evidence of the broad vision of the church administration came in the announcement of the establishment of the Wilson-Andrews Foundation for charity. This fund, established through the initiative of Mrs. Daisy Wilson as a memorial to her husband and mother, bids fair to become a significant instrument of social welfare in the community. Several hundred dollars have already been raised as the nucleus of the fund.

In summing up the year's work, Dr. Jordan called attention to an increase of membership of 150. Conference funds for the general work of the denomination totaled $3200. Total funds raised by the church during the conference year approximated $20,000, of which the aggregate balances at the close of the conference year amounted to nearly $3000. A thousand dollars of this amount is a sinking fund invested in United States Defense Bonds and other securities. The purpose of this fund is the building of an educational and social service unit addition to the church when the war is over.

Bishop Noah W. Williams, presiding bishop of the district, making what he referred to as his first appearance in a private official meeting of a local church since his election to the bishopric 11 years ago, addressed the conference. In inspiring words and stirring pictures, Bishop Williams set forth the history and genius of African Methodism.

Numerous tributes were paid Dr. and Mrs. Jordan by the various organizations, officers, and members of the church for the devotion and efficiency with which the work of the church has been prosecuted under his administration.

The Rev. E. S. Foust, recently assigned pastor of the AME church, Reno, Nevada, will preach at the morning worship Sunday. Rev. Foust, a graduate of Bishop Williams School of Religion at Western university, Kansas City, Kansas, was a Sabbath School pupil in Quinn chapel, Louisville, Ky., when Bishop Williams was pastor of that congregation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, is this verse from the Psalms: "Thy name, O Lord, endureth for ever; and thy memorial, O Lord, throughout all generations." The subject is "Substance."

The healing of a man "lame from his mother's womb . . . whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;" is given in the Lesson-Sermon from Acts. The account continues: "And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him with John, said, Look on us. And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them. Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God."

Mary Baker Eddy says in a citation from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Christian Science declares that Mind is substance, also that matter neither feels, suffers, nor enjoys. Hold these points strongly in view. Keep in mind the verity of being,—that man is the image and likeness of God, in whom all being is painless and permanent."

Rev. Morris to Speak in S. M. Church

Next Sunday, Rev. Charles Satchell Morris will occupy the pulpit of the Calvary Baptist church, 20th street, Santa Monica, of which the Rev. Welford P. Carter is pastor, who also serves as executive secretary of the Western Baptist State convention.

At the morning worship services he will speak from the theme: "The Unknown God nad How to Know Him," while in the evening he will give his stirring message on "The Spirit of Christ in Acation." Many visitors are expected from Los Angeles, Venicee, and other points.

Rev. Morris will be accompanied by his wife who is a prominent local business woman. This will mark his third appearance at the Calvary church where he has always been greeted by large throngs. Last December he brought the annual Christmas message to hundreds of members of the church and friends.

GEORGE N. REEVES

George N. Reeves, president of Chapman College at Whittier, will occupy the pulpit of Avalao Christian church on Sunday morning, Sept. 13. His subject will be "Christian Education and Tomorrow's World."

Reeves has just recently closed a six-year pastorate at the First Christian church of Pomona and has come to the presidency of Chapman college. His message will include many fine points, stressing the importance of education for efficient service.

This is the first time that Reeves has appeared to speak at a local church. A large congregation is expected to hear him. He will be assisted in the pulpit by Bennie Shaw, youthful theologian and active assistant to Baxter C. Duke, minister.

Girls' Day at Second Baptist

Sunday will mark the 10th annual Woman and Girls' Day at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith avenue. Speakers of the day will be Misses Marion Patterson and Doris Garrison. These two young women are both talented and versatile.

There will be a large chorus of young women and girls, directed by Mrs. Bernice Burns.

The program for the evening will be miscellaneous and pleasing. It will be a musical treat that you cannot afford to miss.

The principal workers for the day are: Consuelo Van Vactor, chairman; Jessie Mae Brown, co-chairman; Sara Johnson, program chairman; and Mrs. Minnie Waites, advisor.

The chairman and her co-workers are urging that you be in attendance to help make this an outstanding day in the history of our girls' days.

Baptist Temple Grows Fast

The Baptist temple, 620 E. 48th street, is growing rapidly under the leadership of Dr. J. C. Sweeney. Many of his former members from Dallas, Texas, and other parts of Texas worshipped at the Baptist temple Sunday. The Baptist temple has a drive on for new members. Since the church owes nothing on its new building, the members are working prayerfully to save souls. The public is invited to worship with us Sunday.

ARE YOU 3-A IN THE DRAFT?

If so, your chances of being called into active service is not likely. Since you cannot become a member of the United States Army. You will be doing your part by enlisting in the 7th Regiment of the California State Guards. Being a member of the Reserves does not interfere with your work. And you will be called out only when invasion by the enemy seems imminent.

ARE YOU IN CLASS 1-A OR 1-B?

Those of you in Class 1-A may be inducted into the army at any time. You should enlist in the Reserves of the 7th Regiment California State Guards, so that you will know something about this man's army in advance. In the State Guards you have a chance for promotion and the training you get in the 7th Regiment will help you when you become a member of the U. S. armed forces. Learn now and you have a chance of becoming a non-commissioned officer when your number is called. Join the 7th Regiment.

"Great men are not always wise: neither do the aged understand judgment."—Job 32:9.

The Moment Is Crisis!

The war effort of the United States and of the United Nations is at a point of serious crisis today.

This crisis extends from the River Don to Washington, D. C. It is present at every military conference, at every civilian discussion of our war effort.

Our war crisis is seen in the continued absence of a second front in Western Europe. It is seen in unchecked outbursts of American pro-Fascist elements, Dies, Rankin, Talmadge, Dixon,—the whole rotten crew. It is seen in the suicidal policy of Britain in India. It is seen in the ability of an American Congress to ignore a clear demand by our country's people for a thorough-going war-time economic program, spreading the cost of this conflict equitably and preventing a wild increase in the cost of living.

On the banks of the River Don, gallant blood is let to pay for the crisis in our war effort, but the day fast approaches when the price of this crisis is extracted from every home in America.

Impressive—shocking—is the fact that this emergency is almost wholly the triumph, not of our enemy on the field of battle, but the accomplishment of his Fifth Column in our midst.

Who in the United Nations has opposed the establishment of a second front? It is clear: the friends of Hitler, the great Kings of wealth whose old prejudice against the Soviet has lead them into a bitter opposition to those military moves which would have—and can still—extricate the Russian armies from their Gethsemane in the Caucasus.

It is no longer neccessary to recite a lengthy argument upholding the military "feasibility" of a second front THIS YEAR. That, after all, was established upon the signing of the Roosevelt-Molotov agreements, after a searching military analysis. The commanding officers of the American forces on the British Isles have proclaimed their readiness to strike. Both U. S. and British shipping authorities have stated that an expeditionary army can be supplied. Add to this the statement of the National Maritime Union that our ships TODAY can supply that second front. Here, then, are all the elements that point logically to an immediate opening of a European theater of operations. There is: (1) A solemn, formal pledge by the British and American governments to the United Nations and their respective peoples; (2) The readiness of our armed forces in Britain, as evidenced by the statement of commanding officers; (3) The adequacy of shipping facilities. Coupled with these are other stark realities, Hitler's virtual stripping of Western Europe to complete his conquest of Southern Russia.

How can Hitler do this,knowing that an attack from the rear would knock him out of the war? How can any sane militarist place himself in such unspeakable peril?

We need not look far for an answer. to this query. Hitler himself is our informant. His own statement, in the infamous and horribly consistent bible of his world conquest, Mein Kampf, holds: "America is a nation permanently on the brink of revolution." America, he says, will be defeated from within. Hitler's faith in his U. S. Fifth Column has so far been vindicated. Great press services, specifically, United and Associated Press, along with Hearst's International News Service, have, over the past several months, employed every journalistic trick to shift emphasis from the major military decision of our age, have discovered extremely suspect—and consistently anonymous—"informed quarters" to spout the virus of anti-second front, anti-victory, pro-Hitler propaganda. On the day that the commander of Canadian troops in Britain urged immediate "offensive action," a major news service reported from England,. . . .there is no talk of a second front here." Last Sunday over a national radio network, a 'news commentator,' sponsored by THE FORD MOTOR CAR COMPANY, announced that a second front this year is not being considered by American military authorities. This in the face of the Roosevelt—Molotov agreements! Such deliberate, public lying in time of unprecedented national emergency amounts to nothing less than sedition. What the Ford spokesman announces as "not being considered" is the sworn policy of the United States government!

Dorothy Thompson, in her syndicated column, last week sounded the deep anxiety of millions of Americans when she asked how long would our nation tolerate the activities of open Fascists in high places. She named the Ford company in a group which included Senator Robert Reynolds, poll-taxer de luxe.

This is a Negro newspaper and is determined to view events of our day in particular relation to their effect upon this, our country's greatest and most cruelly oppressed minority. We say to our people that the absence of the second front, the increasingy and daringly exercised power of this nation's native Fascists today is a threat to our legitimate democratic aspirations bigger than any we have faced since Emancipation, for in these things stands the gaunt, real danger of a return to even more bitter and degrading enslavement.

There sits in the White House a man of the people. In this our of supreme emergency, his policies are the living embodiment of the needs of America's warring millions, black and white. But his Administration is subject to the bitter attack of every moneyed appeaser, of every mighty Fascist. Franklin Roosevelt has, however, one, all-important ally, the people., who must support the President's policies to the kilt and visit the rage of righteous indignation upon those who waylay them with vicious trickery. What are these Presidential policies demanding militant support by all our people? They are:

1—A Second Front in 1942.
2—Use of America's Industrial manpower without discrimination on the grounds of race (Executive Order 8802).
3—The Seven point economic (Control of wages, prices and profits) program.

So powerful is the pro-Fascist conspiracy against all of these measures that it will require all the force of common people everywhere to destroy this traitorous opposition.

The call for direct support of the American people has come sure and pointed from the chief executive himself in his great speech of Sept. 7. The president asks this support over and against those enemies of the national welfare who have obstructed each one of the primal policies listed above. Hear Franklin Roosevelt:

"We Americans of today bear the gravest of responsibilities. All of the United Nations share them.

"All of us here at home are being tested—for our fortitude, for our selfless devotion to our country and our cause."

And again our President sounds a clear warning to us when he threatens to take the national price, wage and profit stabilization program directly into his own hands if a politics-as-usual Congress continues delay enactment of his over-all program to halt the advance in our cost of living. He says:

In the event that Congress should fail to act, and act adequately, I shall accept the responsibility, and I will act.

"The President has the powers, under the Constitution and under congressional acts, to take measures to avert a disaster which would interfere with the winning of the war."

And again:

"The power of Germany must be broken on the battlefields of Europe. . . .

". . . . I can say now that all these decisions are directed toward taking the offensive."

At this moment of crisis, powers of Congress must be taken over by the chief executive because measures vital to victory are blocked and hamstrung by this country's highest legislative body. Does this mean, as Herr Hitler claims, that democratic government cannot work. Certainly not! Rule that is the will of the people will always work. That is our deep American faith. That is the cornerstone of the Negro struggle for democracy. It is precisely in that measure which the United States Congress is NOT reflective of the will of our people that Congress is an agency of defeat, a conclave of obstructionists.

Remember, this Congress whose disgraceful performance has brought such sharp rebuke from the President, boasts well over 100 poll taxers, whose constituencies have little or nothing to do with their election, and who, through ancient seniority rights, control fully fifty percent of Congressional committees. Let us also remember that it is this Congress which boasts such known fascists as Hamilton Fish, Martin Dies, and their stalwart supporter and comrade, the Right Honorable LELAND FORD.

At the polls in November, the American people perform an historic task. ..We can give to our country a weapon with which to forge a people's victory. ..We can clean from the halls of our capitol those who have disgraced and despoiled it. Citizens, this is OUR JOB!

★ SPEECH OF THE WEEK

By WILLIAM PICKENS

Colored Americans have a great deal of common sense—in the masses. There are many things to irritate and stir and annoy and upset them, and still most, or many of them keep their feet on the ground. Recently in the Forum, following our meeting in Rochester, New York, an intelligent woman got up and spoke as follows:

"The speaker has made a convert out of me. For some days I have been a traitor at heart—almost wishing that my country would lose this war. And why? Because I leraned of one foolish American who on a bus near Scranton had said, when he saw a colored woman, the only black person on the bus: 'If we were down where I came from, she wouldn't be riding there.' But I can see now that I was about to let one foolish and prejudiced individual drive me out of my whole heritage of the United States. It had never occurred to me the awful mistake I was making until today, after the speaker has told us that this is the most amazing democracy in the world or in human history; that it has the best constitution and laws, and the most practical equality of races and classes; that it has some of the worst people, of all races and colors, in it, but also some of the best people that ever lived anywhere at any time. And there I had been about to turn it all over to the Japanese just because I had run afoul of one of those foolish people. I am now changed in spirit and hope, and will look forward with sanity to our future and our descendants' future in these United States."

Just so you can write her yourself, I am going to give you that woman's name, as it was given to me by a person on the platform: Mrs. Harriet Amiger, 136½ Adams street, Rochester, N. Y.

The likes of that we have heard in many places. Recently in Wilmington, Delaware, after a local attorney had done his best to make our speech, which was to follow his, impossible by practically talking us down before we got up, and where he found a few minutes later that he had utterly failed inasmuch as the people reacted to commonsense just as heartily as if he had never spoken. Some of the young people followed us to the railway station, saying:

"Doctor, you have made us see something else. We have not been hearing about the things of which you speak, and have not been thinking about them. We have thought of our country's faults to the utter exclusion of its excellences, and about our wrongs to the utter exclusion of our opportunities — about the present with no regard to the longer future."

They began to see that the time to come is much longer, vaster and fuller than the time that is past. "You have made a convert out of me" does not mean that they have done an about face; they have only begun to see the rest of the picture of their own country and its destiny.

★ SPREADING JOY

By JOHN FOWLER

Last week Los Angeles celebrated her 161st birthday. I think we would do well to remember that on the memorable day, Sept. 4, 1781, the Sons and Daughters of Ham were predominant among the first settlers. No historian will attempt to deny the fact that 10 out of 22 adults were of Negro extraction, and that 16 out of 20 children were likewise of the same persuasion.

Early history tells us of the precise orderly manner in which the very formal occupation was carried out. "First came Sergeant Josie Navarre, carrying the image of our Lady of the Angeles, followed by Corporal Jose Venegas with the Holy Cross, and Private Luis Quintero bearing aloft the banner of Spain."

"Then came Governor De Neve and Father Crusady and Sanchez, attended by Indian acolytes, guards, friends, and settlers followed in slow procession. Circling the Plaza and approaching the arbor. When the altar had been prepared, mass was said. Governor De Neve addressed the little company and closed the ceremony of founding El Pueblo De Nuestro Senora Los Reina Los Angeles by ordering the house lots assigned to each of the settlers. A guard was stationed and camp made for the night."

Thus was founded one of America's greatest cties. It was ushered into existence with pomp and ceremony. Moreover, it knows who were its first landowners and where they lived. The original map can be seen in the tower of the City Hall.

The following account of the personnel and location of the founders was written by C. L. Willard in his history of Los Angeles.

"First, at the corner fronting New High Street came the house of Pablo Rodriguez, an Indian 25 years of age, his family consisting of an Indian wife and one child. Next, was the house of Jose Vangas, an Indian 28 years of age with an Indian wife and one child. He was the first to hold the office of Alcalde, or Mayor, in the Pueblo, being elected to that honor in 1788 and re-elected in 1796. Next to the house of Varegas, a narrow street cut at right angles to the Plaza front and then came the home of Jose Moreno, a mulatto, 22 years old, his wife, a mulattress. The fourth location on this street was taken by Felix Villaciencio, a Spaniard, 50 years old, with an Indian wife and five children. Antonia Mesa, a Negro, 35 years old with a mulattress wife and five children. At the east corner was another 'L' shaped lot taken by Basillio Rosas, an Indian 68 years of age, married to a mulattress with six offsprings. Coming now to the front, now corresponding to upper Main street was, first, Alejandro Rosas, an Indian, 19 years old whose wife is described as a "Coyote Indian" and then the home of Antonio Navarre, a mestizo, i.e., Spanish-Indian, whose wife was a mulattress with three children. And lastly, the home of Manuel Camero, a mulatto, aged 39, with a mulatto wife and no children. He was elected regido, or councilman in 1789."

Let no one tell you that we have never had a Negro councilman in Los Angeles.

The other day, I stood in front of the old Triumvirium Hall on Main street between Third and Fifth sterets, erected in 1893. Here the samrt set of 40 years ago used to hold their swanky dances. Mrs. Cora Buck will tell you about the Odd Fellows' annual ball and handsome Lottie Lucas, Ella Thornton, and Laura Brown, belles of that period.

The old place is used as a gym now, and the most of the present day fighters train there. I wonder if anyone present remembers the night Baby Blue fought Joe Walcott? As I remember the newspaper account of the ending, Joe caught Baby on the point of the chin with one he brought all the way up from the floor and lifted him up in the air off both feet.

He fell flat on his back and when he recovered sufficiently to speak some 10 minutes later, his first utterance was, "Save the women and children; never mind about me."

Marching at the head of the Old Sweethearts' Parade, a little feeble, but smiling are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keys of 8th and Towne.

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts, and warm handshakes—these are secondary means of grace when men are in trouble and are fighting their unseen battles.—John Hall.

★ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The Eagle is flying high and more power to its wings. Your work and the work of the staff was never more important. Especially of note is what on-coming John Kinloch is doing. Thank you for making his work possible. I listened to him address the Junior NAACP and parry questions and solve problems like a veteran. Your stand in the election should rally around you those who understand that " the politician who does something for you is your friend—show thanks by voting for him. The politician who belongs to a company that had opportunity for years to do somethng for you and did not do it BUT PROMISES to do it if you vote for him again ought not get your vote!"

Henry Lincoln Johnson, our greatest politician since Douglas, used to lament the Colored American's lackof gratitude. If the Eagle advice is followed this year in California, there ought be a change in many places and a chance to work out the Four Freedoms here at home to see how they might fit in a whole world where Americans will hold the balance of power, economic and industrial. As goes California, the nation will have leadership to democratic greatness or to demagogic clackery with the masses fooled while the manipulators for selfish greed hold on. Not that one set of men are perfect over against the other set—but from the acts of the one, the heart is deep in the people, from the career of the other and the and the company backing it, the heart is of stone and not of flesh, ot matter how tear-jerky the speech. The Eagle points the way.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Comes the disturbing news that something is amiss with our good old NAACP—that our hard-working and successful secretary of branches, William Pickens, has been dismissed!

This organization has, in the past, done a lot of good work and there is a lot for it still to do and we are concerned over these reports.

It is a fact that people break—go mentally pathological—under strains that are too much for them and we are aware that the job of the NAACP in this time of great stress, is a big one, for the Negro faces the double job of fighting and of fighting for a chance to fight. But the salvation of the larger minds, those capable of retaining complete sanity under great strain, lies in their ability to keep their faces on the goal to be reached. It saves them from oversensitiveness and fear of failure, which, it seems, are the damaging elements of these TOO HEAVY strains.

Has somone been unable to measure up to the job? It will be too bad if the NAACP loses Mr. Pickens' services permanently, for he, I am sure, IS one of the larger minds—eminently and always so sane that his audiences grow sane in listening. His influence, however, will be good, anywhere.

ED'S NOTE: Ben Brambley, of the Waiters, Cooks, and Bartenders Union, received the following letter from Pvt. Lou P. Bellfield, 42nd Aviation Squadron, Roswell, New Mexico:

"It is a pleasure to write and let you know that I am now in the Army of the United States and proud to bear the obligations of true faith and allegiance to the United States of America and serve them faithfully against all their enemies. Wishing you all much luck and happiness."

The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good.—Mary Baker Eddy.

★ WORLD THIS WEEK

By ROBERT PATTERSON

WAR IN AFRICA

Now that the Nazis are shouting insistent warnings to Vichy and Madrid that their African colonies are endangered by the wicked Allies, that Dakar, above all, is menaced by the scheming Americans and British, it can be taken as a matter of course that Hitler has heard the call of the Congo. Hitler's tactics now follow a well-worn groove. When preparing to seize a neighbor's territory, he has ever shouted to that neighbor, "Hey, look at that big guy over there! He's going to take something away from you. Let me come in and help protect you." So Hitler moves in, lock, stock and barrel, to give "protection," and shortly after the neighbor finds himself on the outside looking in, with the Hitler mob in charge of the whole works. Dakar, on the western bulge of Africa, is unpleasantly close to Brazil as the bomber flies, a fact which accords the African seaport and airbase a high place in the Nazi scheme of things. But the Allies have not been idle. New air routes across central Africa are being rapidly developed, and a great army camp 200 mils from the mouth of the Congo is already under construction. If, and when, Hitler arrives within calling distance, the Allies are determined to give a reception that will make darkest Africa live up to its name.

WOMEN DRAFTEES

While the draft of 18 and 19 year olds is now but a matter of months, the manpower shortage has likewise been sharply increasing on the production front. Secretary of War, Stimson announces it may be necessary to double the number of women war workers now employed in army arsenals, depots and office jobs. Nearly a third of a million such women workers are already so employed in the manufacture of guns, planes and tanks and in clerical posts; another third of a million can readily be used. A draft of the ation's womanpower may yet prove the only means of recruiting 5 million new pairs of willing, able hands to the country's labor force. Conscientious and potential women draftees can today, however, begin rendering themselves and their country a vital service by enrolling in vocational training courses to acquire the specialized skills that are so desperately needed.

A KEY TO VICTORY

With Production Czar Donald Nelson and shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser conferring in Washington this week, the nation may soon gain a definite answer, pro or con, to Kaiser's ambitious plan for building a fleet of giant air cargo carriers. Transportation remains the crucial key to an Allied victory. America may be the mighty powerhouse of United Nations' war production, but of what avail are tanks, munitions, planes and war supplies if, in sufficient number, they can't reach the distant fighting fronts exactly when and where they're needed? Our battle lines range from the Aleutians to Australia, from the Solomons to the heart of Africa, from India to the Mediterranean, from Persia to Iceland. Our home-front production lines extend from Southern California aircraft plants to Ohio machine shops that furnish plane parts; from an electrical turbine manufacturing plant in Pittsburgh to an Alabama power dam; from a Dallas, Texas aviation plant to a government arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., which supplies the machine guns for the planes made in Texas. Over these very routes, highway carriers are rushing such supplies day and night at a moment's notice, reducing to a matter of hours what by rail would have required several days. No other nation on earth has such vast system of highways and motor vehicles for service in war. Here, at least, there is no cause for delay in smashing transportation bottlenecks, state and county tax barriers against motor carriers, and hastening with all possible speed, the production of synthetic rubber. We have the key to their solution right here at home.

THE DOLLARS ROLL OUT

Having just taken a statistical squint at the month of July, the Commerce Department reports the national income in that period indicated a record-breaking annual rate of $114 billion. Conclusion: War savings should also be record-breaking. It's up to you to make the record!

LAST CALL!

Uncle Sam needs the money. You need your car. If both of you are to remain happy, don't fail to purchase your Federal auto tax stamp if you haven't done so yet. July 1 was the official deadline, but collectors of the Department of Internal Revenue have leniently allowed laggards two months' grace. There'll be no more suuch grace after next week. Pay your $5 today and save paying a $25 fine on the morrow. It's the last call!

★ W. J. WHEATON

The address of President Roosevelt to the delegates of the International Students convention was freighted, not alone with wisdom, but it told the youths of the entire world of their future responsibilities. He pointed out the great part which they must prepare to play in the future in the planning for a better world in which they and their children are to live.

It is true that future generations must carry on and erect a substantial structure on the foundation now being laid, To meet this challenge, there must be serious preparation. There must be a thorough understanding, a sense of forbearance and tolerance; a desire to see and to understand the ideals and the desires of others. This will be no easy task. It wil take time and patience to eradicate the virus of racial animosities and the complex of racial superiority.

But if this is to be a world of democracies— a world free from fear, want and oppression—those banes of our social structure must be eliminated. In the formation of this ideal democracy there are no youths who should feel their responsibilty more so than those of our racial group. None should be more conscious of their duties than they. Theirs will be a task that will test every bit of their strength. So many things dear to the hearts of youth will need to be subordinated for the attainment of their goal. A seriousness of thought and wise planning for the future must be implanted. This will be the task of those women of the race who are espousing the cause of our people. This will be the golden opportunity of those valiant women, the modern Sojourner Truths and Harriet Tubmans. The Charlotta Basses, Mary Bethunes, Daisy Lampkins, and coterie, who, now, are making a gallant fight for a FREEDOM for all THE PEOPLE. The youths of our racial group must be sold on the obvious fact that what effects one in the bottoms of the Brazos or the Hinterlands of the deepest South has its bearing in California or any of the communities wherein we reside. We have unbounded faith in the sincerety and wisdom, the foresight and willingness to sacrifice of our women. Our youth has the fortitude to endure and will to achieve. Times like the present are a challenge to test their stamina. We believe, in all sincerity, that they will meet the test, and with the enthusiasm and courage which impels to success and to victory, join the army and fight in the vanguard of the youthful army now preparing to build a stable structure of democracy on the foundation being laid and cemented, though the sacrifice of the lives of thousands. We would place emphasis on the thought that if we want a brigher future, we must plan for it now. There cannot, there must not, be any putting off until tomorrow. Young Negroes, this is your fight!! Your future depends on a victory for a democratic world; a victory in which you will have a full share.

Covington Off to National Urban League Conference

Tuesday, Sept. 1, Floyd C. Covington, executive director of the Los Angeles Urban league, left the city to attend the Labor week-end conference of the National Urban League Movement, a meeting at the James Weldon Johnson Camp in Pittsburgh, Pa.

This makes the second of the only two conferences that the local director has been able to attend. The distance between the Pacific coast and the eastern areas, a tremendously heavy schedule, and almost insurmountable demands on the local league agencies has prevented its director from attending conferences heretofore.

In June of this year the executive completed his 11th year in his present position. It marks, however, 14 years of activity on the coast—a year and a half as industrial secretary under the late Mrs. Katherine J. Barr, and one year as assistant executive to his father-in-law, T. A. Greene, prior to the latter's retirement at the YMCA.

A new project, sponsored by the Urban leaegue was announced from the stage of the Bill Robinson theatre on Thursday, August 27, through the courtesy of Reuben Snadow, manager of the theatre. A Job Clinic will be conducted in the foyer of the theatre, afternoons and evenings. The purpose of it will be to answer many of the questions that are still not clear in the minds of persons interested in securing employment in defense industries. It will also serve as a supplemental service to the local press in bringing to the attention of the people in this district jobs that are available, and jobs for which persons should be in training.

Due to the fact that this theatre is centrally located in the heart of the shopping districts of the avenue, it was chosen for the location of the league's job clinic. Covington spoke from the stage on Thursday and received an overwhelming show of hands by the audience, indicating they were anxious to have the job clinic in operation. All persons interested in this project should contact the local league or the Bill Robinson theatre.

"NATIVE SON" ★

From the book by
RICHARD WRIGHT

"Come on, Bessie. We can't stay here like this."

He stopped and with one hand caught hold of bedclothes. He dragged her across the threshold, and pulled the door after him, He went down the steps; she came stumbling behind, whimpering. When he reached the vestibule, he got his gun from inside his shirt and put it in the pocket of his coat. He might have to use it any minute now. The moment he stepped out of that door he would have his life in his hands. Whatever happened now depended upon him; and when he felt it that way some of his fear left; it was simple again. He opened the door and an icy blast of wind struck his face. He drew back and turned to bessie.

"Where's the bottle?"

She held out her purse; he got the bottle and took a deep drink.

"Here," he said. "You better take one."

She drank and put the bottle back into the purse. They went into the snow, over the frozen streets, through the sweeping wind. Once she stopped and began to cry. eH grabbed her arm.

"Shut up, now! Come on!"

They stopped in front of a tall, snow-crowned building whose many windows gaped blackly, like the eye-sockets of emptly skulls. He took the purse from her and got the flashlight. He clutched her arh and pulled her up the steps to the front door. It was half-ajar. He put his shoulded to it and gave a stout shove; it yielded grudgingly. It was black inside and the feeble glow of the flashlight did not help much. A sharp scent of rot floated to him and he heard the scrurying of quick, dry feet over the wooden floor. Bessie sucked in her breath deeply, about to scream; but Bigger gripped her arm so hard that she bend halfway over and moaned. As he went up the steps there came frequently to his ears a slighl creaw, as of a tree bending in wind. With one hand he held her wrist, the bundle of bedclothes under his arm; with the other he beat off the clinging filmy syider weks that came thick onto his lips and eyes. He walked to the third floor and into a room that had a window opening to a narrow air-shaft. It stankof old timber. He circled the spot of the flashlight; the floor was carpeted with black dirt and he saw two bricks lying in corners. He looked at Bessie; her hands covered her face and he could see the damp of tears on her black fingers. He dropped the bundle of bedclothes.

"Unroll 'em and spread 'em out."

She obeyed. He placed the two pillows near the window, so that when he lay down the window would be just above his head. He was so cold that his teeth chattered. Bessie stood by the wall, leaning against it, crying.

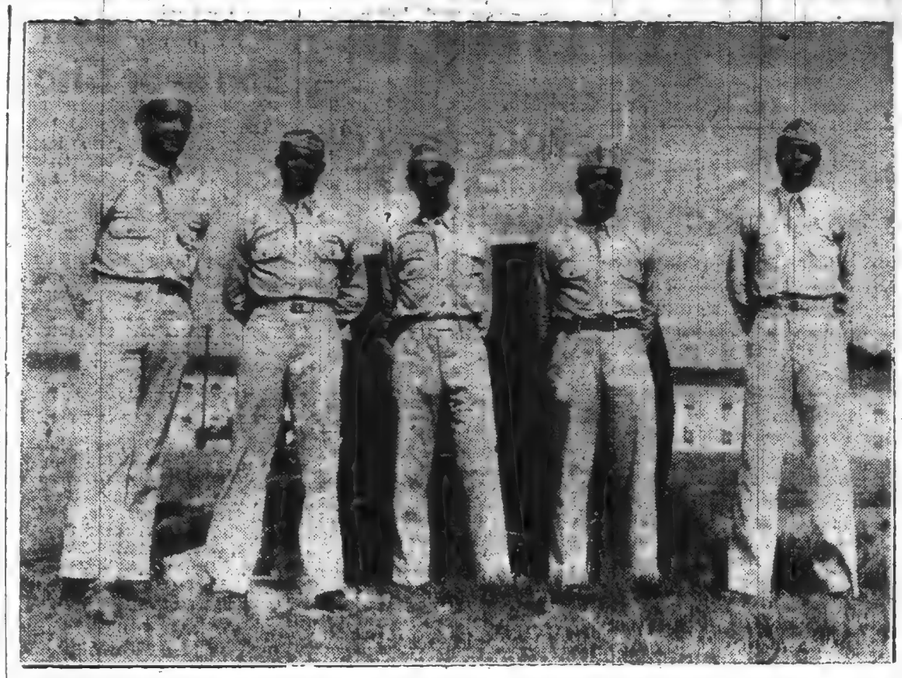
"Take it easy," he said.

He hoisted the window and looked up the air-shaft; snow flew above the roof of the house.. He looked downward and saw nothing but black darkness into which now and then a few flakes of white floated from the sky, falling slowly in the dim glow of the flashlight. He lowered the window and turned back to Bessie; she had not moved. He crossed the floor and took the purse from her and got the half-filled flask and drained it. It was good. It burned in his stomach and took his mind off the cold and the sound of the wind outside. He sat on the edge of the pallet and lit a cigarette. It was the first one he had smoked in a long time; he sucked the hot smoke deep into his lungs and blew it out slowly. The whiskey heated him all over, making his head whirl. Bessie cried, softly, piteously.

"Come on and lay down," he said.

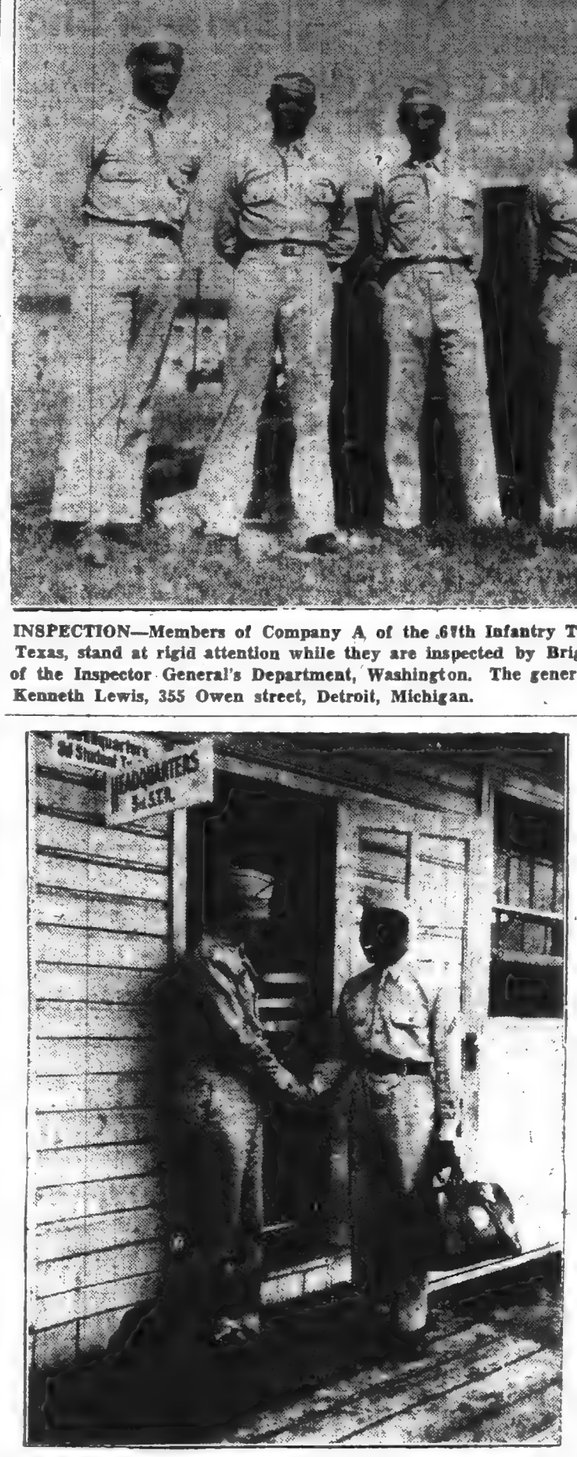
He took the gun from his pocket and put it where he could reach it.

"Come on, Bessie. You'll freeze standing there like that."



He stood up and pulled off his overcoat and spread it upon the the top of the blanket for additional cover; then switched off the flashlight. The whiskel lulled him, numbed his senses. Bessie's soft whimpers came to him through the cold. He took a long last draw from the cigarette and crushed it. Bessie's shoes creaked over the floor. He lay quietly, feeling the warmth of the alcohol spreading through him. He was tense inside; it was as though he had been compelled to hold himself in a certain awkward posture for a long time and then when he had the chance to relax he could not. He was tense with desire, but as long as he knew that Bessie was standing there in the room, he kept it from his mind. Bessie was worried and not to her should his mind turn now in that way. But that part of him which always made him at least outwardly adjusted to what was expected of him made him now keep what his body wanted out of full consciousness. He heard Bessie's clothes rustling in the darkness and he knew that she was pulling off her coat. Soon she would be lying here close beside him. He waited for her. After a few moments he felt her fingers pass lightly over his face; she was seeking for the pallet. He reached out, groping, and found her arm.

"Here; lay down."



He held the cover for her; she slid down beside him and stretched out. Now that she was close to him the whiskey made him whirl faster and the tensity of his body mounted. A gust of wind rattled the windowpane and made the old building creak. He felt snug and warm, even though he knew he was in danger. The building might fall as he slept, but the police might get him if he were anywhere else. He laid his fingers upon Bessie's shoulders; slowly he felt the stiffness go out of her body and as it left the tensity of his own rose and his blood grew hot.

"Bigger, don,t! Don't!"

. . . . He lay still, feeling rid of that hunger and tenseness and hearing the wail of the night wind over and above his and her breathing. He turned from her and lay on his back again, stretching his legs wide apart. He felt the tenseness flow gradually away from him. His breathing grew less heavy and rapid until he could no longer hear it, then so slow and steady that the consciousness of breathing left him altogether. He was not at all sleepy and he lay, feeling Bessie lying there beside him. He turned his head slowly in the darkness toward her. Her breath came to him slowly. He wondered if she were sleeping; somewhere deep in him he knew he was lying here waiting for her to go to sleep. Bessie did not figure in what was before him. He remembered th he had seen two bricks lying on the floor of the room as he had entered. He tried to recall just where they were, but could not. But he was sure they were there somewhere; he would have to find them, at least one of them. It would have been much better if he had not said anything to Bessie about the murder. Well, it was her own fault. She had bothered him so much that he had had to tell her. And how on earth could he have known that they would find Mary's bones in the furnace so soon? He felt no regret as the image of the smoking furnace and the white pieces of bone came back to him. He gazed straight at those bones for almost a full minute and had not been able to realize that they were the bones of Mary's body. He had thought that they might find out some other way and then suddenly confront him with the evidence. Never did he think that he could stand and look at the evidence and not know it.

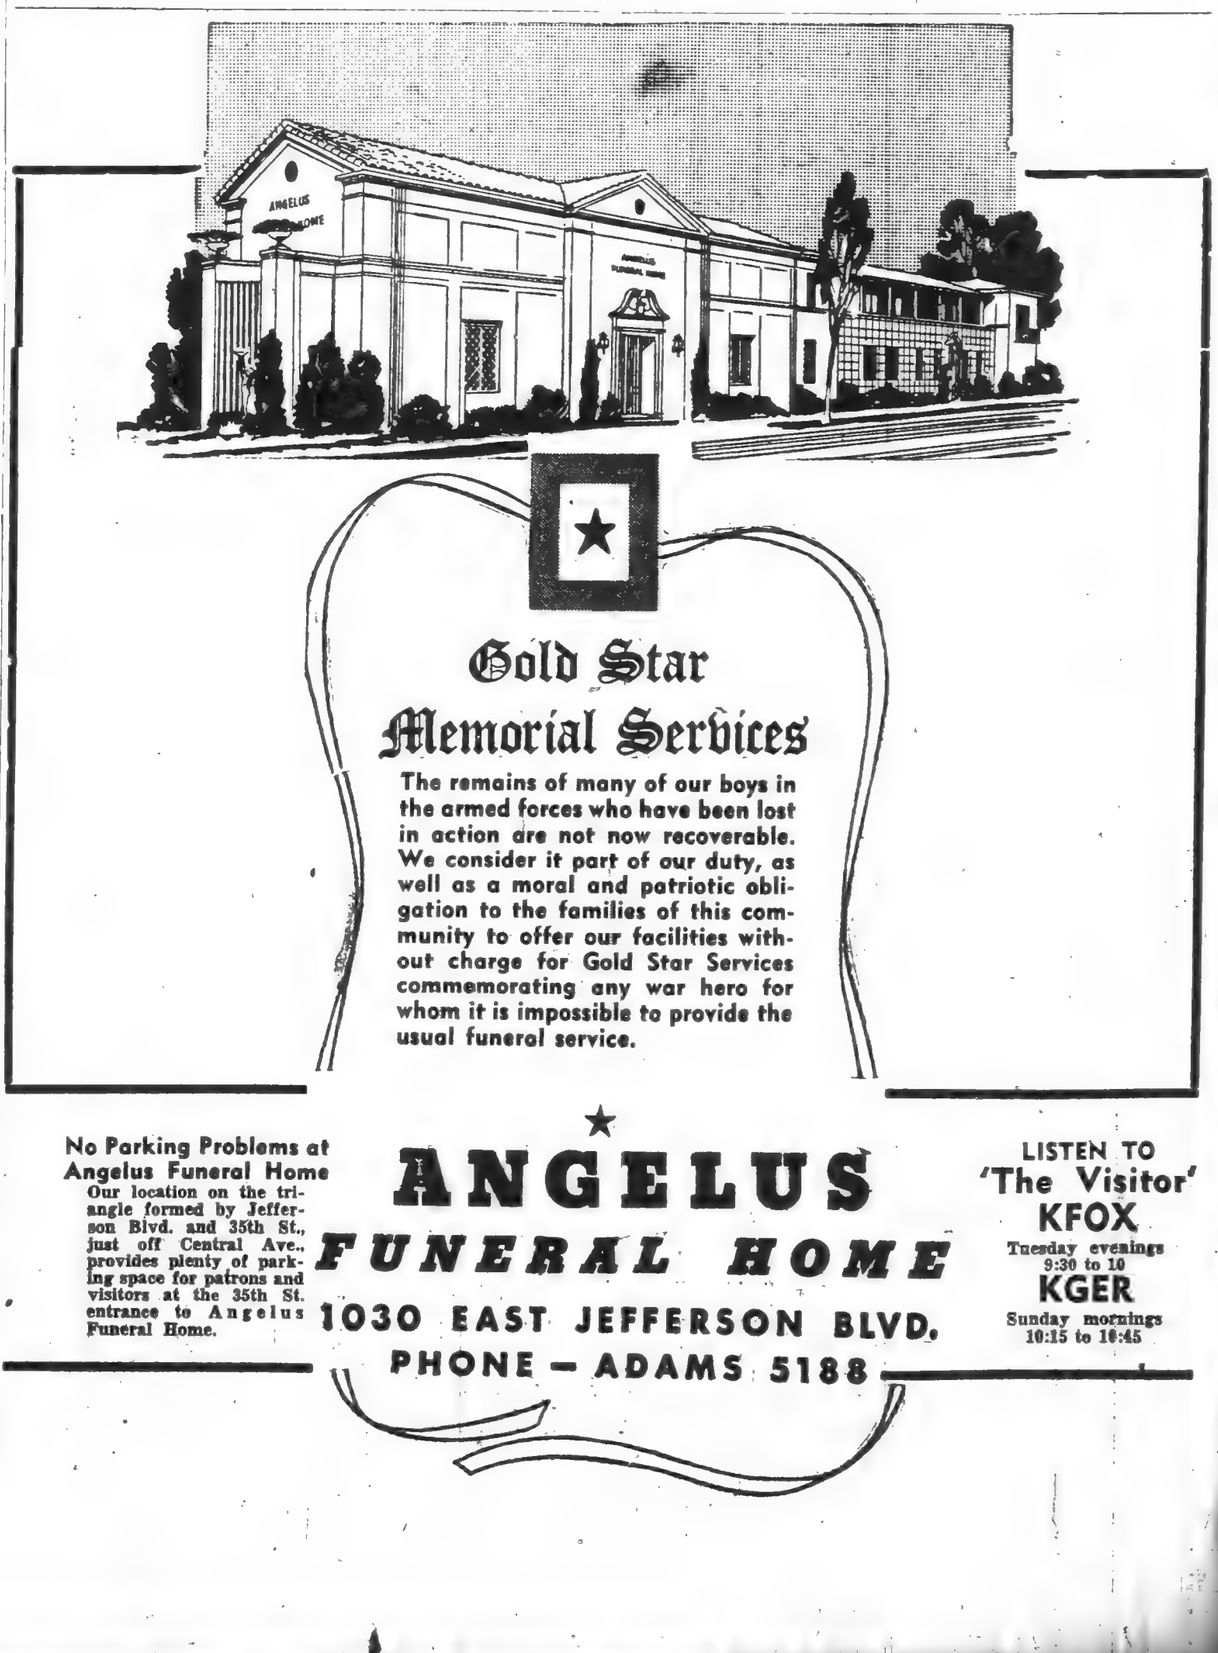
Curtis Miller, Aunt, to Visit Kin in Louisiana



Curtis Frank Miller, with his aunt, Mrs. Vertna Miller of San Fransisco, who had been stopping with his mother, Mrs. Beatrice Miller, 939 East 51 street, left for New Iberia, La., recently to visit his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Romual Miller, an aunt, many uncles and cousins whom he has never seen.

After a short visit they will continue to New Orleans, where they will be greeted by other close friends. They will return via Galveston, Tex., to visit more of the family and to arrive here in time to continue his final years in Los Angeles High school. All of his friends bid him bon voyage and a safe return.

Mr. J. Walter Wills, Jr., one of the leading morticians of Cleveland, Ohio, flew in Tuesday morning, Sept. 1, over the TWA route to spend a short stay with his mother, Mrs. Alberta L. Joyce, 1665 West 35th street. He says business i so preing that he must return home by Sept. 15.

THEATRE WORLD

Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday, Sept. 10, 1942 Vol. 63—No. 22 Page Two-B

RANDTOWN

MEET WILLIAM P. HARRISON. Mr. Harrison spent a week Los Angeles. He and his charming wife left the Golden State unday. He is an executive of one of the largest hostelries cater- g to Negroes in the United States. He is the manager of the fash- nable Grand Hotel in Chicago.

He is definitely a race man, a leader of the first order. He is ne of the men behind the now famous annual baseball classic, the ast-West games. These games started about 11 years ago and to- ay have become a national institution. It is these games which as focused the attention of the baseball world upon such outstand- g ballplayers as Mule Suttles, Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, Ray rown, Nate Moreland and Jerry Benjamine. The East-West games ere originated by Gus Greenlee, Negro baseball magnate of Pitts- urgh.

William P. Harrison sits on the council that is fighting each ay, year in and year out, to put the Negro ballplayers in the major eagues. It was Harrison that landed the East-West games for hicago, centrally located and easily accessible for players and fans iving in other cities.

WILLIAM P. HARRISON DESERVES A MEDAL

For tireless efforts in this respect; for placing the Negro ball- layers in such esteem, William P. Harrison should have received he Spingarn medal. But his activities don't stop there. He serves n several advancement committees of his city. But he is best lov- d by those individuals who were down on their luck. Like a bro- her or maybe a father, he would counsel each and give each a take in money to start life anew. There are few of the national ewspaper gentry who do not regard him as their patron saint.

He is a Negro through and through. While here he stopped at he Clark Hotel. He is white in complexion and therefore he could ave followed the example of some of our other leaders and stayed owntown. While his great love may be baseball, the fighter has a big niche in his heart. Harrison knows all the race fighters, little and big ones. Mr. Harrison is quiet and most unassuming and never boasts nor speaks of his many charities.

Attorney Evrette M. Porter is now a little OPA czar. He was appointed to the rationing board in this area. He sits in counsel with such men as the Rev. Rakestraw and Bratton. He is the only lawyer so far chosen from our race to sit upon such a board in Los Angeles. Porter is a brilliant young attorney, virile and possesses a keen legal mind.

With men of the calibre of Rakestraw, Bratton and Porter on this important board, Negroes who appeal for tires, and what have you, are sure of a square deal. Remember these men serve without salary or compensation. They are doing their duty for their country.

Henry B. Gray, who holds the signal distinction of being a senior air raid warden in Hollywood, and who conducted a gas-mask school at a Hollywood high school, was offered the post of plans and training officer of Community Eight. The significance of this post can be best realized when you know that the Negro population is less than one per cent. Mr. Gray as an individual has been winning friends for his race. He has been sort of a one-man NAACP. He hails from Chicago.

PETE WEBSTER NOW TOP-KICK IN ARMY

Many fans of the colored motion picture plays will remember Pete Webster, as well as his former cronies when he was a first class waiter here. On the screen Pete Webster had a career as a leading man or hero. He was a good lover, both reel and real.

Pete Webster gave up that career on the screen and put up his waiter's tray and kissed the girls goodbye to join the California State Guards. He right faced and left faced with the 7th Regiment. Later he went on active duty with the Guards. Then his draft number came up. He was inducted. Now after four months in the Army he is top sergeant, drawing $114 base pay. Moral: Join the 7th Regiment of the State Guards and prepare yourself so that if you are called you will be able to receive more than 50 bucks a month. In this man's army, it is what you know and not whom you know.

GUS HAWKINS INTRODUCED THE DOMESTIC AID LAW

Sometime ago, my sister-in-law, Mrs. Theresa Davis, fell and injured her knee while working as a domestic. Because of the compensation law she was hospitalized and received pay while laid up. Not so long ago that would not have been possible, but Assemblyman Gus Hawkins introduced and had passed a Workmen's Compensation Law for domestic workers.

We cited the above to show that Gus Hawkins does look after his ownw, and to appeal to him. If I am wrong, please stop me. Isn't it possible for Assemblyman Gus Hawkins to introduce a bill against racial restriction with regards to real estate?

With this state in an all-out effort to win the war, Negroes from other states have crowded into California seeking defense jobs or schooling. Also the wives of soldiers, both officers and enlisted men are pouring into the state to be near their husbands. All of these things makes the housing situation for the Negro very congested. The Negro is penned up into restricted ghettos. If he works in a defense plant, he must forego all the government's plea for conservation of rubber and gasoline by being forced to drive 10 to 25 miles a day to work, with an additional 25 miles to return home. If the racial restriction were moved from this state the war machinery would operate more efficiently. Congestion produces insanitary conditions, thus germs are breeded and disease invariably follows.

GET RID OF RACIAL RESTRICTION LAWS

With the United States fighting a people's war on many fronts, and the Atlantic Charter granting the four freedoms to all peoples—California could lead the way by removing the racial restriction laws from our statute books. This is an all-out war and all peoples within the confines of continental United States should do their part. Poor living conditions, the unnecessary use of tires and gasoline causes, Mr. Gus Hawkins, a loss in man-hours and a drain on our national rubber and gasoline supply.

TID-BITS. Lester Bland, Count Basie, Barber Spencer Browne, Honey Murphy and Stack Allen all had a gabfest in the Personality Shop last week. They put out the SOS signs due to the fact that there had been a drain on their manpower. Uncle Sam was drafting so many men that they were planning to petition the draft boards to call a halt to the drafting of essential lovers. It was deemed too much work on a few men to keep up the morale of women whose men were called into the service.

Browne, however, still retains his crown and title as the best-dressed man in Tan-Town. He was garbed the udder day in light brown from head to foot.

Arthur Houston gives out with this: "Look at that fellow with his priority pants and duration coat." Houson made the trek to Las Vegas to see his boy, Henry Armstrong, fight.

"IT WON'T BE LONG NOW," SAYS PRESIDENT

The President named four theatres of war in his radio speech Monday and revealed that a little over a half million men are overseas. In the last war we had two million in France and another two million ready to go. It may take four million men in Europe alone this time. Another million in Africa. And that is only two theatres of war. So it begins to look like that all these boys who at one time or another had a mind to roam will get the chance.

Which reminds me of the tale told by Lester Bland. "A lad went to the gypsy to get his fortune told. She told him that she saw where he was going to take a long sea voyage and he would travel first class. He came out mumbling, 'I ain't got a dime; how can I travel on the high seas.'" Last month, Lester Bland received a letter from the lad from Australia where he is stationed with the troops.

Hopi Indian Youth Writes on Sportsmanship vs. Athletics

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Quoyavema or Sunrise is a young full-blood Indian boy from the Hopi Reservation in central Arizona. The Hopi (meaning peaceful) people have long felt the injustices of the dominant white race—subjected to rule of a white agent, denied full and proper schooling for their young, and not permitted the facilities for voting. Feeling keenly this situation, Sunrise has equipped himself educationally and is making an effort to bring the matter to public attention. Sunrise is primarily (as are most of his people) an artist. He spent four years with the Heye Foundation, New York City, several years with the Santa Fe, N. M., Archeological Institute, and the Denver Art Museum in Colorado. Also he has contributed drawings and paintings of tribal subjects to the Southwest Museum in Los Angeles. A natural athlete, Sunrise has been employed as instructor of athletics in a number of military academies in Los Angeles. Motion pictures, too, have claimed his time as singer, dancer and actor. Some of his pictures have been "Spawn of the North," "Union Pacific," "Juarez," "The Plainsman," "Valley of the Sun" and "Immortal Storm."

SPORTSMANSHIP VERSUS ATHLETICS

By Riley Quoyavema Sunrise

2132 Fargo Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

With the opening of city schools and their schedules of athletic events comes the unpleasant reminder of rowdyism and racial fights that have accompanied these gatherings in recent years. So frequent and vicious have become these encounters that they stand as a menace to school sports.

This is not to infer that Los Angeles is the only afflicted city. As an American Indian I can testify that race prejudice is in general evidence with the American public. It is an evil that deserves the attention of good-minded citizens of all races, such as the Urban league represents, for the purpose of protecting youth and sport from this corrosive blight.

I recall my first introduction as athletic instructor to a class of well-to-do boys in a spler did boy institute. These boys were not "bad"—just normally healthy boy . But I was the only Indian on the staff, therefore on the "spot." It was apparent that they thought "Huh, an Indian—what can he teach us?" In their youthful minds was the query, "What does an Indian know about boxing, wrestling, canoeing, swimming? How can he be a 'regular guy'?" My introduction was acknowledged by each fellow putting his hand to his mouth and giving what he thought was an Indian yell.

My first step was to put into use the Indian adage which is, "Practice and you don't have to preach." I showed them that I knew my sports; that I could hit the bull's eye in archery, make a fire without a match, and make a fine decorative paddle.

When at last I ventured a boxing and wrestling lessone one lad refused saying, "Oh, mother wouldn't wish me to box or wrestle. I might get injured."

My business was to show that boy how a sport could be both manly and useful. The result was that the lad gained for himself a measure of self reliance.

At the close of the session I left the boys with a healthy respect for me as an Indian and for the sports in general. Also I take pride in the belief that race prejudice in these lads suffered a break down.

My advantage was in the fact that first, I like boys; second, I was raised with the Indian viewpoint toward sports which is that the game (in other words, the science) is that which primarily counts and not the player. With this viewpoint the spirit of competition weakens; no energy is wasted on an adversary. The attitude becomes positive instead of negative. The ambition of the player can soar and soar, for it is the game that must be perfect.

The attainment of physical strength, beuaty of rhythm and coordination is not actually a sport with the Indian. It is a ritual of the body which begins in babyhood. Early in life we learn the value of sun and air on the unclothed skin, to withstand the rigors of the sweat lodge, and the fast.

My people, the Hopis, are famed as runners. Men of our villages are accustomed to running 10, 12 miles, and even farther, in the morning to begin a day's work in their cornfields and then returning home at night. Louis Tewanima, a Hopi kinsman, was for years Pop Warner's pride, carrying off all honors in America for 10 and 15-mile races.

THE GANG SPIRIT

The "gang" spirit comes partly from the wish to be a part of something, or allied to someone. It is the spirit, albeit misled, of allegiance. Boys do not want to be left out—they want to be IN things. So they champion a player or a side and defend their position. That this "taking sides" is an ineffectual or an unmanly way is beside the point. The point for the gangster is that he BELONGS; hence the faction or gang.

That gangsterism is more prevalent in bleak and poverty stricken areas does not argue that boyhood there differs from boyhood in pleasant and well-to-do sections of the city. The difference is not geographic but in opportunity and in direction.

Obviously, the older recreants are beyond our retrieve. We must deal with the school or teen age boys. The City of Grand Rapids, Michigan offers an example of how to handle youthful gang rule which often vents itself in racial violence.

A half square mile area of that city maintaining less than one-fortieth of the population produced for many years nearly one fourth of the city's juvenile crime. After social agencies and extra police had failed, a work and play project was initiated by Chief O'Malley. A plot of ground within the district was secured, a gymnasium, clubhouse, kitchen, athletic field, machine shop and other features erected upon the policy of "keeping the kids too busy for devilment." The arrests in 1939 were reduced from 139 to one and this record has been maintained to the present time.

This question now resolves itself into a definition of sportsmanship. It is true that sportsmanship means getting both fun and profit out of the game.

CALLOWAY AT SHRINE SUNDAY, SEPT. 13TH

Cab Calloway, perennial king of Hi-De-Ho, whose royal pleasure it is to cavort about the U.S. A. breaking attendance records at the swankier of the nation's nite spots and exposing himself to the common view but now again—when he procedes to knock out everybody, yeah, even you!

Cab is the sort of guy who sends the gloomy predicters into permanent eclipse—you know the type, always sagely remarking that such and such a character is "throubh." Well, they try that one on Cab every five years or so, but, like they stly in potry, 'to no avaain., To no avail' JACK!

All of which is leading up to remark as how Mr. C. will be at the Shrine ballroom come Sunday, Sept. 13, and that. brother, you had better be THERE! Presale tickets go for a measley 75 cents and may be securel at Karl's drug store, 43rd and Central avenue. At the door it's 85 cents.

Cab will appear with his whole Cotton Club show.

EVOLUTION OF DANCE TO BE SHOWN

"American Rhapsody," which will have its Los Angeles and Hollywood premiere at a twilight matinee Sunday afternoon, Sept. 27, at the Mayan theatre, not only shows the building of a great nation through the integration of many national groups, but it also shows the evolution of the dance from its most primitive forms to classic ballet.

Malcolm H. Nash and Archie Savage, of New York who is directing the dance groups in "Cabin In The Sky," promise theatre patrons an afternoon long to be remembered, for included in "American Rhapsody" will be a descriptive narrative as beautiful as a tone poem, dramatci pantomine full of stark reality, and new songs destined to become hits overnight.

"THE PIED PIPER" HELD OVER AT UNITED ARTISTS

Due to the great public demand, United Artists theatre, 933 So. Broadway, downtown Los Angeles, takes pleasure in stating that 20th Century-Fox's outstanding production, "The Pied Piper," is now in its second big week, being held over and making the United Artists the exclusive downtown theatre now playing "The Pied Piper."

As an added attraction Fox presents an hilarious comedy, "A-Haunting We Will Go," with Laurel and Hardy clowning and hocus-pocus by Dante.

LIONEL HAMPTON, SHOW TO BE IN LONG BEACH

Lionel Hampton and his entire show will be presented in Long Beach Sunday, Sept. 13, by the Las Primas Girls club in celebration of Soldiers' Appreciation week. The girls will present a set of drums to the 76th Chemical unit.

The show is free, and the merchants of Los Angeles and Long Beach are urged to give liberally of the following things which make a soldier know he is appreciated: cigarettes, shaving cream, razor blades, candy, and gum.

This effort is made to stimulate the morale of the men and to awaken the public to a consciousness of its duty at home.

HERE ARE DEMOCRACY'S SINEWS—America's workers are democracy's strength and in the nation trade union members are working around the clock to turn out more planes, more tanks, more guns and more ships for democracy's defense. The victory of free labor over slave labor thruout the world depends on the brains and brawn of Americans such as the skilled worker shown above. An expert "plate-bender" at the Norfolk Navy Yard, he shapes the steel plates for the sidings of war ships that will soon be prowling the sea-lanes around Germany and Japan and escorting United Nations' transports bearing lend-lease material to Britain, China and Russia.

AME CHURCH CONFAB TO CONVENE IN SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO—(By E. B. Wesley)—Delayed—The Southern Calif-Annual Conference of the A. M .E. Church opened here last week at the Bethel A.M.E. church, corner 31st and K streets. A large delegation is in attendance with Bishop Noah Williams, of the Fifth Episcopal District, presiding. A number of notables are scheduled to be present. Much preparation was made for the entertainment of this august body of church leaders.

Mrs. Maude Kaiser and her nephew, Billy Don Hanks of Manhattan, Kansas, in company with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Flowers, Miss Nancy Moss and Mr. William Robinson of Los Angeles visited Mr. and Mrs. George Rollins, 1721 Logan aveue last Sunday. They also made a hurry-up trip across the border.

Professor Arthur Prince of Imperial is spending a few days with his wife, Mrs. Irene Prince, musician, who is finishing a course of study at San Diego State college.

Elder and Mrs. J. A. Jackson returned last week from a vacation spent in Los Angeles with relatives. M. R. Smith, a member of the Cab Calloway band has been the houseguest of Mrs. Ellen Story for the past week. Mr. Smith is convalescing from a severe throat irritation but is much improved.

The Bethel Baptist church, pastored by the Rev. Charles H. Hampton, unveiled the newly installed organ last Sunday evening at 6 p. m. The organ is an Everett Orgatron and chimes, which added much to the vesper service. The Chior under the direction of Miss Octavia Payne, presented the following numbers: "Walk Together, Children," "Sanctus," by Gounod, "Steal Away," arranged by J. Harl Bron, and A Capella, "Reign Massa Jesns." Miss Edna Henry, the organist rendered a group of numbers on the newly installed organ.

There were more than seven hundred attending this service. Rev. Hampton brought the message of the evening, giving the outstanding incidenst of the development of the present church and congregation, pointing out that the congregation had supported the program and made possible the erection of a $35,000 building and furnishing same. The organ was a cash purchase. The total indebtedness of this group does not exceed five thousand dollars.

The morning worship service at Bethel Baptist Sunday developed into a veritable revival meeting, with sixteen additions to the church. Six were candidates for baptism.

Rev. Hampton will be leaving the city this week for the East to attend the National Baptist Convention, Inc., which will be held in Memphis, Tenn. Rev. Hampton plans to visit his sister, Lieutenant Elizabeth Hampton, at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, en route to the convention. He will visit his brother, Sergeant Morris D. Hampton's family: he will visit Mrs. Hampton's mother before returning.

LEWIS—DICKENS WEDDING

Miss June Audrey Dickens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Dickens, became the bride of Marshall Flagg Lewis, son of Mrs. Gladys E. Lewis of Los Angeles, Sunday, August 9 at 4 o'clock in the Bethel Baptist church at an impressive double ring ceremony. The Rev. Louis H. Owens read the beautiful service before an altar banked with baskets of gladiola, larkspur, asters, and palms. The bridal aisle pew posts were decorated with ribbon streamers. The ceremony was preceded by two solos, "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Mr. Joseph Nelson, and "Ave Maria," sung by Miss Walda Jean Richardson. The wedding march was played by Miss Octavia Payne.

The bride wore the traditional gown of slipper satin designed with the modish long torso, long sleeves pointed at wrist and a sweetheart neckline. Her long net veil fell from a tiara of lace and pearls. She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid and surrounded by gardenias and stephanotis. The bride's hair style was designed by the Marion School of Beauty.

The bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Adkins and Jesse Smith were matrons of honor wearing pink and blue, thier dresses fashioned with bouffant marquisette, and carried roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ruby Hubert, tMiss Gloria Bailey, and Miss Roberta North, were frocked in gold satin, and the Misses Eleanor Merrick and Juanita Cobb wore blue satin, made with full skirt, long torso, and heart-shaped neckline. They wore Juliet caps and carried gladioli bouquets. Little Miss Marie Picou was the flower girl and wore white satin.

Norwood Lewis, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Bill Wynn, George Adkins, William Mills, Frank Edwards, Bill Milton and Billy Faulkner ushered.

Reception followed the wedding at the Social Hall of the church for 500 guests. Mrs. Dickens received in a rose moire taffeta and matching accessories, and Mrs. Lewis chose a gown of blue velvet.

After a short wedding trip, the bridal couple will be at home to friends at 1809 Newton Avenue, Apt. E.

Miss Alma Peterson of Phoenix,Ariz., was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Collins, 1613 Logan avenue over the week end.

Mrs. Esther Stepp, who underwent a delicate surgical operation at Mercy hospital last week is reported improving nicely.

Bon Voyage was said to Walda Jean Richardson Sunday at a party from 3 to 7 p. m. in her honor by her mother, Mrs. Ruis Richardson. More than 50 people wished her the best of luck during the year in college. Walda Jean plans to enter Fisk university this fall and will leave within a few days. She will stop over in Oklahoma City to pick up two of her friends who are also entering Fisk. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the honoree.

Mrs. Jean Thurman was hostess at a surprise birthday dinner party, Thursday evening, August 27 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Layron Payne, 2850 Webster street, for the Rev. L. H. Owens, honoring his natal date.

Mr. Ed Zollicoffer was host at the Bethel A. M. E. Brotherhood Thursday night. An eloborate dinner was served, which the members enjoyed very much.

In compliment to his birthday, Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Owens were entertained at dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Ponder, 30th and Clay avenue.

Mrs. Roscoe Lanning was hostess recently to 20 guests in honor of Mrs. L. H. Owens and Mrs. Arthur Prince.

The Saturday evening Supper club was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Watson. Mrs. I. M. Wooden won first prize and Mr. Watson fell heir to the second award.

Eighteen San Diego friends were royally entertained at dinner Sunday ,Aug. 23, by Chaplain and Mrs. Griffin at Camp Lockett, where the famous 10th Cavalry is stationed for the present.

Sunday School at Bethel A. M. church, corner 31st and K streets, with Rev. L. H. Owens, minister, was marked by an unusually large attendance. Miss Nadine Redmond does not lag in her efforts to bring this Sunday School up to first place in the District.

The general testimonial service was helpful and inspirational. Rev. Owens conducted this meeting . The large congregation entered into the spirit of this meeting in testimony and song.

In Memoriam: In loving memory of John F. (Pops) Reeves, who passed away Sept. 4, 1939. Eternal rest grant unto him, O, Lord. His widow, Clara A., and his son, Franklin A. Reeves.

Sports Slate Set Up at Ft. Huachuca

FORT HUACHUCA, Ariz., Sept. 10.—Lieut. Maurice McGrath, former player with the New York Giants, professional football team, has launched an extensive campaign of recreation and athletics in the 369th Infantry of the 93rd Division here under the command of Col. T. F. Taylor.

Emphasis is placed on physical condition as a prime requisite to the combat coldier and all men in the regiment are encouraged to take part in the sports program.

A new athletic field, named after the regimental commander, was officially opened Labor Day. The field is large enough for a quartermile track, soccer ball fields, and pits for all field events.

At present battalion softball and volley ball teams are being organized into leagues. Boxing teams are being formed by companies into three classes, experienced, little experience, and novices.

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Jesus: Matthew 19: 19.

One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good.—Mary Baker Eddy.

West Virginia State Buys $93,000 In U. S. War Bonds

COUNCIL DIRECTS CAMPAIGN: Through the energy of the Student Council of West Virginia State College at Institute, West Virginia, more than $93,000 worth of United States War Bonds and Stamps have been sold. Students, faculty members, and the school community all cooperated with the Student Council under the direction of Sherman Smith, president, and George H. Kydd, secretary.

Regular purchasing stands and booths are maintained by the Student Council, operated by various committees chosen by council members.

West Virginia State has an enrollment of more than 1,000 men and women.

Free Gold Star Services Are Offered

A "Gold Star Memorial Service" is being offered free of charge by Angelus Funeral Home to any family which has lost one or more members in the service of the country, bodies of whom cannot be recovered, it was announced recently.

The family may have the use of the chapel, the service of a minister, flowers suitable for the occasion, special music and notice in the newspapers of the Gold Star service as to the hour of the service and for whom it is held, L. G. Robinson, president of the firm, announced.

In event the individual is of any denominational affiliation and the pastor wishes to serve for the family, he may do so. Suitable arrangements to comply with the religious customs of the church will be made and any organization of which the deceased was a member will be privileged to participate.

Robinson said it is his wish and that of his entire staff at the funeral home to offer this "Gold Star Service" without charge or obligation to any and all families in this community.

"In our chapel the families and friends may call to pay fitting tribute to one so brave as to give his or her life that we at home may enjoy the many wonderful institutions of freedom which we now enjoy and which we are fighting to preserve and protect —not only for ourselves but for all the freedom-loving peoples of this world," Robinson said.

Any family wishing this service has only to call in person at the Angelus Funeral Home, 1030 E. Jefferson boulevard, or telephone ADams 5188.

★ Resolution:

To
Francis Biddle, Attorney General
Washington, D. C.

We, one hundred Negro and white workers, at an open air meeting, 43rd and Central avenue, Los Angeles, California, demand that you use your good office to investigate the Ku Klux Klan and the white supremacy organizations which, with their terroristic and discrimination programs, aim to prevent the full integration of Negro people in the war effort, and secondly,

We demand that your office investigate the trial of the three Negro army men in Alexandria, Louisiana.

We demand that they not die, but that they live to fight for our country and for freedom from world Fascism.

Adopted Saturday, Aug. 29, 1942, Open Air Meeting, sponsored by the Communist Party, 62nd A. D., Los Angeles, California.

NMU Asks Biddle to Probe Death Sentence of Soldiers

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—The following resolution was adopted at the regular membership meeting of the National Maritime Union of America, Aug. 24, at 201 Decatur street, here.

Copies were sent to President Roosevelt, Attorney General Biddle, Gov. Sam Jones, and Federal Judge Benjamin C. Hawkins, of Alexandria.

"Membership meeting of National Maritime Union at New Orleans, La., Aug. 24, 200 members present, call for an immediate investigation of the sentencing for electrocution of three Negro members of our armed forces at Alexandria, La. These men have been charged with rape and were tried and sentenced by an all-white jury. An immediate and thorough investigation of this case is in the interest of national unity and the war effort, as well as the morale of the Negro people and all Americans desirous of seeing justice done and Hitler defeated.

"Joseph Rose, Agent,
National Maritime Union,
New Orleans, La."

Nursery School to Open at Pueblo del Rio

WPA's fast-expanding program for care of women war-workers' children spurted ahead yesterday with the announced opening of three new nursery schools.

Following an inspection of the WPA Nursery school at the Long Beach Navy Housing project by local, state and national officials of the Works Project Administration, the establishment of new schools at Avalon Gardens, Pueblo Del Rio and Hacienda Village was reported by H. Russell Amory, administrator for Southern California.

Development of nursery schools in the Southland was highly praised by Jay du Von of Washington, D. C., national WPA official, who headed the inspection group which was under the guidance of Amory and Mrs. Eleanor Savay, state director of the service division of the WPA. Mary Isham, Salt Lake City, war public services supervisor of the Federal Works Agency was also favorably impressed.

Maximum enrollment of about 140 can be handled by the three new schools, according to Amory. With the Garvey Nursery school, whose opening was announced last week, this makes four recent additions to the WPA nursery school set-up which the administrator said he hoped would be increased by 16 within the next few weeks.

Pre-requisites for communities seeking establishment of WPA nursery schools are: determination of how many two-to-five-year old children of working mothers might use the school; probable length of school day based on working hours of parents; availability of adequate housing and facilities. These facts, Amory stated, should be learned by the group or community seeking the school before application to the WPA is made.

The Los Angeles Board of Education is co-sponsor of the three new schools as well as others already established within its jurisdiction. The City Housing Authority, which furnished the buildings, is a contributing sponsor and the State Board of Education sponsors the nursery school project as a whole, under the child protection program of the WPA.

Bill Fails to Give Needed Wage Hikes

Contrary to statements made in many daily newspapers that a bill had been passed giving the lowest paid government employees a raise are the provisions of HR 6217 recently enacted.

This was not a pay raise bill but rather a reclassification amended to the Classification Act of 1923. While this bill benefited some it discriminated against those needing increases of salaries the most.

An example of the inequalities of the bill lies in the fact that charwomen who perform the lighter duties receive 65 cents an hour, while custodial laborers who do heavy lifting and cleaning and elevator operators both receive approximately 41 cents per hour minimum. This means that charwomen and charmen work five hours a day and six days a week, 30 hours in all, and average about $86.50 per month. A custodial laborer and elevator operator work 40 hours per week and receive a minimum of $100.

Previous to the passing of this bill, elevator operators and elevator laborers received a minimum or starting salary of $1320. The custodial laborer was receiving $1080 and $1140 in small cities, while larger cites paid a minimum of $1200. Elevator operators and elevator operator laborers have been reduced to the same minimum as custodial laborers, taking a reduction of $120.

At the present time the local Post Office Department is hiring temporary employees in the custodial department. These temporary employees are required to work 48 hours a week, work holidays without a day off in place of it, and regardless of length of service receive no vacation. Time spent as a temp does not count toward retirement in service as no money is taken out for that purpose. There are no provisions made for sick leave for these employees. The compensation for these positions is $1260 per annum with no provisions for increases. This is a duration job and should not be confused with permanent appointments.

William L. Houston Made Democratic Division Chief

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 10.—Appointment of Attorney William L. Houston as director of the colored division of the Democratic National committee was announced last Tuesday by the committee.

In explaining his appointment, Houston said:

"In contrast with the record of the Republican party, the position of the Democratic party on the issues of the day is so liberal that I believe a distinct service can be rendered colored voters of this country in keeping them informed on the activities of the Roosevelt administration toward bringing about equal opportunities for colored men and women in the armed forces, war industries, and other fields.

"The first task of the colored division will be to assist in the election of a Democratic Congress in November so that the social gains made under President Roosevelt may be retained and enlarged."

Houston became active in Democratic politics in 1932. An effective speaker, he campaigned for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President in that year, and served as chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Eastern Division of Colored Voters in 1936. The Hatch Act prevented him from taking part in the 1940 presidential campaign because he was a special assistant to the attorney general. He voluntarily retired from his Department of Justice post on Aug. 31.

Local Lawyer on Auditing Body

Attorney H. L. Richardson has been appointed one of a committee of 21 to audit budgets of various charity organizations and to authorize expenditure of money of such organizations, it was revealed this week.

His duties include auditing of the budgets of white as well as Negro organizations. This is the first time a Negro has been offered such a position, it was reported.

LIONEL HAMPTON'S CASA MANA SHOW IN SWING CONCERT FOR SOLDIERS AMERICAN WOMEN'S VOLUNTARY SERVICES

Hacienda village was the scene of much merry making Saturday nite from 9 until 12 p. m. a community dance with refreshments. The soldiers from the 76th and 75th Chemical Units were the guests of honor, and Mr. Horace Owens was the host assisted by Mrs. Faustina Johnson, manager of the village, Miss Sara Hunter, recreation leader and other staff members. Hostesses from th village and Los Angeles made the evening a huge success. After the dance Mr. Owens arranged thru the courtesy of "Joe", owner of the Plantation Club, for all of the soldiers to go over and see the floor show. A fine show out there too, snappy chorus, Chas. Owens, that silver toned tenor, and a Casey Mitchell new here from Denver, but a dancing sensation. Both these boys are defense workers, but certainly could make top billing anywhere in their respective professions—did not get the names of the rest of Plantation revue but all are "tops". Must get out there and get acquainted. The South Los Angeles people are doing their bit in big way and not making a lots of noise about either. Capt. Faustina Johnson's State Militia girls were there in uniform, had ben on maneuvers and it is work believ you me. The soldiers even in the mist of fun and frolic gave the girls all the courtesy due officers, salutes 'n everything. I over heard one Pvt. First Class say "you know I haven't been too enthusiastic about Uncles' Army, but when I see how nice these people in Los Angeles are treating the boys, and Democracy working like it's working here, well man, this is worth fighting for". Yes, spoke another soldier, Pvt. First Class Otis Bennett from Washington, D. C. "When I see these "Zoot Suits" I say give me Uncle's uniform every time.

Well, Sunday was a big day down in Long Beach. Baron Lawson's new show went down and with the Las Primas Club entertained the boys of the 76th Chemical and formally presented the set of drums those girls purchased. Lionel Hampton's big show next week will entertain all the men in uniform. It will be broadcast from coast to coast. And of course you know this whole week is soldiers appreciation week, now we must make this event one to be long remembered. The civic leaders and organizations have now joined forces with Lionel Hampton to make the soldiers appreciation week on the Eastside a mammoth occasion. The American Women's Voluntary Services, Miss Laura Slayton, chairman, The American Legion, Union Usher Board, Women's Civic Luncheon Club, Babies Sheltering League, The Las Primas club, Women's Ambulance & Nurse Corps of California State Militia, Mrs. Jessie L. Terry, Housing Commissinoer and Race Relations advisor of State Council of Defense, Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins, Mrs. Fay Allen, Board of Education, Mrs. Fay Beal, Director of Ben Bowie Glee Club, Mrs. Mary Caldwell, Correspondent Secretary of W. C. L. C. and the Negro Press. Cigarettes, shaving cream, razor blades, candy, gum, and books, and anything to make the soldiers happy can be left at all the Negro newspaper offices. All merchants and citizens are urged to contribute liberally to this worthy caues. Girls from the above named organizations will call upon every possible contributor. We can all play our part in this effort. See Lionels entire Casa Mana Revue in big swing concert and jam session for our men in the armed forces, he will play outstanding numbers he played when he was with Benny Goodman, also his own Decca Recording "Flying Home", the record that has broken all records with over 30,000 sold.

Jennie Chisholm Rites Tomorrow

Mrs. Jennie Simmons Chisholm, native of Charleston, S. C., died Wednesday, Sept. 9. She is survived by her husband, Sol Chisholm; a son, Clarence Edward Chisholm; a daughter, Lucille White, of New York City; and a host of friends in Los Angeles and New York.

Rosary will be recited at Angelus Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The funeral service will be Saturday at 10 from St. Joseph's Catholic church, 12th and Los Angeles.

Mrs. Pauline Bruce New Chairman of Eliza Warner Red Cross Unit

The Eliza Warner Auxiliary of the Red Cross held its annual election of officers at the 22nd street playground, Aug. 11. The auxiliary was organized by Mrs. Esther T. Greenlee, who has served very ably as chairman for two years. Under her splendid leadership, ably assisted by Mrs. Katie Farrel, who served as sewing and supply chairman, the auxiliary has turned in over 500 perfectly finished garments to the Red Cross chapter. Mrs. Beatrice Sterns has served faithfully and efficiently as secretary.

Too much praise cannot be given the out-going officers.

The newly elected officers are as follows: chairman, Mrs. Pauline Bruce; vice chairman, Mrs. Annette Hudson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Henriette Baker; supply and sewing chairman, Mrs. Katie Farrell; knitting chairman, Mrs. Jane Hayes; publicity chairman, Mrs. Edythe Warner.

The auxiliary meets each Tuesday at the 22nd street playground from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and all ladies are invited to attend and help with this work. There are different types of work to keep all busy and the need is great.

Young lady, does an old TABOO prevent your knowing this help?

In less enlightened days, women didn't discuss these things. Now, it's different. If a woman suffers from periodic cramp-like pain and other purely functional distresses, she tries to learn how to help herself.

Thousands of women praise the 2-way help of Cardui. Taken as a tonic, it usually peps up the appetite, stimulates the flow of gastric juices, thus aiding digestion and thereby helping build up energy and resistance. Started three days before the time, and taken as directed, it should help relieve much purely functional, periodic pain.

Try CARDUI. A 62 year record says it may help!

E POWER OF PRAYER

Many of us have gotten away m the bible and its teachings. longer do we believe in Pray- and its ability to change our of life. The Power of Pray- can bring about that peace of d and contentment that our ls long for.

The stars and planets are God's ndiwork, likewise Nature, the d Earth and all its surround- s. If we should stop and think whence our blessing come, we uld realize that this gr at Cre- r can help us, if we will but k.

Why long for the things that ght be ours, or wish for peace d contentment, when there is e who can make everything ht, if we will but trust in Him d Pray.

P. Perhaps I have not expres- d my sincere appreciation to u for the help you have given e. Your advice alone has been light to my pathway.

E. W. Will I have a house to yself before Winter?
ns. It comes to me that you ould make every move now to nd a place, for your Father-in- w does not wish to get rid of s friend. I vision that you shall e settled by November.

E. Does my boy friend love e?
ns. It appears that your young iend is very much interested in ou. The other girl is older than ou and a type that demands at- ntion. There is nothing to fear om her.

G. Will I be forgiven and our iendship resumed?
ns. After a careful study of your ase, it comes to me that you shall ocket your pride and ask forgive- ess. His love for you shall blot ut the past and all will be well.

. S. Can you tell me when the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children was started?
Ans. Several States now have such agencies. The first of these was formed in New York City in the year of 1875.

Z. H. L. What is best for me to do?
Ans. Of the four things you have in mind. I suggest that you consider reconciliation with your husband.

A. L. D. Please advise me what to do.
Ans. It comes to me that you and your husband are having domestic difficulties. I suggest that you have a heart to heart talk and try to bring up a budget that will fit your family of six.

R. M. Am I in love with this man?
Ans. Your very doubts as to whether you should continue caring for this man shows that you are not deeply in love. He is not in the position to return your affections, therefore I suggest that you dispense with this friendship.

L. H. When will I go to California?
Ans. It comes to me that your husband has been planning for some time to go to California next summer. He may not go, but it seems that you will take a trip there.

C. M. I'm a lonely widow. Will I meet someone soon?
Ans. Being alone for three years is not a very long time, however I vision you finding the companionship you desire this winter.

T. H. I greatly appreciate the very thorough and excellent advice you've given me from time to time.
P. E. Can I depend upon my friend?
Ans. It comes to me that your friend is in earnest about the matter he talked to you about on Aug. 12.

Last Rites Held for Thomas E. Stubblefield

Funeral services for one of the West's best known business men, Thomas E. Stubblefield, who died on Saturday, Aug. 29, at the Alvarado hospital at the age of 63, were held in the Ivory Chapel of the People's Funeral Home Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 1 p. m. with scores of sorrowing friends in attendance.

Founded Cuban Laboratories

Best known as the founder and head of the Cuban Laboratories and maker of Hy-O-line, one of the most popular of hair preparations, Mr. Stubblefield also headed the Mutual Circulating Service, which handled the distribution of the nation's major Negro newspapers.

Aside from these activities, Mr. Stubblefield's loss is keenly felt by members of the Coast's free-lance newspaper corps, to whom he had for years acted as a sort of God-father, always ready with assistance. One room of his establishment was a replica of o newsroom and in it many newspaper stories were written by his friends of the press.

Was Kentuckian

Born in Paducah, Ky., Mr. Stubblefield was in Pullman service for many years. He made Los Angeles his headquarters in 1925 and almost immediately started his newspaper service. In 1932, at an age when most men are ready to retire, he launched the Cuban Laboratories, and began the manufacture of cosmetics which now are sold all over the nation. Woolworths and other nationally famous stores handle many of his products.

In 1936, Phillip Jones, brilliant young business man and former general manager of the Chicago Defender, became associated with Mr. Stubblefield, and with his coming busines of the firm stepped up and expanded into national fields.

Enjoyed Full Life

Mr. Stubblefield had enjoyed a full life and was ambitious to create a business which would continue after his death. He frequently told associates that this ambition would be fufilled because in his partner, Mr. Jones, he had found the man he sought to "carry on."

Death came to Mr. Stubblefield after an illness of three weeks. He became ill shortly after his return from his annual trip to the East to visit the Pittsburgh Courier, the Chicago Defender and relatives in Kentucky.

He is survived by a widow, Grace, of Bardstown, Ky., and other relatives.

Representing the family in the funeral coriege were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hill, and Mrs. M. F. Bowman. Pall bearers included Maceo Sheffield, Lawrence F. LaMar, Earl Griffin, Billy Smith, Journee White and Harry Mercer. Rev. George A. Miller was in charge of the service.

Burial was at Lincoln Memorial cemetery.

SANTA MONICA MATRON HONORS TEXAS TEACHER

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Gertie Welch, prominent Santa Monica matron, was a charming hostess at her home on Delaware street, when she honored Mrs. Virgil Goree, school teacher of Texarkana, Texas, with a delightful two-course luncheon Thursday, Aug. 27.

The tables and living room were artistically arranged with a variety of flowers by Mrs. Ida Thornton. Mrs. Peter Welch also assisted. The guests were Mmes. Howard Goree, Ida Thornton, Elizabeth White, Lucille Linly, Zella Turner, Peter Welch, Henry Noble, Ella Marshall, Blanche Carter, Webster King, Beatrice Morgan, and Mrs. Nathaniel Fearonce, who is visiting her brother in Los Angeles.

The Oscar DePriest unit of the WPSC staged a colorful victory wedding in conjunction with their annual tea Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Marcus O. Tucker on 20th street. This unique affair was directed by Mrs. Clara Trotter and Mrs. Eunice Ward. Among the participants were a group from Phillip's Temple CME church, Los Angeles. James Stewart portrayed Uncle Sam in his official uniform. Mrs. Nelson Greenwood, nee Lois Boswell, was a white bride; Mrs. Alvin Billings, a blue bride; and Miss Soudelle Bruce, a red bride. They were wed to the following men of the armed forces: Lieut. McTuyere to Mrs. Greenwood; Lieut. Peoples to Mrs. Billingslea; and Lieut. Crozier to Mrs. Bruce. Mrs. Ida Gordon, of Santa Monica, also a white bride, was wed to Moses Hopkins. Ralph Tucker was one of the best men.

Herbert Ward acted as minister, performing the ceremony in his inimitable manner. Mmes. Daisy Foster and Besssie Lawrence, as matrons of honor, were attractive in pink and white. Misses Richards, Marie Morgan, Allene Celistan, Lillie B. Williams, and Melba Meshach were beautiful as pastel-gowned bridesmaids. La Rita Brown, Carol Marie and Dede Azner were flower girls. The ringbearers were Simon and Marcus Tucker jr., who sounded the trumpet preceding the wedding. Mrs. Eunice Ward was very beautiful in a white organdy gown with fittted bodice and bouffant skirt.

The affair was a huge success as always under the leadership of the president, Miss Elizabeth White. Scores of guests attended, including Will Rogers jr., and other candidates for office, who are extended thanks for contributing to the success of the affair. Thanks goes to Mr. and Mrs. Tucker for the use of their beautiful garden and for their hospitality, which is unsurpassed.

Mrs. Evelyn Moore, beauty shop proprietor of Euclid street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dooley of Los Angeles with a pleasant Sunday dinner. Mrs. Moore also has as house guest Mrs. Hazel White of Pasadena.

Mrs. Bessie Lewis, 1544 Euclid, is spending a few days at home after residing in Las Vegas.

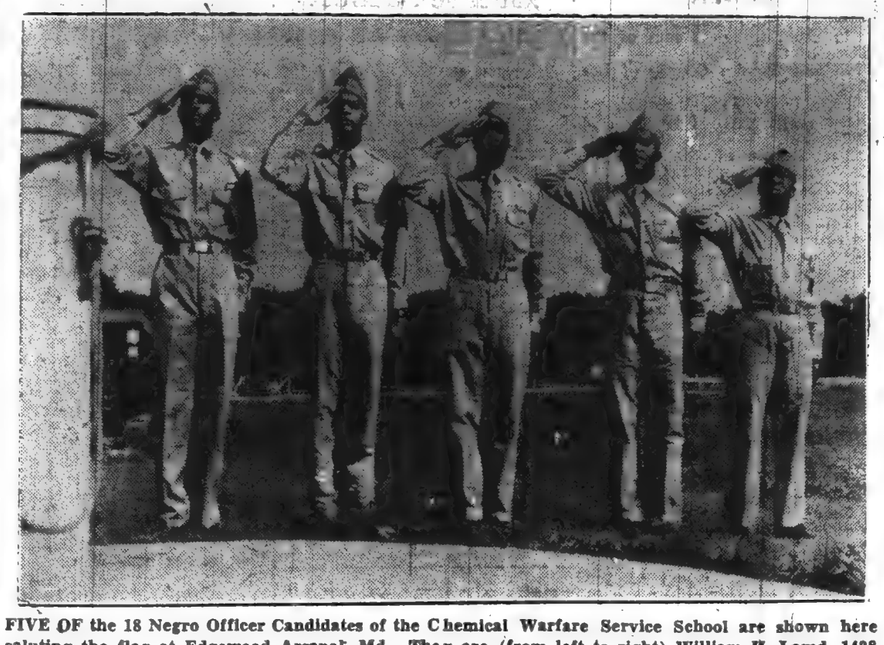
James P. Vernon Rites Set for Saturday

"One of The Faithful . . . has departed . . ."



Members of the St. Paul Baptist church were saying this week following the death of James P. Vernon, 59, on Monday night, for the deceased was a deacon in that church, and had been one of its most faithful members for many years.

Mr. Vernon, a city employee, had been ill for two years. A native of Alabama, he had lived in this city since 1914, and had been with the municipality for 13 years as a worker.

Services will be held at St. Paul's on Saturday at 2 p. m., with Rev. Anderson officiating in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Williams, who is absent from the city. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery. The People's Funral Home was in charge.

TO DILLARD—Miss Rita E. Miller, above, well-known in hospital and nursing education circles, has been appointed chairman of the Division of Nursing at Dillard university. Miss Miller, a Master of Arts in Nursing Education, a degree she took from Columbia university after having done considerable work at the University of Pennsylvania, Temple university and Simmons college, was formerly instructor and later educational director of the School of Nursing of Mercy hospital, Philadelphia. Operating as a strictly collegiate five-year course leading to a baccalaureate degree, the Dillard program represents the newest trend in nursing education.

500 Service Men Dance at USO Club in Oakland

OAKLAND, Sept. 10.—Over 500 service men danced to the latest music at the De Lemery USO club Saturday evening at 1651 Adeline street. It was the first "get acquainted" dance since the USO took over the program of the hospitality house, a recreational program of the mayor's defense recreation committee.

There was plenty of good eats, smokes, drinks and games and the latest music. The service men and the hostesses, the most charming and personable in the city, danced and jitterbugged all over the place. It was quite a sight to see the boys and girls sucking lollypops to the tune of "I Want a Tall Skinny Papa." In fact the place was "jumpin'."

Miss Marie Turner, the girl with a million dollar personality, took the stage and introduced Miss Mary Dixon Norris, an outstanding civic leader and newspaper woman of Oakland. She outlined the efforts of the people to carry forth the program of the hospitality house in the past and in thanking them pleaded for their continued support.

Teach me to lose my selfish need,
And glory in the larger deed,
Which smooths the road and lights the day.
For all who chance to come my way.—Edgar A. Guest.

On The Sidewalk

(This week's Sidewalk is the continuation of a parallel between the current war and the Civil War begun in last issue.)

the Civil War ushered in the second revolutionary period in American history. The issue was clear: either the Slavocracy would continue and broaden its control of the nation or that control would be snatched away by the rising tide of Northern industry and its free Labor.

As Frederick Douglas at once recognized, the cause of the North was the cause of the Negro's freedom. How else could the industrialists break the slave competition?

Emancipation, however was not the simon pure gift of the industrialists or was it merely a skillful move in a game of economic Monarchs. The most potent influence demanding freedom for the Negro people—outside the very nature of the economic situation—was the Negro people, North and South.

So long as the nature of the war was not clearly defined (before emancipation). Thousands of Negro workers were the backbone of Confederate economy. It was, among other things, the desire to break that back bone which motivated the great Proclamation.

Even beforehand, however, Negro soldiers in the Union armies demonstrated the positive power of the black man—his desirability as an ally.

TODAY, the situation is similar. The free world is arrayed against a proponent, not of slavery for the South, but slavery for the world. Even the direst reactionary engaged in a sincere battle against this enemy the ranks of Progress

Victory over the current enemy demands as a fact of military nature, that ALL anti-Fascist forces are utilized and mobilized.. To do less is to flirt with defeat—and the people know it.

Enslaved men cannot fight for anything less than their liberation. This is the only basis upon which the Indian people can be drawn into an adequate protection against the invader. They must know their lives are not spent merely for the protectionn of British investments. Liberation for India, aside from moral considerations, must come if that giant subcontinent, the crossroads of the world, is to be saved from the Axis. It is a military neccessity.

So with the Negro people in America. We are ten percent of this nation. We are ten percent of its manpower—of its vital to victory production. We are ten percent of its soldiers on the field. Soldiers must fight for something that they believe, something that is real. A promisory note on freedom is not enough for the man who offers his life in payment for that freedom.

We are ten percent of America. ALL America is needed for victory. Who would limit our service in this great anti-slavery battle endangers the United States and all its people. We must be freed. It is a military neccessity.

PAUL ROBESON. . .. .as he told reporters in the Mayor's office yesterday, "Negro citizens must have their full rights now because this is the way to lick Hitler."

CONNELLY, MRS. BASS DRAW 'VICTORY' CHEERS

That the citizens of Los Angeles are unified as never before behind a concrete war program was richly evidenced Monday night at the Philharmonic auditorium victory gathering sponsored by the United Citizens for Victory Committe.

Speech which brought most spontaneous popular outburst was that of Phillip Connelly, CIO Industrial Council secretary, which called for an immediate second land front in western Europe.

Second to this in popular favor was the address of Eagle editor Charlotta A. Bass, who asked end of poll tax evil as a war measure and rigid enforcement of the President's executive order 8802.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron voiced a civic welcome to the United Citizens for Victory Committee. Also participating was the chior under direction of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, which performed her "Let's Go, Americans."

Hank Asks Freedom for Coleman

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Henry Armstrong, the famous prizefighter, the only man to hold three world's championships simultaneously, spoke out today for the freedom of Festus Coleman.

The great boxer is himself on the comeback trail and he spoke with sympathy for the plight of the young Negro who was sentenced to 65 years in San Quentin after conviction by an all-white jury in a hostile court on charges of "rape and robbery."

"I support the campaign for the freedom of Festus Coleman. I consider the decision against him unfair and hope the people of California will force the issue to give him another chance so that he will have his freedom," said Armstrong.

In calling upon the people of California to "force the issue." Armstrong spurred on the campaign for a pardon for the young Negro.

Coleman is no longer a matter for the judges, who have mishandled the case, except for Judge Ray Peters of the District Court of Appeals, who went on record for a new trial.

Soldier Found Dead at Fort Huachuca

FORT HUACHUCA, Ariz., Sept. 17.—Private first class Vernon Gibson, a member of Company A of the 368th Infantry here in the 93d Division, was found dead in bed at his home near Half-way House, Ariz., last week.

Army medical authorities said his death came as a result of hardening of the arteries.

Pvt. Gibson had been in the army one year and three months. His home was in Waco, Texas.

P. O. Workers Expose Conditions

There has been a big bally hoo about the WPB and the FEPC and their activities in big industry. Most Federal employees feel that it would be well for these agencies to do a little research within the confine s of the government. Many practices condoned in the service are forbidden in private industry.

—Thus states a release today from the United Federal Workers of America, CIO.. Furtherfi the statement points out:

We are in an all-out war and we are out to win. Every man and his family must be assured of economic security. All American workers, while giving their utmost, must receive a square deal.

Conditions in the Los Angeles are shocking. Some men work post office department today 48 hours per week and receive no more than others doing the same job 40 hours per week.

Work at Vega, Lockheed? ATTENTION!

Workers at Lockheed and Vega aircraft plants are urged to attend a meeting Sunday at 3p. m. at the 28th St. YMCA, 28th and Paloma streets, at which valuable information concerning entrance into the International Association of Machinists will be available.

The long fight conducted by Negro workers at Lockheed-Vega to secure full participation in the Machinists union appears heading toward climax.

Meet Will Demand End of Discrimination, Second Front and Indian Freedom

Internationally celebrated Paul Robeson hit Los Angeles yesterday. Here to take part in the city's huge victory rally tonight at the Philharmonic auditorium (the entire affair is free to —and for— L. A. citizens), Robeson was accompanied bydistinguished Dr. Max Yergan, president of the National Negro Congress.

In the morning, the great singer performed at the Inglewood plant of the North American aircraft plant. Thunderous applause rose from the hundreds of war workers whom Robeson termed 'a battle force of the free world.'

In the afternoon at the City Hall, Robeson told newsmen that "the Negro struggle is the struggle of the free people of the world against Fascism. It is also the struggle of the Indian people and of the African people."

KNOWS HITLER

"I know what this guy, Hitler, is like," continued the baritone,"—I've seen him work. I've seen it in Austria, in Poland, in France. The danger is tremendous! I know what it will take to whip Hitler. It wil take all of Africa, all of Asia, all of the American people, all of the British people.. These are ALL anti-Fascist people. They can only win through full use of each group, fighting not only against the same thing but for the same thing, freedom. American Negroes must have all their rights, for this is the way to lick Hitler. India must be freed, for this is the way to lick Hitler. There must be a second front in western Europe now because this is the way to lick Hitler."

At three o'clock, Robeson and Dr. Yergan were greeted officially by Mayor Fletcher Bowron, one of the supporters of tonight's rally.

Sponsored by the Council on African affairs, of which Robeson is president, the rally will demonstrate unity of the Negro people in America's war effort, emphasize the urgency of victory over the Fascist race theorists, and, in support of the President's war policy, demand immediate opening of a Second Front in Western Europe.

Robeson will share the platform with Dr. Max Yergan, executive director of the Council on African Affairs, president of the National Negro Congress ,and formerly faculty member of the College of the City of New York.

DRAMATIC—SPECTACULAR

A vision for patriots will be the historic platform of the Philharmonic Thursday night. No solemn row of "dignitaries will be seated thereupon, but the very men and women who are fighting on the front lines for America's victory—white and Negro soldiers who share the danger of battle will be there, man and women of all races whose service in our great war factories make futnre victories possible. Also will be representatives of the fighting United Nations, the British, Chinese, Russian, Free French, and our new South American ally —Brazil, whose population is 20 percent Negro.

The urgency of giving Negro people in America full opportunity to work and to fight for our nation's victory will be stressed. That every support should be given President Roosevelt's executive order 8802, which outlaws industrial discrimination on the grounds of race or creed, will be showin as a vital part of conducting an all-out war against Fascism. Support will also be pledged the Chief Executive's agreement with the Russian government to establish e second front in 1942.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles committee of 100 aiding in sponsorship of the rally said "Negroes pledge unconditionally their lives, their property, their sacred honor to our country's war effort, recognizing it as a crusade against a vicious tyrant whose first act upon his victory, would be the re-enslavement of our people. But the Negro people cannot serve their country fully in this just war untill the last vestige of discrimination and segregation is driven from the life of our great democracy.

"Further, we are aware of the

DEFEAT OF TALMADGE, POLL TAX VICTORY HELD 'REAL TRIUMPH'

Georgia Governor Conducted "White Supremacy" Campaign; Unionist Wins

WASHINGTON, D. C.— Sept. 17—Only the President's signature was needed this week to make the Ramsey Soldiers Vote Bill the law of the land, thus permitting all men and women in the Nation's armed forces to vote in the primaries and general elections in every State in the Union, including eight poll-tax states, without having to pay to exercise this right guaranteed by the Constitution, and paving the way for the Pepper-Geyer anti-poll tax bills which will free ten million Negro and white civilans in the South to express themselves in favor of a Victory Congress that will support the Administration's win-the-war policies.

The House passed the bill September 9 by the thumping majority of 247 to 53. Actually the House voted approval of two amendments to the bill, which the Senate had approved August 25 by a vote of 33 to 20. One of these amendments eliminated the poll tax as an absentee votir., requirement for all members of the armed forces; the other made the bill applicable to primary as well as general elections.

Immediate effect of this important victory for the Nation's war effort was to spur House action on Discharge Petition Number 1, to bring the Geyer bill to the floor for a vote. On the same day that final approval was won for the Soldier Vote Bill, six Congressmen including Representative Joseph A. Gavagan, of New York, signed the Geyer petition.

Gavagan, himself the author of an anti-poll tax bill, acted after receiving in his office a delegation of Negro and white trade union leaders from New York, led by representatives of the National Negro Congress. Only ten

ATLANTA, GA.— Sept. 17—Crushing defeat of Governor Eugene Talmadge in his effort to serve his 4th term as chief executive of this state at the hands of Attorney General Ellis Arnall was laid directly to 'Our Gene's' ante-bellum, white supremacy campaign and the newly gained strength of the Labor movement here, which battled Talmadge to a fare-thee-well.

Loud month Talmadge, most talkative of the U. S. Fascist Front, skyrocketted to national disrepute a year ago when he took over Georgia's educational system, fired "furriners" (Northerners), and proclaimed that there would be no subversive propaganda from the Yankees about racial equality while he was Governor.

As the result of his dismissal of the State educational director, a "furriner" from Iowa with racial equality ideas, a dozen Georgia schools of higher learning were dropped from accredited standing by the American Educational Association and students at the State college gave the Governor a cordial burning in effigy.

REAL TROUBLE

Real trouble developed, however, when the Governor openly associated himself with the known pro-Fascist, anti-Roosevelt and anti-war group in the South and became its national spokesman.

In the last two months, Talmadge has leveled a blistering attack against the Negro people. Though his stooge, Col. Lindley W. Camp, he ordered out the State guard against the State's Negro population and issued a statement, carried nationally by the rotten Scripps-Howard news service, United Press, to the effect that the action was neccessary as a precaution against "Negro rapists."

GOV.'S DEATH KNELL

Death knell for Gov. Eugene was the coalition of CIO and AFL unions which relentlessly exposed Talmadge's Fascist connections, which always accompany the anti-war, anti-Negro agitators.

More than this, the Labor group dared to pooh-pooh the sacred cow of Georgia politics, 'white supremacy.' Pamphlets were distributed in factories telling the workers that race prejudice could people when what we need only divide the American most of all is national unity.

more signatures were needed to bring the bill up, and supporters of the legislation expressed the belief that these would be quickly forthcoming.

Leaders of the National Negro Congress, which has conducted a campaign for abolition of the poll tax over a period of years, asserted that the "real struggle against the defeatists and pro-Hitler poll-tax forces in and out of Congress" will have to be conducted in the Senate, where the sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee has not yet reported on the Pepper Bill. This sub-committee is headed by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming.

Woman Has Boy Friend Arrested

Arthur J. Kemper, 1017 E. 21st St., young man-about-town, has been held to answer on charges of assault with a deadly weapon after a preliminary hearing before Judg eCharles B. McCoy last Thursday afternoon. His arrest was brought about upon complaint of Miss Bessie Mae Gooden of 631 E. 41st Pl., his asserted girl friend who testified that on the night of Sept. 2nd, Kemper assaulted her with a large 2x4 plank taken from a fence and broke her arm during a quarrel. Mr. Kemper's attorney subjected the Gooden woman to a searching cross-examination, in which she admitted that the two had had a number of violent arguments. He was released on bail after the hearing and ordered to appear in Dept. 41 of the Superior Court on Sept. 24.

Card of Thanks

The passing on September 2, 1942 of my dear wife, Julia O. Stewart, for many years my constant and faithful companion, was a blow which struck me so forcibly that it will be difficult for me to recover from its effects.

The fine spirit shown by our many friends calls for an expression from me for the many kindnesses shown to my wife, Julia, during her illness, as well as the respectful solicitations, flowers, and cards of condolence during my bereavement.

Julia O. Stewart was a wife of which any man would have been proud. She was kindly, sympathetic and solicitous for the well-being of others. Though she is gone, she is not forgotten; and the many friendships developed out of her untimely earthly end, gives me strength to fight on and appreciate the friendship shown me, out of respect for her, by my neighbors and friends.

Signed:

Over 100 Honor W. J. Chapmans on 50th Wedding Anniversary

Over 100 guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shackelford to pay tribute to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chapman in honor of their 50th Wedding Anniversary. The ceremony began with a procession of the four before the bride and groom. Mr. Wm. H. Shackelford sang the Lord's Prayer, after which Mr. Jesse Graves gave some of the life history and encouraging remarks about the family for the past fifty years. Then the guests were thrilled to pass Mr. and Mrs. Chapman who were seated in the spacious garden and shake their hands and give them their glad tidings. The enjoyable food was served in buffet style and was appreciated by all.

Mrs. Chapman was beautifully dressed in rose taffeta and white styled with shirred waist and full skirt with puffed sleeves. Mr. Chapman was properly attired for the occasion. The couple were cordially attended by their children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

Among those in the receiving line were Mrs. Camille M. De Verney, Mrs. Albertine Green, Mrs. Frances Garden, Mrs. Imogene Saunders and Mrs. Earline Reed. Mrs. Inez Allen and Mrs. E. Robinson.

Pictures were taken, after which the couple was presented with many lovely and useful gifts in honor of the occasion.

Among those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Ward Chapman and Sylvia Hill of Oakland; Mrs. Anna Lasker, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shackelford; Mr and Mrs. Frances Goaden and family; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Green; Mr. Counte Basie, New York; Mr. Rex Ingram; Mr. Lawrence F. LaMar and Freddie Green of New York; Monte W. Hawley, and Elder and Mrs. F. L. Peterson.

Mrs. Mattie Parker Entertains Friends

A special event of importance occurred on Sunday when Mrs. Mattie Parker one of our community's socialites entertained her friends at dinner in the large dining room of the Golden State. The table was centered with gorgeous white asters and carnations which were later replaced with a glowing birthday cake in pink and white, the color scheme of the occasion.

Places were laid for eight with Mrs. Parker's marked by a profusion of lovely gifts and cards. A four course dinner was served climaxed by the arrival of the cake. The guest list included Mrs. Rosa Walder, Mrs. Clara Currie, Mrs. James Simmons, Mrs. Bertha Mark, Mrs. Rena Daniel.

The Vogetts Girls club met at the lovely home of Mrs. Marjorie Ellis, their vice-president. Following the meeting, a lovely Spanish dinner was served and brdige prizes were won by Miss Lula Mae Yarbrough, Miss Mae and Miss Sammie Mae Yarbrough. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Hattie Davis.

FWA Heads Told to Curb Race Bias

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Specific instructions to regional directors of the Federal Works Agency to guard against race in the war public works any discrimination because of program of the FWA have just been issued, according to an announcement by Brigadier General Philip B. Fleming, FWA administrator.

These instructions are incorporated in what is known as Field Operations Instructions and were issued over the signature of Baird Snyder, FWA assistant administrator.

The first set of instructions, Field Operations Instructions No. 13, deals with the non-discrimination policy in determining the need for war public works in strategic areas. The regional director is informed that "it is a responsibility of your office to require that the evidence of need be presented to the Regional Program Review Board in such fashion as to indicate that needs of Negroes are being considered. This means that in order to be realistic, statistics on in-migrant war workers, school attendance, school facilities, hospital beds, etc., should be presented where necessary for Negroes as well as for the total population."

MRS. LOTTIE WOOD DIES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Mrs. Lottie Wood, 67, 1602 E 52nd street died Monday morning after a lengthy illness. She was a native of Grand Gulf, Miss., andand had lived in Los Angeles 23 years. She is survived by her husband, Mr Wilson Wood, and a daughter, Mrs. L. D. McLaughlin. The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. from the New Hope Paptist church with Rev. J. D. Gordon officiating. The People's Funeral Home is in charge.

REDLANDS WPSC UNIT HOLDS ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIP TEA

The Phyllis Wheatley Unit of the Women's Political Study club held its annual scholarship tea at the home of the president, Mrs. Henrietta G. Freeman. The spacious garden and patio were arranged with beautiful pot plants and cut flowers. A large gathering of friends and visitors were in attendance at this worthy affair. Mrs. R. A. Wagner, co-hostess, was very careful to see to it that everyone had a lovely time. A short and appropriate program was rendered after which dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. Betty Hughes and Mrs. Robert Burton poured at the tea table. Mrs. M. E. Jackson, secretary of the unit, very graciously took care of all registrants.

Mrs. Echo Robinson, president of the Frederick Douglass Unit, Mrs. Belle Riley, campaign manager; Miss Maude Evans, stenographer and switchboard operator in the office of campaign headquarters, Mrs. Evans, and Miss Carter were guests from Los Angeles. From San Bernardino came Mrs. M. Muckleroy, president emeritus of the Anna B. Garner Study club; Mrs. A. Waters, president; Mrs. Mabry Ratcliff, and Mrs. Hutchinson, many local friends, and visitors, and Mrs. A. Mott from Riverside. All were strong in their expression of a very delightful and beneficial afternoon enjoyed. We were honored to have among our guests Van Collins, the distinguished son in colors of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Collins. Van has spent many months in military camps in Texas and other southern states.

SELLS FOR LESS

The sun played peek-a-boo, Sunday morning but in the afternoon it smiled joyously upon a happy concourse that had gathered in the garden of the Fountain of Youth, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Johnson to honor Mr. Christopher Scott and Mr. Alva Garrott, recently appointed Supernitendent and Assistant Superintendent respectivelyy of Station K.

Against a setting of beautiful flowers and herbage, the receiving line, composed of Mrs. S. P. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Garrott, Assemblyman Hawkins and wife, Judge and Mrs Jefferson, Mrs. Bessie Burke and Doctor and Mrs. E. I. Robinson, formed. The gorgeous gowns of the ladies and the splendid attire of the men created a magnificent picture. The line was confronted with the Fountain of Youth of which the sun kissed bubbles formed a dance pavilion for water sprites.

After social honors had been shown the members of the receiving line, the physician's wife, co-hostesses to Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Johnson, served delicious refreshments, prepared by the efficient cateress, Mrs. Elmira Spencer and her able assistant, Mrs. Elizabeth Sneed.

Mr. George Beavers, broadcasting over station J-O-Y acted as master of ceremonies. The following organizations, through their respective representatives, gave brief felictattons to the honored guests: Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical association, the Los Angeles Business Men, Postal Employees, and the ministry. The sororities and fraternities, the YWCA and YMCA, labor, motion picture industries, women's clubs, and citizen's groups. The honored guests responded to the many well deserved compliments uttered. The prevailing sentiment was that as a Negro group we had not yet arrived but in the witticism of the late Will Rogers, "We are coming."

Mingled with the melodious notes of the music was joyous laughter. It was a cheery companion, gurgling and chuckling as it spouted—the Fountain of Youth.

USO, Junior League Sponsor Garden Party in Riverside

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 17.—Sponsored by the USO and the University Heights Junior league, a garden party was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Parsons, on 11th street, where 22 Negro soldiers from March Field participated. The soldiers were in charge of Lts. Ernest Dunn and John H. Pullins. Also assisting with program activities were Miss Verna Gordon, league president, and Rev. Zora Banks, chairman of USO activities in the University Heights district. Headed by T. Lloyd Hickman, of San Bernardino, the Junior league staged a program of entertainment for Negro soldiers at Indio on Sunday at the equest of Mrs. Margaret Deneen, formerly of Riverside.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Norine Gordon, war service recreation leader at Lincoln Park, a group of 50 girls from Riverside and San Bernardino, were taken to March Field by bus Thursday evening, Sept. 8, to entertain the enlisted men recently stationed there. The evening was spent in pleasant conversations and dancing. Refreshments were served. Those assisting Mrs. Gordon as chaperons were Miss Angie Lee Strickland, Mrs. Viola Fleming, Mrs. Pearl Jackson, Rev. Zora Banks and Mrs. Edna Williams.

DEPUTY G. M. FETED

Starling J. Hopkins, present deputy grand master of the Most Worshipful Sovereign Grand Lodge of California and Jurisdiction, was honored at a reception Friday evening, Sept. 11. The reception was given by members of Orange Valley Lodge No. 13 and Queen Elizabeth Chapter No. 8. Other friends were present also. A short program, including readings by Mrs. Virginia Armstrosng and Mrs. Matilda Williams; solo, Mrs. Anne Monroe; short talks by Stanley Beverley, worshipful master of Orange Valley lodge, and Mrs. Hettie Carter, past matron of Queen Elizabeth chapter; three accordian numbers by DeVonne Armstrong of Chicago; one accordian number by Lottie Williams; short talks by Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins. Albert Gordon, past master of Orange Valley lodge, served as master of ceremonies. Appetizing refreshments of chicken salad, coffee, ice cream, cake and other novelties were served.

HOSTS LUNCHEON

Mrs. Lena B. Porter was host to a lovely luncheon Monday, Aug. 24. Cut flowers graced the table. Mrs. Esther B. Isaac, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Black, past president of the Esther B. Isaac unit of the WCTU, was hon red guest. Those present were Mrs. A. Bryant, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Bratton, state vice president; Mrs. Freeman, president of one of the Riverside units; Mrs. E. A. Williams, Mrs. Isaac, having attended state college at Baltimore, Md., Howard university, USC and Northwestern, was well-equipped for her big job.

Mrs. Esther B. Isaac, national field worker for whom the Riverside WCTU unit was named, was speaker for the unit at the Settlement House, Aug. 24, at 3 p. m. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Mary Alves and presided over by Mrs. Washington, vice president. Her subject, "You Can Win," was very ably discussed, assuring her audience that life is a battle from our first breath; also that anger is an outward demonstration of inner weakness, serving one as a hangover from intoxication. Her report showed work in Southland slow due to improper leadership. Her question, "How Can a Man Defend His Nation When He Can't Defend Himself," was indeed challenging. In closing, she admonished the members to keep in tune with the Christ; start at home, and city, state and nation would be cared for.

MISS ALLEN LEAVES

Many friends of Miss Lelora Allen bade her farewell as she boarded the train for Topeka, Kans., Saturday evening, in San Bernardino. Miss Allen was honored by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, at a sport dance Thursday evening, Aug. 27, at the Community Settlement House. She is planning to attend the vocational school in Topeka.

CHURCH SERVICES

Sunday, Aug. 30, was missionary day at the Second Baptist church. In the afternoon Rev. White delivered an inspiring sermon and Mrs. Amos, of Redlands, was the soloist.

Mrs. Inez Caston, and stepdaughter, spent a pleasant weekend visiting relatives and friends. She also visited her husband, Rev. J. L. Caston, who is now stationed at Camp Temescal.

I am sure that everyone can truthfully say that the women of Allen Chapel AME church certainly kept their promise about making Sunday, Aug. 30, Woman's Day, a memorial day. Before the introduction of the speaker, Mrs. Laura Hopkins sang "The Stranger of Galilee." Mrs. Anne Monroe then introduced Mrs. Mildred Mott, the speaker for the morning.

Speaking on the topic of "Service," Mrs. Mott, in her very calm way, delivered the very timely address. After the regular services, little Henrietta Johnigan, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Azzor Johnigan, of San Pedro, was baptized. Mrs. Ada Culpepper stood as her godmother. Several members of the family were present. Intermingled with numbers by the junior choir, three accordian numbers by Master DeVonne Armstrong, a trio number by Betty, Lillian and Lottie Williams; a reading by Lillian Williams, solo by Mrs. Della Russell, and two accordian numbers by Lottie Williams were rendered. For the evening program, readings were given by Miss Jeanne Gordon, "A Woman's Watch," and Mrs. Edna Williams, "Woman." Solos were sung by Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. Anne Monroe. Also several numbers by the gospel choir directed by Mrs. Shortridge. Delicious Italian dinners were served after the morning service and ice cream and cake were served following the afternoon and evening services. Mrs. Matilda Williams received a generous prize of $2.00 for bringing in the largest amount of money; Mrs. Lena Porter received $1.50 for the second prize. Mrs. Hattie McDowell, the third captain, received honorable mention.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. CHAPMAN, who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Her Betrothal Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Nelson announce the engagemet of their daughter, GLADYS GERALDINE, above, to Mr. Wallace Ray. Geraldine is a graduate of Polytechnic High and attended UCLA. She is a member of the Ivy Leaf Pledge club of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

The groom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray. He is a graduate of Manual Arts High school and is at present employed by theLockheed Aircraft Co. The couple plan to be married sometime this fall.

Mu-So-Lit Club Holds Meeting

The Mu-So-Lit club met at the residence of Mrs. Laura Randdall, 4008 Paloma street. It was the opening meeting of the season and a surprise miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Thelma Runnels, a recent bride. It was really a surprise for Mrs. Runnels had no idea what was going on until her mother, Mrs. Mary Palms led her into the dining room a sthe club sang, "Here comes the Bride", and found the table laden with many useful gifts for her. Our hostess served a delicious repast. Mrs. Gladys Allen, president.

Hale, Mr .and Mrs. Lewis Woods and Ellis L. Veil gave a written report of all that took place at the A. B. A.'s 10th annual championship. Two top-ranking players are a welcome addition to the membership roll of the G. W. B. A. They are Atty. and Mrs. Herman K. Barnett. The winners of the Friday, Sept. 4, game were N.-S., J. D. Dunn-Gene Robinson, 80 M. P.'s; second, Atty. Herman K. Barnett-Mrs. Gertrude T. Barnett 78 M. P.'s; Louis Beal -Ellis L. Veil, 78 M. P.'s; E. W., first, Elizabeth Harris-M. E. Tucker, 99½ M. P.'s; second, Elinor Floyd-Margaret Hale, 89½ M. P.'s; third, Carolyn Manuel-Jimmie Lawson, 88 M. P.'s.

★ CROWN CITY CAPERS

By PHILIPPA JONES

PASADENA—Well, after two weeks of absence, I'm back again with all of the news and various bits of gossip that have been going around.

Perhaps leading in all events is the attitude that some of the young men in Pasadena are taking to visitors from out of town. It seems as though these boys feel that it is their duty to give these out-of-towners a lasting impression of Pasadena and not a very good one. We have a town to be proud of, but how can we be if these certain groups insist upon influencing others in their belief that, "This is our town, so everyone else stay out or we'll put you out." Of course, they have their defense, claiming that the same treatment is given them when they leave Pasadena. But in the end what good does it do? It only promotes hard feelings—certainly no good will. It seems as though there is enough fighting in the world over more important matters without having little disagreements between different cities. We have all heard, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Well, why can't these groups practice this rule instead of agitating and trying to make more troulbe? Perhaps if they knew how the parents are objecting, they would act differently. For, you see, the mothers object to their daughters going out with boys taking the attitude that some of them have. So you see fellows for your own good had better take it easy and carry a flag of truce from now on. After all, you're not the only ones involved—give the girl a break.

Well, after getting that said, I'll turn to the lighter things of the day. The party Mrs. Blanche Duncan gave in honor of Jeanne Morrow who left to attend Fisk University was strictly on. The party, a surprise one, got under way about 10 o'clock, with Jeanne coming in with those present singing, "She's a jolly good fellow." Some of those attendin and having a good time were Thelma Jackson, Dickie Thornton, Helen Jones, Harry Lester, Mark Williams, Jackis Bunch, Johnny Burton, Gloria Bunch, Doris Prince, Hattie Williams, Bobbie Boswell, Harold Falkner, Paul Weaver, Enoch Spann, Carolyn Collier, J. T. Morgan and many others. Some marvelous punch was served and the party can be said to have been a complete success.

On the previous night, Friday, the Dena Debs, gave their Back To School party at Parrish Hall. Some of those attending were Dot Mims, Bob Brown, Creole Anderson, Bill Duncan, Harry Guild, James Anderson, Rufus Blake, Big Eddie Johnson, and others.

Also during that week Jerry Carter and Dickie Thornton gave a party at the latter's home. I heard it really jumped.

The Paul Robeson FREE concert tonight at Philharmonic auditorium will attract a large delegation from Dena. It's a rally in support of securing Negro rights now so that we may more effectively serve the Victory of our great country.

Comes Sunday, Sept. 20, the Fine Melloneers are giving a tea at the home of Carolyn Callier, 310 N. Orange Grove Ave. It is the club's first attempt at anything of this kind and they're hoping everyone will turn out and make the affair a success. The hours are from three to seven.

Away from the social side of things, we return to school. J. C. students started in wholeheartedly last Wednesday. Some of the ones and oldees attending East campus are Kenneth Cooper, Bill Duncan, Willie Slayton, Arthur Duncan, Dickie Thornton, Eliose Butler, Johnetta Smith, Teddy Jameson, Gloria Hawkins, and P. J. King. Will miss Lois Prince, who decided to West campus it. —Jayne Edwards, and Cookie Cooke.

The campus is much the same except classes have been put back an hour. Explanation: if you have an eight o'clock class you now have it at nine. It's really wonderful, for it's troulbe to get up and greet the moon in the morning.

HOW ABOUT THAT?

--Big Eddie Johnson is posing as the promising young busines man, but I hear he only made seven cents profit. --Gloria B. better have a small appetite when he takes her out. --Jaddie Blake is modeling a very fine suit that really comes on. . . . Lucille Harrison and P. J. King seem to be going together again. . . . . Willie Slayton is back at school being sharp in his football uniform . . . I hear Betty Benson has stopped being the lady of leisure and is now working. --Jackie Robinson, home on a furlough and looking awful foxy in his cavalry uniform. After all, there's something about a soldier. . . . . Lucille Harrison and Lora Jacques are back at school looking like the new editors of Vogue and Harper's Bazarr.

Jessie A. is now displaying Jaddie's watch. --Another J. to J. By the way, I hear the other J. is back from Chicago. . . . I hear Fred (youngest embalmer) Valentine is stil that way about Crystle Jones. . . . Hattie Williams and Dickie Thornton are two-soming it. I wonder who holds Jackie Bunche's heart? Haven't had a chance to ask Johnetta Smith abou her trip yet. A reception was also given in honor of Jeanne Morrow before she left. I hear Paul Devine is passing out a very smooth line of jive. . . . Clarence Williams is spending a lot of time at the Trowell household. Could it be Betty or Jeffie? Wonder how Paullyn Garned is? Robert Morgan has gone away to school, but not too far. . . . . I guess that's all for now, but I'll be back again next week if my health holds out (My excuse for the last two weeks absence). Hoping to see you at the Melloneers tea Sunday—try to make it.

Adios,

P. E. J.

P. S.

I hope Abbie (my brother) gets his furlough.

GUEST OF HONOR at a luncheon on Saturday, Sept. 12, was Miss Wanda Louise Desormes, above, who observed her 16th birthday. Other guests were Misses Barbara McMorris, Portia Hollins, Irene Armstrong, Yvonne Johnson and Ramona Harvey. Mesdames Marcella Miller and Thersa Grigsby were hostesses. The affair was given at the home of Mrs. Miller, 9422 Wilmington avenue. Wanda is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Desormes.

Phoenix Matron House Guest of Cousins Here

Mrs. Lonie Barksdale Washington, of Phoenix, Ariz., is visiting her sousins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Duncan, 1308 W. 35th street, and Mrs. Alena Dent, 243 E. 50th street, for the month of September.

Mrs. Washington and her husband are well known residents of Phoenix, Ariz., and are quite active in civic work there. Mr. Washington is president of the Phoenix Welfare Civic league and the Negro Soldier's Recreation center.

Mrs. Willie Williams Entertains at Dinner

Mrs. Willie Williams entertained at dinner, Aug. 28, at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Holcomb, 1221 E. 28th street. Present were Messrs. Effie Taylor, T. Peoples, and Mrs. Nancy T. Garner. The occasion was in honor of the departure of Mrs. Garner for the North to become the bride of Mr. Edward Wilson of Oakland on Sept. 6.

Mrs. Anna Washington Is Club Hostess

Mrs. Anna Washington was host to the Lilac Girls club. The second Friday in every month is the business meeting. All the members were present except Mrs. Johnson. A lovely repast was served, and three changes of bridge were played.

The first prize was won by Mrs. Alice Cotton; second, Mrs. Sarah Cage; and third, Mrs. Ella Cotton. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Hazel Junkins Bruce. Send all communications to Mrs. Velda Peden, 1197 E. 49th street.

Army Sergeant, Mates Visit Angel City

Sergeant L. K. Williams and a few of his men from Company M, including Booker Walker of this city, were in town recently. Walker is one of our soldiers who is not the night club kind. A man like him is hard to find. His many friends and loved ones miss him very much.

Sgt. Williams and his crew left Monday at 7 p. m. to return to duty for the Red, White, and Blue, and all that it stands for. "Victory is ours."—Rosa.

PROMINENT OAKLAND MATRONS ON VACATION HERE

Mrs. Jane Hudson, socially prominent matron of Oakland, and wife of Luther Hudson, pioneer mortician of that city, is the houseguest of Mrs. Zora Williams, of 3754 So. Van Ness avenue.

While vacationing in Southern California, Mrs. Hudson and Mrs. Candis Sadler, also of Oakland, are spending a few days at Lake Elsinore before returning to Los Angeles to be widely feted.

Garden Party Given By Pasadena Couple

One of the pleasant events of the summer was a garden party Labor Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Van Williams, 1101 Kirkwood avenue, Pasadena.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Williamses were Messrs. and Mmes. Roy Turner, Ed Copeland, S. Nichols, L. J. Groner, Herbert Mills, J. T. Burch, James Edwards, William Lawson, F. H. Parrish, Lena Morton, Lulu McDonald, Lela Belton, J. B. Frierson, M. Washington, Lee Chisum, Rev. B. D. Walker, C. M. Roland, and Mrs. W. Saxton.

DENVER CLUB

The Denver club meets Sunday, Sept. 20 at the home of Mrs. Katherine Turner, 1420 W. 35th Pl. At 5:00 p. m.

ASSOCIATION NOTES ★ GOLDEN WEST BRIDGE

The party given by Mrs. Beal and the members of the Golden West Bridge association for the foursome that went to Cleveland was a grand success. The chicken salad, cake, and coffee was greatly enjoyed by all present. The report of what went on at the nationals by this writer was well received and his interview of the other players was quite interesting. Mrs. Wood's report was good. Mrs. Wood's report was quite interesting, and Mrs. Hale's report was marvelous. Nothing of importance that happened at the tournament was overlooked. If you were not there, you missed something.

The GCC trophy is in great danger of being taken out of play if Margaret Hale, May Denton, Henry Denton, or Ellis L. Veil win the September series of Friday night plays, the trophy is theirs for keeps. Here is the standnig at the half-way point: Elizabeth Harris, Louis Beal, Ellis L. Veil, 159 MPs; Margaret Hale, Elinor Floyd, 157 MPs; Carolyn Manuel, 152 MPs; Viola Henry, Joe Henry, 147½ MPs; Al Matthews, Henry Denton, 147 MPs; Gene C. Campbell, May Denton, 145 MPs.

Just a reminder. We play Tuesday nights, first and third Thursday afternoons, 2:00 p. m.; every Friday and Sunday night.

There was a welcome home party for the four players who represented your association at the Nationals in Cleveland Saturday at your club room, 1054-56 East 54th street.

...a Key to Better Service

ON the major traffic corners in the downtown area we have, during the busy hours, a man called a "Loader."

He carries a key similar to the one pictured above and, when conditions warrant, he uses it to open center and rear doors for passengers to enter.

This "conductor-in-the-street" is your protection against possible traffic snarls at important intersections which might cause disruption of schedules along the entire line.

The "Loader" method is only one of many services which we use to insure an even flow of vehicles to transport you through crowded streets with the least possible delay.

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

The younger set is on its toes, eagerly awaiting the famed Kappa black and white formal. As usual, debs round town, don't know whether to wear black or white and Randolph Williams and other gents don't know whether tails or a tux will get the point over.

And, to top it all, about 50 or 60 haven't received bids as yet and are madly begging for them. Some of the debutantes have purchased new frocks without a bid, or a fellow in sight, but they know that everything will turn out all right and by some means or another, they'll get there. And that's just what will happen. Between the hours of 12:30 and 4:00 a. m., the full 400 will be on hand, jumping with the Kappa brothers at the Elks.

Kappa man Lowell Stewart says the affair will be put on in true Kappa style, with the old carefree spirit reigning. William Elkins, Rip Rnssell, Curtis Smith and other Kappas now in the armed forces will be missed when the Kappa Circle is formed, but they have not been forgotten. Pledges Lester Wagner, Sam Armstrong, and Austin Burchette will be on hand to do their usual side line Kappa cheering, along with superior Frat brothers Boby Green, Lorenzo Morris, Johnnie Brewer and Emmett Ashford.

Dozens of before and after affairs have been planned, and the younger set intends to make a night and morning of it. Yes, the Kappas plan to do it again!

USO EFFORT

Fashionably speaking, socially speaking, and otherwise, the Thirteen Toppers annual Coffee Hour and Fashion Review was tops from what I could see, as I blew in and out again. President Emma Milhouse looked her part in a fine pink and blue creation. While snatching a glance at the early comers, couldn't help but teke note of fashion setter Dorothy Duvall, quite the vogue in silhouete black with lengthy fushia gloves. Noticed Jessie Mae Milhouse, Dorothy Coleman, along with Albertyne Record, sipping coffee. Before departure I stole a quick peak at the models. They were all nervous and sstuff, waiting for their cue. Riding habits, draped suits, slacks, fox furs, etc., were quite in evidence. Outstanding models were Melba Foppe, in a 3-piece plaid suit with new Terrace green accessories. Popular Muriel Foley in sophisticated black with long pink gloves, as a dash of color. Madamoiselle Seagraves, also in black, with silver fox fur. Judging from the mode, models and group attending, the Thirteen Toppers had a top notch affair. Proceels taken in were used to purchase a combination radio and record player for the local USO center.

Connie Van Vactor and the girls of Second Baptist church are feeling pretty good after putting on such a grand day. Doris Garrison and Marion Patterson were outstanding on program, with their diffedent orations on "Finer Womanhood." Benzell Graham and youthful Marlene Jones thrilled the audience with their solo work.

The eveningprogram had a patriotic flavor, with yours truly acting as mistres of ceremonies. Maude Bilbrew did a bit of poetry, and Danellen Mayberry play the zylophone.

Naomi Fudge had a very novel entertainment last Thursday afternoon when she stayed a reunion of her old school chums back from the "Good Old days" of Junior and Senior high school. Old timers included Mmes. Gertrude Williams Jacke, Addie Douglas Lankford, Ursula Fudge Waller, along with Juanita Adams, Beatrice Battles, Vashti Peake, Beathice Washington, Anita Gray, Evelyn Bullock, Louise Calhoun, Iris Hodness, and Dorothy Joiner, visiting from Fontana.

After hashing and rehashing the Good Ole Days over a delightful repast served by the hostess, the school chums broke rank —maybe for the last time eogether.

WELL WELL WELL

Good kin, Clarence McNeeley, and a few hundred others have a root time at the Lincoln theater every Friday night watching the little jitterbugs. . . . Rachel Isom took time off from Douglas Defense plant tother night, to bid boyfriend Jackie Robinson farewell. Jackie returns to Fort Riley, Kansas. . . . Benzell Graham cut her Denver visit short this year in order to take part in the Dorothy Dandridge, Harold Nicholas wedding. Idell Johnson's back from Denver and looking fine. . . While Dorothy and Wally Baily were in town, they spent time with orchestra leader Cab Calloway—now how about that! Albert Hicks and Cornelius Cooper were quite the men of the hour on their recent visit. Made all the night spots, saw all the chicks, and solidly baller for six days. Betty Williams was the No. one deb on Albert's string this thip. . . . According to dame rumor, from up Oakland way, Wallace DeCuir isn't the 'lady killer" that he is, or was in good ole Los Angeles. The "Kool Kat" couldn't seem to get going—slipping?. . . Herbert Simmons is back in town, full of schalastic verve and jive as usual, Speaking of jivers, Darrington Weaver is the city's No. one man. . . . It's being whispered round town that Gert Lomax and Tamlin Harris are trying to forget the old fight and start anew, At the Lomax sisters patio party, Gert sported an orchid and Tam was the happy donner. Howeve, Bud Marshall is still on the scene. Now, how's that for a perfect triangle? Ruth Crosby was hostess last Thursday afternoon at luncheon honoring the return of Jackie Booker from the Lone Star State.

My two sisters, Fannie DeMan and Marion Brown are pitching a ball and living the life. Fannie finds Frisco a grand place, while Marion views the different skyscrapers and stomps at the Savoy ball room in Lil Ole New York. Both will be back home in near future. . . . Wonder why Harriet Patterson was so depressed t'other Sunday. Could she and Philip Robinson be on the outs? Congratulations are in order for Lovell Estelle and Muriel Warren, who became Mr. and Mrs. last Sun. night.

Also for Leo Williams, who's sporting diamonds on third finger left hand. Hear that Mrs. Tommy Mills, (Nee Ceal Neal), is planning to join hubby at army post in Texas.

According to latest, Lucille Gross and Herbie Boswell are planning to tie the knot in November.

That's all for this week. Will be seeing you at the Black and White.

Bon Voyage Party Honors Choir Leader

Mmes. Ellen Rhodes, Mary Dibrell, and Geneva Roberts entertained at a bon voyage party honoring Miss Anna Louis Jackson, directress of the Bethel Church of Christ gospel choir. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Ellen Rhodes, 4035 Woodlawn avenue, president of the choir, Sept. 7.

More than a hundred members of the combined choirs, senior and gospel, spent an enjoyable evening singing favorite hymns of the much-loved Anna Louis, accompanied by Miss Amanda Woods, organist. Miss Jackson left by way of the Southern Pacific for an extended trip East which will include St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and many stopovers in several southern cities.

She was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from choir members and friends. The gospel choir presented her with a large cash purse. The senior choir presented her with a beautiful gift. Miss Jackson expressed her deep appreciation to all for the kind expressions of love, asking to be remembered in prayer while on her 7-weeks vacation.

Delicious refreshments were served throughout the evening.

DR. RUTH TEMPLE

Citizens Will Honor Dr. Ruth Temple

In appreciation of her splendid service through past years and the progressive health program presented by Dr. Ruth Temple, citizens will honor her at an appreciation dinner at Second Baptist church, corner of 24th and Griffith avenue, Monday evening, Sept. 21, at 7:30.

Many noted citizens will appear on the program. LONE WOLF SOCIAL CLUB ENTERTAINED WITH SOCIAL

With Messrs. E. Smith and C. Matlock as hosts, the members of the Lone Wolf club, with their wives and sweethearts, were entertained with a social last Thursday at the home of Mr. Smith.

Dancing and cards added to the gaiety of the evening, with Mesdames Matlock and Smith seeing that everyone has an enjoyable time.

Following a delectable repast Palmer Lampkins, popular president of the club, and William Aldridge, member recently drafted in the Army, were each presented with a "bond" from the hosts.

Guests attending the affair were Mesdames Thurla Mae Jefferson, Georgia Lee King, Helen King, Opal Hayden, and Andrew King.

The club wishes to announce that Anthony E. Remy is no longer a member.

Palmer Lampkins is president; William Aldridge, reporter.

Houston Matron, Three Daughters Visiting Here

Albert Bowie, of Houston, Tex., and three charming daughters, Sally Marie, Albertine, and Martha Anne are the houseg. ests f Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Larary, 1890 W. 37th place. One of the many entertainments given in their honor was a lovely picnic in Griffith Park.

Mrs. Nellie L. Lewis entertained the party with a lovely Spanish dinner on Tuesday night at her home, 956 E. 43rd street.

Enroute to Cleveland the Earleys stopped in Houston and Dallas, Texas; Atchison, Kansas; Kansas City, Mo.; Flint, Mich.; Chicago, and Cleveland, Ohio.

Women's Civic Luncheon Club Making History

Great strides are being made by the Women's Civic Luncheon club during these crucial times under the leadership of Mrs. Myrtle Franklin, president, and Baron Lawson, executive secretary. The club is growing by leaps and bounds. An additional membership of more than 100 persons has been added to the roster of more than 700. Defense workers and civic leaders are showing interest by regular attendance.

Friday, Sept. 11, Dr. Frank Pearl, chairma.. of the Cal-Ship Launching committee, was present and gave a stirring talk and invited the members to participate in the history-making event of the launching of the ship named for the late educator, Booker T. Washington.

Hostesses and ushers for the mass meeting were named, and on the reception committee: chairman, Miss Josephine Cooper, long standing friend of Miss Marian Anderson, and Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, speaker, to arrive Sept. 26; assistant chairman, Mrs. Mary Caldwell; corresponding secretary, of WCLC, Beatrice Alexander, Mildred Blunt. The club's membership participated 100% in a show given by Lionel Hampton for the soldiers at Long Beach by securing more donations and contributions of cigarettes, candies, and other incidentals than any other one organization represented.

Plans are being made for the Junior Members Defense Workers' Cabaret party to be given Sept. 30. More details in later issues of our weeklies. New members are Dr. Towles. Dr. Pearl and Mrs. Sherman Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan T. White sr. Celebrate Golden Wedding Date

Climaxing a half century of happily wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan T. White sr., 1016 S Mariposa, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday, Aug. 24.

Mrs. White, who jokingly tells friends that her husband has spent the last 50 years looking into her cooking pots, filled with appetizing foods, says all she expects him to do now is to lick them.

At a jovous anniversary fete held in their Mariposa home, the pioneer couple had relatives and children as their guests. From San Diego come sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Girard Freeman; and from Redlands, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Collins, also a sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. White. A third sister, Mrs. Anna Washington was also present.

Adding to their happiness, the celebrants gathered around them their children, Clara, Vernice, Carmelita and Hamilton and his wife. Another offspring, Morgan T. jr., of Chicago, was unable to attend the golden wedding anniversary celebration.

All of the couple's friends joined the relatives and children in wishing them many more years of happiness.

Las Golondrinas Club Plans Busy Future

The Las Golondrinas club held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Beatrice McNiece, 902½ E. 41st place, which was an enjoyable meeting for all. After business, cards were played and the hostess proved very lovely, as usual. We are glad to have our president, Mrs. Erma Grazette and vice president, Mrs. Victorina Mason, home. They have been vacationing in San Francisco and our best wishes are extended to Mrs. Pearl Mobley who is now vacationing in Chicago, Ill.

Gladys Reed is now at Boulder Dam. Also Mrs. Willie Mae West who has just moved into her new home at 228 E. 54th street. The girls are busy planning for their future year.

Widows Study Club Celebrates Anniversary

The Widow's Study club gave its first aniversary social in the beautiful garden of the secretary, Mrs. Sarah Sealey, 1553 E. 54th St. Opening song, "God Bless America." Each member and guest contributed a number. The highlights of the program were a solo "My Desire", by Mrs. Gladys Smith, wife of the late Rev. C. W. Smith and a reading, "Wife Hunting Deacon" by Mrs. Morris; 130 Psalms by Mrs. Nash.

Refreshments were served. Each member wore club colors, orchid and gold, which were also carried out in the beautiful decorations.

There was a large display of embroidered pieces and work of art done by members of the club. The club members present were Mrs. Clara Morrison, Pres.; Mrs. Mary Anderson, Mrs. Lena Hardin, Mrs. Harriet Nash, Mrs. Sarah Sealey, Mrs. Rosalie Henson, Mrs. Myrtle Clark, guests; Mesdames Gladys Smith, Cohen, Gordon, Morris, Adams.

The club is preparing for a bazaar and a play to be given sometime during the holidays.

Yaeger Tops Olympic Bill Tuesday

The winner will meet Bobby Yaeger here next Tuesday night, the announcer said.

And so, veteran Bep Van Klavern and young Paul Altman went out and slugged each other for six rounds. Although Klavern seemed to have had the best of it, Referee Frank Holborrow called the bout a draw Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium.

The first round Altman won on the EAGLE score card was the fourth and, although he battled the veteran Hollander on fairly even terms in the fifth and sixth Klavern appeared to deserve the nod. The latter, unorthodox style and all, was too cagey and smart for the Texan, handing him a neat boxing lesson most of the way.

Klavern weighed 145½; Altman 145.

Chuck Garcia forced the battling enough to get the duke over Al Guidry in the five-round semiwindup.

Four-round results: Curt Currico and Phil Calsado drew; Tony Fidella decisioned Frankie Antuna; and Johnny Verdusco nodded Phil Reed.

Rodak TKOd in 8 Heats By 'Hank'

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Continuing his amazing comeback win streak, Henry Armstrong, former triple-crown titleholder, scored an 8-round technical knockout over Leo Rodak, Chicago, here Monday night.

Armstrong is slated to go against Earl Turner in Oakland Wednesday, Sept. 30. Turner, his last time out TKOed Jimmy Garrison, tough white Kansas City veteran.

Rodak's eye was cut by Hank in the 7th round, but he continued to fight until ordered to stop by the doctor. Armstrong floored Rodak twice for 9 counts—in the second and third rounds.

Armstrong weighed 145, Rodak 138½.

SANTA MONICA MATRON IS DINNER PARTY HOSTESS

Mrs. Bessie Lawrence, 1847 21st street, entertained in her home last Sunday evening with an informal dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard, formerly Loretta Edwards, who just recently announced their wedding of October 19, 1941. The table was decorated with white blooms and places were laid for the hostess and honorees, Mrs. Sarah Herring, Mr. David Osborne, and Miss Vivian Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard, 1711 Delaware, entertained with an outdoor barbecue party Saturday evening. Those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Silas Tippins, John Moore, Persil Lewis, Raymon Alfonda, Ward Afner, Robert Brown, John Cook, Homer Woodrow, La Vert Payne, Charles Fortune; Mmes. Bessie Lawrence, May Holloway, Edna Cox; Miss Lillie Linly, and Mr. Charlie Simon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard also entertained at their home Friday evening with an informal champagne announcement party. Those attending were the immediate friends and family, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Tippins, Mrs. Bessie Lawrence, and Mr. Charles Fortune.

Brooks Boxes Semi to Great Rematch

With Jimmy Brooks meeting Tabby Romero in the six-round semi tomorrow night at Hollywood Legion stadium, Matchmaker Charley MacDonald has carded one of the hottest heavyweight main event rematches to be viewed here in months.

Connie Norden faces Junior Munsell in the 10-round feature. The two tangled a few weeks ago with the Oklahoma Indian coming off second best in a close verdict. Norden and the Indian creased the canvas.

Brooks has consistently chalked up wins during the last several months and is regarded as one of the smartest boxers in local rings.

★ DOWN IN FRONT

With J. CULLEN FENTRESS

The State Athletic Commission, chairmaned by able Jerry Giesler, the famous barrister, should do something to clear up the rules covering bouts which have to be halted because of a boxer sustaining a nasty cut because of a butt or a blow. There are a number of contradictory rules in the book. A point in question is last Friday night's Juan Zurita-Jimmy Hatcher tiff at Hollywood Legion stadium. Following a clinch in the second stanza Hatcher broke looking like something which had just gone through a meat grinder. Referee Charley Randolph called for the medico, but that worthy was not in the stadium. An SOS for a commissioner, or commissioners was also fruitless, those gentlemen being in attendance at a meeting in Frisco. Randolph, using his own judgment under the circumstances, decided in favor of a technical knockout victory for Zurita. The Mexican was ahead, true, but ringsiders and referee, were confused as to just what caused Hatcher to spill gore. At times, the decisions rendered in such cases have been draws. Some clarity on the point is deemed advisable . . . That's a worthy gesture Bill Schroeder, managing director of Helms Athletic Foundation, and a leading downtown clothing firm have cooked up. The capable and energetic foundation boss has announced a Prep School Hall of Fame to be located in the store. Among trophies and photos will be those of Jack Robinson, Francis Garland, Thelmo Knowles, Wilbur Miller, Bryant Allen, Mack Robinson and Bill Smith, all of whom have been named by the foundation as Players of the Year since the foundation's cooperating All-Southern California Athletic Board was established in 1937. All of the players named above are well known to football, baseball, basketball and track and field enthusiats of the Southland and the nation. The project is to be dedicated on or about Sept. 20 . . .

"Regards to all my friends," says one of a few lines from Jackie (Vaquero) Bauchman in a navy-censored letter from the Naval Air Station, Dutch Harbor, Alaska. Vaquero, well known to border and valley boxing fans, says he's doing okay . . . That Connie Norden-Junior Munsell heavyweight rematch at Hollywood Legion stadium should be a pip, judging from their previous encounter which was one of the best heavyweight brawls staged here in months . . . Nate Moreland, manager of the Central Avenue Bowl, says Ernest Whitman, the radio, stage and screen player, ranks among the top bowlers in the district. Moreland, a former Redlands university football and baseball star and a top moundsman today, allows as how Whitman approximates 250 on the alleys . . . John Thomas, with convincing wins over Petey Scalso and Toby Vigil under his belt, is scheduled to continue his quest for the lightweight goniaion on the 23rd in Oakland. He may box George Latka at H'wood soon, too . . . Dan Burley, Amsterdam Star-News (N. Y.) sports editor, has been named by the War Department to the committee of sports writers, who along with promoter Mike Jacobs, will stage the Joe Louis-Billy Conn title rematch Oct. 12 in Gotham. Proceeds from the bout go into the Army Emergency Fund . . . Woody Strode helped his Hollywood Bears, "little professional champions," down the Santa Ana service eleven Sunday, but without any help from his long-time gridiron running mate, Kenny "General" Washington. As a gendarme for the City of Los Angeles, Officer Kenny may not be able to don moleskins at all this season. And that, me hearties, is about the darkest portion of an otherwise bright football picture hereabouts . . . The column's good friend, and yours, William (Bill) Lopez, of the city's phys ed department, has been commissioned a captain in the Army Air Force, and leaves pronto for Florida, and thence to Pennsylvania where he will be stationed. Lopez, a familiar figure at all prep athletic events, was the dynamo back of the big prep football carnival and colorful all-city track meets . . . Mister Whiskers gets a good man in this veteran of World War I.

7 RACE STARS GO INTO PREP HALL OF FAME

Seven great Negro athletes will be honored here on or about Sept. 20, when the Helms Athletic Foundation and Silverwood's store, Sixth and Broadway, dedicate the Southern California Prep School Hall of Fame, it was learned today.

To be conducted by the Helms Foundation, whose managing director is W. R. (Bill) Schroeder, the Hall of Fame will serve to honor Southern California's famed high school and junior college athletes in various sports.

The most coveted trophy in prep school ranks—the Paul H. Helms Southern California Prep School Player of the Year trophy—will be lodged at Silverwood's. This trophy carries the names of those athletes who have been chosen for Player of the Year honors by All-Southern California Board of Athletics since the board was created in 1937.

Among these are the following Negro stars: Jack Robinson, Pasadena junior college, football and baseball, 1938; Francis Garland, L. A. City college, basketball, 1940; Mack Robinson, Pasadena Junior college, track and field, 1937; Wilbur Miller, Compton Junior college, track and field, 1939; Thelmo Knowles, Santa Monica junior college, track and field, 1941; Bryant Allen, Jefferson High school, track and field, 1937; and Bill Smith, Belmont High school, track and field, 1940, 1941.

Photos of the above players, along with other players of the year, will be prominently displayed in the Hall of Fame. The two sponsoring organizations also plan a Prep Press club, composed of sports editors which will meet at regular intervals.

At the dedicatory exercises, athletes picked for baseball and track honors for 1942 will be given their awards, Schroeder announced.

IT'S CALIENTE

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Mexico, Sept. 17—Every dog has his day, and that's the old saying all over the world. But Sunday at Caliente it was every horse having his day to join the Hall of Fame, for in the 11th race of the day, one of the co-features on the 12-race program, the comely daughter of Bistouri threw so much dust in the eyes of the greats such as Dr. Sticks, the red-hot favorite, and the champion, Tenuous, also the Caliente Derby winner, Sunny Jack. It was nip and tuck from start to finish. Slappy, a 10 to one shot, set all the pace with Iron Heart, daughter of imported Bistouri, not over a length away at no part of the mile and 70-yard event when the stretch was reached.

Little Jockey B. Nash, who rode his first winner on a recognized track not long ago, gave his mount all that he had and the game mare responded to carry her little jockey across the finish line a half length ahead of the tiring Slappy, with the Caliente Derby winner, Sunny Jack, third, three lengths ahead of imported Betico. Dr. Sticks, the favorite, and Tenuous, heavily played second choice, brought up the rear. Iron Heart paid the longest price of the day, $72.80 for those that had an iron heart to play her.

So, now the little mare that had been running for $700 in claiming races will move up with the greats and her picture will be put in the Hall of Fame for improved horses.

Well, the boys that are in on the "ins," put one over on Generalissimo Walter Marty and the entire ring in the second race when Little Pixie, making her second start in life, won the first half of the Daily-Double. Quoted at 20 to one on the morning line, she was coupled in the field with the well-played Valdina Flora and only rewarded her backers $12.20, but the ring was nearly annihilated. Green Tie, one of the popular players, was heard to say, "That ruined me."

Zebedee, who has been trying to reach Judge George Shilling and say, "Well, here I am judge, at last; better late than never," finally succeeded when he won the third race, the second half of the Daily-Double which paid $159.20.

Well, that's the news, folks, for the week. Are you still buying U. S. War Stamps and Bonds? If so, try and buy more. Our big job is to get over the hill. So long, GEORGE.

The manner of giving shows the character of the giver, more than the gift itself.—Lavater.

Madam, here's one TABOO you can forget when you want relief

You can thank your lucky stars that women are no longer squeamish about discussing their troubles. Otherwise you might never know of the 2-way help that CARDUI may bring when nervousness, headaches and cramp-like pain are due only to periodic functional causes.

Many women find that, started three days before the time and taken as directed, CARDUI aids in relieving functional periodic discomforts. Used as a tonic, CARDUI often wakes up sleepy appetities, aids digestion by increasing the flow of gastric juices, and thus helps to build up resistance against the days it's needed most. Try it!

Charles Satchell Morris II to Be Guest Preacher at McCoy

Announcement was made today by Cornelius Martin, veteran chairman of the deacon board of the McCoy Memorial Baptist church, 806 E. 46th street, that the Rev. Charles Satchell Morris II, nationally known minister, educator, and orator, would be guest preacher at both regular worship services there next Sunday, Sept. 20. Special music will be furnished throughout the day and a rally effort will be conducted.

Numerous persons throughout the city identified with other churches of all faiths have indicatde their intention of being present at McCoy next Sunday to hear Dr. Morris who is a popular favorite in this city. At the 11 o'clock service he will speak from the text: "Keeping Books With God," while at 7:30 his theme will be "Signs, Slogans and Symbols." The official boards of the church are extending the general public a very cordial invitation to hear Dr. Morris who is rated one of the great ministers and orators of this generation. The McCoy church was pastored by the Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge until his death last month.

Dr. Morris has been greeted by throngs at almost every church in Los Angeles and throughout California and the church counts itself fortunate to have him grace the rostrum next Sunday. A delegation will be in attendance from the American Woodmen and the Rev. James R. Robinson, Los Angeles supervisor of that organization, will participate in the services.

INVITED TO FORT

Last Sunday, Dr. Morris was welcomed by hundreds when he served as guest minister at the Calvary Baptist church of Santa Monica both at the morning and evening services. The preceding Sunday he was greeted by capacity throngs at the Bethel Baptist church of San Diego and just three weeks ago he served as the 90th anniversary preacher at the historic Third Baptist church of San Francisco.

He has just been invited to preach to the thousands of soldiers at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, by Major John A. DeVeaux, the chief of chaplains at the fort.

Dr. Morris is the elder son of the late world-famed pastor of New York's huge Abyssinian Baptist church and served as a college professor for 12 years before taking up residence in Los Angeles in 1939. He has been an official in the Selective Service System during the past 20 months. Friends and former members of McCoy are especially invited to hear him at both services Sunday.

CONSUELO VAN VACTOR, the leader of the brilliant Girl's Day program at Second Baptist church last Sunday.

REV. GRANT HARRIS RETURNS TO PULPIT

Rev. Grant Harris, pastor of the Zion Hill Baptist church, will be in his pulpit on Sunday, which will be Men's Day. Rev. Harris has been out of the city since Aug. 21. He went to Philadelphia, New Jersey, and on his way back attended the national convention in Nashville, Tenn.

Anti-Prejudice Society Gets Church Support

Recognizing the fact that the church by concerted effort can haste the drive towards breaking dwon Democracy-killing race hatred, which is blocking the nation's war efforts, the American Anti Prejudice Society, Inc. sent a telegram to the National Baptist Convention at Memphis last Saturday. Arriving there on resolution day, it has been learned that it caused considerable sensation, and met approval of the many prominent ministers convened there. It was sent from the national headquarters of the Society here by the president and founder Rev. C. Townsend Tucker. Word was later received of its adoption.

The telegram follows:

"Dr. J. M. Narbit, Secretary National Baptist Convention, Incorporated, Memphis, Tenn.

"Greetings Brethern: Dr. D. V. Jemison, president, officers and members. We the American Anti-Prejudice Society, Inc. pledged to the Christian task of destroying racial prejudice, which is hindering the srtuggle of our nation, urge your august body to adopt a resolution supporting our efforts. Last month the Western Baptist Convention here adopted a similar resolution and gave us an endorsement to your convention. Dr. A. C. Capers, our vice-president is in convention with you and will explain movement. We are also appealing to the 29 allied nations to eliminate race prejudice and discrimination, to assure victory for the Allies. Race prejudice is an evil folly, unchristian-like and a serious enemy to true Amercanism, and also a hindrance to the establishment of Democracy, "The child of religion," and a stumbling block in the way to victory. "We must be on God's side".

"Yours in Christ,
"Respectfully submitted,
"The American Anti-Prejudice Society,
"Signed,
"Rev. C. Townsend Tucker, president: Miss Orlean Wilson, Sec'y; Harry Levette, Director Public Relations"

Dr. J. C. Sweeney Begins Sermon Series Sunday

The Baptist Temple, 620 E. 48th street, had a great day Sunday under the leadership of Dr. J. C. Sweeney. Many friends and members from Texas and the South worshipped at the temple Sunday. Three persons joined the church.

Dr. Sweeney is preaching a series of sermons, beginning Sunday, Sept. 30, from the subject, "How to Really Succeed in Any Worthy Endeavor When It Seems That You Are Friendless and All Is Against You." Dr. Sweeney knows, for he has passed through some very dark periods in the hour of crisis when all seemed against him.

Dr. Sweeney has delivered these sermons in great revivals in some of the largest churches in America and hundreds have been helped. Don't miss hearing him at 11:00 a. m. Sunday, Sept. 20. Everyone is welcome. A. Williams, reporter.

Woman Freed on Assault Charge

Mrs. Clarice Coit, 4109 Zamora Ave., has been released of charges of assault with a deadly weapon upon which she was booked by Newton Street Police officers last Thursday after assertedly firing shots at her estranged husband, Albert Coit, neither of which took effect.

Mrs. Coit, a comely young woman of twenty-seven fired the shots in self-defense according to the story told her Attorney, Curtis C. Taylor, who secured her release after suing out a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Rev. Troy Names Lecture Topic

"The Black Man Carries the Cross" will be the subject of the illustrated lecture which Rev. Owen A. Troy will present at the Big Tent, corner of Huntington Drive and California Avenue, Monrovia, Sunday evening, 8:00 p. m. Meetings are held Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings at the Big Tent.

One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Jesus: Matthew 19: 19.

Let a smile do the service of a sermon. —Louis Anspacher

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The Lesson-Sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, will be "Matter." This quotation from Paul's second letter to the Corinthians is the Golden Text: "What agreement hath the temple of God with idols?"

The Lesson-Sermon includes the following selections from the ten commandments as given in Exodus: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them." Also included is a statement from Habakkuk: "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it. But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him."

On this subject Mary Baker Eddy says in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "The first idolatry was faith in matter." "Divine Science deals its chief blow at the supposed material foundations of life and intelligence. It dooms idolatry. A belief in other gods, other creators, and other creations must go down before Christian Science."

Rev. Toney in Landon Sunday

Rev. Charles M. Toney, field secretary of the Los Angeles District of the Western Baptist Association, delivered the sermon message Sunday morning at the Mt. Sinai Baptist church, San Pedro, from Acts 2:28 on the subject, "The Greatness of Jesus Christ to man is his humility."

The message was the evidence of fervent prayer. That's the kind of message we enjoy. Our moderator, Rev. C. A. Miller and Rev Chappell were on the rostrum with Rev. Charles M. Toney.

Rev. Toney will be preaching in Landon Sunday for Rev. Bentley and he is to have charge the church while he is on a visit to the National Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tenn. and other points. Rev. Toney was quite busy in helping delegates off to the convention. May he live long to render such helpful service.

Boy's Day at Second Baptist Next Sunday

Sunday will mark the 10th Annual Boy's Day at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith. The program, due to the lack of boys because of the war, will be distinctly different. Quartets will hold the spotlight instead of the traditional All-Boy choir. Included will be a soldier quartet.

Boy's Day this year is led by LeRoy Solder, ably assisted by Douglas Van Vactor, Edgar Lester, Artis Grant and every other boy in the church. The message will be given by the young, able, and brilliant Rev. Hicks of Wesley Chapel. The evening program will present an inspiring message by the young, fiery minister, Rev. Moss. Albert McNeil, organist, will be featured also on the evening program; while Eugene Smallwood, that soul-moving Gospel singer will hold sway in the morning.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

Tonight at the Philharmonic auditorium, there will be a meeting. Meetings come and meeting go; people go to them and people leave them, but few remember them. Many people will come to this meeting tonight, and 99.999 percent of them will remember it the longest day of their lives.

There is no need to remind anyone about the time they are living in or about the way things are. People have to be reminded about the things they should do and about the things that have to be done. Tonight people hear these things. The information won't be new. It'll be the people's own deep convictions coming to them from the mouths of great men of this day.

Paul Robeson and Dr. Max Yergan will speak at this meeting tonight. And Robeson will sing. The meeting, called under the auspices of the Council on African affairs, is sponsored locally by organized Labor and the Negro people and is symbolic of the increasing unity between these two groups.

Even the child on the streets knows that unity in everything is the only way to win the war. This ever increasing unity between the two most progressive sections of our people, Labor and the Negro people, is a great offensive weapon for the United Nations in this war against the Axis powers. The Negro people and organized Labor are destined to become increasingly synonymous. They are both fighting the same battle and both have the same aims and the same purposes. Such a merger is not yet complete, but day after day the gap is being closed and a PEOPLE'S ALLIANCE is forming.

Historically, tonight's meeting is the first of its kind in the city of Los Angeles. It will be the first mobilization of the people of this community in support of the President's Second Front policy and an urgent demand that it be carried out. It will be a meeting which will make no compromises with the most important war issues confronting the United States today.

The facts of the Indian crisis—the immediate opening of a second front, the glaring fact that America CANNOT mobilize fully and maintain practices of discrimination! This is a defeatist luxury we, the 130,000,000 of us, can't afford.

This meeting will be WELL remembered.

ARE YOU 3-A IN THE DRAFT?

If so, your chances of being called into active service is not likely. Since you cannot become a member of the United States Army. You will be doing your part by enlisting in the 7th Regiment of the California State Guards. Being a member of the Reserves does not interfere with your work. And you will be called out only when invasion by the enemy seems imminent.

ARE YOU IN CLASS 1-A OR 1-B?

Those of you in Class 1-A may be inducted into the army at any time. You should enlist in the Reserves of the 7th Regiment California State Guards, so that you will know something about this man's army in advance. In the State Guards you have a chance for promotion and the training you get in the 7th Regiment will help you when you become a member of the U. S. armed forces. Learn now and you have a chance of becoming a non-commissioned officer when your number is called. Join the 7th Regiment.

"And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days."—1 Kings 3:14.

Wake Up, United Nations!

Reprinted from The India News, edited by R. Lal Singh, only membed of the India National Congress in the United States

"Bound and shackled, I am but a hindrance to the very cause I have struggled for. Tied to a stake and publicly flogged, saps the energy I would add to the battle of the free man against would-be world oppressors. Thown behind prison bars, I become helpless and impotent while on my soil the threat of violence, rape and loot becomes ominous.

"Give me equality, give me the right to fight for the things you fight for, and multiply me by 400,000,000. The bells of liberty and freedom would then be heard from pole to pole! Free men would rise from the grave to smite the tyrants down!

Don't lie to the world about me!

"You have labeled me 'traitor,' 'Quisling,' and have spewed vicious slander over me. ..I have replied only by appealing to your conscience. ..I have hoped to find in you the lamp of understanding, the flame of fair-play. ..You have snuffed the lamp out and quenched the vame. ..You have turned in wrath against me and blotted out vital life as you did in an age long past when you forced my patriots into the enemy's camp. ..Your guns are aimed at me, helpless as you know I am. Those guns that should be turned against the common enemy of liberty and freedom ..All I ask is that a People's Government be formed, and that a People's Army millions strong be raised at once, to fight our common foe.

"I Need You And You Need Me To Build A Better World!"

"You know, as I know, that there are many contradictions in the pronouncements of your statesmen. They were made in good spirit—perhaps with a profound realization of the inevitable change which our social and political forms must undergo. These pronouncements have animated the oppressed peoples of the world. But nothing has done more harm than the failure to activate those pronouncements—to make those promises real—while country after country fell before the might of the Axis.

"Unless you actually mean to imply by your intransigence that I shall still be bound and shackled and that you do not need my full co-operation (measured in terms of immense man-power and truly colossal resources), then our 400,000,000 shall fall prey to the treacherous cunning of the agressors.

"I beg you to remember that I mean the shortening or the lengthening of this cruel war, depending on whether I am armed and free, or a defenseless slave. I can mean the saving of the genius of your youth who are now spread over the globe. Along with you, I can and will take the offensive against the enemy.

"If the Atlantic Charter, which is the spiritual base of the United Nations, is not to become cinders in this global conflagration, if freedom-loving peoples are to find an enduring common purpose, if India with her vast material and spiritual resources is to be fully utilized in common with Great Britain, the USSR, China, and the U. S. A. and the Nations everywhere to whom liberty, justice and democracy are the life's blood, then let there be no betrayal of high hopes, no reactionary perversion of proposed principles, no artful, cynical diplomacy.

"There must be, brother, a courageous, forthright, faithful affirmation that the United Nations do mean emphatically National independence with the peoples of the world.

Your brother,
INDIA

Robeson-Yergan Rally to Make History

Tonight at the Philharmonic auditorium history will be made for Los Angeles. When Paul Robeson and Dr. Max Yergan address a mammoth audience of our citizens raising the specific issues of the Negro's problem in America today, of his brother colonial people thoughout the world and voicing a determined demand for a SECOND FRONT now—a milestone in the city's history will have been reached.

Participation in the meeting will be shared by the Mexican, Chinese, Jewish, and the "one hundred percent white Protestant American." Conspicuous by their absence will be the appeasers and the defeatists. The support-the-war issue will be presented in the way that the people want it—tied to real, concrete, specific tasks in the anti-Fascist fight.

The Robeson-Yergan meeting follows in logical sequence Monday evening's heartening unity rally at which a similar cross-section of the city's population was brought into participation. Significant at this gathering was the instan response of the large crowd when definite reforms in government policy,or specific support of already established policy was brought forward by the speakers. Especially important to the Negro citizeens of this community should be the ovation which followed a demand for support of anti-poll tax legislation and vigorous enforcement of Executive Order 8802. When the defeat of Georgia's Governor Eugene Talmadge was hailed, there was a genuine popular outburst. Later in the evening, CIO leader Phillip Connelly raised a militant demand for opening of an immediate second land front in western Europe, the performance was repeated.

LESSON: The people are no longer beguiled by lip-service war support. Genuine concern for in this people's war demands:

1-Open that Second Front.
2-Negro rights NOW.
3-Liberation and mobilization of colonial peoples NOW.

These are the yardsticks of a real war supporter. Apply them to all comers.

The American People Chalk One Up

Hooray! Hooray!

The good people of the state of Georgia, despite even the limitations of their poll tax ballot system, destroyed the very symbol of U. S. Fascism in office, the loud puppet of the Dupont E. I. de Nemours company, his ex-excellency 'Our Gene.' This signal triumph for the American people was achieved in the midst of our most reactionary section, in the center of Ku Klux Klax intimidation and a vicious social system. How was that victory secured? And by whom?

Gov. EUGENE TALMADGE was IZED LABOR, a fighting Labor movement which dared to pooh-pooh the phoney removed from public office by ORGAN-'white supremacy' issue which Talmadge brought forth in an obvions effort to hide his Fascist connections. Pamphlets were distributed in Georgia factories by CIO and AFL unions pointing the suicidal effects of race prejudice upon Labor and revealing it as part of the Hitler, divisionist program for America. Most important, however, was the incessant exposure of Gene Talmadge as part of the U. S. Fifth Column, an anti-war agent of the American Fifth Column.

There is a lesson in this for the Negro people of California. We must relentlessly identify our enemies with their true masters, that same home grown, Fascist Fifth Column. Our big job in the coming weeks will be the complete and devastating defeat of the California wing of the Talmadge coalition—pro-Fascist gubernatorial candidate Earl Warren, lackey of that great friend of the Negro people and general human progress, William Randolph Hearst.

Down Goes the Poll Tax!

The Bourbons got themselves thoroughly trounced in Congress as both the the House and the Senate voted to remove poll tax restrictions from the soldiers vote last week.

This means that thousands of our boys who have never been able to vote in U. S. elections may now exercise the basic right of all free men. Disfranchised lads from, say, Congressman Martin Dies Texas district may now cast ballots which may remove that particular insult to representative government from the position which has hitherto made possible his sabotage of democracy. Then there is the case of Mississippi's Whittington, representing a district populated by 460,000 American citizens and elected by 2,000 votes. Now, out of that 460,000 persons a good percentage must be Negroes and a good percentage of THEM must have been drafted. Now those boys have, at long last, the right to vote. And WHAT do you think may happen to Negro-baiter Whittington come election?

POSTAL BLUES

Even as the community continues to congratulate the Ios Angeles postal authorities upon their democratic action in appointing a Negro Superintendent for the first time in the city's history, there comes an increasing flood of evidence as to the seriousness of the underpaid rank and file postal employees for a wage commensurate with their service and with the rising cost of living. The plight of postal workers is one of the most shocking in the nation today.

Dark Laughter . . . . BY OL HARRINGTON

"I DON'T CARE; I STILL THINK MY ARGUMENT WAS CORRECT."

★ WORLD THIS WEEK

By ROBERT PATTERSON

CONSERVE AND PRODUCE

With the Rubber Investigating Committee recommending, in addition to nati nwide gasoline rationing, the expansion of synthetic rubber production to 1,100,000 tons a year, no further delays should be tolerated in launching this full-scale program. The nation has already suffered from a surfeit of such time-wasting tactics. The President's Investigating Committee has ctied the fact that although hte process of making synthetic rubber from alcohol has been a long recognized one—and its success proven in other countries—it has been almost totally slighted here while post-Pearl Harbor debates raged around the merits and demerits of other processes. Luckily, we have still time to rectify past mistakes if we make haste. Luckily, we are learning in time that victory won't come to us on a silver platter, that a long, hard and desperate struggle still lies ahead. And luckily, the Rubber Investigating Committee, refusing to sugar-coat its findings, has bluntly informed the nation that without immediate action toward conserving present rubber supplies and developing new synthetic sources, "this country will face both a military and civilian collapse." Such plain speaking will shock numbers of people, but if it shocks them awake, it will be their gain and the nation's as well.

VOICES OF FREEDOM

The cries of the Laval govern-French cities by American bombment against the bombing of ers reveal the "Made in Berlin" trademark. If the raids on French industrial centers can be successfully represented to the people of France as nothing but wanton, brutal attacks on helpless civilians—as the Laval government is, in fact, picturing them—the way may be cleared for that increased collaboration the French quisling earnestly desires. However, far more than two years of bondage under the Nazi yoke will be required to make a freedom-loving people lose the hunger for the liberty that was once theirs. In an eloquent outburst against the PetainLaval mock government, Edouard Herriot and Jean Jeanneney have defied the present misleaders of France to enlist their country on the side of the Axis, warning that revolution would be certain to follow such a step. Free France still lives!

MAKE ROOM FOR WORKERS!

Not so long ago, as far as California was concerned, it was housing that was plentiful, and work scarce. Today, caught up in the biggest boom of its history, with the westward-streaming tides of workers still continuing, California finds the reverse situation true with a vengeance. Total non-agricultural employment in the State has leaped well past the two million mark; workers in the manufacturing industries number some 200,000 more than a year ago. Aircraft and shipbuilding industries have yet to reach their peak employment. Government housing programs are attempting to alleviate part of the shortage; in several cities, the Bank of America has helpfully stepped into the breach to finance housing projects. With all private construction at a standstill, thousands of home and property owners, through alteration and modernization of their dwellings, have provided critically needed living space for war workers. Loans for such purpos - are still available, and with 495 branch banks in every section of the State specializing in such service, California has been able to turn extraordinary banking facilities to good account in combating the housing shortage. More, and not less, such modernizing has become the answer to the urgent order of the day, "Make room for war workers!"

THE NAZI SCHEME OF THINGS

The pressure being exerted upon King Leopold of the Belgians to form a pro-Nazi government reflects Germany's vain hope of establishing a federation of puppet colonies throughout Europe. This thinly maksed despotism would then be presented to the world as "proof" that the peoples of Europe were now one happy family, that, in effect, there would be no point in continuing the war against Germany. Such duplicity will collapse of its weight just as, in the end, tyranny must ever fall.

CALIFORNIA SETS A RECORD

By applying to State financing the same elementary principle that every good housewife applies to her own budget, California is now in the best financial condition in history, reports State Controller Riley. The secret? Not spending all of the State's income. The result? A cash excess of $42 million. Future prospects? Still more of the same!

★ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

The apartment advertisement which you put in the paper for my mother was a great success. She got many calls and got a nice couple. Thanks very much.

MRS. LELA COMBS
MITCHELL
1042½ S. Berendo.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Please let it be known that through your fine example of cooperation, we here at Val Verde were able to initiate a new phase in swimming to our Negro youths of Los Angeles and vicinity, whereby it became possible for them to compete for trophies and medals.

Such competition is conducive to building fine character and a keen sense of sportsmanship—two elements so essential to our national effort.

We are elated to inform you that the swimming meet was won by the Val Verde team; the YMCA placed second.

In behalf of the boys participating in the Labor Day swimming meet here at Val Verde, we wish to express our sincere appreciation for the magnificent trophy donated by the California Eagle.

Very truly yours,

★ SPREADING JOY

BY JOHN FOWLER

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—Here in this busy arsenal of defense, amid the clanging of armies and constant clatter of riveting machines, the hustle and bustle of workmen and women working night and day to keep the world free from the curse of Nazism—assembled the leaders of the African Methodist church of California for the 18th annual session of the Southern California conference.

With that distinguished prince of the church, Right Reverend Noah W. Williams presiding, among the distinguished prelates were the Reverends David Hill, of Oakland; Childress, of Sacramento; Runyon, of San Francisco; J. M. Brown, and others.

The scene of the conference was the picturesque White Community church in the center of one of San Diego's most progressive colored residential sections. This imposing structure, standing at the corner of L and 31st, with its pretty green lawns and flowers, reflects the artistic taste of the host and hostess of the conference, Rev. Louis H. Owens and his versatile wife.

The conference was opened with a brilliant reception in honor of Bishop Williams and his charming wife. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor P. J. Benlough, Dr. E. A. Bailey, and Presiding Elder R. H. Harbert. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. L. S. McNeal, of Long Beach. Rev. E. B. Vaughn, of El Centro, preached the missionary sermon, and the eloquent Dr. Frederick D. Jordan of historic old Eighth and Towne, preached the educational sermon—a rare gem of oratory and logic.

Friday was given to annual reports, highlights of which were the young people's program, by Prof. Arthur E. Prince; State of the Church, by Rev. Jordan; and the State of the Country, by Rev. J. A. Dames, of Pasadena.

Among those who addressed the conference were Rev. David Hill, of Oakland; Rev. Douglass, of the Zion AME church, San Mateo; Dr. E. H. Childress, of Sacramento, and the writer, who was accorded the courtesy of the convention on the motion of Rev. J. M. Brown for the purpose of bringing greetings from Governor Culbert L. Olson.

At the conference Sunday School the writer had the pleasure and honor of teaching the largest class present, that of Mrs. Frederick D. Jordan.

The 11 o'clock services was one of those colorfull, heartfelt meetings that one never forgets. As a prelude to the bishop's annual sermon that drew an overflow audience, Mrs. Margaret Owens sang "How Long, O Lord."

Bishop Williams was in his best form and spoke on the subject, "The African Methodist Episcopal Church." He admonished his ministers to know the history of the church and preach on it often. Certainly, I like to hear the history of the church told again and again. I wish it was possible for me t oprint the bishop's sermon in full.

The conference resolution was read by Rev. J. B. St. Felix Isaacs, a literary classic. Then came that great moment in the life of a Methodist preacher, that moment when the bishop reads the appointments that seal the fate of the ministers and their families for another year.

There were few changes and no surprises. The only change I remember was at the Second church, which will be served by Rev. Isaacs, succeeding Rev. Simpson, who goes to the Kansas conference.

Here are the most important posts: 8th and Towne, Rev. Frederick D. Jordan; Pasadena, Rev. J. A. Dames; San Diego, Rev. Louis H. Owens; Santa Monica, A. K. Quinn; Long Beach, L. S. McNeal; Ward Chapel, Rev. J. W. Price; Grant's Chapel, Rev. I. S. Wilson, presiding elder, Rev. Frank A. Harris.

A few of the regulars I missed are that gallant veteran, Jim Wilson; Mrs. Minnie Tucker, Mrs. Pearl Lowery-Winters, and Mrs. Etta V. Moxley. Among the Angelenos I saw were Mrs. Eliza Warner, Mother Fanner, Mrs. J. E. Levforitch, C. E. City, Rev. Arrington, Rev. Robert Jones, Rev. Redd, Rev. and Mrs. Reeves of Monrovia; Troy and Mrs. Eggleston of Watts, Mrs. Pinkey Wilson, Mother Franscoose, and Miss Anna Foley. A central figure was Chaplain Alvia Shaw, resplendent in his U. S. uniform. Publisher Leon Washington was also among the distinguished out-of-town guests.

This week I have the honor and joy of presenting the parents of Mrs. Loren Miller. They have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They lead the Old Sweethearts Parade this week. My heartiest congratulations.

Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward of your Father which is in heaven.—Jesus: Matthew 6:1.

★ SPEECH OF THE WEEK

Delivered by MRS. CHARLOTTA A. BASS Monday, Sept. 14 before a large audience at the Unity rally of the Los Angeles Citizens Unity for Victory Committee at Philharmonic auditorium.

This is a momentous occasion

It is momentous for Los Angeles. It is momentons for the nation.

Prime among the domestic requirements of this great people's war is the development of a genuine national unity. Such unity must be a grassroots movement, growing out of the fierce will-to-victory of a people at last aroused to the historic tasks of their age and the defense of a dearly loved nation.

We cannot say too often what kind of war this is, for the cleatr kind of war this is, for the clear is a bulwark upon which flagging spirits may sustain themselves in any hour of grave peril, and is the only sure shield to the pernicious propaganda of our enemy and our enemy's fifth column.

Those of us who are citizens of a world that was and is to be no more, a world half free and half slave, a world pregnant with a thousand conflicts and rivalries, must rise to the challenge of this moment unshackled by the dead prequdices of the past and unfettered by the self-interest which has lead to the present tragedy. In the crucible of blood, sweat and tears, a new world is born,—we must make it our world, a world of the people, everywhere.

Our enemy, his vulgar aims and brutal ambitions, we know too well. There is no free human being who is not filled with unutterable loathing at the very thought of a globe dominated by his tyranny. He is Feudalism hitched to the science of 1942 and governed by the law of the jungle.

Clarity upon the nature of our own side is more difficult. We are a confusion of things. We are imperialists frightened in the face of Hitler's competition. We are naked Moros writing pages of glory in the wilderness of Bataan. We are enslaved India. We are free England, Amercia, and Russia. We are black and white and yellow. We are the people of the earth, the free and the bound, th rich and the poor, the great and the despised, fighting so that our children may live as men.

There is no longer room for exploitation of one on the part of another when we are all bound together with the solemn ties of sacrifice in human life. Divisions between us all— the anti-Fascists of the world— can no longer exist, for it is such division which is received with delight at Berlin and is a nail in the coffin of human freedom.

We are driven relentlessly to the liberation of mankind. We cannot fight for liberty with the provision that it is liberty for us alone. Men who are not free can not and will not fight for freedom. This is the lesson of India. It is a lesson, however, which we are learning.

I am the representative this evening of the largest American minority, the Negro people, 13,000,000, strong. I feel a peculiar responsibilty both to you and to them in the interpretation of what are the vital war needs of these, my people.

Here is what we think about this war: It is important above everything that has happened in the history of the world. It has joined our struggle for freedom with that of all the people of the world. But, most of all, it has joined the deep interests of all the people of America. We have a war to be won. It can be won only on the basis of the full and unbiased mobilization of our whole country, in the factory and the field, without prejudice and discrimination, for these things not only deny the purposes of our war but strike dearly blows at the actual production for victory in America.

Understanding of the problem of the Negro people today is vital to our war effort—for those who wilfully MISunderstand are worthy candidates for Hitler's payroll. There is but one demand of our people today: strike from our arms every shackle which would limit our blow against the Fascist world.

There are specific ways in which citizens may aid in this all-important phase of national President's war emergency exunity! We must all support the executive order 8802, which bars industrial discrimination on the basis of race, creed or color. We must do this directly by reporting every known case of discrimination to the War Manpower Commission.

We must support the Administration in its effort to sweep poll tax restrictions from thase eight states in which they disfranchise ten million Americans, six million, white Americans.

The defeat of Gov. Eugene Talmadge in Georgia this week--A man who based his entire campaign upon the worn issue of white supremacy--is a sign of the times, doubly significant coming, as it does, from the deep south.

Victory will be won as the result of a positive, offensive struggle. The Los Angeles Unity For Victory Committee has launched that UNITED effort in our own city. Tonight, my friends, we are making bad news for Berlin!

It has taken this ghastly war to show this United States and, indeed, show the world, that this is a human world, and that color of skin, or texture of hair has no bearing on the quality of ablility or of courage.

In this great holocaust which has sacrificed millions of lives and destroyed untold wealth, men and women of every color and racial lineage are making battle against the foes of human fredom. But, a careful reading of history has shown that victories on the battlefields or the defeat of armies do not thoroughly settle issues arising from race, color, and oftentimes different religions. There is a more potent factor: A change in ideas, ideals of justice, tolerance, a change of the heart and clearance of the mind. Without such change our military successes will be futile.

In the accomplishment of those factors the women are leaders. It is their tact, intuitiveness, and resourceful minds that will solve the human problems for which men are dying. Brute strength will not solve them. Only that unselfish devotion to justice and to right with which women are endowed can, and will, remove the barriers of intolerance, racial hates and all other obstacles which obstruct the path of progress to a true civilization.

No other government has the need of such planning as does this, our own United States. It has been so inoculated with the virus of color and racial superiority that the cancer will be hard to remove. For some sections of the nation it will be a very painful operation. But there is an abiding faith in the ability and, more than that, the sincerity of purpose, to achieve the tasks and the burdens they will assume. California will not be absent when the roll is called. There will be a "PRESENT" which has the ring of unmistakable sincerity of purpose.

Too great emphasis cannot be placed on the part that the young Negroes of this, and future generations, will be called on to play in this new birth of civilization. We use the term civilization because of this fact: If the history of the future be rightly recorded it will write of the most diabolical and fiendish eruelties since the Dark Age. One cannot expect the renaissance in a day, a month or even any given number of years, but this is to be a long and continuous fight for the democratic ideals for which men now are dying.

To this end this generation must be imbued with the same spirit, self sacrifice and determination, which was the impelling force of the women of yesteryear and reflected in the earnest women of this day. Yes, you can begin now, today, to prepare for the herculean task which confronts us. Fall into line with the women who are striving so ardently to see that the fruits of a true democracy will be freely and equally distributed. Their experience and wise counsel may lead us safely through many labyrinths and avert many pitfalls.

His thoughts came back to the room. What about Bessie? He listened to her breathing. He could not take her with him and he could not leave her behind. Yes. She was asleep. He reconstructed in his mind the details of the room as he had seen them by the glow of the flash-light, when he had firstt come in. The window was directly behind him, above his head. The flash-light was at his side; the gun was lying beside the flashlight, the handle pointing toward him, so he could get it quickly and be in a position to use it. But he could not use the gun; that would make too much noise. He would have to use a brick. He remembered hoisting the window; it had not been hard. Yes, that was what he could do with ... Throw it out of the window, down the narrow air-shaft where nobody would find it until, perhaps, it had begun to smell.

He could not leave her here and he could not take her with him. If he took her alongg she would be crying all the time; she would be blaming him for all that had happened; she would be wanting whiskey to help her forget and there would be times when he could not get it for her. The room was black-dark and silent; the city did not exist. He sat up slowly, holding his breath, listening. Bessie's breath was deep, regular. He could not take her with him and he could not leave her. He stretched out his hand and caught the flash-light. He listened again; her breath came like the sleep of the tired. He was holding the covers aff her by sitting up this way and he did not want her to get cold. He pressed a button on the covers back; she still slept. His finger presed a button on the flashlight and a dim spot of yellow leaped to life on the opposite will. Quickly, he lowered it to the floor, for fear that it might disturb her; and as he did so there passed before his eyes in a split second of time one of the bricks he had glimpsed when he had first come into the room.

He stiffened; Bessie stirred restlessly. Her deep, regular breathing had stopped. He listened, but could not hear it. He saw her breath as a white thread stretching out over a vast black gulf and felt that he was clinging to it and was waiting to see if the ravel in the white thread which had started would continue and let him drop to the rocks far below. Then he heard her breathing again, in, out; He, too, breathed again, struggling now with his own breath to control it, to keep it from sounding so loud in his throat that it would awaken her. The fear that had gripped him when she had stirred made him realize that it would have to be quick and sure. Softly, he poked his legs from beneath the blanket, then waited. Bessie breathed, slow, long heavy, regular. He lifted his arm and the blanket fell away. He stood up and his muscles lifted his body in slow motion. Outside in the cold night the wind moaned and died down, like an idiot in an icy black pit. Turning he centered the disc of light where he thought Bessie's face must be. Yes. She was asleep. Her black face, stained with tears, was calm. He switched off the light, turned toward the wall and his fingers felt over the cold floor for the brick. He found it, gripped it in his hand and tip-toed back to the pallet. Her breath guided him in the darkness; he stopped where he thought her head would be. He couldn't take her and he couldn't leave her; so he would have to kill her. It was his life against hers. Quickly, to make certain where he must strike, he switched on the light, fearing as he did so that it might awaken her; then switched it off again, retaining as an image before his eyes her black face calm in deep sleep.

He straightened and lifted the brick, but just at that moment the reality of it all slipped from him. His heart beat wildly, trying to force its way out of his chest. No! Not this! His breath swelled deep in his lungs and he flexed his muscles, trying to impose his will over his body. He had to do better than this. Then, as auddenly as the this. Then, as suddenly as the had to stand here until that picture came back, that motive, that driving desire to escape the law. It must be this way. A sense of the white blur hovering near, of Mary burning, of Britten, of the law tracking him down, came back. Again, he was ready. The brick was in his hand. In his mind his hand traced a quick invisible arc thru the cold air of the room; high above his head his hand paused in fancy and imaginatively swooped down to where he thought her head must be. Then he took a deep breath and his hand gripped the brick and shot upward and paused a second and then plunged downward through the darkness to the accompaniment of a deep short grunt from his chest and landed with a thud. Yes! There was a dull gasp of surprise, then a moan. No, that must not be! He lifted the brick again and again, until in falling it struck a sodden mass that gave softly but stoutly to each falling blow. Soon he seemed to be striking a wet wad of cotton, of some damp substance whose only life was the jarring of the brick's impact. He stopped, hearing his own breath heaving in and out of his chest. He was wet all over, and cold. How many times he had lifted the brick and brought it down he did not know. All he knew was that the room was quiet and cold and that thejog was done.

In his left hand he still held the flashlight, gripping it for sheer life. He wanted to switch it on and see if he had really done it, but could not. His knees were slightly bent, like a runner's poised for a race. Fear was in him again; he strained his ears. Didn't he hear her breathing? He bent and listened. It was his own breathing he heard; he had been breathing so loud that he had not been able to tell if Bessie was still breathing or not.

His fingers on the brick began to ache; he had been gripping it for some minutes with all the strength of his body. He was sonscious of something warm and sticky on his hand and his sense of it covered him,all over; it cast a warm glow that enveloped the surface of his skin. He wanted to drop the brick, wanted to be free of this warm blood that crept and grew powerful with each passing moment. Then a dreadful thought rendered him incapable of action. Suppose, Bessie was not as she had sounded when the brick hit her? A cold chill, colder than the air of the room, closed about his shoulders like a shawl whse strands were woven of ice. It became unbearable and something within him cried out in silent agony; he stooped until the brick touched the floor, then loosened his fingers, bringing his hand to his stomach where he wiped it dry upon his coat. Gradually his breath subsided until he could no longer hear it and then he knew for certain that Bessie was not breathing. The room was filled with quiet and cold and death and blood and the deep moan of the night wind.

But he had to look. He lifted the flashlight to where he thought her head must be and presed the button. The yellow spot sprang wide and dim on an empty stretch of floor; he moved it over a circle of crumpled bedclothes. There! Blood and lips and hair and face turned to one side and blood running slowly. She seemed limp; he could act now. He turned off the light. Could he leave her here? No. Somebody might find her.

Avoiding her, he stepped to the far side of the pallet, then turned in the dark. He centered the spot of light whede he thought the window must be. He walker to the window and stopped, waiting to hear someone challenge his right to do what he was doing. Nothing happened. He caught hold of the window, hoisted it slowly up and the wind blasted his face. He turned to Bessie again and threw the the light upon the face of death and blood. He put the flashlight in his pocket and stepped sarefully in the dark to her side. He would have to lift her in his arms; his arms hung loose and did not move; he just stood there. But he had to move her. He had to get her to the window. He stooped and slid his hands beneath her body, expecting to touch blood, but not touching it. Then he lifted her, feeling the wind screaming a protest againsa him. He stepped to the window and lifted her into it; he was working fast now that he had started. He pushed her as far out in his arms as possible, then let bo. The body hit and bumped against the narrow sides of the air-shaft as it went down into blackness. He heard it strike the bottom.

He turned the light upon the pallet, half-expecting her to still be there; but there was only a pool of warm blood, a faint smell hovering in the air above it. Blood was on the pillows too. He took them and threw them out of the window, down the air-shaft. It was over.

He eased the window down. He would take the pallet into another room; he wished he could leave it here, but it was cold and he needed it. He rolled the quilts and blanket into a bundle and picked it up and went into the hall. Then he stopped abruptly, his mouth open. Good God! G————yes, it was in her dress pocket! Now he was in for it. He had thrown Bessie down the air-shaft and the money was in the pocket of her dress! Wht could he do about it? Anguish gripped him. Naw! He did not want to see her again. He felt that if he should ever see her fce again he would be overcome with a sense of guilt so deep as deep as to be unbearble. That was a dumb thing to do ,he thot. Throwing her way with all that money in her pocket. He sighed nd went through the hall and entered another room. Well, he would have to do without money; that was all. He spread the quilts upon the floor and rolled himself into them. He had seven cents between him and starvation and the law and th long doys ahead.

He closed his eyes, longing for sleep that would not come. During the last two days and nights he had lived so fast and hard hat is was an effort to keep it all real in his mind. So close had danger and death come that he could not feel that it was he who had undergone it all. And, yet, out of it all, over and above all that had happened, impalpable but real, there remained to him a queer sense of power. He had done this. He had brought all this about. In all of his life these two murders were the most meaningful things that had ever happened to him. He was living, truly and deeply, no matter what others might think, looking at him with their blind eyes. Never had had the chance to live out the consequences of his actions; Never had his will been so free as in this night and day of fear and murder and flight.

He had killed twice, but in a true sense it was not the first time he had ever killed. He had killed many times before, but only during the last two days had this impulse assumed the form of actual killing. Blind anger had come often and he had either gone behind his curtain or wall, or had quarreled and fought. And yet, whether in running away or in fighting, he had felt the need of clean satisfaction of facing this thing in all its fulness, of figting it out in the wind and sunlight, in front of those whose hate for him was so unfathomably deep that, afted they had shunted him off into a corner of the city to rot and dies, they could turn to him, as Mary had that night in the car, and say: "I'd like to know how your people live."

But what was he after? What did he want? What did he love and what did he hate? He did not know. There was something he knew and something he felt —something the world gave him him and something he himself had; something spread out in front of him and something spread out in back; and never in all his life, with this black skin of his, had the two worlds, thought and feeling, will and mind, aspiration and satsfaction, been together; never had he felt a sense of wholeness.

Pueblo Del Rio Opens Last Section of New Homes for War Workers

The Los Angeles City Housing Authority announced today that Pueblo Del Rio opens its last section of new, modern apartments for war workers and their families this week end.

More than 62 applicants for the low rent homes have already signed for this section and it is expected that the remainder will be under lease within a fortnight.

The attractive, modern one, two and three bedroom homes consist of a living room, dinette, kitchen, private bath and toilet. Extensive recreational plans provide playgrounds and complete equipment for children and a large, beautiful community hall for socials.

Rents start at $11 a month, including lights, gas and water, and range upward to $40 a month, according to the net family income.

There is every privacy in these homes which one finds in privately owned apartments. Rumors that lights are turned off at a certain hour and tenants are regimented according to certain rules of personal conduct are absolutely false, the Authority states.

Applications are being received at Del Rio, 1801 East 53rd street, daily, including Saturday and Sunday, from 8:30 a. m., to 5 p. m. To live in Del Rio, the head of the family must be engaged in work in a certified war plant, earning less than $1.00 an hour, a citizen of the United States and in need of housing.

3 Coast Lads Get Wings at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 17—On Saturday morning, September 5, 1942 at 10:00 a. m., another page in the annals of American aviation was written when the sixth class of Aviation cadets received their wings at the Tuskegee Army Flying School.

Characteristic of this ceremony, as previous graduation exercises, was the marked simplicity and deep sincerity, indicative of the life and ideals of the aviation cadet at this base.

Following the military procession led by the Post Commander, Colonel Frederick V. H. Kimble, and Lieutenant Colonels B. O. Davis, Jr. and Noel F. Parrish, Chaplin Douglas L. T. Robinson offered the invocation.

The diplomas and commissions were awarded by Colonel Kimble, while Colonels Davis and Parrish presented the successful with their wings.

The newly commissioned flying officers include the following: Second Lieutenants John H. Morgan, Box 347 Cartersville, Georgia and Edward L. Toppins, 1519 Baker street, San Francisco.

Second Lieutenants James L. McCullin of 3901 Enright St., St. Louis, Mo.; Samuel M. Bruce of 319 Twelfth Ave., Seattle, Wash.; Henry B. Perry of 519 North Oak Street, Thomasville, Ga.; Robert W. Deiz of 2254 S. E. 35th Pl., Portland, Oregon; Wilmore B. Leonard of 307 Broad St., Salisbury, Md. and Joseph D. Elsberry of 114 W. Washington, Langston, Okla.; Richard C. Ceasar, Box 364, Lake Willage, Ark.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Post Band under the direction of Lt. Frank L. Drye.

J. WALTER WILLS JR., secretary and treasurer of the House of Wills, funeral home in Cleveland, O., is visiting his mother here. Mr. Wills is also a musician and sportsman ,has his own cruiser.

OLSON SETS SEPT. 14-24 AS REGISTRATION WEEKS

Governor Culbert L. Olson Monday proclaimed the period from Sept. 14 through Sept. 24, 1942, as Registration Weeks. His proclamation is as follows:

"All over the world today Americans are fighting and dying to keep America free. They are defending our country, our people, and our democracy.

"The right to vote is one of the fundamental privileges of free people in a democracy; it is the first right denied the enslaved people in totalitarian nations and in conquered countries. We must preserve it in America; we cannot let it be taken from us nor permit it to go by default.

"In order to vote, the law requires citizens to be registered. All citizens are eligible to register to vot who are over 21 years of age, who have been residents of the State of California prior to November 3, 1941 and who have been residents of the county in which they presently reside for ninety days prior to November 3, 1942.

"It is necessary for all citizens to register or re-register if they did not vote at the 1940 election, if they have changed their place of residence since they last registered, or if their name has been changd through marriage or court decree.

"Complete information of places for registration may be obtained from the County Clerks of the several counties or from County Registrars of Voters. The final date for registration for the general election of this year is September 24, 1942.

"To prove to the world that our democracy can and does function effectively and efficiently, even in the midst of a conflict testing its very ability to survive, to establish that democracy is not decadent as claimed by Axis propagandists, it is most essential that all citizens register to vote and that they do exercise their right of franchise this year.

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State, do hereby proclaim the period from September 14 through September 24, 1942, to be Registration Weeks, and call upon all citizens of Cali- and call upon all citizens of California to register to vote. And I call upon management, labor, civic, patriotic, fraternal, religious and all other groups and the press to encourage all citizens of California to register to vote by displaying and publicizing Registration Weeks, and by posting this proclamation in appropriate places."

AZUSA TEMPLE ASKS PRAYER WARRIORS

The Azusa Pentecostal Temple, 1101 E. 27th st. at Paloma is calling for Prayer Warriors to join them everyday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. except Saturday and Sunday in special prayer services. Everybody is welcome. The service is being conducted by Rev. T. R. Weitzel of Hawaii and China and Mother Cotton.

Participating in a big War Bond rally at Denver, Colorado, July 18, to raise a quarter of a million dollars to purchase bombers to send against the Axis, the American Woodmen played a conspicuous part and purchased War Bonds amounting to more than $50,000.

At the rally, conducted on one of the busiest corners in Denver and witnessed by several thousand persons, during which time the distinguished flying cross was presented to the pilot of General Doolittle's plane which bombed Tokyo, the American Woodmen's subscription was the second highest of the rally which netted $355,219. The American Woodmen was represented by Dr. T. T. McKinney, supreme physician, and B. H. Graham, supreme clerk, both members of the finance committee of the association. The supreme commander, Lawrence H. Lightner, is chairman of the finance committee and approved this purchase. Being out of the city conducting regional conferences he could not take part in this bond rally. Unusual recognition was paid the American Woodmen by the Denver Post, leading white Denver daily paper, which featured the picture of the supreme clerk in its Sunday morning issue of July 19, writing the amount of the American Woodmen check upon a huge blackboard. The ceremonies were broadcast over radio station KOA.

Prior to the rally, pictures were made in the office of the War Bond Administrator. In the accompanying picture, Ben H. Graham, supreme clerk, is seen presenting a check for $50,042.50 to Ralph A. Nicholas, internal revenue collector and War Bond administrator. Dr. T. T. McKinney and Miss Benzell H. Graham, daughter of the supreme clerk, look on approvingly.

Up to July 21, the Supreme Camp has purchased United States Defense Bonds amounting to $150,000. Local camps have purchased bonds with a maturity value of $107,350 and Bonds are being received from local camps daily.

San Diego Prelate Conducts Great Revival in L. A.

Rev. C. Johnson of the Mt. Zion church in San Diego will conduct a great soul-saving revival at the Corner Stone Baptist church, 1248 E. 14th street, Rev. D. C. Austin, pastor, beginning September 14, 8:00 p. m.

Rev. Johnson is a nationally known Evangelist and gospel singer, and his arrival has long been awaited by many people of this city. If you have missed your old time revival services, come out and hear this great speaker. The revival is only for reviving and saving souls. No offering will be taken during the whole revival period. Rev. Austin says, "Win a soul, and we will win the war."

Woodlawn YW Branch Begins Fall Activities

An enthusiastic group of women attended the meeting of the committee of management of the Woodlawn Branch YWCA to discuss plans for the fall activities at the new branch.

Already the Business and Industrial Girls' league, which meets every other Sunday has resumed meetings. These girls and representatives of the Business Women's club and the "Y" Moderne tes will attend the Fall Setting Up Conference at Griffith Park this week-end.

Girl Reserves re-convening after summer session have a new, attractive building to use for meetings.

Miss Celestine Smith, personal service and counseling secretary, has been busily engaged assisting girls, strangers in the city who are in need of homes. Miss Smith is especially responsible for emergency housing, which is a service formerly done by Eastside Shelter but now assumed by the YWCA. This shift in service of agencies resulted from a study by the Council of Social Agencies made in 1939 wherein Eastside Shelter became a community center and the YWCA did all temporary and emergency housing.

Soldiers, Girls 'Give Out' as Music in Vogue at Eastside USO Center

Music was in vogue Sunday night over USO way. PFC Eugene Woods beat out a mess of terrific tunes. Heard harmonizing were Anna Mae Laws, Gladys Joiner, Doris Williams, Alice De Cuir and an occasional note from Vye Aldridge.

The Congo had varied fantastic ideas woven into its rhythmic patterns by the Sunday night swingsters. Everyone had a turn doing something under the Congo spell, and such a performance.

Friday night's "Jam Session" had special feature, "The Cinderella Shoe". Each girl placed a shoe in the center of the circle. Th soldier finding the shoe to correspond was awarded the next dance. A hostess M. P. was placed at the door in order to see that no shoe went back to camp as a souvenir. One often hears the remark that the young people will be our salvation. These informal chats on "Drop In Nights" are inspiring as well as intellectual. Sgt. Thomas Paige, PFC Chester Macklin were holding forth on behalff of the Army. Miss Muriel Foley, Evelyn Owsley, Virgie Walker, Jerry Jenkins, Maxine Brown, Nellie Goolsby and Consuelo Van Vactor gave the youthful feminine slant.

A new creation in Army tactics is the Hostess M. P.; chairman of this group is Miss Davia Labeau.

Donations for this week have been a music box, records, a drum, three lamps, (in this group is a desk, table and torchiers), the donors were the Alpha Matrons Social Club. Others who have contributed are: Mr. Ben Bramlett, Eunice Long, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor, Theresa Edwards, Mrs. Cannon, W. B. Woodman, Mr. Charles Linzy, Mrs. Esther Lackey, Albert Damato, Mr. B. Herndon, Mr. Wm. Thedford.

DANCER CONVALESCING

The friends and co-workers of Mr. Earl Dancer are happy to note that he has been released from the hospital and is convalescing.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new." In this community the old funeral ceremony yields to the new memorial service as conducted at Angelus Funeral Home. Instead of gloom and drabness, there is sunlight, beauty . . . soft music . . . a memory that is a comfort to the bereaved.

NO PARKING PROBLEMS AT ANGELUS FUNERAL HOME

Our location on the triangle formed by Jefferson Blvd. and 35th St., just off Central Ave., provides plenty of parking space for patrons and visitors at the 35th St. entrance to Angelus Funeral Home.

The American people along with their Allies are waging a global war against powerful armed forces of the Axis nations to to guarantee to the people the Four Freedoms. The eight points of the Atlantic Charter insure these Four Freedoms to all peoples all nations, all races and all religions. Secretary of State Cordell Hull has appealed to the American people that racial and religious discrimination must cease. That a brotherhood of man should be established on this earth.

THIS IS NOT A WAR BETWEEN RACES

Wendell Willkie speaking at the N. A. A. C. P. convention here proved that this was not a war between the races as the saint of San Simeon, William Randolph Hearst, would have you believe. Willkie cited that the United Nations have an Oriental ally, the Chinese, and Hitler has an Oriental ally, the Japanese. Brazil, with its vast Negro population, has declared war on Germany. Willkie at this very moment is a special envoy of President Roosevelt in the Middle East, Russia, all these lands and other places telling the people that the Four Freedoms will be given to all peoples following this war

COULD NOT LIVE IN HOME THEY PURCHASED

A man and his wife recently purchased a home. They were not allowed to live in that home. That was not in occupied Poland, it was not the tyranny of Hitler—but in America. American citizens are not free to enjoy their inalienable right to the pursuit of happiness. Real estate brokers and subdividers all over America have decreed in true Fascist fashion that certain plots of ground be set aside and adjudged forbidden territory for all who are not white.

In a conversation with that brilliant up-and-coming young lawyer, Atty. Everette M. Porter, as to the constitutionality of the the action on the part of the California courts in enforcing deed restrictions against colored people, I found his opinion to be "The action of the Court in enforcing deed restrictions against colored people violates the 14th amendment of the Federal Constitution. In that the Court being an agency of the State and acting for the State lends its aid and effectively discriminates against American citizens by enforcing a deed restriction, purpose of which is only to prevent American citizens from living in certain areas simply because of their color.

"In other words, the State, by indirection and collusion with prejudiced individuals, enforces a rule of law which the Federal Constitution proscribes and prevents the State from doing directly.

THE SUPREME COURT BARS RACIAL RESTRICTION

"The United States Supreme Court has held that a law which provides that Negroes cannot live in certain areas is unconstitutional and void. Nevertheless, State courts, by the subterfuge of enforcing race retrictive clauses in deeds have succeeded so far in ghettoizing Negroes, although they know that this indirection is just as unconstitutional as a positive law would be.

"However, this direct and unconstitutional action on the part of State Courts can be cured and prevented in California if our courageous Assemlyman, Gus Hawkins, will introduce and engineer a bill through the California legislature.

HERE IT IS, GUS, GET TO WORK

"A bill which would say in effect,'That from henceforth, no California Court shall have jurisdiction to enforce any contract, covenant or agreement which has for its object the discrimination or limitingof the rights of individuals simply becauseof their race, religion or previous condition of servitude. And which contract, covenant or clause by indirection violates any Constitutional provision, whether State or National and which contract, covenant or clause would be unconstitutional, if passed directly by the legislature of a state and that all such contracts, covenants or clauses which have for their purpose discrimination against individuals because of race is by this act declared to be unlawful'."

NOT "TOO HOT TO HANDLE"

Atty. Porter has shown us the way. He has proven that the racial restrictive clauses can be licked. And we have the man to do the job, GUS HAWKINS. But Gus will have a tough fight on his hands. Real estate brokers will pounce upon him like barnyard chickens upon a piece of bread. He will be like one of thousands of black soldiers in a fox hole in some distant land, strafed by enemy planes, dodging machine gun bullets with shrapnel and artillery shells bursting like peaunts in the monkey cage at the zoo. But that black soldier will crawl out of that fox hole and rush against terrific odds, charging with hot lead and cold steel.

Assemlyman Gus Hawkins will be in a similar spot. That black soldier is giving his blood and maybe his life that people all over the world will be free—including his own native land. That black soldier will sacrifice his life if neccessary to give to the world the Four Freedoms. The sacrifice of the soldier subordinates the sacrifice of thoe left bhind.

Hitler speaks of a German race. We should speak of an American race, American nation. The great majority of people in hyphenated America would like to drop the hypen. We mean German-American, Jewish- American, Negro-American, etc., would simply like to be called "just a plain everyday American."

CIVIL WAR SEEMS SECOND FRONT

But those die-hards who are imbued with Hitler-like psychology, those Southern reactionaries who still dream of a Confederate States of America or those few who still hold a grudge against the North, along with the few race-baiting politicians, greedy land grabbers, Fascists, and those who find it profitable to have disunity would like to keep America divided.

These few disrupt the morale of the arsenal of the world, the United States of America, by fomenting hate between the Negroes and whits, between the Catholics and Protestants, between capital and labor, they spread anti-Semitism. These few do not represent real America. This powerful few are capable of stopping the American people in the midst of war preparation to fight a riot instead of that war.

The Government has decreed gas rationing in order to conserve rubber. But a Negro, along with other non-caucasion defense workers, must burn up rubber driving many, many miles to work simply because of racial restrictive clauses. They cannot live close to their jobs.

Everyday we see the American people coming closer and closer together in spite of those who would sabotage the magnificent rights as provided in our Constitution. We find whites refusing to sign racial restrictive clauses in many communities. We see civic groups reaching out their hands to black Americans. The Labor unions are doing the same, and we find the doors of churches opening to welcome black Americans, whose husbands, sons, sweethearts and brothers are fighting to preserve the Four Freedoms and bring Peace on Earth and Goodwill to ALL Men.

THEATRE WORLD

Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday, Sept. 17, 1942 Vol. 63—No. 23 Page Two-B

ARCHIE SAVAGE, director of dance sequences for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "Cabin The Sky," puts his dancers through their paces as they swing into final rehearsals for "American Rhapsody," which will have its local premiere at the Mayan theatre, Sunday, Sept. 27. Malcolm H. Nash, dance director for Spike Brothers and McCoy's Music Town, smiles his approval as he looks on. At right, Paul Goodwin, one of the principals of the juvenile group, is shown as a drummer in native costume. (Insert) Malcolm H. Nash, who is directing the entire production of "American Rhapsody." The twilight matinee, scheduled for 6 o'clock, promises to be a brilliant social affair as well as an outstanding cultural achievement.

THE BERRY BROTHERS, appearing in "Panama Hattie," starting today at Loew's State and Grauman's Chinese theatres.

GHOST SHOW COMES SATURDAY TO LINCOLN

Francisco and his famous "Midnight Ghost Frolic" comes to the Lincoln theatre on Saturday, midnight.

Presenting celebrated demonstrations of noted Spirit Mediums and the outstanding feats of myster workers in China, India, Egypt, and other countries, Francisco carries a stage full of elaborate equipment with which to astonish his audiences.

He offers someone in this city a new experience when he invites a person from the audience to have his head painlessly amputated and then replaced.

Slate writing demonstrations that have puzzled scientists in many countries; Spirit pictu as produced by a celebrated medium; cabinet seances as presented by the Davenport Brothers; spirit messages in answer to questions written in the lobby; Materializations, are a small part of this unusual performance, said to be the only show of its kind in America.

This special performance commences at 12:30 p. m., after the regular show has concluded. Special tickets are now on sale at the box office.

"CROSSROADS" NOW ON SCREEN AT U. A. THEATRE

"Crossroads," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production with William Powell, Hedy Lamar, Basil Rathbone, and Clair Trevor is one of the most outstanding picutres of the year, now showing at the United Artists theatre, 933 So. Broadway, downtown Los Angeles.

The cast, rich above most in names and talents, provides here a novelty new in entertainment. At the start and for more than half its length, the picture is a study of amnesia and the problems of a French diplomat (1935) whose memory of events prior to 1922 is blank.

As an added attraction on this great bill, another Metro picture is in the offing, with an all-star cast headed by Marsha Hunt and Richard Carlson in the "Affairs of Martha"—a gay, flippant comedy with plenty of good wholesome entertainment for everyone.

MARIAN ANDERSON HEARD ON NBC'S "TELEPHONE HOUR"

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Marian Anderson, whose voice Toscanini once described as the greatest in a hundred years, made her first appearance on the "Telephone Hour" Great Artists Series Monday with the Bell Symphonic orchestra over NBC.

Miss Anderson sang "Pleurez, Pleurez, Mes Yeux" from Massenet's "Le Cid"; "Halleujah" by Hummel, and two spirituals, "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child" and "My Soul's Been Anchored in the Lord."

He who is afraid of being too generous has lost the power of being magnanimous. The best man or woman is the most unselfed.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Equality League Dance Slated Saturday

The founders of the People's Equality league, Mrs. Myrna V. Miller, president, and N. C. Davis, executive secretary, announce their "Gala Premiere Dance," Saturday, Sept. 19, in the Los Angeles CIO building, 5851 Avalon boulevard.

The ICOR organization is in charge of the dinner, which will be served continuously from 12 noon, the proceeds of which will go to buy tanks for our Russian ally's Red army.

Madam Gine Medem, internationally known lecturer, will speak at 3:00 p. m. The afternoon entertainment will be augmented by outstanding screen, radio and stage artists, including the following who have been inpearances: Art Noble, F. Wilson, vited to make brief personal ap-Ethel Waters, Hattie McDaniel, Clarence Muse and Ben Carter.

At 8:00 p. m., Dr. Nicholas Mulinos, great opera tenor and voice culture teacher, will sing in English and in Greek, his native tongue. William B. Taylor, director, West Coast Aviation Drive, UAW-CIO, will speak at 8:15 p. m.

From 9:00 p. m. to 1:00 a. m. you will dance to the sweet, hot and romantic music of Art Whiting and his Swing Sixters. This nationally known orchestra has just closed a 10-weeks engagement at the Hollywood Palladium ballroom. They will introduce two new songs, "A Swing Rhapsody in 'V'", words by Anna L. Miller, music by Nathan Davis, and "When I Want to Make Love," words by Emerson Walker, music by Davis. Remember, when you buy a dinner at this dance you help send tanks to the Red army. They have been and are still helping us. So, let's help them.

18-HOUR WAR BOND RADIO PROGRAM SET

"$10,000 an hour for 18 hours!"

This was the minimum goal set this week by local U. S. Treasury Department officials as plans were rushed for the longest continuous show ever staged to sell U. S. War Bonds and War Savings Stamps. To be held Saturday, Sept. 19, from 6 a. m. to midnight, the show will be broadcast continuously by Radio Station KMPC as its contribution to "Salute to Our Heroes" month.

Beside a veritable galaxy of radio and screen stars scheduled to take part in the longest show in radio history, civic officials, leading retail merchants, war industry leaders, trade union heads, war workers, religious leaders and prominent clubwomen will cooperate and in many cases make appearances to boost the sales of bonds and stamps to a new high on that day.

The radio station has obtained permission from all advertisers to drop all commercial programs for the 18-hour period so that its facilities may be placed at the disposal of the Treasury Department and thus, with the cooperation of local businessmen, make a major contribution to the motion picture industry's campaign to raise $1,000,000,000 through war bond and stamp sales during "Salute to Our Heroes" month.

Since this is the first time in the nation's experience that an entire community has cooperated to put on a show of this length, the Treasury Department, government and local officials, throughout the country, are watching developments closely with a view of repeating the plan in other cities should it prove outstandingly successful here.

KATHERINE "MONA" LEWIS, RUDOLPH BANKHEAD WED

Rudolph Bankhead and Katherine "Mona" Lewis were married Saturday, September 5th at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Willi Robinson, 2017 W. 29th St. All the socialites were there to see the explayboy, or man about town, do the thing that has been so discussed--get married. Among the people present were executives from RKO studios where Mr. Bankhead has been employed for over 12 years.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Price. Mrs. Trudy Finley was maid of honor; Mr. Walter Butler was best man, and Mrs. Virginia Paris was soloist and pianist for the evening. Her featured song of the evening was "Because".

The reception was held from 8:30 until 11 p. m. and continued at the fashionable Mitchell's apartment in the westside district.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Scoop! The U. S. Navy has authorized the formation of a 45-piece Negro band to be stationed at Moraga Pre-Flight Training school, Saint Mary's college. The musicians around San Francisco Bay area are flocking in for this fine opportunity, having their auditions and physical examinations. The band will play marches for the trainees, as well as give concerts and play at dances.

Walter Mitchell and Chester Merant left for the army Thursday, Sept. 3, in a party with one of Walter's school day pals.

Miss Daisy Rickman celebrated her birthday party at Jack's with 14 guests. A very gay time was had by all.

Mrs. Myrtie Ashford Rector's sister left for home. She set the coast on fire and left. I know two certain parties will miss her. She and her sister were the best dressers on the coast.

Cleveland Smith, formerly of the 369th C. A. (A. A.), now with the 259th Quartermasters Battalion located at Pittsburg, Calif., Camp Stoneman.

William O'Neil (corporal), formerly of the 369th C. A. (A. A.), also now located with the 259th, Pittsburg, Calif., Camp Stoneman, Company D.

Miss Vivian Woods and James Payton, pianist at International House, were in the company of Mrs. Ferne Taylor at the Towne Club. Miss Woods is a stranger in our fair city and enjoying herself.

Joe Preston, Los Angeles playboy, knocks himself out in Jack's.

I stopped by Jack's Tavern and saw the retired playboy, Robert Atkinson, with his new girl. Someone lost out; I wonder who?

Marilyn Green and Lupe Waters were seen in Jack's having a fine time. Miss Waters is expecting to leave for Los Angeles soon while Mrs. Green is expecting her husband from Seattle to join her soon. So, all you cats better watch out.

Barry Baines, Harry Bigelow and Mack McGavock are on their way to Honolulu. The boys are definitely on their way to be back with 50 Gs. So be careful, Hawaii glamour girls.

The three musketeers were seen at Jack's Tavern—Vivian Lopez, Jane Ware, and Marliy Evans—doing all right, just flashing all of their greenbacks.

Vernon Small and Ben Scott playing all over the town with their little girls. I think Scott is getting married, or is he?

Mr. and Mrs. Lillian Hire were playing hard at Jack's. She still has the one and only.

Percy Williams, Buck Cannon, and Delia Piers were celebrating at Jack's Tavern and spending a grand and wouldn't let nobody buy a drink. Buck had a grand and Percy had a grand. Some guys. They asked this writer to join them, but I was too busy. I wonder where Billy Richmond was at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carter were very much entertained at Jack's place.

Quite an enjoyable time was spent at Jack's Tavern by several army officers and their wives from the East coast. The following were the privileged patrons: Mr. and Mrs. J. Wessley, Melrose Brown and Ethel Grant, from Los Angeles, visiting the Town Club with Melvin Priestley, looking for poor people to show them a good time.

Geraldine Mack, from Missouri, now living in Frisco,

Clara Bryant, Helen Prudhomme, Leola Taylor, Olevia Spikes playing at Jack's Tavern.

It seems to me that a certain playboy, "Robert Atkinson, must retire eas he and Mary Ellen Duncan, of Portland, are now mrried. Luck to you both.

Wayman Bigelow, Frank Brown, Lucille Birch, Helen Merritt, Goldie Blayton, of Los Angeles, and Mertha Joseph were seen playing very hard at the Town Club, as Miss Blayton is a visitor in the Bay Region and they expect to show her the bright spots of San Francisco.

Mrs. Callie Collins and Mrs. Marie Holliday, 1876 Post street, were seen making the night spots.

Miss Mildred Anderson, 1517 7th street, Oakland, formerly of Chicago, visiting San Francisco.

Mrs. Viola Jones, from Los Angeles, knocking herself out in San Francisco.

Little Brother and wife are expecting the stork sometime in December who could want a better Christmas present than that.

Mrs. Edith Kerrn, James Castman and Wm. W. Grimes playing on both sides of the bridge.

Mrs. Gibson, from Seattle, visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Simpson.

Ernest Hendricks, Marcella Burris, Richard Harvey, and Mrs. Ralph W. Walker knocking themselves out at Jack's and getting in the groove.

Mildred Harvey at Jack's Tavern with James Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Sears.

Sammy Burney came back and was seen at Jack's with his old flame.

Freddie Gordan and Jimmy Rogers now at the Golden Gate theatre, held over for three weeks, joined the Ink Spots Sept. 11 for 15 weeks.

Willie B. McCovey doesn't think much of her brother. I quote him as saying she gave him the run-around in Jack's t'other night in company with Rebecca Clipper. Teehee.

Mrs. Hazel Evans can be seen making the night spots looking like a million.

Sidney White playing hard with all the pretties at the late spots.

Miss Arlene Taylor playing hard with a new boy friend. Some girl.

Bill Smith just came back from five months on the water—Russia, Australia, etc. If the liquor don't get you, New York and the women must.

Joe Randolph and guest spent a lovely evening at the Town Club with Horace Diggs, who announced his engagement.

The Hot Shots will be at the Tivoli theatre for one week, opening in Stockton for two weeks at Matlyoni's nite club.

Neal Johnson and Al Trash buying drinks, four in one, at Jack's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith are doing a bang-up business since she enlarged the Kozy Club, with dancing and all. Smiley's 7-piece band and the vocalist is tops. By the way, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith are Mrs. Velda Wilson's cousins, also Mrs. M. E. Sterling (Velda's mother), who is to take the kitchen over at the Town Club and I am telling everybody she is tops as a cook.

Fashionable Marie Canady just returned from Detroit. Los Angeles and New York, was entertained in Los Angeles by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spates, Nellie Snow and Benny Ayers, looking fashionable as ever.

Casey Weaver, stage performer and ex-dancing teacher, was seen in Jack's Tavern with not one, but two pretties. Casey, himself, doesn't drink, but he was spending plenty of cash for the fun the cuties were having.

Mrs. Bonnie Bell Williams is having a wonderful time. The night spots are fine and everything is O. K. with Miss Ruby Hodge in Jack's Tavern.

For any further information, write or wire Jay Gould, 1716 Webster street, San Francisco.

Free Forms for V-Mail Available

V-Mail letter forms are now available in every community and on every rural mail route in the nation, the War Department announces.

Since V-Mail—the fast new service for dispatch of mail to and from American forces overseas—was instituted two months ago, the Post Office department has been distributing the letter forms, and they are now available at each of the 45,000 post offices in the country, as well as from rural carriers, without charge.

The Army Postal Service urges that all persons writing to members of the armed forces outside the United States use V-Mail, as it is now not only the most expeditious service possible, but saves vitally needed cargo space, since this type of mail is much lighter than regular mail.

V-Mail facilities have been established at points of embarkation in this country as well as in the United Kingdom, the Hawaiian Islands, Australia and the Near East, and is being rapidly expanded to many other points. In other areas overseas, where V-Mail facilities have not yet been installed, it is sent in its original form, being flown whenever planes are available.

Thousands in California Shipyards

"Several thousand Negroes recruited by the Los Angeles Office of the United States Employment Service now are employed in shipyards in the San Francisco Bay area," according to a statement made today by Arthur E. Wood, who heads the USES operations in this area.

"In addition to the skilled workers for whom there is continuous opportunity both in Northern and Southern California shipyards," Wood said, "hundreds of jobs are available in the bay area for men who can qualify for shipyard labor."

The wage rate for skilled laborers in the Richmond yards is 88 cents an hour, but with the overtime accumulated on a six-day week, men are averaging $200 a month.

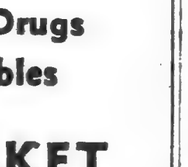
Wood mentioned that experienced construction laborers were exceptionally well qualified for this work.

Those who can qualify as skilled workers are invited to register for work at the headquarters office of the USES which is located at 11th and Flower streets. Those registering for labor should apply at the Casual Labor office at 787 So. San Pedro.

Urge Race Seamen to Register

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—All Negro seamen holding Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation papers were urged today to register at local United States Employment offices in principal cities and towns for possible emplyoment in the merchant marine.

A national registration of former merchant marine seamen began last week and continues until tomorrow. Announced by Admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator, the registration will determine how many men with previous sea experience are available for sea duty.



Admiral Land explained that, due to the steady increase in the size of the American Merchant Marine, there lies ahead the necessity to employ as many experienced seamen as possibl to help man the ships carrying vital war supplies. Over 100,000 seamen and officers will be needed to sail the 2300 new ships that will be built by the end of next year.

"There is no compulsion in this registration," he said. "All that we ask of these men is that they let their country know who they are, where they are, and if they are willing to return to the sea. They will be called only as the need for their particular skill becomes acute."

Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward of your Father which is in heaven.—Jesus: Matthew 6:1.

The manner of giving shows the character of the giver, more than the gift itself.—Lavater.

War Department Extends Employment of Women

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—It is the policy of the War Department to use women employees in all capacities for which they are qualified or may become so by training, the War Department announced today.

As far as practicable, women will be employed in preference to men of war service age or capabilities. However, this policy will not limit the employment of qualified men who are ineligible for military service by reason of age or physical disability.

War Department employing and training officers have been directed to "fully utilize, immediately and effectively, the largest and potentially the finest single source of labor available today—the vast reserve of woman power." The ability, the spirit, and the determination which women war workers have already shown can leave no doubt of the part they are playing and will play to win this war, instructions to the employing officers stated.

Already, about 300,000 women are employed in War Department activities, and as many more can be absorbed. They work in arsenals and depots, producing and assembling guns, planes, tanks and ammunition. They are running 15-ton cranes, operating complex milling and boring machines, driving trucks, riveting airplane wings and filling hundreds of other mechanical jobs, as well as doing clerical and supervisory work.

Through the employment of women in these posts, thousands of men have been freed to serve in the armed forces or in other vital war production lines for which women are physically unfitted.

Medical Supplies to Defense Body

Thirty-five cases, loaded with emergency medical supplies, have been presented to the Los Angeles County Defense Council by the Red Cross, according to Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, chief of the Emergency Medical Service of the County Defense Council.

The medical cases, the work of Red Cross Volunteer workers, will be distributed among the 87 casualty stations in county territory and to cities supplied by the County Defense Council. In each emergency medical case are towels, pillow cases, layettes, emergency hot water bottles, waste containers, newspaper bags, doctor's gowns and other emergency medical supplies.

Red Cross Motor Corps Member Weds Soldier

Lucille Jackson, who is a member of the Palo Alto Red Cross Motor Corps, was married in Reno Sunday to Edward Lorens jr.

Her husband, who is a sergeant in the army, is from Melrose, La., where his parents still reside. He is stationed now at Santa Cruz.

The couple was accompanied to Reno by Eula Tharr of Carmel and Sgt. James Driver, who also is stationed at Santa Cruz. They acted as the bridal attendants.

The bride made her home in New York before coming to Palo Alto. She was educated at Howard university in Washington, D. C. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jackson of New York City. She will make her home at 1705 El Camino Real, Palo Alto, for the duration.

Her husband was educated in New Orleans schools.

The newlyweds are honeymooning at Lake Tahoe and in Sacramento.

SECOND LIEUTENANT Edward L. Toppins was recently commissioned as a flying officer at the Tuskegee Army Flying School, Tuskegee, Ala. He was a former student at Los Angeles Junior college, San Francisco Junior college and the University of San Francisco. He was cadet captain during his primary training, and cadet adjutant during his basic and advance training at the Tuskegee Army Flying School. He made a remarkable record during his basic and advance stages of flight training. He is the son of Mrs. Martha E. Davis, of 1519 Baker street, San Francisco.

★ ORCHIDS OF MERIT

By ANON

★ FIRST LADY OF SWEET SWING
★ "BEHIND THE SCENES"
★ "POWER BEHIND THE DRUMS"

We hear much about the "power behind the guns." Certainly the "power behind the drums" and the vibra harp is deserving of this week's Orchids of Merit, and a few intimate details of this charming personality will be welcomed by the fans of Lionel Hampton's band.

You guessed it. I speak of none other than Gladys Neal Hampton, whom we shall call "The First Lady of Sweet Swing." It would be hard to find a more gracious person, although very reluctant to talk about anything but Lionel and the boys. Inadvertently, I was able to draw out some very interesting facts I shall pass on to you:

Born Dec. 23, very nearly on the cusp, astrologicially speaking, under the Zodiac sign of Capricorn, this charming and efficient personality was graduated from Polytechnic High school and later attended Fisk university. An idealist by natural inclination, her interest in Negro youth's education is tremendously realistic. Building personalities and managerial responsibility, she assumes, with keen insight and uses her intellect to great advantage when instructing others. She has a subconscious quality that appears prominently in her outlook, resulting in profound personal philosophy and the intuitive perception of human trends. Always practical, these qualities enable Gladys to supervise and influence others; and she is well paid by respect and appreciation.

While this was not an interview, on our toor to the "day room" and "mess hall" in quest of ice for Coca-Cola at the camp headquarters of the 76th Chemical Warfare company, I felt a little guilty as I continued to try to draw her out. California she loves for home life, but prefers the East for business opportunities. When asked her pet ambition, she replied smilingly to her theme song, "To see Lionel's band the greatest of bands and later, a greater chance for home life with a LIONEL JR., and all the security and educational advantages possible for him."

Well, fans, we were back to the bandstand by that time and the boys were really sending out that solid sweet swing. The Smoke Generator Co. was fairly sizzling with rhythm. At the end of the swing concert, the special arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner" was so beautiful that it left everyone in the audience with a feeling of mixed emotions, a feeling next to reverence. Glad you were there doing your part.

As Joe Louis says, "You ought to do everything you can at a time like this."

We pay special tribute to Lionel and all the boys in the band: Irving Ashby, guitar and copyist; Wendell Marshall, bass violin; George Jenkins, drums; Milton Buckner, piano and arranger; Jack McVea, baritone sax; Illinois Jaquet, tenor sax; Marshall Royal, trumpet; Joe Wilder, trumpet; Karl George, trumpet; Joe Newman, trumpet; Al Hayes, trombone; Fred Beckett and Sonny Graven, trombones; Ruble Blakely, vocalist. Orchids also go to dancers Georgia [illegible]ins and Sleepy Williams.

Now a special orchid to "Red" Farrington, handy man to swing's handy man, Lionel "Popsy" Hampton. The boy is "on the beam." He is a tenor sax player and has the most interesting collection of odd records he collects as his hobby.

Violinist Mary Johnson Well Received

A full house greeted Mary Johnson, talented young violinist, pupil of Jascha Gegna and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson of Los Angeles. The talented violinist and accomplist were wlel received and applauded by the enthusiastic audience. Her program included such numbers as Concerto No. 23 by Viotti, which she played very well and the Allegro Brilliant by Have, Cgardas, Gypsy Dance, and Nobody Knows De Trueble I've Seen, by White. Miss Johnson was very well assisted by her accompanist, Alex Karnbach of the Philharmonic and Hollywood Bowl.

Her parents wish to thank the sponsors and the many friends for their lovely cooperation in making Miss Johnson's first concert a great success.

In giving, a man receives more than he gives, and the more is in proportion to the worth of the thing given.—George Macdonald.

It is not enough to help the feeble up, but to support him after.—Shakespeare.

Race Relations Society Meets in San Diego

Bisho Jessie B. Hill, president of the local branch of the Race Relations Society; Rev. Willetta Wickens, official hostess; Dorothy Jones Speights, soloist; and Mellie Portia Croom, local branch pianist; were guest at the Hotel San Diego the past week end attending the 18th Annual Banquet of the Society in the Sala Grande Banquet Hall of the San Diego Hotel. Miss Speights, accompanied by Miss Croom, expressed beautifully her artistic ability in the rendition of Tipton Campbell's "Spirit Flower" and Danny Boy," a request number by the Toast Master, President Dennis Allen.

The program was further represented by the Consul of Chili, Consul of Panama, Consul of Mexico, Capt. Raleigh L. Wade of the Marine Corps, J. H. Waterbury, Consolidated Aircraft Corporation; Major K. H. Copeland, the Army; Miss Faye Allen, L. A. Board of Education; Assemblyman Chas. Stream, Assemblyman Jeanette Daley, Asseblyman Paul Ritchie, Dr. C. Panumizio, Sociologist Authority, and Dr. Marquez, Filipino representative.

The highlight of the evening was the stirring address delivered by the principal speaker, Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat of Illinois and a member of the House for the past 8-years.

Social Few Club Members Feted

After two months vacation the members of the Social Few were beautifully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Julius Atkins at 1153 E. 35th street last week end. After a brief business discussion and dinner, four changes of bridge were played. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Watkins, Mr. Andrew Wills, Private Robert, and Mrs. Johnson from Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dunlap, first; Mr. Dunlap, second; Mrs. Wills, third, and Mr. Lemons, fourth. Guest prizes were won by Mr. Wills and Mr. Watkins. Please send communications to 1055 E. 43rd St. Mrs. Barbara Davis is president.

Answer these Questions and make a good laxative choice

Ques. Can any laxative be of help when you feel listless, logy, or have a coated tongue? Ans. Yes, if those conditions are the result of constipation. Ques. Why has Black-Draught been such an outstandingly popular laxative with four generations? Ans. Because it is purely herbal, and usually gentle, thorough, prompt when directions are followed. Ques. What's another reason for Black-Draught's great popularity? Ans. It costs only 25c for 25 to 40 doses.

Don't wait! Get Black-Draught in the familiar yellow box today. Many prefer the new granulated form. Follow label directions.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE FOR CHANGE OF NAME
No. 479193

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles.

In the Matter of the Petition of CLARENCE WILSON, LENA F. WILSON and MELVA WILSON for Change of Name.

The application of Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson, and Melva Wilson for change of name, having been filed in Court and it appearing from said application that Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson, and Melva Wilson have filed an application proposing that their names, Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson and Melva Wilson, be changed to Clarence Wilson Washington, Melva Wilson Washington, and Lena F. Washington.

Now therefore, it is hereby ordered and directed, that all persons interested in said matter do appear before this Court in Department 34 on the 8th day of October, 1942, at 1:45 o'clock p. m. of said day to show cause why the application for change of name should not be granted.

It is further ordered that a copy of this Order be published in the California Eagle, a newspaper of general circulation, printed in said county, at least once each week for four successive weeks prior to the day of said hearing.

Dated August 28, 1942.

Hold Final Rites for Rev. Walker

Funeral services for Rev. William Walker, well-known Baptist evangelist, who succumbed to gunshot wounds at General hospital last Sunday, were held at the Louella Beavers Spiritual Temple at 1 p. m. Friday.

Rev. Walker, a special deputy sheriff, was shot several days ago when he tried to arrest a man who had committed a traffic offense.

Rev. Walker had lived in Los Angeles since 1921 and had engaged in evangelistic work during those years. He was well known in the community, especially because of his social service work, although his frank and positive manner had caused him to be frequently misunderstood. He was a native of Rome, Ga., and held membership in the McCoy Baptist church.

Rev. Walker was a former high Elk official and at one time was chaplain of the Ben Bowie Post of the American Legion. For the past year he had acted as time-keeper on a defense project. At the time he received the fatal wounds he was enrout to keep a preaching engagement.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Louise Cooksey, organist at the Beavers Spiritual Temple; and a daughter, Willie Ellen, 8 years old.

Following the service military rites were observed for the deceased at Sawtelle.

2 Fort Bragg Workers Join WAAC

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Sept. 17.—The first colored women to be inducted into the Woman's Auxiliary Army Corps in North Carolina took the oath at Fort Bragg, N. C., this week, and will report to Fort Des Moines, Iowa, soon for training. They were Miss Flossie Thompson, a dietician, and Mrs. Lan Donia Mathews, a socail worker.

Miss Thompson, daughter of Master Sgt. William H. Thompson, who has been in the Army 29 years and is now serving overseas, is dietician at Station hospital No. 2 here. She attended the schools of Columbus, Ga., while her father was stationed with the 24th Infantry at Fort Benning. She was graduated from Georgia State college in 1938, and taught school before coming to Fort Bragg.

Mrs. Mathews, wife of Lt. Samuel Mathews, a supply officer with the 25th Station Hospital Detachment here, has been assistant social hostess of the Spring Area Service club. She attended Spelman college, Northwestern university, Lewis Institute, University of Chicago, and Eureka Business school. She is an expert swimmer, holds a Red Cross life guard certificate.

In giving, a man receives more than he gives, and the more is in proportion to the worth of the thing given.—George Macdonald.

Will Help to Mobilize Women

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Maudelle Bousfield, principal of the Wendell Phillips High school in Chicago, has been appointed to the newly-created Women's Policy committee to aid in mobilizing women workers for the war effort, War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt announced today.

The new committee, McNutt explained, will consider questions of important policy concerning the commission's program for recruiting and training women workers, and will submit its recommendations to the chairman of the commission. It will also work closely with the commission's Management-Labor Policy committee, a group which includes equal representation for industry and labor, and advises the chairman on matters of manpower policy.

Twelve prominent women, long identified with labor, industry, or public activties, comprise the Women's Policy committee.

FANNIE WILLIAMS EXCELSIOR GUARANTEED HAIR GROWER

Fannie Williams Excelsior Guaranteed Hair Grower has been on the market for years. It is a wonderful preparation. It stops harsh and brittle hair from breaking and falling. It corrects itching scalp, ringworms, tetter and eczema, and keeps your scalp in a very healthy condition. It is not a gummy or sticky grower. It leaves the hair natural and soft and the hair grows rapidly.

You can get the grower at the following places:

Mrs. Corrine Grayson, 120 East 53rd street.

Dorothy's Beauty Salon, 125 Imperial highway, Watts.

Ethical Drug Store, 1490 West Jefferson boulevard.

Mrs. Fannie Williams, 1740 New Hampshire.

Miss Margaret A. Hickey, St. Louis, Mo., has been named chairman by McNutt. Miss Hickey is the owner and director of Miss Hickey's School for Secretaries in St. Louis. She is also vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

The manner of giving shows the character of the giver, more than the gift itself.—Lavater.

he happiest people are those o touch life at the greatest nber of points. Most folks o suffer are those who had y one interest, and, of which e robbed them.

Most humans who complain ut getting little or no happi- s out of life are just as blind a man with a tumor over his s. They concentrate all their ention fiercely upon a single ective. They need a psycho- ical operation to open their rts so that they may see all und them, the activities which uld furnish new reasons for ppiness and success.

f a person has constantly nar- ed his perspective from ldhood, his only way to re- ve his lost liberty of living is adopt, and follow persistently precept: "Try everything ce." In following this lead, e needs his daily Horoscope to e with their every day prob- ns. Why not write for yours day?

T. K.—I am very grateful to u for helping me solve my oblems, Prof. Herman, and am lowing the course you sug- sted. May you continue for- er with your good work.

W. E. H.—How was my money t?

Ans.: My psycho-mentalist cry- l reveals that your $20 was t as you pulled gloves and oth- articles out of your bag.

C. M. B.—Will this man I date, er become my husband?

Ans.: It comes to me that your end is very much interested in u and although you have been ting him for only two months, s friendship shall grow and ur dreams realized.

E. D.—Which of the two men the greatest, Plato or Sweden- rg?

Ans.: There is no comparison my young friend, for one is not- ed for his calm judgment and practical wisdom and the other taught a doctrine pertaining to mysticism, having the ability to commune with the unknown.

A. H.—The clerk claims that he gave me my package. Is it so and where did I leave it-

Ans.: Yes, your package was given to you. I vision you en- tering a store to purchase toilet articles and there you left the package.

O. L. C.—Will I be able to do as I have planned by March?

Ans.: After a careful study of your activities, it comes to me thata you shall be settled in a home with your family as you have planned.

W. D.—I'm writing to you to thank you. My words cannot tell just what you have done for me and my wife. Many thanks for your blessings.

F. W.—What will happen to my friend?

Ans.: It comes to me that your friend shall be released soon pro- viding that he accepts a proposi- tion that will be offered him.

L. O.—My daughter and her husband quarrel all of the time. Shall she carry out her plans?

Ans.: After a careful study of the situation, I definitely acclaim her plans unethical. Have her send for my Prayer and Medita- tion Combination to help her solve her problems.

L. W.—Who took my land- lady's money?

Ans.: The handkerchief in which the money was tied had dropped to the floor. The find- er, not knowing its contents the time, was afraid to return the money after it had been de- clared stolen. The young lady may return the money yet.

R. R.—I received my horoscope today and at a glance I can see my faults. Professor, you don't know how glad I am to find my- self.

DEADERICK F. JENKINS, author of the recent novel, "It Was Not My World."

'It Was Not My World,' New Book By Deaderick Jenkins

By P. A. MALONE

The world that is now passing —the white man's cruel and un- fair world—was not his world! The Negro's world is yet to come. It will come. Negroes will see to that!

Such is the theme of a 100- page book of fiction out today by Deaderick F. Jenkins, young Los Angeles writer, well on his way to success and fame.

One may recall some months ago this unique literary crafts- man shocked a carefree city with a pamphlet called IN SEARCH OF A NEW FAITH. To an ordi- nary person this pamphlet would have been sufficient for a long time. Such is not the case here. Jenkins is both a prolific and versatile writer. In his little booklet he was searching for a new faith. In this his first novel he has found it. In his pamph- let he addressed the individual. In his novel he is giving articu- late meaning to that inevitable upsurge of the oppressed of the world — especially to Negroes here in America. What a job he has done! With such a writer as their interpreter the oppress- ed need not despair.

Turning the pages of this mag- nificent work of art questions upon questions hit the reader— but not without answers—and the answers are always good and wholesome — wherein lies the greatness of this novel.

The oppressed know their plight but do they always know the true meaning behind it? If they do, do they always know how to express it? Can they al- ways presen. their side of the picture in an interesting manner?

DANGEROUS

To our white professional howlers of democracy, to those white people who would rather lose a war than give birth to true democracy, this young writer will be dynamite for he raises some very disturbing and shock- ing points in his work. Only the oppressed could raise such points. Only a person involved in some- thing greater than himself could write like this. Listen to him:

"I began this novel with a big dream and a strong desire—a de- sire to contribute my little share in teaching the white world true Democracy. You see the white world is digging their own grave daily. I want them to stop this mad rush to commit hari-kari while it is yet time. Yet, I feel I am interfering with Divine Providence—for the white world, as we know it, is slated to go. It must go. It deserves to go.

"Today, this day, is the great test—a long test to see if the white human race can yet re- deem itself or if it will remain forever a slave to its own big- otry."

NO RACE PREJUDICE OR HATE

As this reviewer turned the brilliant pages of this much- needed publication, he found no hate in the author for this white world. To the white world Jen- kins seems to be saying: "For- give them Lord for they know not what they are doing." So he goes merely on his way laughing at this white world. "Laugh white world!" he exclaims. "But you can't laugh, you can't laugh for you are afraid."

A SWELL STORY

Even though this work may go down in history as a great social document—to rank side by side with the works of the world's great masters—this book is no mere social tract—for Jenkins entertains the savage beast while trying to help him. He runs the gamut of emotion—from the ri- diculous to the sublime—from the gutter of human experience to the dizzy pinnacle—and he is at home in each category.

At times Jenkins allows his dazzling pen to run wild. At other times he is calm, penetrat- ing—philosophical. His charac- ters are well drawn—delineated in a tantalizing and unforget- table drollness. One will never forget his skillful unmasking of John Knox, the white plantation owner and his typical white con- ception of the world. Yes, Jen- kins, gives you a swell story— hilariously entertaining. Dazzl- ing, intriguing, scintillating.

COMPARED WITH NATIVE SON

Naturally this novel, which is titled, IT WAS NOT MY WORLD, will be compared with Richard Wright's Native Son. But this book is as different from Native Son as day and night. Whereas, a white company pub- lished Wright's book no white publisher, because of a pussy- footing complex, would have touched Jenkins' book with a 10- foot pole. Negroes will under- stand why.

IT WAS NOT MY WORLD promises to be a best seller. The sub-title may interest you: A story in Black and White that's different. A novel to end all novels. Truer words were never spoken.

The book is sponsored and the sponsors are to be congratulated. The book can be purchased at your favorite drug store, through the California Eagle, at Shivers 3330 Central, or from the author direct at PR-69201. The price is only $1.00.

He who is afraid of being too generous has lost the power of being magnanimous. The best man or woman is the most un- selfed.—Mary Baker Eddy.

San Diego Prelate Returned to Charge as AME Meet Ends

SAN DIEGO, (By E. B. Wes- y)—The 18th annual session of he Southern Annual confehence ith Bishop Noah W. Williams of he Fifth Episcopal District pre- ding, closed one of its most suc- esful conferences. Rev. R. H. arbert, P. E. was the entertain- g Presiding Elder, and Rev. L. . Owens, pastor of Bethel AME hurch where the large meeting as held. The four-day session as one full of spirit and interest. he return of Rev. L. H. Owens o the pastorate of this church as gratifying to San Diegans. A nore detailed acount of this big eligious gathering will appear n the next issue of the California agle.

At the 8th Annual Race Rela- ions diner hneld at the San Diego Hotel, Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago Congressman, was the distinguished guest speaker. In the course of his re- marks he said, "Other nations have reason to regard cynically al our high talk about democracy in this country where a minority racial group is discriminated against in every branch of gov- ernment and usually in industry, business and social life."

Among others at the speaker's table were Mrs. Faye Allen, mem- ber of the Board of Education, Los Angeles ,and Mrs. Bettie Hill, executive secretary of the Negro Women's Republican Study club also of Los Angeles. Mr. D. V. Al- len, president of the Society pre- sided.

A recent honor conferred upon Mr. E. W. Anderson, prominent business man is that of his ap- pointment as member of the State Republican Central Committee. Mr. Anderson's loyalty to the par- ty makes him deserving any re- cognition bestowed upon him.

Welcomed into the journalistic field is the San Diego Plain Deal- er, which made its appearance early this month. It is a well-got- ten up weekly issue with Louis Harold Owens, editor and general manager, Arthur Prince, business manager, Eugene Dorsey, circula- tion, A. L. Brown, advertising, Walter McDonald, city editor. This new journal is a member of the ANP. We predict for it a suc- cessful career.

Mrs. Eunice Parker, well- known in San iDego civic and po- litical activities has the distinc- tion of being the executive secre- tary of the 6th Ward Rationing Board on which Mr. E. W. Ander- son and Mr. C. D. Jolly have been placed as members. The work is responsible and exacting and we are certain of the capability of those to whom it has been en- trusted

Mr. Cero Richardson and Mrs. Agnes A. Knight were united in marriage Friday night, September 4, at 8:45 p. m. at the home of the bride. Rev. W. L. Harris per- formed the ceremony in the pre- sence of fourteen close friends and relatives.

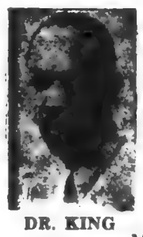
Mrs. Mabel Gray of Los Ange- les, prominent in social, fraternal club, and church life was matron of honor. Mr. Jimmie Sefas, for- mally of San Antonio, Tex. was best man.

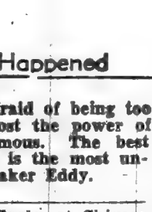
Mrs. Knight is well known throuyghout the state having been very active years past in the State Federation of Colored Women's clubs and is still active in the Knights and Daughters of Tabor, California and Arizona Jurisdiction and in the Order of the Eastern Star, and local cir- cles both the bride and groom are members of the Calvary Bap- tist church. They are at home at 3118 Clay Ave.

The Best Yet club was host to Mr. Alvin Newman Friday night at the Douglas Hotel, prior to his induction into the army. Invita- tions are out for the Silver Anni- versary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Hicks next Sunday afternoon at their pretty home on Commercial ave.

San Bernardino Woman Named USO Director

Mrs. Albertine J. Parker has been appointed director of Negro work in the USO activities con- ducted by the national YWCA in the San Bernardino-Riverside area, it was announced today by Miss Ruth M. Campbell, director of the USO club at 498 Arrow- head San Bernardino.





Mrs. Parker brings to the USO a unique combination of skill and experience in the fields of edu- cation and social welfare. A graduate of Southern university in Baton Rouge, La., she did post graduate work at Teachers col- lege, Columbia university, N. Y. and Stanford university in Palo Alto, where she majored in Edu- cation and Guidance, and receiv- ed her master of art degree. She has since held the positions of teacher of Social Science and su- pervisor of Elementary Schools of the Parish School board, col- lege instructor and state super- visor of Elementary Schools at the State Department of Educa- tion in Grambling, La. Most re- cently she was officer of Area Student Work of the National Youth Administration in Alexan- dria, La.

"As a member agency of the USO, the YWCA is primarily concerned with the welfare of women and girls who have been affected by the war and the in- dustrial production program," said Miss Campbell.

"Offering recreational activi- ties for all these women and girls and providing a center where they may come to relax, chat, and make new friends or seek the counsel and advice of the sympathetic workers is the main part of the program already un- der way, which includes enter- tainment for the service men and their wives. Mrs. Parker comes to, San Bernardino enthusiastic over the job to be done and its significance and importance in the war effort."

The other five agencies coop- erating in the USO are the Jew- ish Welfare board, with whom the YWCA has been in joint op- eration in San Bernardino since December, 1941; the YMCA, who has appointed Lloyd Hickman, director of the Negro work in the San Bernardino-Riverside area; the National Catholic Communi- ty Service, the Salvation Army, and the Traveler's Aid society.

SECURE TRAINING NOW!

NEGRO WOMEN FLOOD INDUSTRY

DEFENSE INDUSTRIES TOABSORB THOUSANDS OF NEGRO WOMEN WORKERS -- TRAIN NOW!

BY REV. CLAYTON D. RUSSELL

The future of democracy in theworld and for the American Negro depends to a great extent on the role of the Negro women during these war years and the responsibilities which they will accept.

No greater proof of this need be evidenced than the results of the orderly and well disciplined mass mobilization of Negro women before The United States Employment Service several weeks ago: As a result of the community action of Negro women, Jim Crow and racial barriers against Negor women in industry have fallen. In fact Negro

Federal Action Against MGM Film Makes History; Urge Shelving of Picture

E-X-C-L-U-S-I-V-E!

The United States Government, through the OWI's Bureau of Motion Pictures, has moved against the M-G-M film, "Tennessee Johnson," which purportedly distorts the life of Thaddeus Stevens, great figure of the Reconstruction period, the man who first proposed emancipation in Congress following declaration of the Civil War.

Lowell Mellett, director of the Bureau, told Louis B. Mayer, top M-G-M producer, in Washington last week that the film, as currently planned, would be injurious to national war morale and especially to that of the country's Negro population, it was exclusively learned by EAGLE reporters from a source close to the studio this week.

Mayer flew to Washington after agitation from trade unions and other progressive organizations had protested to the Office of War Information that the picture, a million-dollar glamorization of Andrew Johnson, successor to Abraham Lincoln and one of the bitterest enemies of the Negro people in U. S. history would wreak havoc upon the morale of Negro people loyally serving their country during its direst emergency.

The action marks a milestone in the battle of Negro people to break the Hollywood tradition which has to date completely distorted the history of our heroic people in American life.

The California EAGLE was the first Negro newspaper to take up the crusade against "Tenessee Johnson," formerly called "Man on America's Conscience,"—although it was the Screen Office and Professional Employees Guild which first pegged the reactionary flicker.

TO RESHOOT SCENES

According to present plans, the studio will reshoot a major portion of the picture, softening up the anti-Stevens libel and generally sidestepping 'controversial' history. The operation will cost an estimated $250,000.

However, it is believed that no fundamental change in the script will be made, that Negro-hating Johnson will remain a hero and Stevens a bounder, albeit a laundered one.

With Van Heflin, the studio's box office white hope, playing Johnson, it is virtually certain that that President's venomous role in American politics will be shown. Stevens has been entrusted to the tender mercies of the lot's veteran snarler, Lionel Barrymore.

MISSISSIPPIAN TO RUN AGAINST BAITER RANKIN

Possibility of the election of a Negro to Congress from Mississippi was the near instant result of the passage of the Ramsey Soldiers Vote Bill, which gives to Negro soldiers from Southern areas the right to absentee ballots WITHOUT poll tax restrictions.

Rev. James Arthur Parsons, Baptist pastor of three rural Mississippi churches, has announced plans of contesting the Congressioal seat of Rep. John E. Rankin, arch Negro baiter and spokesman of reactionary anti-Roosevelt forces in the House..

Rankin, representing a district of some 260,900 was elected by 6,000 poll tax ballots. There are an estimated 12,000 Negro soldiers from Rankin's district in the armed. His defeat by write-in is feasible, according to these figures.

Mississippi's Secretary of State was quick to call the proposed candidacy of Rev. Parsons "impossible" under a State law forbidding write-ins. Whether the law itself is legal has not yet been established, according to Parsons supporters.

The very fact that a Negro candidate should rise up in Mississippi to challenge the seat of Congress' No. 1 race-baiter is held as significant here and raises memories of Reconstruction days.

On the Sidewalk

by c. a. b,

IN ALL THE HISTORY of this nation, the thirteen million Negro citizens have never occupied the strategic position which they hold today.

The four million Negro people in America at the time of the Civil War showed us how to take advantage of the flood tide of history. Long before signing of the Emancipation Proclamation Negroes had seized the initiative in the war against the Confederacy. They knew that the moment for supplication and appeal. The moment was NOW to strike boldy, offensively. This is the lesson for us.

The age of domination from which we are slowly awaking is past. Let us forget it promptly. Let us move on swiftly to the accomplishment of the great tasks which lie before us.

How is our position different than previously? First, our isolation is broken. The problem of the American Negro cannot be ignored as previously. We are ten percent of the nation— of its manpower, in factory, field and military formation. We are

Turn Away Thousands from Robeson Rally

"Our demand for full-fledged economic rights and for job security in America and our demand for a removal of all violations of our democratic rights become in every sense a win-the war demand.—Dr. Max Yergan

"We, the great mass of Negro people, are a part of that common humanity which is today fighting for a new world. If this war means anything, it means we should no longer ask for favors from above, but that we should fight to enter a new world whose millions shall determine their own destiny.—Paul Robeson.

These were the sentiments which rocked an immense audience of 3,000 at Philharmonic auditorium last Thursday during a huge Victory program which featured world-famed Paul Robeson and Dr. Max Yergan of the Council of African Affairs.

Over two thousand were turned away at the doors of the Philharmonic, while inside every nook and cranny was occupied.

Both Dr. Yergan and Robeson stressed that granting of Negro rights in America NOW is a vital "win-the-war demand." Both emphasized that this is the Negro's war and that it must be won if even the barest hope of freedom is to remain anywhere in in theworld.

Other Victory policies which brought approving ovations from the huge gathering were in the form of resolutions as follows:

1—That the Negro and white peole of Los Angeles are united in support of Presideat Roosevelt and call for increased efforts to defeat the Nazis thru an immediate second front.

2—That the millions of colored peoples in Africa be mobilized and armed to fight fascism and that they be extended full democratic rights.

3—That the British government reopen negotiations with the leaders of India as free and allies of the United Nations.

theatrical writers, the fight to secure shelving of the picture must continue. Full scale plans for mass picketting of the film by Negro and Labor groups we urge to be held in readiness. It is pointed out also that the "Real Glory," old anti-Filipino flicker, was completely squashed by the government when R-K-O recently attempted a reissue.

SEE NEW DAY

A new day in the relations between Hollywood and the Negro people was seen in the circumstances surrounding the "Tennesee Johnson" fight. Replacing the beetle brained producers who onse reigned supreme in determination of Negro roles, may be replaced by a final arbiter backed by the power of the Federal government and, in this period, open to only one question: "Is this film good for the morale of the people in an all out war effort?

APPLAUD ACTION

Action by the Office of War Information in this case is to be cheered. Itr represents a full awareness of the serious to national unity which the film would be, and further it recognizes that the motion picture is part of America's war machine and that it cannot be used to spread pro-Fascist distortions of our own history, no matter how well fortified that distortion may be with lavendar and old lace of Dixie biographers.

The militance of Mellett's Bureau is to be hailed ,although we must press for an order actually shelving the whole production. It is notable that the events here vindicate the position of Paul Robeson, voiced here last week, that the only possibility of effective struggle against film inaccuracies and slander is through governnment channels.

DIRECTOR DEFENDS FILM

Fresh indication that the fight to suppress the film entirely was the position taken by William Dieterle, director of the picture. Since M-G-M's $250,000 worth of reshooting will go forward under his supervision, there is little hope that an honest reflection of the historical facts will be rendered.

Writing to the New York Daily Worker, Dieterle rises to a heated defense of Johnson. He holds that production of the film is important so that Americans may know that "freedom was not guaranteed in the Constitution—that men have to fight for and suffer —like Johnson— that we may learn to know what we are fighting for—the perpetuation of of free men in a free country."

Continuing, Dieterle whitewashes Johnsons treacherous conspiracy with the slavocracy aganist extension of Negro rights and the whole movement toward democrocy in the South with the assertion, "What he wanted to do was to heal as quickly as possible the wounds of the Civil War and give the South a fair chance of development on the basis of small and middle class farmers and artisans. . . . ."

But what of the extension of democratic rights to the Negro peopde?—whose heroic struggle on the Union side Lincoln freely confessed had won the war.

Johnson vetoed every measure which extended democratic rights to Negroes. He pardoned the bulk of Confederate leaders. He connived to seat in Congress men who had but months previously had led rebel armies against the American government. He ordered State conventions throughout the South at which Negroes were excluded and which enacted the vicious "black codes" which all but placed the colored population back in slavery, forbidding their marriage, ownership of property, and freedom to move about the countryside without permission of the authorities.

In his third annual message to Congress, Johson attacked the Negro people viciously;

"The Negroes," he said, "have shown less capacity for government than any other race of people. No independent government of any form has been successful in their hands. On the contrary, wherever they have been left to their own devices they have shown a constant tendency to relapse into barbarism."

Are these the words of a man whose story will rekindle faith in the fight for human freedom, Mr. Dieterle? Specifically, what are we Negroes to think about this hero of democracy? He is the brother of Eugene Talmadge.

CONTRAST WITH STEVENS

This record, when contrasted with Stevens', eloquently reveals the deep perversion of history involved in the production.

Stevens was the first to propose emancipation of the slaves. He fought tooth and nail for the enlistment of Negro soldiers. He fought for their receiving equal pay with white soldiers. He, more than anyone else, laid the grounrwork for the 14th and 15th amendments. His was the first Civil Rights Bill which extended American democracy to Negroes. Of special interest to us here was Stevens, heroic fight to bring California into the Union as a free State. All his life he defended fugitive slaves as a solemn obligation to democracy.

But Stevens' crowning infamy was his urgent demand that the great slave plantations be divided among those whose sweat and toil had created their wealth. It was this fundamental land reform which would have indeed created that society of "small and middle class farmers" which Dieterle supposes was the objective of President Johnson. On the contrary, it was the great plantation owners who were Johnson's "South." It was he who blocked Stevens' division of the land program, sealed the economic doom of the Negro in the South, rendered incomplete the the momentous tasks of the Civil war, leaving them for our day and the present conflict.

Under present arrangements, itis believed that only slight revision in the picture's general theme. Any vilification of Stevens, any glamorization of Johnson will be met with solid ranks of pickets by Negro America.

QUOTE EAGLE EDITORIAL

Striking the core of the situation, an editorial in the September 3 issue of the California Eagle:

"There is something more than meets the eye in the deliberate glamorization of a known American appeaser and the untimely assault upon the record of one the nation's greatest liberals. Certainly the parallel between these days and those of th Civil War is abundantly clear.

". . . . Discrediting of one of the leading figures of the Civil War era, then, becomes an unveiled attack against the progressive forces,—the anti-defeatist, win-the-war forces of today. "Man on America's Conscience" is a threat to the development of national unity, an insult to the Negro, aside from being a shocking corruption of history...

women have moved into the industrial war pjattern of Los Angeles with greater speed than did the male population. Today the opportunities of Negro women are greater than before if only they exercise thought and vigilance on the problems that beset them.

The steps taken by the women of our community have broken down completely the barriers against the training of Negro women and Negro men in government sponsored training classes. They have secured training classes in our community. These are important victories for the future of democracy. And not only have these training barriers been broken down, but Negro women are being hired; hired at a greater rate and at greater skills than men at present. This is another victory for democracy, despite the fact that there are still several large firms who discriminate against Negro women and attempt to escape the President's executive order by token hirings. The important thing is that the pattern has been set in industry, a pattern that demonstrates that Negro women and white women can work side by side, that Negro women can accept positions of responsibility, can act as lead women over crews of white women without having difficulties. The principle of racial equality has not been won, but the pattern that will eventually win the principle is in operation.

The problem of the past six months has been to set up the pattern; today the problem is to extend the pattern. This is one of the new problems, much more complicated and difficult than the struggle of the past against the blatant practices of discrimination. This is a problem that concerns itself with the reaction of Negro women to industry and the adjustment to industrial discipline and socialization son "a truly great American."

But the over all urgency of the moment is that women receive training, get in the industrial whirl and leave the traditional job far, far behind.

As EAGLE editor Charlotta A. Bass, who served as mistress of ceremonies and chairman of the Commitee of One Hundred which sponsored the affair, introduced literally scores of representatives of the Negro community and of the city at large, veteran ogservers held that the meeting ranked as the most striking evidence of Negro-white and Negro unity in the history of the city.

Aside from singing many of the songs which have endeared him to the world's heart, Robeson spoge simply, directly, and with telling effect to his own people of the things he believes and the human cause which he loves.

"This war is a question of life or death for ns as it is for millions throughout the world," he said.

Tracing his early youth, when he knew all the bitterness of discrimination common to American Negro boys. Robeson told of always feeling that he represented more than himself, but that his was a responsibility always to reflect credit upon the race.

When he began to travel on singing tours all over the world, the singer related, he found that the same problems confronting his own group in America, faced others,—in Japan, the Balkans, among the Welsh people, in India, China and Africa.

The Axis threat is one of final degradation to all these people.

"Today," he said, "we fight for a world of common men. We stand at a threshold of history with the opportunity of seeing to it that the common people everywhere have a decent life, the rights of every free man.

"We, the great mass of Negro people, are part of that common humanity. If this war means anything, it means we should no longer ask for favors from above, but that we should fight to enter a new world whose millions shall determine their own destiny."

SECOND FRONT

In a stirring climax which recapitulted major points of his address, Dr. Yergan said:

"We can declare here tonite that the Negro people of America, along with their fellow Americans, out of their great admiration for the heroic fighters of the Soviet Union and the indescribable heroism of the Chinese people call for the opening of a second front for fullest utilization of the forces of Britain and America now to gain a speedy victory over Hitler now.

"Because this war offers a nation-wide immediate approach to the problems of the Negro people of America; because this war is a war against fascism, which is the inclusive enemy of Negroes and all other liberty- loving people; and because this war is a war for the liberation of all oppressed peoples, we know that it is a war in which the Negro people of America join with their fellow Americans in supporting fully. Negroes have no side but that side which includes the mighty American people, the peoples of Britain, of the Soviet Union, of China in this struggle for human freedom. We therefore call upon our national government, upon state and local forces throughout the nation to wipe out discriminations and limitations that stand in the way of Negro support of the war. We call upon the British government to recognize India's demand for the right to enter freely, and under Indian leadership, as an ally of the United Nations. We call for immediate democratic steps in Africa as win-the-war measures and as the real basis for the fullest mobilization of the African people. This is a war of the Negro people because these demands are just and because they will help win the war and make for human freedom everywhere.

DIGNITARIES PRESENT

Present on the flag-bedraped platform was an amazing testimony to the scope, the true national unity aspect of the tremendous rally ten percent of the nation's morale. Who can ignore us?

When we raise the question of democratic practices in our country today, we strike a new factor, —that these demands of ours are no longer annoying abstractions: They are things for which our people are pledged to live and die.

What I am trying to say is this: that today, for the first time since 1877, there lies before Negro America the opportunity to effect basic and permanent changes in our position. This must be done within the framework of a bitter struggle against the Axis. Indeed, it can only be done this way or we defeat our own ends as well as freedom everywhere in the world.

As the war issues have matured, there has come about an absolutely stupendous regrouping of forces in America. That regrouping has transformed the Negro into a political aggressor rather than a political victim. We, the most viciously, shamefully vicimized group in America, throw off the negative protest againsa oppression, which has been our major activity over the past several decades, to appear in the forefront of progressive elements as apowerful determinant factor in establishing policy for the whole nation.

To appreciate the immense potentialities of thepresent hour, it is necessary to examine briefly the road by which we have reached.

The original struggle for the freedom of our people, which it is our task to complete, burst into a superb realization at the time of the Civil War. The fight for oud freedom was joined with that of America's rising industrial class, which contested control of the national government held by the reactionary slavocracy. Before it were possible for the nation to become, the lazy rule of Dixie's slavocrac; had to be swept aside. Abolition and the industrialism joined forces in the election of Abraham Lincoln. The slavocracy revolted.

From this point forward, Negro people seized the opportunit of the day and swept on to freedom and the glories of Reconstruction.

Tactics which would gladen the heart of Herr Hitler are being employed by the Curtiss Wright Technical Institute. Blatantly advertising its un-American policy of racial discriminaton, the Institute's official application carries a specal box heralding its anti-Negro race bias.

"The management," asserts this affront to national unity, "reserves the right to refuse entrance to anyone not acceptable. Applications by persons of the Negro race will not be accepted."

Trade unions and progressive organizations plan to condemn the Curtiss Wright form.

In the words of one observer, "Training men for war industries is a part of defending this country. Thowing up racial bars between American citizens is strictly Hitler,s game. Now, it seems to me Curtiss Wright ought to make up their minds whose side they're on.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY IS NO. 1 -- URBAN LEAGUE RACIAL OBJECTIVE

PITTSBURGH—Regardless of racial discrimination in our war program, Negro Americans must not slacken their efforts for a democratic victory. This was the consensus of opinion expressed in the speechest, discussions and reports made bythe five-day annual staff conference of the National Urban League, held recently at Camp James Weldon Johnson, near Pittsburgh, Pa., and in Pittsburgh itself. One hundred and sixty-seven Board and staff members of Urban League affiliates registered for the whole conference. They came from thirty cities throughout the country, including such widely separated points as Los Angeles, Atlanta, Boston and St. Paul.

At the closing public session held in the Stephen Foster Memorion auditorium of the University of Pittsburgh, five hundred persons braved a stormy evening to hear Charles Wesley, President of Wilberforce University, and Eduard C. Lindeman of the New York School of Social Work speak on the topic, "The Negro American Goes to War... Mr. Wesley emphasized the fact that today's war against Fascism is only a continuation of the historical struggle of the "little people against autocratic rule by selfish vested interests." The Civil War, he declared, was more than simply a struggle for the elimination of slavery. The Negro slave found himself allied with northern interests that wished to free him from chattel slavery, but which planned a subsequent, economic serfdom, including white as well as Negro workers. In this war, Dr. Wesley pointed out, Negro Americans are fighting against the inister threat of a fascist dominated world and recognize clearly that some of the Negro's own allies must be reckoned with as enemies after the war is over. "Neverthless," stated the Wilberforce President, "the Negro must fight Fascism today in order to build democracy tomorrow. The Negro citizen demands the right to fight not only as a draftee but also as an enlisted man in all branches of the armed services and in all winds of war industry."

Professor Lindeman described this war as "horizontal as well as vertical. It is not only a struggle between nations with differing ideologies, but also between differing interests within the warring nations. The little people of America are aligned in their hopes and fears with the little people of France, England, plan for peace, for our young Russia, India and China. Whilemen will come back from this fighting this war, we must alsowar tougher in spirit and smarter in understanding of their world than ever before. They will have some serious questions to ask, not only Negro young men, but whites as well We shall be wise if we are prepared to answer those questions and answer them intelligently."

At the closing Camp session, official resolutions were adopted by the Conference for the attention of the Executive Board of the National Urban League. The resolutions call for the following: SUPPORT of Negroes for extension of the Lanham Housing Act to provide $600,000,000 for war housing.

REPRESENTATION by Negroes on policy-making and administrative bodies of the Civilian Defense program, so as to insure more effective protection of the Negro community in war-time programs and greater participation by Negroes in post-war community planning.

CONDEMNATION of the Red Cross policy that continues to segregate the blood of Negro donors from whites and that permits its discrimination against Negroes by local chapters.

PROCLAMATION by President Roosevelt calling upon the Governors and Legislatures of alll States to safeguard national unity by removing restrictions against Negroes that impair their morale in an all-out war effort.

PROTESTS against the transfer of the Fair Employment Practice Committee from an independent status to a position under the War Man-Power Commission.

CCOPERATION with labor unions that are seeking to protect the right of Negroes to work in war industry.

In opening the Conference, Lester Granger, Executive Secretary of the National Urban League, set Victory for Democracy as the Negro's most important objective at this time. "No special racial objective," he declared, "is so important at this time as Victory for Democracy. We commit ourselves to an all-out war effort. This does not mean that we will retreat from one single social gain already made or cease to press for new social gains. We continue even in the midst of of war to fight for the Negro's right to work, live and die on the basis of American equality. For democratic victory connot be achieved unlesss the situation of the Negro American is radically improved. Brown Americans throughout the country are filled with a burning anger, a resentful bitterness that makes the task of leadership a difficult but all the more important responsibility. That anger must not be silenced for it is a righteous one. But it must not be allowed to degenerate into blind hatred. Blind hatred is a dangerous weapon, which turns and strikes back upon the user as often as it injures the opponent. The resentment of Ngroes must be directed into constructive channels of action. It is the genius of the Urban League movement that the League can point to definite steps all along the way as the means of reaching our ideal bjectives."

Other Conference sessions included discussions by Harold Ruttenberg, representing the United Steel Worwers of America, CIO, and Carl S. Coler, representing the National Association of Manufacturers on the future for Negro workers. Mr. Coler pointed to the current expansion of Negro labor in war industry as an encouraging omen for the Negro's future industrial status. He stated that loyalty and efficient work on the part of Negroes would be their best guarantee for job security tomorrow. Mr. Ruttenberg countered sharply with a statement that industrial leadership had failed the country during the depression and is seriously lacking in the present war effort. "The only guarantee for security tomorrow of Negro or white workers," the CIO leader declared, "is for American labor

ONLY FIVE SIGNATURES LEFT FOR POLL TAX BILL!

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept.24—ONLY FIVE SIGNATURES were needed to complete a total of 218 necessary to call up the Geyer Ani-Poll tax bill, it was revealed here today.

Fully alert to the terrific undercover campaign of sabotage directed against the bill by the defeatist poll-tax bloc led by Representative Sam Hobbs, of Alabama, proponents of the vital win-the-war measure were, nevertheless, confident that the bill would be ready for a House vote on Monday, Sept. 28.

In an effort to get speedy action on the bill, the National Negro Congress on Wedneday led a delegation to Representative Joseph Martin, jr., minority leader of the House and chairman of the Republican National Committee. Members of the delegation urged Martin to place his full weight in support of passage of the bill.

In New York, Congress officials called upon former District Attorney Thomas Dewey, Republican candidate for Governor, to take similar action in keeping with the platform pledge on anti-poll tax made by the New York State Republican convention.

The National Negro Congress wired Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, chairman of the commitee urging that the bill be reprted out immediately. Congress leaders pointed out that Senator Byrd's action showed cluear intent to hamstring the bill by a series of delays in view of the fact that ample time has been available for all witnesses to be heard during the seventeen months the bill his been before the committee.

Senator Byrd's attempts to bottle up the Pepper bill gave clear tesimony to the history-making victory for the war effort won by the American people through the passage of the Soldier Vote Bill last week.

HOW IT'S DONE!

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.
September 10th, 1942

Mrs. Bass,
Care of California Eagles,
4075 South Central Avenue,
Los Angeles, California

My dear Mrs. Bass:

This will confirm my conversation with your office yesterday, wherein I told your office that I would sign the petition for the Poll Tax Bill, and vote for the Bill when it reaches the Floor.

After all, this is your Bill, and if that is the way you want it, here it is.

With best regards, I am,

Sincerely,

——An object lesson in how to line up Congressional anti-poll tax support

POLL TAX VICTORY BOX! SEND TO CONGRESSMAN

TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
WASHINTON, D. C.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN.....

I am writing to urge that you sign the petition to bring the Geyer Anti-Poll Tax bill to the floor for a vote. Of a necessary 218 signatures, it lacks only five.

If you have already signed the petition, I urge your most militant support when the bill is voted upon. It is conviction—and that of my friends and neighbors—that this measure, designed to extend the American right to vote to ten million Americans in eight States, is vital to the nation's war effort. As never before, our country must elect representatives who genuinely reflect the will of ALL the people—the will to victory.

RESPECTFULLY,

CROWN CITY CAPERS

By PHILIPPA JONES

PASADENA, Sept. 24.—School days, school days, dear old golden rule days. Well, that's the song we're singing now in full swing. School (bless it's dear heart) has started again and we're back at the old grind. But it is good to see the large number back to complete their education, for that is an all-important factor. So there's really no use in kicking for after all we are getting the full advantage of these opportunities, so "Let's keep learning."

The tea the Fine Melloneers gave last Sunday was really quite the event of the season. The affair, as I said last week, was the first attempt of the club to give anything of this kind. Some of those there and enjoying themselves were Julius Anderson, Henry Melton, Mathilde Kenner, Constance Fortier, Hattie Trent, Dorothy Porter, Mabel Gray, P. J. King, Imogene Thompson, Bernard Harris, Bill Wilson, Jane Harrison, Ralph McGhee, and many others. The Debs modeled their "back to school" clothes and did a very nice job of it. Members of the Fine Melloneers are: president, Hattye Benson; vice president, Carolyn Callier; secretary, Jessie Arnold; treasurer, Thelma Jackson; other members, Gloria Blanch, Lois Prince, Lucille Harrison, Jackie Bunch, Lora Jacobs, and yours truly.

After the tea an after-party was given with personalities such as Lavert Patterson, Tickie Fisher, and Tomilin Harris enjoying themselves.

Other club news includes the Y. E. K.'s who have just recently elected new officers. These new officers are: president, Emogene Thompson; vice president, Crete Anderson; secretary, Anna Harrison; treasurer, Lucille Harrison.

WAY BACK WHEN

Remember 'way back when: The Eminent Czars planned for their big dance at the Chevy Chase Country Club and it didn't rain thru? . . . Jay Harris and Milton Sears were seen quite frequently in Pasadena? . . . Bette Benson visited Davy Jones' locker with Fred Valentine at 3:30 in the morning? . . . Jaddie Blake and Jenny McReynolds were the twosome featured in this column every week? . . . Bo Bunch always needed Billy Canfield for an inspiration . . . Annetta Smith and Danny Marshall and James Armstrong were the three peas in a pod . . . Fern Williams and Sy Hester were not like that . . . Jackie Bunch was squired around quite a lot by Willie Slayton and Arthur Duncan . . . The Eminent Czars and Triple C's always were talking about "freezing up" (in fact, they still do) . . . Thelma Jackson said let Dickie Thornton sleep? . . . Pearl McAfee was wearing Wilbur Johnson's honor key . . . Barbara Durham went to the ROTC ball with George? . . . Frankie Arnold thought she was Sonja Henie? . . . Willie Slayton wore his rootay, zootay, two-stay to school one Monday? . . . Mr. Clifford Johnson was tops in Carolyn Callier's heart and Crystal Jones was tops in J. T. Morgan's? . . . Eddie Johnson (the big one) couldn't decide between Gloria Hawkins, Gloria Mims, or Gloria Bunch? . . . C. T. Winfrey was always singing "Beware" . . . The Eminent Czars and Fine Melloneers always used to have joint club meeting then the Dena Debs took their place . . . The kids across the street were little but now they're grown up? . . . "I'm Calling for You" was the song everyone was singing and they meant it, too? . . . Grad Hickenbottom thought Lucille Fairchex was THE ONE? . . . "Jump for Joy" was on and everyone had it bad and that wasn't good? . . . We wanted to hear Jimmy Blanton play "Jack, the Bear" all of the time? . . . The program she got from "Jump for Joy" let Jessie A. know "that mock a scarf" didn't have anything to do with the Eminent Czars' jackets (it means, quote program, "eat a good meal")? . . . Well, that's about all of my reminiscing, so you needn't worry anymore. All of that is gone, but I wonder is it forgotten? Now, let's get on some modern time.

Eddie Johnson and Ernest Griffin are seen so often at East Campus I wonder if they're enrolled out there or could it be two Melloneers? . . . John Alston's back in California after a vacation back home in Detroit . . . Lucille F. is still talking about her Al . . . Will miss Grady H, who went into Uncle Sam's forces last Saturday . . . Betty Benson won't have to be singing "Wonder When My Baby's Coming Home" anymore. I hear Sunday she had the answer to her question . . . M. L. Jackson and Bernice Cunnningham are the twosome that are stepping out some . . . The girl on Sunset and Hammond wants Elbie H. to know that he can come around some more. She was mowing the lawn herself last Monday . . . Johnny Burton's singing "I'll Be Around" to C. C. . . . By the way, J. Bunch wants to know the words to that song . . . Bill Irving had some important news to tell me, but the U. S. Army caught him before I could. I wonder what it was? . . . I hear the older Weaver was taking care of his little brother's interests Sunday . . . Can hardly wait for the game Saturday afternoon at the Rose Bowl. Here's wishing you all of the luck. Willie . . . Thank goodness for the canopy covering out at school . . . I wonder who holds Anna Harrison's heart? . . . For anyone's information, I had a record once; it was called AT LAST, and I won't snub a friend. (The preceding was for the users of Phillippa Jones' Secret Code Book No. II. Don't mind me.) . . . Sorry to hear that Aldon Jones is in the hospital and sorrier to hear he will be there about two more months. He received third degree burns on his legs. He is also in need of company, so let's go and visit him. He's at the General hospital. That is all for now so I will stop. See you next week.—P. E. J.

Retired Nurse Organizes Race Relations Group

Miss Genevieve Russell, a retired nurse, called a group of Negro and white people together to foster better race relations, and has met with marked success. The first venture was to interview public eating places as to their serving. A very fine response was found.

Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 6:30, the group will have dinner at the Mandarin cafe. This is only a beginning of a city-wide interest in race relations.

Social Few Club Holds Regular Meeting

The Social Few club held its regular social meeting in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Davis. After a short business meeting and roll call for members, the meeting was turned over to the host and hostess. The evening was spent playing games after which a lovely dinner was enjoyed by all.

Visiting guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Powell, of the La Jovial and Alta Qualidad clubs; Mrs. Spencer Buckner, La Jovial club; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cosey jr., of the Alta Qualidad club; and Lewis S. Wills, of Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Jewel Moore Is Keeno Club Hostess

The Keen-O club met with Mrs. Jewel Moore, the vice-president with most of the members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Edna Trotter. The minutes were read and business was discussed. The meeting closed to play Keeno.

Mrs. Moore proved a delightful hostess. The girls wre still thrilled over the success of their party given for their husbands and a few friends. Please snd all correspondence to Mrs. Lucille Marton, corresponding secretary, 690 E. 52nd Pl. Margretta Taylor, reporter.

MRS. FANNIE WILLIAMS and MRS. DELLA WILLIAMS . . . the founder and former president of the Assistance league.

The Assistance League was organized June 17, 1934 at the home of Mrs. Jessie Grayson for the purpose of assisting the Outdoor Life and Health association. It has been due largely to the efforts of this group and the untiring work of Mrs. Fannie Williams that the Outdoor Life and Health association was able to open in 1940 and now accommodates 34 patients.

Mrs. Della Williams, wife of Paul Williams, the architect, worked admirably with the league, directing the second baby contest, and a children's recital, as well as bringing in a great amount of money for the association.

The Assistance league is now under the leadership of Miss Pauline Slater, who was installed along with the other officers at the regular September meeting at the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Fannie Williams.

Some of those honored were the J. B. Pattersons, Wm. Cedric Fords, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas, Arthur Boutter, Manny Berrymans, Mrs. Marcia Kyle Prentice, of Alhambra; Louis Andersons, and Mrs. Retta Hawkins, and many more, including some of our soldiers. A grand evening was had by all.

BELLE LANE-IRA L. HOWARD NUPTIALS REVEALED

Mrs. Ann Davidson Lane, of Atlanta, Ga., now vacationing in New York City, paused long enough to announce the marriage of her daughter, Belle Lane to Ira Lambert Howard in Las Vegas, Nevada, last August. It was a complete surprise to their many friends.

Miss Lane is a well known metaphysician, teacher, and lecturer of this city. News of the marriage was revealed to friends by telegrams. Miss Lane is known to the social circle of Southern California as a graceful and charming hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Howard are at home to their many friends at 602 E. 27th street.

Mrs. Carmel Hewlett Baby Shower Honoree

The Up-to-Date Bridge club of the Westside recently surprised Mrs. Carmel Hewlett, a member of the club and wife of EAGLE labor editor, Martinez Hewlett, with a baby shower. The Hewlett bundle of joy is expected in November.

The affair was given at the lovely home of the president, Mrs. Cleo Simpson Pierre, of W. 37th street. Indeed, the charming young matrons of the bridge club were successful in making the shower a unique one worthy of mention. The lace covered table with its six pink and blue lighted candles, set in pink glass candlesticks and a bowl of darker pink flowers, made a very pretty background for such an occasion. Sweet delicacies were nicely arranged on the table. A cold plate of chicken salad, lettuce, tomatoes, asparagus and potato chips, with tasty fruit punch, was served.

Mrs. Hewlett spent a grand time finding her hidden baby gifts with the aid of little poems placed on each package. And we might add here that the gifts included a variety of precious baby things which the Hewlett baby-to-be will enjoy and appreciate to be sure.

Mr. Hewlett came in at a very opportune time to help the Mrs. in finding one of the two gifts from the Up-to-Dates—a high chair for the baby.

Needless to say, a delightful time was had by everyone. Members of the club present were the Mmes. Cleo Simpson Pierre, Anna Mauvory, Doris Desvigne-McKennzie, Oralee Alexander Woodfox, Elouise Smith, Dorothy Coffeyy, and Carmel Copelich-Hewlett. Other guests present were the Mmes. Felice Hewlett, Ida Batiste, Ruth Williams, Eva Mathieu, Marjorie Witcher, Misses Leah and Lorraine Mathieu, Rhea Romaine, Lottie Alexander, and Eldridge Duvernaud.

Mrs. M. Kyle Prentice Is Northern Visitor

Mr. and Mrs. Manny Berryman, 911 22nd street, Sacramento, had as house guest, Mrs. M. Kyle Prentice, a long-time resident of Los Angeles and Alhambra, who came for a much needed rest and vacation in the North.

She was the recipient of many lovely affairs. She then went to Oakland where she was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hogan, 1055 56th street, and enjoyed more northern hospitality.

Florence Joan Gagnet Weds Julius Whitney in Beautiful Ceremony

There have been many wedding ceremonies lately but none more beautiful than the one ushering in the Fall season when Mr. Julius Whitney took as his bride the charming and popular Florence Joan Gagnet, Sunday, September 6th at St. Philip's Episcopal church. Simplicity and beauty were the keynote of the affair. The couple was joined in marriage by Father H. Randolph Moore.

The chapel and altar embanked by tall baskets of white gladiola and stock flanked with many candles made a beautiful setting. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. James Lewis. Her gown was of white Chantilly lace with long torso, three quarter sleeves, sweetheart neck and full train, three quartr tiered veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. The soloist was Mrs. Virginia Parrish, who sang, "Because", and prior to the exchanging of vows, sang "Ave Maria", which added more solemnity to the service.

The entourage included Mrs. June Brown, matron of honor; Doris Perry, Mabel Hawes, and Clotilde Archer, bridesmaids; Adrain Ellis and Camella Quihauna, flower girls in quaint Victorian dresses of white satin with head dress of lovers bow knots. Sylvester Atwood, Garland Fields, and Jack Bratton, ushers; Reuban Brown, best man.

The men were attired in afternoon frocks. The bridsmaids were gowned in long torso, buffant skirts of mauve pink with headdress of flowers, bow knots of burnt orange velvet. The matron of honor's dress was of a lighter shade with long basque and high round neck line; she wore a halo outlined with pleating of net and carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids carried shower bouquets of talisman roses with large lovers bow-knots of gold metal ribbon.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Eva Gagnet, was gowned in powder blue crepe with a corsage of bronze orchids. The bride's grandparents, Mrs. James Lewis and Mamie Gagnet were lovely in blue lace with corsages of mystery gardenias.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the gardens of the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, 1138 S. Hobart blvd. A bevy of debutantes attended the guests serving ice cream and cake, and the surprise of the day was the paper napkins bearing the names of the bride and groom. In the center of the garden on a lace covered table was the beautiful four tiered wedding cake, a piece of which was given each guest. The presents were many and beautiful. The happy couple are at home to their many friends at 2156 W. 31st St.

Martha Hardeman, OES Grand Lecturer, Holds School of Instruction

On last Wednesday, Sept. 16, beginnnig at 10 a. m., and lasting throughout the day, Sister Martha Hardeman, grand lecturer of the Golden State Grand chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held her school of instruction at Masonic Hall, 1050 E. 50th street.

Grand officers, stars, and visiting stars assembled from Pasadena, Santa Monica, Riverside, Long Beach, San Diego, and the State of Arizona.

Vivian Marsh, GWM, of Berkeley, and Brother H. H. Lampkins, GWP, of Pasadena; Sister Beatrice McCarroll, GAWM, and Brother Spears, GAP, of South Los Angeles, were present.

The hall was filled to its capacity and some chairs had to be placed therein. Dressed suitably for the occasion and wearing a lovely gardenia corsage, and in her natural poise, her quiet, gentle manner and with that perpetual smile, she did her work and demonstrations. She was at her best, and one could tell she had studied hard the clarifications made in G. C.; and she carried them out to the letter.

In the beginning, Sister Beatrice McCarroll, GAM, and Brother Spears, GAP, presided with much credit due them.

The degrees were put on by the following chapters: First degree by Deborah chapter, Sister Van Meter, WM, and Brother R. A. Ashcraft, WP; second degree by Queen of Sheba chapter, Sister Theresa Bailey, WM, and Brother A. L. Crosby, WP; third degree by officers of the various chapters presided over by Sister McCarroll, acting as WM, and Brother Spears, WP. All worked very well and proved that through Sister Hardeman all had worked hard.

During recess, we departed to the dining room where a delicious, palatable luncheon was prepared and served by the lecturer and her helpers. Sister Burnside, past grand associate matron of Washington jurisdiction, was present and introduced. She made a very lovely talk.

After many fine remarks from other visitors, Sister Hardeman made many excellent remarks concerning the work which enlightened us in many things. Then she spoke of two sisters of our order from two various chapters of the city. One sister, Gertrude Edwards, who was very sick at that time in a rest room, but who has since gone to the Great Beyond. The other, afflicted with arthritis, is our past grand treasurer, Sister Bessie Settles, who was present.

Through the big heartedness and thoughtfulness of Sister Hardeman, a nice contribution was taken up and equally divided for them. No one, but a true, unselfish, real Eastern Star could think of such things and do them, and she is all that a true Star implies.

The Golden State Grand chapter is proud to know that we have a grand lecturer who prepares herself and one who is patient, willing and cooperative. Much credit is due her for her untiring effort.

We hope she will continue her school of instruction, for it is much needed and will make our various chapters uniform. It was good to have been there.

Ira L. Howards Entertain at Breakfast

Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Howard, 602 E. 27th street, entertained at breakfast recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. Driller Smith, of El Paso, Texas; Dr. Charles L. Bousseau of Berkeley; and Mrs. Mary M. Howard.

INDIANA STATE CLUB HOLDS INITIAL MEET OF THIRD YEAR

The Indiana State club held its first meeting of the third club year Sunday, hours 3:00 until 6:00 p. m., Sept. 20, at the attractive suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Byrd, 2033 E. 120th street, Willowbrook.

About 40 members assembled to greet the new president, Mrs. Leona Collier, 1303 W. 36th street. The meeting was a successful and cheerful one, after a two months vacation. The club faces a busy but brilliant year of useful and construetive activity, each member being given an opportunity to function on some board or committee.

Mrs. Thomas Davis, of Indianapolis, house guest of Mrs. Boute, 246 E. 45th street, was a pleasant visitor. A feature of the afternoon was the rendition of two quartet numbers by the Four Sons of Harmony, led by Edward White, and a Dunbar reading, "The Corn Pone," by Miss White.

The next meeting will be the third Sunday afternoon in Pasadena. Leona Collier is president, Elizabeth Thomas, secretary; R. C. Jackson, chairman of program committee and reporter.

CLUB IDEAL MEETS WITH MRS. CORA SWEENEY

Wednesday evening, Sept. 9, the Club Ideal held its regular meeting with Mrs. Cora Sweeney of Pasadena. Plans for Thanksgiving baskets for needy families were completed. Mrs. Juanita Majors was welcomed as a new member to the club.

The Club Ideal wishes to take this opportunity to thank the public and different artists for helping to make their "Victory Tea," a success.

After three changes of bridge, first prize was awarded Mrs. Eva Lee Buckner; second, to Mrs. Lessie Madison; third, to Mrs. Beulah Jackson.

This is all the news for this time, but just keep your eyes peeled for future happenings. Let's buy bonds and more bonds; that's for victory, too, you know! Next meeting with Mrs. Margaret White, 820 E. 47th.

Laura Collins Brooks is reporter.

Tea Served at Eastside USO Center Today

The Eastside USO has many a surprise opus. Monday night, Miss Clara McLemore, a personality of delight, surprised 25 service men with a delicious buffet supper. Participating in the surprise were Navy, Army and Coast Guard men. The hostesses on duty for the evening served as waitresses. After the men had sung, "Happy Birthday to You," the birthday cake, with lighted candles, was brought in. Before the close of the supper, each guest placed his autograph on USO stationery; this was presented to Miss McLemore as a memorandum of a highly successful evening.

Two members of the press happened by just as the guests were bowing and fairly tripping over themselves, saying, "Why can't we do this more often."

The Hollywood USO has added to our musical instruments. At present the center has two ukeleles, a mandolin, guitar and a small set of drums. Their usefulness speaks in terms of their noise.

Thursday, Sept. 24, between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m., tea is being served. Mrs. Beryl Dunning, of the Biltmore USO, is the main speaker.

Those participating in USO goodwill are Miss Ivy Treadwell, Mesdames Pleasant, Colette, Mary Crosen, Bessie Shaw, Carney Stewart, Ethel Atkinson, May Oliver, Anna Nelson, Ruth Kimbrough, Cora L. Flood, Alice Wilson, Hilda Dinney, Alice McKenzie, Minnie Fareira, Florence Carter, Ione Ailey, Mrs. Boswell, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cunningham, Joe Smith, Spiller, Spicer, Rev. Davis, Jimmy DeVoe, Clara McLemore, Mrs. Woodman and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Henderson.

PROMINENT FAMILIES JOINED BY NUPTIALS

Mrs. Ernest A. Mason announces the marriage of her daughter, Emily Elizabeth, to Richard Edgar Hickman, Sept. 12.

The bride, daughter of the late Dr. Mason, is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, and a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

Mr. Hickman is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hickman, of Nashville, Tenn. The groom, a graduate of Fisk university, is affiliated with Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

SUPREME CLERK ADDRESSES LOCAL WOODMEN

The big Victory Membership campaign by the officers of the local camps of the American Woodmen last Friday was highlighted by an address by Supreme Clerk, Hon. B. H. Graham.

Graham was former supervisor of the district, and during this time made many friends in Los Angeles.

Frederick Roberts was the general chairman, presiding over the entire affair at the hall, 1290½ Central avenue.

Rev. E. Robinson broadcast his famous theme song, and several musical numbers were rendered by Norris Stokes and his Hall High quartet. There was a lively contest between the two commanders—Mrs. E. L. Sneed, of Camp No. 1, and Rev. C. Hemphill, of Camp No. 2.

8 Negro Lads Bear Watching at Compton Jaysee

Following the Olympic bouts Tuesday night the column saw and talked with Ivan Harold Browning, the famed international tenor, who told us that Tommy Martin, the dapper British heavyweight, lies wounded in the Montreal General Hospital. Martin, who made a big hit with Legion stadium fans after several sensational fights, saw service with the RAF and the British navy . . . His fans in the Southland hope for his speedy and complete recovery . . . The Compton Junior College Tartars opened their fall gridiron campaign Sunday with a rousing 26-0 triumph over the 110th Medical Battalion. Scheduled to see plenty of action this year with the Tartars, who will play on Sunday afternoons, are 8 Negro lads. The boys to be watched are James "Pete" Thompson, quarterback; Dick Terry, left half; Clarence Nobles, tackle; Pete Paine, end; Adolphus Holden, left half; Grady Lawrence, end; Robert Boyd, half; and Ballenger Kemp, quarterback. No wonder Compton is considered one of the fairest and most democratic schools in the country! . . .

San Quentin Champ Boosts DeLavallade

The shocking news that sports writer Jack Singer, of Los Angeles, and INS war correspondent, "was missing in action" somewhere in the southwest Pacific had its repercussions all over the city. Emmett Ashford, the hard-working, popular Municipal Softball umpire, remembered how as sports editor of the Jefferson High school Jeffersonian, he had occasion to exchange correspondence with Singer, who, at that time, was sports editor of the Manual Arts High paper . . . Aside to former Loyola U. great, Al Duval, somewhere with Uncle Sam's Army: Didn't see them in their first game, but your Loyola Lions, under Coach Bernie Bradley, walloped Redlands Saturday, 27-0, and are said to have an "interesting" eleven this campaign . . . Jimmy Brooks took a jolting excursion to the canvas in the second round of the semi at H'wood Friday night. The George Tolson protege was decked by Tabby Romero and was out for several minutes . . . Bobby Yaeger, another Tolson pupil, lost a close one to Paul Altman at the Olympic Tuesday night. A round-house swinger, Altman's body blows appeared to have weakened popular Yaeger in the closing stanzas of their six-round melee. Often, before he could GET SET to deliver a blow of his own, Altman had landed a punch to Yaeger's body. Both are good prospects, but of the two, the column believes Yaeger will go farther . . . Aside to Lamar DeLavallade, the boxing trainer and manager: Milton White, in his column Penology somewhere in this paper, is carrying quotations from Jack Willis, heavyweight champion of San Quentin, in which he lauds your ability to teach youngsters to take care of themselves. It'll do you good . . . Both the Jimmy McDaniels-Costello Cruz and Bobby Birch-Jack Chase duels, at Hollywood and the Olympic, respectively, tomorrow and Tuesday nights are hard to figure. However, we like: McDaniels and Chase . . . What has UCLA got on the ball this year? Well, we'll see tomorrow when the Bruins line up against the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs . . .

WOUNDED IN ACTION—Tommy Martin, the British heavyweight who was so popular with local fans before the war, is reported wounded in action with the British forces. In a Montreal hospital, Martin, shown above with a filmland midget pal, saw service with the RAF and naval forces. (See Down in Front.)

Chase, Birch in Rematch at Olympic

Jack Chase and Bobby Birch will step into the ring for a rematch next Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium in what looms as one of the best fights of the year.

Bracketed with the top fighters of the country, these two lads gave the fans a sizzling slugfest when they met recently at the Olympic. The tide of battle seesawed back and forth with the final decision going to Chase.

Since then Birch has been getting a few bouts under his belt so that he is confident now that he can handle Chase. H just came from San Diego where he tangled with Eddie Booker in a close and hectic tiff for the state middleweight title.

Before that Birch knocked out Shorty Hogue in the third round and he previously scored another kayo over the famed Hogue twin. In recent months at Hollywood Birch vanquished Watson Jones, the terror of the sticks, and Leon Zorrita. At Washington, D. C., he put up a terrific battle against Ken Overlin in which he had Overlin on the canvas once.

CHASE UNDEFEATED

Chase has never been defeated as a pro. He scored a sensational win over Shorty Hogue at the recent reopening of the Olympic. It was this same Chase who put a stop to the sensational winning streak of Costello Cruz at Hollywood.

Both Chase and Birch have an orthodox style of boxing and both lads have a terrific punch. They will battle 8 rounds at 158 pounds. The balance of the card, which will be announced later, will be another all-action program such as the Olympic has been staging each week.

Eddie Booker Keeps Crown

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 24.—State middleweight champion Eddie Booker scored a quick and easy three round TKO over Big Boy Hogue here Friday night to retain his crown.

The white Jacumba boy's bewilderment at Booker's razzle-dazzle was ended only by a badly cut eye. Both weighed in at 160.

Sergeant Louis and Private Conn Sign for Title Tussle

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Heavyweight Champion Sergeant Joe Louis and Private Billy Conn signed contracts this week for their Oct. 12 fight at the Yankee Stadium for the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Both fighters will cut in on the gate to settle private debts. Louis will receive $100,951.53 for making his 22nd defense of the heavyweight crown, and Conn will get $34,500 for his second shot at the title.

The decision to let the boxers clear up their private debts was made by War Boxing, Inc., the sports writers committee which is promoting the battle.

It was explained that Louis owes $59,805.50 to Jacobs' 20th Century club and $41,146.03 to John Roxborough, of Detroit, one of the champion's co-managers. Conn owes $34,500 to the 20th Century club.

Under the terms of the contract signed Tuesday, if Conn wins, he'll make the first defense of his title against Louis "when permission is obtained from the War Department."

If both fighters are out of the armed services by that time, the terms call for each man to receive 30 per cent of the receipts as per the contract signed in June, 1941, when Louis knocked out Corn in the 13th round.

Lulu Guns for Chalky's Boxing Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—"Old Man" Chalky Wright, ageless world's featherweight champion (New York version), defends his crown tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, against youthful Lulu Constantino.

It's the first time in five years that Promoter Mike Jacobs has staged a featherweight title bout. The last such engagement was staged Oct. 29, 1937 when Henry Armstrong wrested the 126-pound diadem from Petey Sarron.

Lulu, of New York, is expected to be a slight favorite to take the crown from the veteran Wright. Constantino has lost but two bouts in 54. Moreover he is a young and brilliant boxer. Experts figure him to outlast Chalky, who faded badly in the closing stanzas of his last Garden appearance when he lost a 10-round decision to lightweight Allie Stolz.

This will be Wright's second defense of the title he won from Joey Archibald in September, 1941. He defended against Harry Jeffra of Baltimore in June, winning on a 10th round kayo.

Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE Mexico, Sept. 24.—For the second Sunday in succession the boys that are on the "ins," nearly wrecked Generalissimo Walter Marty's laymen. From the clubhouse o the combination book, they not only dropped the big iron men, known as dollars, but the two-dollar bills and the traveler's checks that are mostly used in betting at the border course since the new order went through about certain kinds of money to be taken into Mexico.

Well, the boys that knew fortified themselves at each book and when the prices went up they started to lay it in on a horse called Draco, who opened at 50 to 1, then down to 30 to 1. Still, the ones that knew kept betting until the price was 15 to 1. Then they started putting it into the mutuels. Well, folks, to make a long story short and take you out of your suspense, the horse won, and a bright sunny day was turned into clouds for the books.

The ones that put over the good thing were all smiles and began singing, "I Found a Million Dollar Baby in a Six Hundred Dollar Claiming Race," while the bookmakers sang "You Done Me Wrong."

Well, that wasn't all. In the very next race, before the clouds had a chance to clear, another small coup was made on Golden Shoe, quoted at 30 to 1 in the books and grouped in the field betting, won and paid $106.00. Then, in the third race, a well played second choice, Gravania, was the name, won and the books took another lacing. And then, the form player nearly annihilated the ring when the even money shot, Circle Car, won the fourth. You could hear the bookmakers say, "Bring on some more money." But genial Generalissimo Walter Marty just smiled.

The Daily-Double paid $588, and the nightcap, known as the Quiniela, paid $129.20 to the lucky holders.

Racing director and presiding steward, popular George Shilling has announced some important stakes for the fall and winter meeting, with more horses coming in. Racing Secretary Joe Walter has lined up one of the best cards for this Sunday with four feature events.

So that's the news from south of the border, down Mexico way, where the sport of kings entertai you every Sunday, rain or shine. But while being entertained, don't forget you have a job to do. Keep buying U. S. War Stamps and Bonds. Will you do that? Thanks, so long. —GEORGE.

Trinity Women Are Second Baptist Society Hostesses

Thursday, Sept. 10, in the beautiful new home of Trinity Baptist church, the missionary society was hostess to the women of Second Baptist Missionary society.

This was truly genuine in every respect. The president, Mrs. Ora Westfield, had arranged a program suitable for the occasion. The vice president, Mrs. Tucker, gave the welcome address. Mrs. Emmett Johnson, vice president of the Los Angeles district, responded. Mrs. J. L. Caston, wife of the pastor, had charge of the music.

When they had completed their part of the program, they called on members of the Second Baptist to share with them. They responded as follows: Mrs. Ella Van Vactor brought a beautiful lesson on courage from the study book, "The Worker"; Mrs. Lois Williams sang very sweetly, "My Desire"; Mrs. Lillian Stewart, state director, spoke on "What Christian Friendliness Means to the Church and the Community."

Closing remarks were made by the president, Mrs. Westfield. After the program, the guests were invited into the spacious dining room where a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. S. L. Coleman, wife of Rev. Coleman, of Pasadena, and one of her faithful members were also guests. Thus ended a day long to be remembered—the first fellowship by the mother church, Second Baptist.

Rev. J. Raymond Henderson and his missionary society and other members journeyed to Rev. Cleaves' church, 43rd and Wadsworth, Sept. 6 and shared with them in the dedication of their new drinking fountain.

On Thursday, Sept. 24 (today), Mrs. Lillian Stewart and her chairman, Mrs. M. E. Everett, will speak in Macedonia church, Watts, and then Mt. Zion Baptist church, 50th and Hooper.

Church School Day at Hamilton

The Annual Church School Rally Day exercises will be held Sunday, Sept. 27, at Hamilton Methodist church. The church school will hold special exercises in connection with the annual promotion services at 9:30 o'clock.

This service will be followed at 11 a. m. by a special sermon by the pastor from the subject, "Forward March." The public is invited to attend these services.

St. John AME to Open Doors

The St. John AME Church which is located at E. 51st St. and Compton ave. will open its doors Sunday, September 27 for its initial services. The public is cordially invited.

Bishop Noah W. Williams is the presiding Bishop of this the 5th Episcopal District; Rev. F. A. Harris is the Presiding Elder of the Los Angeles District, and Rev. C. Melred Carter is the assigned minister.

Women of Zion Hill Ready to Meet Men

The women of Zion Hill Baptist church, 1319 E. 22nd street, are all set to meet the men in the greatest rally of all times. Sunday, Sept. 27, is the date, and favorable consideration of every woman in Los Angeles will mean a great deal towards "blacking out" the men for this season.

Women are making a big showing in every other respect, and women shall not fail now. Chairman Camille Ross and the other women of Zion Hill earnestly solicit the cooperation and fellowship of all on their 12th Annual Women's day. A well-planned program, consisting of live, spiritual songs, fervent prayers, and a masterful sermon will be enjoyed by all.

Every woman who is vigorously opposed to being out-distanced by the men in rallies of this

St. Paul's Pastor Back from Rest

Sunday, Sept. 13, was a glorious one in St. Paul Baptist church. The services throughout the day were well attended. The members and friends were agreeably surprised to see Pastor S. A. Williams on the rostrum at the 11 o'clock service. Many of them were under the impression that he was in Portland, Ore., unaware of the fact that he had been suddenly called home to the bedside of his wife. He arrived the day before.

His coming home was unknown, only by the immediate family, because of the extremely nervous condition of Mrs. Williams she had him come home. Yet, we are pleased to inform you that her condition was not as serious as it appeared to be, and that at this time she is convalescing in a local rest home which she entered shortly after the arrival of her husband.

Pastor Williams, however, did not preach Sunday, Sept. 13, but in his extemporaneous remarks congratulating the members and friends for their having sent him away on his vacation, he showed signs of having been greatly benefitted physically and, in his own words, has obtained a measure of the desire of his heart, "A deeper consecration and more power to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ."

This rapid improvement was due largely to the fact, I quote him, "That I was relieved of all the cares and worries pertaining to the church, confident that 'my son' and your assistant pastor, E. A. Anderson, and his loyal coworkers, were carrying on to the glory of God, although I was hundreds of miles away."

So for several days he enjoyed complete relaxation, and devoted his time to consecration and prayer, laying aside everything that would, or could, have a tendency to disrupt the intent of his vacation. But this Edenic state of affairs was suddenly interrupted by the sudden summons home.

However, he did not lose his equilibrium, nor any of the Holy Ghost power, for, after a brief consultation with his wife, it was prayerfully decided to have her go to a quiet retreat where she could convalesce.

Coming up to last Sunday, the 20th, Pastor Williams clearly demonstrated the fact that he had been imbued with more power, for he was the speaker at the 11 o'clock service, bringing a powerful message from the subject, "Prayer from Three Angles." His exegeses were profound, his delivery was dynamic to the extent that there were 13 accessions.

The evening service was very good. We had with us the Rev. Mrs. Bell, of Chicago, Ill. She delivered a very striking message, at the conclusion of which Pastor Williams, by consent and agreement of the church, launched a prayer campaign, which will be nightly, as long as the Lord wills.

Rev. E. A. Anderson, first assistant pastor, will be the speaker next Sunday at the 11 o'clock service. His subject will be that of last Sunday's Sunday School lesson, "Judah—An Example of Self-sacrifice." Don't fail to hear this young preacher who is showing himself to be a master logician, and whose expostulations are easily accepted.

Pastor Williams will be preaching Sunday evening, the second of a series of sermons, from the subject: "Prayer from Three Angles": (1) But few people really pray; (2) but few people get results from prayer; (3) if the world is to be saved it will be thru prayer, for Christ achieved His victory on his knees in prayer.

I am pleased to inform you that Mrs. Williams is now in the Queen of Angels hospital resting nicely.

S. E. B., reporter.

Rev. Isaacs to Begin New Program

A very large and appreciative audience greeted the new pastor, Rev. J. B. Isaacs, on Sunday last and listened to a very inspiring and helpful sermon. There were 16 persons who united with the church. Among those who worshipped at Second AME church were Bishop and Mrs. Noah Williams, Presiding Elder and Mrs. F. A. Harris, Dr. Turner Perkins, and a number of visitors from other churches.

Dr. Isaacs has announced that he will launch his new program on Sunday next and requested the officers and members to be present. He will speak on Sunday morning at 11:00 from the subject, "Permanent Values." At the 7:00 o'clock evening meditation, "How I Live Each Day." The senior choir will sing at both services under the direction of Miss Crosslin.

Mr. Buckner, superintendent of the Sunday School, urges all teachers to be in their places promptly at 9:30 for the Sunday School.

The Allen Christian Endeavor league will meet at 6:00 p. m.

The minister, Rev. J. B. Isaacs, is available to all members of the church and friends of the community for counsel and prayers. He stands ready to help in solving any personal problems which might be facing you; feel free to call him, telephone RO-3227.

The minister said, "You are not responsible for what people think about you, but for what you give them reason to think."

HOWARD CHOIR TO "BROADCAST"

The Floyd Howard choir will be broadcasting the gospel in song Sunday night, Sept. 27, at 8:00 p. m., from the Evergreen Baptist church, 40th place and Naomi avenue. They will be assisted by the famous Howard Sisters quintet. Admission is free and all are welcome.

Dr. Morris to Speak in Ft. Huachuca

Preaching at the McCoy Memorial Baptist church, E. 46th street, at both worship services last Sunday, the Rev. Charles Satchell Morris, II, was heard by large crowds both in the morning and evening.

Marking his appearance at the local church for the first time in two years, he was greeted by numerous worshipers from other parishes including the Rev. Eugene L. Robinson and the Rev. Chalmers Gaithers, of Second Baptist.

The rally effort sponsored by the officers of the church was a huge success in that more than double the amount requested was given in cash and much rejoicing followed.

Among the outside contributors were Norman W. Johnson, prominent real estate broker; William L. Stevens, retired lieutenant of detectives; Dr. E. I. Robinson, noted physician; and S. P. Johnson, veteran undertaker, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. William W. Lawson, Mrs. Mary Morris Durham, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Coleman, Rev. and Mrs. Karl Downs, Rev. and Mrs. Jonathan A. Dames, all of Pasadena.

AT FORT HUACHUCA

Rev. Morris departs via the Southern Pacific Wednesday night for Fort Huachuca, Ariz., where he will preach on three occasions next Sunday to the thousands of soldiers and deliver two addresses on Monday.

He goes to the famous Arizona fort on the personal invitation of Major John A. DeVeaux, chief of chaplains of the crack 93rd Division, and of Captain Homer F. Browning, special services officer. The final event on his program is a late mammoth Monday afternoon gathering which, it is expected, will be attended by more than 10,000 service men and officers.

The Rev. Morris, who is public relations counselor for the EAGLE, will write a series of articles exclusively for this newspaper giving his impression of life at Fort Huachuca where more than 20,000 Negro soldiers and officers are now stationed.

He will be accompanied to the fort on Saturday afternoon by a group of prominent citizens of Tucson who will form a motorcade from that city. En route he is scheduled to stop over briefly at El Centro, and Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz. On the return trip he is slated to speak at a number of cities and towns in Imperial Valley, including Brawley, Calipatria, Imperial, El Centro and Blythe.

Rev. Morris returns to Los Angeles on Saturday, Oct. 3, and on Sunday morning, Oct. 4, he will be the guest preacher at the fourth anniversary of the pastor and church at the Community Baptist church, Fair Oaks avenue, of which the Rev. J. W. Coleman is pastor. Plans are being perfected to give him an overflow audience at this event.

Second Baptist Boosters to Meet

The Second Baptist Boosters had a very interesting meeting last month. The program was in charge of the nursery department with Miss Elzora Jones, the chairman, presenting "America's Children" and Mrs. Mary Lou Roberson, guest speaker.

Mrs. Roberson's talk thrilled the audience to the extent that she was asked to continue her talk at the next meeting.

The meeting Sunday is in charge of the welcome committee which will present a speaker who will talk on "The Negro Youth." The music department will furnish the music. The meeting begins promptly at 4:00 p. m.

"Hatred stirreth up strifes: but love covereth all sins."—Proverbs 10:12.

Negro America Speaks

"Victory must come as the result of a positive offensive struggle." —Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, speaking before the Los Angeles Citizens For Unity Committee.

Negro America today is drawing sharp battle lines for what is the greatest and most significant struggle in its long, inspiring and courageous contest for the realizition of a full American democracy.

That the Negro press is fast arising to its supreme challenge is perhaps the most heartening development of the past several months. It was a difficult—and it remains an uncompleted job—the transition from our old protest-as-usual tactics to new offensive strategy which unprecedented opportunities present us. We have wrested from the Administration and from Congress itself basic refoms in policy. It is now are solemn duty to fight like holy hell to see to it that these changes of policy are implemented effectively. It is the President's policy that there shall be no discrimination in industry on the basis of color. Very, well. As loyal supporters of our Commander-in-Chief, we will permit NO ONE to disobey his orders. This is no job of protest, It it a task of positive, aggressive and militant ACTION.

Our people are becoming an increasingly progressive influence in the prosecution of the war. Their forthright and unanimously clear position upon the Indian situation is a boon to the sincere win-the-war forces in our country. Their insistence upon the right to work and fight FULLY AND EQUALLY can only confully and equally can ouly contribute toward the fullest mobilization of America's manpower for the devastating defeat of Hitlerism everywhere. The heroic anti-poll tax will expand the practice of democracy by ten million people who have never voted before. There will be created TEN MILLION PATRIOTS!

A brief round-up of clippings from editorial columns in the Negro press covering the past two weeks indicates immense progressive power of these publications.

BOSTON CHRONICLE
September 12—

What chiefly concerns Americans is not the attempts of British reactionaries to suppress the demands of the Indian people for freedom. The matterof principal moment to us and other United Nations, to the British people themselves as distinct from vested interests, is the problem of mobilizing the Indian people to defeat the Axis Powers and to defend themselves against Japanese invasion. It is an axiom that the Indian people will support the war effort of the United Nations, upon which depends civilization itself, only if they are free, with a national government of their own choosing. Mr. Churchill should recognize the fact that "a national government," in the present political context, could mean the "dominion status" which he states it is the policy of His Majesty's Government to concede, but the Indian people will not accept a postdated check. Let the negotiations be reopened.

Indian freedom is essential to winning the war! There must be no repetition of Burma and Malaya!

OKLAHOMA BLACK DISPATCH
September 18—

Two incidents have happened during the past week proving conclusively the South is attempting to courageously meet momentous problems, sectional in their nature, and which Southern statesmanship must have the moral courage to face.

The defeat of all the Negro-hating candidates for office down in Dixie, who have for the past six months ranted and vented their poisonous philosophies over the countryside, causing near riots and and race clashes in many sections, is indeed a compliment to the deep South. It may *be kept in mind that Negroes do not vote down in Georgia, Mississippi and So. Car*olina, and the well nigh astounding fact is that all of these Negro-haters were defeated is a definite and positive compliment to the white voters of that section.

To think that Talmadge in Georgia, Blese in South Carolina and Stephens in Louisiana would run on straight-out white supremacy issues and for their stupid, assinine argument, get the gate from Dixie voters, is one of the most thrilling experiences black men have had since President Hayes in 1879 withdrew the federal troops from the South.

Regardless of which side wins in this world struggle, humanity is not going to profit unless we all agree to revamp and reshape our social patterns Men who attempt to sustain the status quo should be relegated to private estate.

PHILADELPHIA TRIBUNE
September 18—

Sergeant Joe Louis Barrow, heavyweight champion of the world, is anxious to go overseas in battlefield khaki of the United States Army and help whip the Axis Powers of Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini to their knees in this global fight to preserve democracy, according to an article published in last Friday's New York Times. The Times article quoted Louis as saying, as he stopped off in Chicago enroute to New York from Fort Riley, Kans., last Thursday, that he may go to Northern Ireland for a fight, but didn't expect the battle to be in a prize ring with one man as an opponent..

The champion's reason for referring to Northern Ireland, according to the Times, was the circulation of a report that Promoter Mike Jacobs was planning to stage a bout between the winner of the Louis-Conn October 12 title fight and another boxer for American soldiers overseas.

The champ's comment: "Who thought that one up?"

LOUISIANA WEEKLY

The Pepper anti- poll tax bill has been before the Senate Judiciary Committee for a long time. In fact, it has been buried there for the past two years. But the next months and a half will determine whether it will be repealed.

The Pepper anti-poll tax bill has been before the Senate Juriciary Committee for a long time. In fact it has been buried there for the past two years. But the next month and a half will determine whether poll tax remains in the South or whether it will be repealed.

A great deal depends on the outcome--the political future of some four million persons who are directly disfranchised and another nine milion left voteless by the combined barriers of the poll tax law and the "white democratic primaries." Before any of these can hope to be free to exercise the sacred right of public elections, the anti-poll tax bill must become law.

The Pepper-Geyer bills can be passed, and it's now or never!

In the Senate, the Republicans voted as a group to eliminate poll tax requirements in the Soldiers Vote bill, indicating that the Republican Party has definitely declared its suport on the poll tax repeal. Time has come when the Administration and the entire public should take a definite, clear-cut stand in support of the Pepper bill as an essential war measure necessary to the morale and the mobilization of the United Naions.. . . .

The poll tax structure of the South is tottering. It will tumble of there is immediate, positive action from the public. Write your Congressman now, today.

GEORGE F. McCRAY
FOR THE ASSOCIATED NEGRO

The CIO under the leadership of Phil Murray is taking a bold and courageous stand on this whole issue of equal rights for Negroes. Not only have individual CIO unions like the auto workers strengthened their own no-discrimination programs, but Murray himself has decided that the no-discrimination issue will be taken up with the AFL when peace negotiations open. Further, he has named Willard S. Townsend, president of the all-Negro UTSEA and James Carey, secretary of the CIO, to bring in a program which the CIO can follow to combat discrimination in unions and in th coutry as a whole. Going still further, he appointed another Negro, Boyd Wilson, as his personal representative to work along with the others.

KANSAS CITY CALL
September 18—

This war may be won or lost in India. The situation in India is far more grave than censored news wll have us believe. More than ever before is the call for the application of the Atlantic Charter to the case of India. More than ever before rises the appeal for U. S. mediation to avert the impending catastrophe in India, which neither the Indians nor the British by themselves are in a position at present to avert.

Try to crush the soul of such a vast and determined segment of humanity and we court disaster. To delay action to break the Indian deadlock is to play with fire.

★ SPEECH OF THE WEEK

Paul Robeson's Speech at the Philharmonic

(On the night of September 17, 1942)

I don't want to make a speech, I just want to answer a couple of questions that have been asked me since I have been here—very good ones I thought. I'll explain what I feel about my being here tonight, why I am chairman of the Council on African Affairs, why I believe this war is not only ours, but it's a question of life and death for us as it is for millions of others as you have heard from the other speakers tonight.

Somebody asked me why I, as an artist and singer, I was here taking part in this program (and it's not the general program for artists and singers to speak, to be interested in the things that I am interested in, to take the stand that I have done on many questions).

The other was a very interesting question to me and, as I said to a gathering this afternoon, could not possibly have been asked me in any other city of the United States and I was worried that it had been asked me here and will correct it tonight. I was asked whether I knew that here and there that I had abstracted myself from the struggle of my own people. Just what was meant by that, I don't know. Unless often when I come into town and I havent' been able to see my people here in Los Angeles so much as I have in most of the other cities as I go. Here it is like it is in New York, the pace is pretty swift. But possibly also it is because in many of the things I have had included in it a demand—the demand for the freedom of other people whom I have also seen suffering; perhaps because many feel because the emphasis is not just on the suffering of my own people, I am not so deeply interested.

I begin there, because certainly you must know that I am like any other colored person—a boy who has had to struggle to get anywhere. That I have cousins who are not so fortunate—that I will touch as I go along. I began, for the purposes of orientation, in Princeton, New Jersey. Some other people wonder how I sing the folk songs of my people, even, because I wasn't born in the South—or do I understand the problems of these people.

I began as a boy in Princeton —Princeton, a university town dependent upon the university as Hollywood is upon the motion picture industry. Princeton is a university that might just as well have been in Memphis, Tennessee, a university for southern aristocracy. No Negro has as yet entered the portals of Princeton. My brother attempted to do so in his youth. I was born there practically on a southern plantation. The colored people of the town work in the university and the whole attitude was one that one might find in a small southern town. I grew up there as a small boy. My father was a clergyman. I went to a separate school in Princeton. I later moved to another town in New Jersey where I struck a quite different set of circumstances—it might happen in any other American town today—where I played with white and colored children of the early ages of 7, 8, to 15, feeling very little difference, feeling that I was just an American boy.

My father, having had a church in Princeton for some 20 years, where he spent his life he was a slave—a curious fact—born in 1843; I was born when he was 55 in 1898. He had one passion —to see that his children were educated. He believed that education would solve many of the problems. I think he was right for his time. He worked hard and whatever little money he got he put us all through school.

I have three brothers and one sister. We all went through universities— one was a physician, my sister teaches school. I have cousins who were not so fortunate, who today are working on the farms and working on the land and struggling for a living, cousins in New Jersey who are sharecroppers. On my mother's side I had relatives who were not slaves, who had been free and who were school teachers in Philadelphia and in other parts of America, but I was brought up by my father's family at a time when he had lost his church because he was too old and he had no money left.

My youth was spent in a house —I was there the other day and I assure you the house today would be condemned in any other city in the United States. I grew up there. I remember my father bought a horse and carriage and he carted ashes to make a living. When I was a child I was an orphan, I was brought up by my poor cousins. They were so overjoyed when I came back to say "Hello"—I was the same boy who had slept on the cots with the three and four children, who had eaten greens, cornbread and peanuts.

Therefore, as I started out as a boy in college as an athlete and when I was in high school my father always impressed upon me that I represented all of my people in the only land that he knew—I represented all the colored people in America. When I was on the football field I couldn't strike back; I had to play fairly.

I remember an interesting story. I was standing out in the middle of the field and they were all punching me; I warded them off, smiling, and said, "You mustn't be so rough, you fellows." After a bit the referee came down the field and I asked him why he hadn't stopped them. He replied that he thought I was big enough to take care of them. A little later they carried two fellows off the field, and I was way down the field on the other side! At least I was very conscious of these things and certainly tried to play fairly as I possibly could. I realized I wasn't there just to play football —I was there to show that a colored boy can learn his lessons as well as anybody else.

My father was alive when I got my Phi Beta Kappa key, and was so happy. But always, I carried this understanding—that I represented more than myself and in the great struggle that we as colored people know among ourselves which I again translate into terms of the great colonial struggle today. We have these struggles in our own groups with these two parts of my family—one well educated, one always free, one of the first families of Philadelphia, so to speak.

As one of the talented 10 among my own people and as I struggled along more or less, I came to see that there was a very important thing for any Negro boy to determine in the struggle for his people—for whom was I struggling? Was I to struggle only for the free Negroes of the North or to include the millions of the poor Negroes in the South? Was I to struggle only for those better off among us, or was I to consider the Negro worker?

It did not long remain a problem of abstract reasoning. I was told that what you do personally will raise the standard of the race. We still believe this. What a few individuals will do will help, but it will never in any sense solve the basic problems. As long as one Negro sharecropper in Mississippi can be beaten, can be lynched, can be denied the right to live a decent life, so can I, so can Mr. Hays, so can any of us. And from the fact that I was brought up by humble pepole and from the knowledge in life itself of striking these problems, I early determined that if I was fighting for my people, I was fighting for the masses of my people, for those most discriminated against with less ability to help themselves—and I feel that is most important in a meeting like this.

Our responsibility is to the great masses of our people who suffer so much more than we do. As I met the Indian people and I saw in London on the one hand the Maharajas and I thought of the struggling masses of India; and I saw on the other hand the princes of Africa with their oppression to the great masses of Africa, the great peasantry of Africa; and when I saw the young Japanese boys who represented the people of Japan while millions of Japanese starved to death, I realized these problems had to be solved in quite a different way from any one solution of any one great group of white or colored people. I see the Japanese problem today especially as one of a few people pressing down the mass exactly as the British ruling class presses down the Welsh miner. There is a great struggle today that reaches far beyond the bounds of any race. I was only trying to point out that my feelings at a very early age caused me to be with the man who suffered most, the man who was really being kicked around.

I have often been criticised for singing Negro spirituals years ago when most of our singers only sang those. Today the colored singers can sing anything that is being written. We can see our own music as a great contribution of folk songs to the folk culture of the world. I sort of try to be as modest as possible, but Mr. Harmon and I gave one of the first programs of Negro songs as an example of the great folk music of the world, and I can say with Mr. Burleigh and that modern arranger, Mr. Hall Johnson, that we have contributed to our own music—the music of which Divorsay has said it could express anything, it only awaits the touch of genius again to bring it to life in whatever form, operatic, symphonic, or remaining in its simple form. There again, therefore, the first years of my life were spent in expressing the songs of my own people.

In my career I struck England and there was a great turning point. I now met Africans, I met colored boys from the West Indies and so I realized that if I was struggling here I could struggle not so much for the people in America, but for the people in the colonies. I struck a different problem then—I must right for the Africans and the West Indians; and then I went to Wales and I was singing with the Welsh miners where they treated me as a human being and like themselves. I saw them suffer and realized that they suffer in England as we suffer in the South. I went to the peasant in the Balkans, in many parts of Europe, North Africa and India. It is not just a question of the suffering of our own people; it is a question of the suffering of many peoples of all colors, white, yellow, brown and black, in all parts of the world.

For a while I functioned as an artist. I didn't speak because I was too busy—and then Mr. Hitler appeared in Europe and I followed him all over. I happened to be in Germany one time going to the Soviet Union; I was in Norway. Denmark; in England just before he struck. I was in Spain as he struck and I know what it means and what Hitlerism means to us certainly and to all peoples who are struggling for some kind of freedom. I saw America and could only see the unity of the struggle.

These people who are suffering are on our side and as they struggle we had to struggle. I know what it means; I know the sufferings that Negroes go through. I have a boy who can suffer. I have seen it among my own people. When I know how many other groups feel about this war, I can only say we as Negro people hope for freedom. There are those of us who are certainly militant enough to struggle for this freedom. We also would fight for our freedom. We want to integrate ourselves into American life and to become American citizens in all respects and not cut ourselves off as some separate branch somewhere in some strange part of the United States.

So certainly we could not think or could not reasonably think of fighting for our freedom alone against those who do oppress us, who are our Allies. For many years we have received help from various liberal peoples and organizations. My father saw the future in terms of education and in terms of a great philanthropic gesture from above. Vice President Wallace expressed what we are fighting for today—the world of the common man. It means that we stand at the threshold of a real change in history. It is possible with what we have at our disposal to see that the common people everywhere have a decent life and a right to education.

This can be given today—a right to a decent home, a right to a future that is not to be beset by danger of wars that come from the interests of a few people who would keep millions in chains so that they could live in luxury. I have seen it in Spain; I have seen it in England, in Africa and India. It means that the common people of the world shall determine their own destinies. They shall no longer ask for favors from above; they shall take favors. And the great leaders of the future, like our vice president, realize that this is not to be stopped. There is no reason to stop it—it is quite the opposite. This is what we mean by true progress today.

We enter a new world, not where a few people rule and direct the destiny of millions, but where the millions direct their own destiny and where those who have been in advance and who are well educated and have something to give, give it and are glad to do it because the world belongs to them and because they are proud to think that they belong to the future that belongs to the common people of all colors, brown, white, black—all kinds all over the world belong to that future where at last there is such a thing as common humanity.

And in our struggle in America we look around and we find negroes the colored in their struggle for their destiny the great labor movements led by the great CIO who have helped to gain equality in the workshops and the factories of America. I was glad to hear the speakers of the AFL, I hope that labor unions will grow stronger so that labor, representing all the people, will bring over to its side the liberal people of America to make this country a country where the common people can say what kind of life they would lead.

There are many problems that cannot be laughed away and cannot be tucked away under any cover—these are very serious. I went through Atlanta, Georgia, not long ago—I know myself what these things mean. I feel that this is certainly the Negroes' war. This is our war because it is tied up with everyone else who is fighting for freedom. But there is a tremendous responsibility upon the other groups of America—a tremendous responsibility that perhaps can only be compared to the days of Lincoln, a tremendous responsibility to see that no one section (like the South of the United States) can override the rest of liberal America. However, I see the forces at work and I know the rest of America cannot defeat Hitler without India —this cannot be done as long as one tenth of the population is denied their constitutional rights. It is also perfectly clear that again, as we look for those who are our friends in our Allies in America, I see it again against the background of Spain where it was not just a struggle; I saw Hitler planes and Mussolini planes. In England it is the Munich men, the Tories, those who got up to the platform and said that Franco is a "Christian gentleman" when the poor boys were being destroyed.

This is very clear today. It was a grievous error and we know that this happened in America. The embargo was not lifted. I was in Spain; they were, every day, waiting for the arms that never came from America. There were forces that stopped them from coming. These forces today are trying to stop the forward march of the common people. I have met them on their own ground. They would try to sow dissension in all parts of American life; they would certainly perhaps tell us Negro people that this is not our struggle, that our struggle is on the side of Htiler. Hold the war off and then, of course, the enslavement that we would get from them would not reach us. In France they thought that also, the people thought it, in Czechoslovakia. But we know now who these people are.

I would put a question to those who feel that this war should be no part of ours until everything is corrected. This is a difficult problem intertwined with all generations of life in America. Suppose that this struggle over a space of time, maybe say six months or a year that we could attain everything that we desire as colored people in America—and in doing so lost the war and Hitler was at our gates? And this struggle goes on here; we must know our Allies: we must know those who are fighting for the freedom today. We must not be misled into a slavery, not only for ourselves but for the world. I want no part of that philosophy which says "they might enslave us but they will also enslave everybody else." I've heard of a man cutting off his nose to spite his face—but not his neck!

I was proud of what the young Negro felt the people of America must know—that he is prepared to struggle for his freedom. It is only necessary that he be given a chance to express that militancy and fight for that freedom on equal terms in the factories, in the armies, in all of American life so that as he struggles he knows that after this struggle will come that freedom for him and for his children that we have desired for so many generations.

★ SPREADING JOY

By JOHN FOWLER

Small world isn't it? Wherever one goes one finds someone one has known a long time ago in some near or far distant past. I think it real interesting to run across someone I have known years ago under conditions and circumstances so different from the present.

For instance the Annual Conference of the eAME church held in San Diego last week was the guest of Rev. Louis H. Owens and his charming wife. Mrs. Owens is the daughter of the late Rev. William Prince one of our dearest friends. Of course, we knew Margaret when she was a little girl in Pasadena, where we were frequent guests at their home. Like all the children the William Prince family, Mrs. Owens has distinguished herself in the fields of education and religion. Like her brother Professor Arthur E. Prince, she has made an enviable record in her schools in Imperial Valley.

Maybe you remember the Fred Snowdens of Oakland? Well, Fred Snowden was a jolly good natured fellow weighing 250 pounds and was a master of the old bull fiddle. His wife, Mrs. Nellie Snowden, was a leader in the fraternal and club life of the Bay Cities around 1900.

Well, during those days prior to the great San Francisco earthquake I was what they called a huckster selling fruits and vegetables from a wagon. The Snowden kids like hundreds of others used to come with their mothers to the curb when I drove up. Sunday morning I ran across one of those Snowden girls that I hadn't seen for over twenty years; she is Mrs. Kit Hawkins of Los Angeles and San Diego.

And then there is Clifford E. Ware, the Imperial Street real estate magnate. Ware is a splendid fellow and has done well in San Diego. We were associated in many enterprises in Oakland some twenty years ago. We promoted the Garvey movement; Ware engineered my campaign in 1922 when I was elected delegate to the UNIA Convention in New York City.

On being elected Minister of Labor and Industry in the Garvey cabinet, I nominated Ware and he was apopinted High Commissioner for the State of California.

While in San Diego, we had a delightful visit with a most interesting family, that of Mrs. Ella Hudson on 20th street. There are five generations—the youngest nine years old and the eldest, the mother of Mrs. Hudson, 89. Interesting to contrast the little bright-eyed child, smiling and happy without a care in the world with implicit faith in its mother. Grandma, after 89 years of trials, failures, and successes, has topped the mountains and is now going down the hill in the afternoon. In her eyes and by her own words I saw that same child —like faith in God. A sight I shall always remember.

We called on our very dear friend, Mrs. Perry of Market St., the mother of Elizabeth Perry, the socialite lady beautiful of Oakland. We were sorry to learn that Mrs. Perry was out. I think the Perry home is ideally situated, sitting on a promontory with a marvelous marine view overlooking the city and Coronado.

We did enjoy a pleasant chat with Mrs. Banks of Bancroft St. Mrs. Banks is active in the Civilian Defense and the USO--a valuable citizen for San Diego.

I also had the pleasure of meeting Dr. E. A. Bailey, a prince of goodfellows, they tell me, and a very successful practitioner. I am reliably informed that Madam Agnes Nelson-McNeal, the wife of Rev. McNeal of Long Beach is planning a concert tour! If she does, I am sure it will be a huge success; she has everything for it.

AN EXCLUSIVE CALIFORNIA EAGLE SERIAL

"NATIVE SON" ★

RICHARD WRIGHT

Sometimes, in his room or on the sidewalk, the world seemed to him a strange labyrinth even when the streets were straight and the walls were square; a chaos which made him feel that something in him should be able to understand it, divide it, focus it. But only under the stress of hate was the conflict resolved. He had been so conditioned in a cramped environment that hard words or kicks alone knocked him upright and made him capable of action—action that was futile because the world was too much for him. It was then that he closed his eyes and struck out blindly, hitting what or whom he could, not looking or caring what or who hit back.

And, under it all, and this made it hard for him, he did not want to make believe that it was solved, make believe that he was happy when he was not. He hated his mother for that way of hers which was like Bessie's. What his mother had was Bessie's whiskey, and Bessie's whiskey was his mother's religion. He did not want to sit on a bench and sing, or lie in a corner and sleep. It was when he read the newspapers or magazines, went to the movies, or walked along the streets with crowds, that he felt what he wanted: to merge himself with others and be a part of this world, to lose himself in it so he could find himself, to be allowed a chance to live like others, even though he was black.

He turned restlessly on his hard pallet and groaned. He had been caught up in a whirl of thought and feeling which had swept him onward and when he opened his eyes he saw that daylight stood outside of a dirty window just above his head. He propped up and looked out. The snow had stopped falling and the city, white, still, was a vast stretch of roof-tops and sky. He had been thinking about it for hours here in the dark and now there it was, all white, still. But what he had thought about it had made it real with a reality it did not have now in the daylight. When lying in the dark thinking of it, it seemed to have something which left it when it was looked at. Why should not this cold white world rise up as a beautiful dream in which he could walk and be at home, in which it would be easy to tell what to do and what not to do? If only someone had gone before and lived or suffered or died—made it so that it could be understood! It was too stark, not redeemed, not made real with the reality that was the warm blood of life. He felt that there was something missing, some road which, if he had once found it, would have led him to a sure and quiet knowledge. But why think of that now? A chance for that was gone forever. He had committed murder twice and had created a new world for himself.

He left the room and went down to a window on the first floor and looked out. The street was quiet and no cars were running. The tracks were buried under snow. No doubt the blizzard had tied up traffic all over the city.

He saw a little girl pick her way through the snow and stop at a corner newsstand; a man hurried out of a drug store and sold the girl a paper. Could he snatch a paper while the man was inside? The snow was so soft and deep he might get caught trying to get away. Could he find an empty building in which to hide after he had snatched the paper? Yes; that was just the thing. He looked carefully up and down the street; no one was in sight. He went through the door and the wind was like a branding iron on his face. The sun came out, suddenly, so strong and full that it made him dodge as from a blow; a million bits of sparkle pained his eyes. He went to the newsstand and saw a tall black headline. HUNT BLACK IN GIRL'S DEATH. Yes; they had the story. He walked on and looked for a place to hide after he had snatched the paper. At the corner of an alley he saw an empty building with a gaping window on the first floor. Yes; this was a good place. He mapped out a careful plan of action; he did not want it said that he had done all the things he had and then had got caught stealing a three-cent newspaper.

He went to the drug store and looked inside at the man leaning against a wall, smoking. Yes. Like this! He reached out and grabbed a paper and in the act of grabbing it he turned and looked at the man who was looking at him, a cigarette slanting whitely across his black chin. Even before he moved from his tracks, he ran; he felt his legs turn, start, then slip in snow. Goddamn! The white world tilted at a sharp angle and the icy wind shot past his face. He fell flat and the crumbs of snow ate coldly at his fingers. He got up, on one knee, then on both; when he was on his feet he turned toward the drug store, still clutching the paper, amazed and angry with himself for having been so clumsy. The drug store door opened. He ran.

"Hey!"

As he ducked down the alley he saw the man standing in the snow looking at him and he knew that the man would not follow.

"Hey, you!"

He scrambled to the window, pitched the paper in before him, caught hold and heaved himself upward onto the ledge and then inside. He landed on his feet and stood peering through the window into the alley; all was white and quiet. He picked up the paper and walked down the hallway to the steps and up to the third floor using the flashlight and hearing his footsteps echo faintly in the empty building. He stopped, clutched his pocket in panic as his mouth flew open. Yes; he had it. He thought that he had dropped the gun when he had fallen in the snow, but it was still there. He sat on the top step of the stairs and opened out the paper, but for quite awhile he did not read. He listened to the creaking of the building caused by the wind sweeping over the city. Yes; he was alone; he looked down and read. REPORTERS FIND DALTON GIRL'S BONES IN FURNACE. NEGRO CHAUFFEUR DISAPPEARS. FIVE THOUSAND POLICE SURROUND BLACK BELT. AUTHORITIES HINT SEX CRIME. COMMUNIST LEADER PROVES ALIBI. GIRL'S MOTHER IN COLLAPSE. He paused and reread the line. AUTHORITIES HINT SEX CRIME. Those words excluded him utterly from the world. To hint that he had committed a sex crime was to pronounce the death sentence; it meant a wiping out of his life even before he was captured; it meant death before death came, for the white men who read those words would at once kill him in their hearts.

The Mary Dalton kidnapping case was dramatically cracked wide open when a group of local newspaper reporters accidentally discovered several bones, later positively established as those of the missing heiress, in the furnace of the Dalton home late today . . .

Search of the Negro's home, 3821 Indiana Avenue, in the heart of the South Side, failed to reveal his whereabouts. Police expressed belief that Miss Dalton met her death at the hands of the Negro perhaps in a sex crime, and that the white girl's body was burned to destroy evidence.

Bigger looked up. His right hand twitched. He wanted a gun in that hand. He got his gun from his pocket and held it. He read again:

Immediately a cordon of five thousand police, augmented by more than three thousand volunteers, was thrown about the Black Belt. Chief of Police Glenman said this morning that he believes that the Negro was still in the city, since all roads leading in and out of Chicago were blocked by a record-breaking snowfall.

Indignation rose to white heat last night as the news of the Negro's rape and murder of the missing heiress spread through the city.

Police reported that many windows in the Negro sections were smashed. Every street car, bus, line, train and auto leaving the South Side is being stopped and searched. Police and vigilantes, armed with rifles, tear gas, flashlights, and photos of the killer, began at 18th street this morning and are searching every Negro home under a blanket warrant from the Mayor. They are making a careful search of all abandoned buildings, which are said to be hideouts for Negro criminals.

Maintaining that they feared for the lives of their children, a delegation of white parents called upon Superintendent of City Schools Horace Minton, and begged that all schools be closed until the Negro rapist and murderer was captured.

Reports were current that several Negro men were beaten in various North and West Side neighborhoods.

In the Hyde Park and Englewood districts, men organized vigilante groups and sent word to Chief of Police Glenman offering aid.

Glenman said this morning that the aid of such groups would be accepted. He stated that a woefully undermanned police force together with recurring waves of Negro crime made such a procedure necessary.

Several hundred Negroes resembling Bigger Thomas were rounded up from South Side "hot spots"; they are being held for investigation.

In a radio broadcast last night Mayor Ditz warned of possible mob violence and exhorted the public to maintain order. "Every effort is being made to apprehend this fiend," he said.

"TB' OF RESPIRATORY SYSTEM CLAIMED 172 LIVES IN STATE IN 1940

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The number of tuberculosis deaths among Negroes constituted 26.3 percent of the total number of deaths occurring in the United States from tuberculosis and represented 8.9 percent of all Negro deaths, Joseph R. Houchins, specialist, Negro statistics, Department of Commerce's bureau of the census, said today.

The mortality statistics for 1940 show that insofar as the Negro population of the United States is concerned, tuberculosis of the respiratory system was the most deadly of the various forms of tuberculosis. Of the total number of Negro deaths resulting from all forms of tuberculosis, tuberculosis of the respiratory system caused over 91 per cent.

The Negro's death rate of 112.7 per 100,000 enumerated population for this disease was over three times as high as the comparable death rate for the white population.

In the State of California 172 Negroes died of tuberculosis of the respiratory system in 1940. The Negro death rate per 100,000 enumerated population for California was 138.4.

The decline of approximately 32 percent in the Negro's death rate for tuberculosis of the respiratory system between 1930 and 1940 in the registration states is encouraging. It would, however, be unwise to conclude that the success in combating tuberculosis indicated by this appreciable decline will continue during the 1940's. The cityward movement of the Negro population indicated by the 1940 census returns has undoubtedly been accelerated as a result of the demand for both skilled and unskilled labor in industrial cities. In these urban places housing is inadequate, long hours of labor under new conditions tax migrants' resistance to the disease, and the chances of infection are comparatively greater than in rural areas.

Statistical support for the conclusion that the movement of Negroes to these industrial centers may affect adversely the Negro's death rate for tuberculosis of the respiratory system is found by comparing the 1940 death rate per 100,000 enumerated population for other races (includes Negroes, Indians, Chinese, Japanese and other non-white races, but chiefly Negroes) in rural areas with similar rates for other races or the nonwhite population of cities of various sizes, all of which were higher than the death rate for the nonwhite population of the rural areas of the United States. The death rate in rural areas was 86.6 as compared with rates of 125.1, 129.4 and 165.5 for cities of 2500 to 10,000, 10,000 to 100,000, and 100,000 and over, respectively.

It appears evident that both individuals and communities should exercise even greater care in the control of tuberculosis of the respiratory system than ever before. A continuous campaign against this disease promises not only a longer life span for Negroes, but increases in the Negro population, for as indicated by the table entitled "Negro Deaths from Tuberculosis of the Respiratory System, by Age and Sex: United States, 1940," tuberculosis of the respiratory system has been most deadly to Negroes in the reproductive period of life.

HERE ARE DEMOCRACY'S SINEWS—America's workers are democracy's strength and in the nation trade union members are working around the clock to turn out more planes, more tanks, more guns and more ships for democracy's defense. The victory of free labor over slave labor thruout the world depends on the brains and brawn of Americans such as the skilled worker shown above. An expert "plate-bender" at the Norfolk Navy Yard, he shapes the steel plates for the sidings of war ships that will soon be prowling the sea-lanes around Germany and Japan and escorting United Nations' transports bearing lend-lease material to Britain, China and Russia.

By ROBERT PATTERSON

THREE COMPETITORS

The time has come to centralize the War Manpower Commission, Selective Service and other government agencies. That much is self-evident from the testimony given a House investigating committee by officials of those agencies themselves. Up to the present, these agencies have acted entirely independently of each other, yet all must draw upon the same manpower pool, one drafting men for the army, the other seeking to recruit new millions of workers for industry. The confusion has been worse confounded by the voluntary enlistments of patriotic young men who, by the hundreds of thousands have answered the Army and Navy recruiting campaigns, thereby, according to national selective service director Major Lewis B. Hershey, playing havoc with the operation of the draft. Without further delay, it is high time to determine how large a labor force will be required to supply the army we are now building, instead of permiting war industries, recruiting services, and the draft to carry on their competitive efforts at cross-purposes with one another.

SECOND FRONT DECISION

With semi-official advices from London setting a seal of disapproval upon any Second Front opening this year, it is indicated that one of the crucial decisions of the war has been reached. It is based on the belief that despite staggering losses, Russian resistance will continue, so that Germany next year will find in the Red Army a still formidable, fighting foe facing her on the East. Whether Russia could survive attack by both Germany and Japan is another question. If the answer is in the negative, the road to victory for the United Nations will be that much the longer and bloodier. The loss of a battle, or a major defeat, for any one of the United Nations is a loss and defeat for all of them. Great Britain and the United States doubtless weighed well the odds of a successful Second Front operation before reaching a joint decision. It will now be a race against time between Germany and the United Nations to see which can make better use of the respite given each side to prepare.

WOMEN IN WAR

In factories, shipyards and aircraft plants, and as auxiliaries in the armed forces, women have already outstripped the part they played in World War I. With government officials now declaring a national labor draft inevitable, and citing the need of placing at least four million additional women in war industries in the next 12 months, there's further proof that the distaff side of the family is going to hold a top-ranking role on the war production front. What consequences this will have to the nation's social and economic life in post-war days, no one can say with certainty, but they are sure to be far-reaching. Long before Pearl Harbor, women had made deep inroads into the old assumption that "this is a man's world." They own a majority of the country's property; they inherit 65 per cent of all estates; ownership statistics of stocks, bonds and real estate indicate women own or control 70 per cent of the accumulated wealth of the nation; and in numbers, they have been steadily gaining on the men for years. They spend 85 cents out of every dollar spent in the nation, and can take full credit for having brought about the greatest advance in retailing the country has known. It was their support that made possible the growth of multi-unit retailing, the biggest victory yet won in breaking through wasteful distribution lines and cutting down the cost of goods as they move from producer to consumer. To their role of the nation's No. 1 budget experts, war is now bringing to millions of women for the first time the responsibility of being the breadwinners and industrial workers on which the war front depends.

BILLIONS TO COME

America's ever growing army of taxpayers who surveyed the proposed new Federal tax bill, and felt it was nearing the limit, have overlooked the costs of feeding the nation's huge war machine, and the need of dipping deeply into the biggest national income the country has ever known. Two reputable non-government tax experts declare the present tax bill is between $10 and $22 billions too low. Secretary Morganthau only says modestly, 'It isn't quite high enough.' But the meaning is clear!

STUDY--OR ELSE!

Canadian universities have issued an ultimatum to play-boy students; Make high grades or leave and join the army! Our Dominion neighbor has an idea we could use. Schools in war time mean business, too!

L. A. Man Gives NAACP $1000 in Wife's Memory

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—In memory of his wife, Mrs. Geneva Wade Young, who died on Mar. 26 of this year, Joseph Young, Los Angeles, has contributed $1000 to the NAACP. Young will become a life member of the association, having his name cast in bronze on the permanent plaque of NAACP life members in the national headquarters. He will also receive a medal signifying that he is a life member.

The remaining $500 of his contribution will go into the association's reserve fund.

The association, in a letter of appreciation to Young stated:

"We shall use your generous contribution as effectively and economically as possible during these trying days to secure a greater measure of freedom and opportunity for all American Negroes. We hope that what we shall do will be a memorial to Mrs. Young, more lasting than would ever be expressed in bronze or stone."

Defense Worker Jailed for Drunk Driving

David Tipton, defense worker, of 1261 E. Adams Blvd. has been arrested by traffic officers of the Florence District and charged with drunk driving after he was intercepted and run down by the officers on the night of Sept. 21.

Tipton claims that he was en route home from work and momentarily lost control of his car after crossing an intersection which caused the officers to follow him, who ran him into the curb and accused him of being drunk. He states that he is innocent an dentered a plea of not guilty and his trial has been set for Oct. 7th in Div. 7 of the Municipal Court.

Brush Up on Handling Bombs

Los Angeles civilian defense workers and citizens generally, today were advised to brush up on their knowledge of dealing with phosphorus incendiary bombs, following reports from Oregon of what might have been the first incendiary bomb raid on the continental U. S. A.

"Judging by press reports, the object found in the Oregon woods and reported to have been dropped by a Jap plane launched from a submarine could have been one of the 'dual purpose bombs' which the Japs previously have used in the Far East," according to George Hjelte, Director of the City Defense Council.

Talmadge Defeat May Be Celebrated

Staging an unusual celebration, that of the defeat of a man, rather than his victory, a mass meeting is to be held at Faithful Central Baptist church, 40th place and Paloma street, Sunday, inspired by the defeat of Governor Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's notorious Negro-baiting chief executive.

He was swept out of office in the recent Democratic primaries by white voters who tired of the additional stain has has been bringing on the state by his brazen doctrine of race hatred.

The meeting has been arranged under the auspices of the American Anti-Prejudice society, with the occasion being also the first anniversary of the ministry of its founder and president, C. Townsend Tucker.

With the theme, "Democracy at Work," discussions and addresses aimed at furthering the cause of racial understanding will feature the program.

Among the speakers scheduled are Prof. Wm. Easter, state superintendent of adult education; A. C. Capers, D. D., pastor, and West coast director of the National Baptist Convention, Inc.; Mrs. Nellie Capers, widely known dramatic reader; James Erwing jr., editor of the Neighborhood News, and representing the local press; Rev. Tucker; Harry Levette, coast representative of the Associated Negro Press, and others.

★ WE PROMISE DEMOCRACY

By LOUIS FREEMAN

Many have talked with colored soldiers and others have visited camps. If one were to base all conclusions on stories told and what they observed, the outlook would be dismal indeed. It would seem that we should pity our boys. I feel that this would be a mistake as it would only deal another blow to morale.

Our boys should be encouraged through knowledge of the past performances of Negro soldiers. Officers should see to it that colored soldiers are supplied with books portraying the role of the Negro in American history. This would be a medium of awakening race pride which is so badly needed. It might create the necessary stimulus to awaken the desire to carry on as our forefathers have done.

Before becoming too pessimistic let us analyze the situation. While it is true the responsibility of most of our limitation rests with the government, we are also guilty of laxity.

In too many cases our big names have grown so big that they have failed to be of service to the people they have served. Once on top they forget the interest and issues that carried them there. Many of our most devout churchgoers, who find an outlet for their Sunday emotions, forget their duty to their unfortunate brother on leaving services. Some of us are so busy in the pursuit of the almighty dollar that nothing else matters. Last but not least is the pleasure seeker who places everything secondary to his hunt for thrills. The lace of race pride and sense of duty is the underlying reason for this disinterest.

Surely every soldier who believes in God knows the destiny of man is not left to the whims of biased individuals. As further assurance let me say that you do not stand or fight alone. No, on the home front are thousands of Americans, black and white, who are fighting for that you believe lost. When you return we promise you not a substitute but the word and all that it implies, Democracy.

To colored soldiers wherever you may be I dedicate this poem:

I AM A BLACK MAN

I am a black man and I am proud to be
Of a race whose shackles of bondage fell free.
I am not ashamed of my forefathers brave,
Who the best they had to America gave.
They were ever ready to fight at the call—
In the Revolution were the first to fall.
Down through the years we have done our part
To finish each job the nation would start.
For Democracy's sake the world to save,
Thousands of black men lie in the grave.
Black men without fear marched into hell,
And received a baptism of shrapnel and shell.
Great is the sacrifice the black man has made—
All of the nations should lend him their aid.
Often he is beaten, cheated, and robbed;
When asking for justice, is lynched or mobbed.
Ah, my white brothers, dark is this blot,
In God's record eternla it will not be forgot.
If in reality my dreams I could see—
It would be a world from prejudice free.
From our hearts all hatred we would erase,
Show compassion, and give justice to every race.
All men have faults, and many break laws,
For where lives a human who has no flaws?
I cannot change the hue of my face,
If it be black, that is no disgrace.
Judge me not by my color, but for what I aspire,
To be a loyal citizen is my greatest desire.
Give me a chance, in this land of the free,
To be a man among men—asking no sympathy.
Make me a citizen who can cry out loud,
"I am an American! of this I am proud."

THEATRE WORLD

Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday, Sept. 24, 1942 Vol. 63—No. 24 Page Two-B

MORRISENDATIONS: Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, to my knowledge, is the only sepia screen, stage star who is doing his share in a big way for his country and race. His parachute company, headed by Skippy Smith, former parachute jumper, is turning out parachutes for the paratroops. Also he is working all races, creeds and nationalities in the San Diego plant. They work side by side, and no one says a word when dark brownskinned Skippy, the boss, tells them to do this or that. "Rochester" is proving to the world that Negroes can run the whole shebang if necessary.

LENA HORNE, LA BONITA

MORE MORRISENDATIONS: The Berry Brothers, in my opinion, are the greatest all-round dance team in America, Europe or Asia. They excel in flash, eccentric, tap, strut, and acrobatic dancing. They have the polish, class, rhythm of motion and perfect timing. They won't let another act pick up a cane. These three cyclones were sensational in the film, "Panama Hattie."

Lena Horne is like a dream come to life. She is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful women on the screen today. Any color or any race. Her production number in "Panama Hattie" was one of the best things in the film. I first met Lena backstage at the old Nixon theatre in Philly soon after Noble Sissle had discovered her. From Charlie Barnett's band to Hollywood. And believe you me, Lena Horne will coin plenty dough here.

BILL BAILEY, GREATEST OF YOUNG TAP DANCING ARTISTS

Take out Bill Robinson and that leaves you Bill Bailey, to whom Bojangles will leave his crown as World's Greatest Tap Dancer. If and when Bill Robinson retires. We know that there are some who will say it's Honi Coles. But I have seen both these youngsters dance over a period of time. And Bill Bailey has the edge, a big edge, on Honi Coles. Bailey dances walking down the streets, in the lobby of the hotel, in his rooms and even in his sleep. He's just a dancing fool—and practice makes perfect. Bailey is working in "Cabin In The Sky."

There has not been an act to take the place of the best dressed, classy, polished society dance team of Pete, Peaches and Duke. The Miller Boys and Lois get my money for acrobatic and stunt dance trios. While I will lay odds that Ford, Harris and Jones will bring down the coldest house in Iceland with their comedy-dance trio.

In my opinion, one of the best all round entertainers is John W. Sublette, known to the trade as "Bubbles" of "Buck and Bubbles." Dance? I saw him and Bill Bailey dance for three hours in competition at Old Dave's Cafe in Chicago, years ago. Each dancer never repeated the same dance step. He made Bill Bailey bring everything he had. But Bailey made "Bubbles" take his shoes off. Sing, act? "Bubbles" made the tune, "It Ain't Necessarily So" in "Porgy and Bess." He fair thee acted "Sporting Life" in the same opera.

Take out Lionel Hampton and you will find that Cozy Coles leads the drummer boys, with Sidney Catlett beating out a close second. Cee Pee Johnson is the nation's number one tom-tom man and jungle rhythm beater.

'AMERICAN RHAPSODY' AT MAYAN SUNDAY

Two of the country's most promising young artists who soon will come into national renown bring their talents into the Mayan theatre Sunday night when they appear in Music Town's extravaganza production of the "American Rhapsody" at that theatre.

They are Archie Savage, who currently is directing the dances for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "Cabin In The Sky", and Victoria Rice, violinist and composer, who was trained at the famous Eastman school at Rochester, New York.

Assisting Savage in the production, which has been directed by Malcolm H. Nash, will be his dance group who also appear in the MGM picture. Miss Rice's contribution is unique in that her song, "Dream Castle," forms the basis for the theme. She will play the violin obligato, while her sister, Annelle Rice, sings the lyrics. "Dream Castle," a sentimental song of a girl to her sweetheart-soldier, bids fair to attain the popularity of "Over There," which swept the country during World War I.

The "American Rhapsody," which depicts a panoramic picture of the dance from the primitive to the modern also introduce other songs by Music Town's own composers, Austin McCoy and Reb Spikes. Their song, "Shadow of Blue," is a heart-tugger.

Also to be featured are the Hi-Hatters, former dancing pupils of Nash, and Helen Atkin, young protege of Hall Johnson, who makes her first public appearance since she began studying with George LaPere, famous French voice teacher. The vocalists in the production have been coached by Luvenia Nash.

'Sugar' to Box Middleweight

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Ray (Sugar) Robinson, undefeated Harlem boxer called the "uncrowned welterweight champion of the world," was signed by Promoter Mike Jacobs this week to make his first start against middleweight competition.

The promoter said Robinson would meet Jake Lamotta of New York in a 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden Oct. 2.

Hank, Rubio to Tangle Oct. 12

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 24.—Norman Rubio, Albany, N. Y. welterweight, has been signed to meet Henry Armstrong, the former triple boxing champion, in a 10-round bout at San Francisco Oct. 12. The announcement was made Monday by George Winn, Rubio's manager.

Turkey Inks for Dorazio

Turkey Thompson and Gus Dorazio, veteran Detroit heavyweight, have been signed to tangle at Oakland on Oct. 7, it was announced this week.

Parking Lot Attendant Is Held

Robert Eggleston, employee of Lovejoy's Breakfast club, who also doubles in brass as a parking station attendant at Brown's Parking station addition to the El Rey hotel at Fifth and Main streets, has been held to answer on charges of grand theft auto, preferred by J. W. Gustafson, shipyard worker. The man registered at the hotel on the night of Sept. 14 and turned his car over to Eggleston for parking and states that Eggleston thereafter drove the car away without his permission.

The accused man was arrested at Fourth and Winston streets at 4:00 a. m., as he was making a lefthand turn. The officers testified that they stopped him for questioning because he was driving an expensive automobile and they did not feel that a Negro who looked like Eggleston would be driving that type of car.

Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, representing Eggleston, drew from the prosecuting witness an admission that he had asked Eggleston if any girls frequented the hotel, but on cross-examination he denied he had given Eggleston permission to drive his automobile.

The accused man, however, stoutly maintains that he is innocent and claims that the car was driven at the insistence of Gustafson who asked him to perform a mission involving the use of the car. He did not take the stand at the preliminary hearing and was ordered to appear with his attorney for arraignment in Department 41 of the Superior Court on Oct. 7.

Rev. Harris Leaves S. D. for East

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 24.—Sunday afternoon, September 20, the Mt. Zion Baptist church, 3045 Greely avenue, was packed to the door with friends and well-wishers of Rev. W. L. Harris, this great man of God and his dear family.

The service began promptly at 2:30 with a song service and devotional led by Rev. R. P. Harris, a local minister of the Mt. Zion Baptist church.

The program was as follows: singing, "A Charge to Keep I Have"; prayer, Deacon E. B. Brown; singing, "Take Your Burden to the Lord.

At this time, the mistress of ceremonies, Sister Janie Y. Williams was presented and made very encouraging remarks. Rev. W. L. Harris and his family were asked to stand so that all present might see and know who they were. Sister Madge Wilkins sang, "Dwelling in Beulah Land."

Expressions of love and appreciation of the loyalty, faithfulness to the cause were made by the following members of Calvary: Sister Madge Wilkins, Brother Nevins, Sister Lonnie Goodwin, Brother and Sister Long, Brother Charles Hardaway, Sister Charles Hampton, of Bethel Baptist. A reading, "Give Me My Flowers Now," by Sister Lucy Norwood of Mt. Zion. Singing a request of Sister Lula B. Johnson, "O When I Come to the End of My Journey."

The mistress of ceremonies said, "We will now express our love by deeds and actions, and the public collection was taken of $35.75. A committee from Calvary Baptist church, consisting of Sisters Madge Wilkins and Agnes Richardson, made the donation of $29, making the total $64.75.

Sister Agnes Richardson recited a very appropriate poem for the occasion. Singing, "Shine for Jesus." Presentation of money to Rev. W. L. Harris and family by Sister Lucy Norwood. Singing, "Glory to His Name."

At this time the meeting was turned over to Rev. R. P. Harris, who in turn presented the speaker, Rev. W. L. Harris.

The scripture read was Amos 5:24, "But let judgment run down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream." The man of God preached a sermon long to be remembered and never forgotten.

This very fine spiritual program was sponsored by the Inter-denominational Missionary union, of which Sister Janie Y. Williams is president; Sister Winnie B. Pope, secretary; and Sister Clara Thompson, treasurer. An organization composed of every missionary society of the city that has been in operation for the past 10 years. It has helped every church in the city and means to go on until the Master says, "Enough done; come up higher." One addition was made to the church.

Rev. W. L. Harris plans to leave for his former home in Pittsburgh next Saturday. May God ever bless and keep them in the hollow of His hands. And our admonition to him is, "Go on Rev. Harris and preach the unadulterated gospel of Jesus Christ. It will hurt some people and will kill some, but it will make alive in Jesus Christ. What you sow, you shall reap."

The financial report of Pastor Harris' ministry at Calvary was read by the financial secretary Herman Wesson. When he came to the church, there was an indebtedness and the amount has been paid, together with all other expenses, and he leaves the church with $119 in the bank.

The meeting was dismissed by singing, "God Will Take Care of You," and everyone marched around and shook hands with the family.

'Skegee Tiger Opens With Xavier U.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Sept. 24.—Candidates for the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tiger football team for 1942 have not been at practice long enough yet for the coaching staff to evaluate the possibilities of the men who have assembled and who aspire for berths on the squad.

During the past several days the coaches have been experimenting with combinations which it is thought will work together in the most satisfactory manner and at the same time produce the best results. Frequent changes have therefore been made in the line and in the backfield, but it will take several more days of hard practice before it will be possible for the Tiger mentors to determine who will be selected to fill the ranks of those lost to the squad by reason of enlistment in the Service or by graduation.

An important post to be filled is that left vacant by Upshaw Sams, that slender streak of lightning from Beaumont, Texas, who operated from the left halfback position. Sams was an excellent ball carrier and was highly rated for his exploits on the football field.

Sams, now employed as a clerk in the institute post office, uses some of his off-duty time to instruct several young aspirants for his post in the technique of getting by the line of scrimmage and into the open field.

Dennis Stewart, Jacksonville, Fla., captain of the 1941 team, lost by graduation, will be missed in the line. The stocky Stewart, with his 200 pounds, was one of the best guards in the Southern conference and it is going to be difficult to replace him.

The season opens in New Orleans Saturday, Sept. 26, with members of the Gold Rush team of Xavier university as opponents. Morris Brown of Atlanta, Ga., will be met at

War Forces Bishop to Drop Football

MARSHALL, Texas, Sept. 24.—Speaking to the faculty and students of Bishop college at the 62nd fall convocation Friday morning, President Joseph J. Rhoads announced that "football as an intercollegiate sport will be discontinued for the duration of the war."

However, the president stated that the college will retain its membership in the Southwestern Athletic conference and participate in all other conference sports, including basketball and track.

The president stated that, "The increasing demand of the war on the manpower and educational services of the college, and the growing insistence that students shorten the time normally allotted to college attendance, by applying themselves with the greatest possible diligence, have rendered football temporarily impractical for us."

Bishop will emphasize intramural sports as a phase of its physical fitness program for all of its students.

MORELAND HIT COMING TO LINCOLN

Mantan Moreland, born in Monroe, La, began his career in 1916 with "Huntington's Minstrel Show" of the same state. He is featured in Million Dollar Productions new all-colored cast feature "Four Shall Die," which comes to the Lincoln theatre on Oct. 3 for four days.

His excellent work as a comedian was immediately recognized and he was asked to take the comedy role in the famous New York show, "Lew Leslie's Blackbirds," which traveled all over Europe and he was also in the original "Shuffle Along" and "Great Day."

His early picture work included "Trailer Romance" from RKO, "Frontiers" with International, but with growing popularity he has been featured in Million Dollar's "Gang Smashers," "While Thousands Cheer," and starred in "One Dark Night." Teaming with Frankie Darro as "Jefferson," he has been featured in a number of Monogram pictures.

★ SPREADING JOY

This week the Old Sweethearts parade is headed by another pair of old sweethearts, whom everybody loves, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Duncan.

GOLDEN west bridge — — —

Something new, something grea for the GWBA was started Saturday, September 19. It had its birth in the minds of one of the nation's greatest players, Mrs. Blanche Woods. She revealed her plan to this writer on the way home from the ABA National tournament in Cleveland, O. So the first team of four tournaments ever held on the Pacific Coast was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Woods on the above date.

Six captains were there with their teams. The captains were Mrs. Viola Henry, Mrs. May Denton, Mrs. Ruby Veil, Mr. M. L. Milligan, Genial Gene Robinson, and Ellis L. Veil. After a very fine evening of play, Mrs. Viola Henry's Blue Ribbon team was the winner with the foursome that did so well in the Nationals in second place.

The next play will be a knock-out between the four with the highest score. Mrs. Woods was chosen general captain of the team of four. Mrs. Reeves, secretary; Atty Herman K. Barnett, treasurer.

We beg you to form your team and be ready for the next match at the club room. Get in touch with Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Reeves, or this writer.

The GCC trophy is in great danger of being taken out of play. Don't worry, for there is another to be put in its place. Leading for the September series are Louis Beal-Ellis L. Veil; Elinor Floyd-Margaret Hale; Gene C. Campbell-May Denton; Viola Henry-Joe Henry.

The leaders for the Sunday series is not known at this writing. There was a good turnout for the play Sunday, September 20. We played Howell. The winners were first, Gene C. Campbell-Viola Henry; second, John Crain-Mr. Stevens; thrid, J. D. Dunn-Gene Robinson. Dr. Darthula Matthews-Dr. A. L. Wallace tied.

Just a reminder. Our playing schedule is Sunday at 7:30 p. m.; Tuesday, 8:30 p. m. First and third Thursdays 2 p. m.; and Friday 8:30 p. m. Our address is 1054-56 E. 54th St., AD. 5946.

As promised in this column sometime ago, the heavyweight champion of San Quentin will speak to you through this column today. But first: The 29th Little Olympic was successfully held on the 9th of this month, amid the usual fanfare of the San Quentin military band, the ludicrous antics of many clowns, the grunts and groans of the wrestlers, the lightning-like left jabs and hooks of the fighters, unbelievable feats of strength and skill, and the pounding of fleet feet upon a fast track.

There were about 50 colored contestants in this gala field day, and you may be sure that they acquitted themselves well. "Short Stuff" Hayworth, our crack two miler, was a little "off" that day, but managed to place third in one of the most gruelling two-mile races which has ever been run in the institution. Our fastest runner, "Speed Merchant" Crawford, swept the field in the 50 and 100-yard dashes; while Buddy "Sweet Boy" Slayton and the veteran crack half-miler and record holder, Bernie "Step-'n'-a-half" Appling, excelled in the 440 and the 880. Appling is the holder of the half-mile record, having broken his own record twice. The ardent worshippers who kneel at the jitterbug specie of the terpsichorean shrine daily, namely: "Fleet Foot" Heard and "Headquarters" Taylor, forsook their shrine for the day, and ran their hearts out in a thrilling relay which will be remembered for many a day. "Pretty Boy" Hall won the hop-skip-and-jump event with his characteristic grace and ease. The heavyweight boxing champion, Jack Willis, won the "Lifer's race" at a record-breaking clip, but brought a groan of despair to his backers when he fell at the end of his "bit" in the relay before passing the baton to "Speed Merchant" Crawford.

"Jumping Joe" Thorpe, the only colored wrestler in the institution, won the middleweight wrestling championship of the institution. "Flash" Henderson won a close decision over his worthy boxing opponent, while "Top Row" Allen and "Ice Cube" Thompson lost their arguments to their opponents. But I could go on, ad infinitum; right now, the heavyweight champion of San Quentin speaks:

"I won the heavyweight championship from Ray Acosta in 1938, and have had to defend it only twice since then. I successfully defended it against Jimmie Smith and Hank Hankinson. I have fought exhibitions with such men as Pat Valentino, Al Blackshire, and others. Our boxing cards are held on these holidays: Washington's birthday, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Admission Day, and Thanksgiving. Frankie Carter, one-time boxer and now a referee, officiates at nearly all of San Quentin's bouts, which are matched by our lightweight champion, Lou Menney, under the supervision of our friend, Lieutenant Dan Coughlin, who is the athletic commissioner of the institution.

"There is one thing which will puzzle a close follower of the fight game, especially those who have been fans of such fighters as Richie Lemos, Willie Fields, Art Johnson, Eddie Mosette, etc., when they witness the familiar style of boxing which the inmate fighter employs. The explanation of this lies in the fact that two of the colored managers are the famous amateurs, Tiger Woods and Victor Brown, who is the retired heavyweight champion of the institution. As many of you will remember, these boys were under the managership of Lamar DeLavallade. So then it is small wonder that one might see the DeLavallade jab, hook, cross, and counter. Right here I want to personally extend a little bouquet to Lamar, for in teaching these boys to fight, he has given them the confidence to rise from the "canvas" and fight back to a win, despite the mistake they have made in the fight of life. And these two boys are teaching their proteges the same system, the same philosophy; instilling in them the principles of a good clean fight, and the will to win. Yes—your work is going on, Lamar, even here in San Quentin, and penal authorities will agree, I am sure, that you have done and are doing a great work in the habilitation of young men. Too, you have done, and are doing your share of preparing the American fighter who may have to take the Last Count on some hell-ridden, far-flung battlefield in order that the hand of America might soon be raised in victory over her enemies."

You have heard from the champion of the squared circle; next week you shall hear from another champion. The religious side of San Quentin will be presented by Theodore Banks, who was recently made a sergeant of the Salvation Army, and who has become an ordained minister since his incarceration. The apparent change in this man's life should prove very interesting. So until next week, we are still looking forward to your letters or visits.

Yours for a Better Understanding,
MILTON WHITE.

Don't Fail to Register If You Should

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Any registered voter who failed to vote in 1940, either on the occasion of the August primary or the November general election, and who has not since re-registered must enter his name on the Great Register of California before Sept. 24 in order to qualify for the general election on Nov. 3.

This warning was issued yesterday by the 18 statewide organizations which have united in a drive to increase registration of voters to the maximum point.

Registration of a citizen, however, who voted at either one of these elections has not been cancelled. Therefore, the statement points out, those who must register in order to vote in November include those who failed to vote at both of the elections held in 1940; those who have moved since last registering; and those who have not registered, but who will complete, on Nov. 3, one year of residence in the state, 90 days of residence in his county, and 40 days of residence in his precinct.

Citizens who are not yet registered can do so with the clerk of their county of residence, or with the city clerk of the community in which they reside. In many of the large communities, deputy county clerks have been stationed in stores, banks, and other places of public access to take registrations.

Nurses Corps Scores With Victory Tea

The Green Cross Nurses Corps scored another success with their Victory Musical Tea held at Camille's Party Den, E. Adams boulevard, last Sunday, Sept. 20. The proceeds from this annual affair are used each Christmas to benefit the less fortunate.

The corps was founded in 1929 as an auxiliary of the American Woodmen lodge and has always been active in charitable work.

Entertainment was constant throughout the evening and refreshments were plentiful. There were remarks by Mr. Graham, and talks by Mr. Webster and Dr. Boswell. Rev. Arthur Peters sang a solo and Johnny Mitchell played the violin. Eugene Robinson, supervisor of the American Woodmen, gave the closing remarks. There were many other participants.

Mrs. Ollie Taylor is due much credit for securing the fine entertainment. Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. Mamie Nelson, Lena Hopkins, Mabel Hoarst, Thelma Meige ,and Nellie Lewis.

Four nice prizes were given away, and were received by the following people: Mrs. Ellen Colman, Mrs. Alice M. Lee, John Allen, and Mrs. L. B. Lewis.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Zera Collier 510 E. 48th street. Jessie Elmore is president.

Local Matron Visits Son at Minter Field

STATE GUARD NOW ACTIVE, FULL-TIME MILITARY FORCE -- GEN. SWEENEY

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24.—Reviewing developments of the State military forces of California during his first three months as commanding general, Major General Walter C. Sweeney, U. S. Army, in an official quarterly report to Governor Olson as commander-in-chief, reports that the State Guard "is now an active, full-time military force, doing full military duty in close cooperation with and coordinated by the Army."

REV. S. A. WILLIAMS

The report, made public today by the adjutant general, covers the activities and operations of State Guard and State Militia troops since June 8, 1942, when General Sweeney assumed command control under a War Department directive issued upon the order of President Roosevelt and by the request of Gov. Olson.

Prefacing his report with a statement covering his duties and instructions by Gov. Olson for "developing the military forces of California . . . to give the greatest possible military service to the peop' of California in the protection of vital installations and utilities," and organizing a "little regular army," the Sweeney report adds that "there has been at no time, on the part of anyone, any effort to inject any influence into the exercise of my command control."

Appreciation is expressed for the "whole-hearted support" extended by the governor of policies pertaining to command of State military forces, based on purely military lines; a support held "largely responsible for the highly satisfactory progress made up to this time in our task of developing the State Guard and State Militia into efficien military forces of Recognized military worth."

That such military worth of the State Guard is recognized by the War Department is evidenced in the report which states that it is "a part of the military forces of the United States, recognized by the War Department. With the development of cooperation with and coordination by the Army, our State Guard troops have been gradually taking over the guarding of additional vital utilities, thereby replacing and relieving the Federal troops heretofore guarding those installations thus releasing regular troops to combat duty.

"These considerations," the report continues, "are being given ever increasing attention by the commanding general, Western Defense Command and Fourth Army, and the War Department. As a result, the State Guard of California is receiving more and more supplies, equipment and armament from the War Department in recognition of the definite value of the State Guard in its being able to continue . . . relieving . . . Army troops to the fighting forces."

Ministers' Wives Guests at Luncheon; Form Alliance

Mrs. Artishia W. Jordan, the charming wife of Rev. Frederick D. Jordan, popular pastor of Eighth and Towne AME church, was hostess at a delicious three-course luncheon honoring Mrs. Helen Armstrong Williams, wife of the Right Rev. Noah W. Williams, presiding bishop of the Fifth Episcopal district.

The palatial Westside parsonage of Towne avenue was beautifully decorated throughout with cut flowers and candles.

Mrs. Jordan, attired in a long black tailored crepe skirt topped with a white silk scroll blouse, in her quiet and gracious manner received her guests.

Guests present were Mesdames Helen Armstrong Williams of St. Louis, Florence Harris, Ethel G. Prioleau, Mayme Price, Eliza G. Wilson, Dorothy Swann, Ella Harris, Mary Austin, Dorothy White, Lucy Minor, Helen Nesbitt and Mrs. Harold Reeves. Out of town guests were Mrs. Carrie Austin of Marysville and Miss Naomi Parks of Oakland.

The group present decided to organize an AME Ministers' Wives Alliance, after hearing Mrs. Williams tell of a similar one which she sponsors in St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Williams was unanimously chosen as sponsor for this new organization. Mrs. A. W. Jordan was chosen as temporary chairman and Mrs. Ethel G. Prioleau as temporary secretary. A meeting will be called later for a permanent organization.

Cruz at Legion McDaniels Faces

Middleweights Jimmy McDaniels and Costella Cruz, San Jose Mexican, figure to stage an exciting brawl tomorrow night at Hollywood Legion stadium when they meet in the 10-round main event.

Both are heavy punchers.

Women's Day at First AME Zion Church Sunday

Sunday, Sept. 27, is Women's Day at the First AME Zion church, located on Pico boulevard, at Paloma street.

Mrs. Sue Bowdan, missionary of the AME church and local school teacher, will bring the message on Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Mrs. Bertha Powell of the Hall Johnson choir will render a solo.

At 7:30 p. m., Lt. Faustina Johnson of the Nurses and Ambulance Corps of the California State Militia, will deliver the address. The soloists in the evening will be Mrs. Daisy Goodlow and Mrs. Florence Johnson, of the Federal Projects' chorus.

The pastor, Rev. H. Philbert Lankford, has given the women full charge for the day. They have chosen "Victorious Womanhood" as their theme.

The chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Jean W. Holmes, will furnish inspiring music at both services. Mrs. Maggie E. Shepard is chairman of the day.

Ministers Body to Hear Rev. Davis

The Interdenominational Ministers Alliance will hold its regular meeting Monday, Sept. 28, 11 a. m., at the YMCA, 28th and Paloma streets.

The devotional address will be delivered by Rev. J. D. Gordon from the subject, "Nehemiah's Social and Religious Reforms"; current events by Rev. E. W. Rakestraw; and the order of the day will be presented by Rev. J. A. Davis, who will discuss "Responsibility of Christian Leadership."

The public is invited to attend.

kind is urged to enlist on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Help to "Keep 'em lagging."

Great Work Rendered By S. A. Williams

Rev. S. A. Williams, pastor of St. Paul Baptist church, was among those seated on the platform at the Paul-Robeson-Max Yergan rally at Philharmonic auditorium last Thursday night.

The work of Dr. Williams in the interest of colonial peoples has been not only outstanding but consistent during his many years in public life.

Recently in the State Baptist convention, Rev. Williams gave $100 toward the work of the Foreign Mission board in Africa, and he has made donations to the China Relief Fund, through the Red Cross, on behalf of his church.

The community activities of St. Paul Baptist church thru Rev. Williams are outstanding. A monthly contribution is made to the Boy's Home, of which Rev. Williams is a member. He is also on the board of directors of the Producers and Consumers Co-operative market.

Within the church itself, there is an organization known as the Highway and Hedge movement. This movement is so organized and systematized that from 40,000 to 60,000 people are contacted each year. Last year 60,000 people were contacted in jails, hospitals, asylums, on the streets, and in the pool halls.

Scattergoods to Hold Monthly Meet Sunday

The Scattergoods are inviting all friends to their annual meeting and dinner Thursday, Oct. 8, at 6:30 in the dining hall of the First Methodist church, Colorado and Oakland. Dinner tickets are 65 cents. Please call Mae Reese Johnson, SY. 3-4479 for reservations.

Junior high school and junior college young people who are interested in music are urged to join the Scattergoods and help in a musical chorus.

The Scattergoods Opportunity club urges all mothers to attend the monthly meeting Sunday, Sept. 27, at 3:00, at the club house.

Each Friday from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m., friends are asked to come in and sew.

Several ministers of our community were recently entertained at the clubhouse and a plan to raise $1000 from the Negro people was presented. A fine spirit of cooperation was encouraging. Mae Reese Johnson is superinterdent.

MEDIATION AND PRAYER

The night has come—the hour is near—the lighted blessed mystical candles cast their flickering light against the walls and ceilings of the darkened room—the pure wholesome odor of the burning mediation incense is evident—it is nearly time for mediation and prayer.

The silent hours are for relaxation and concentration, each previous moment giving physical rest to the body, and spiritual nourishment to the soul.

That is why, no doubt, physicians always prescribe quiet and rest for their patients, creating detachment and stimulating resuscitation.

Let us set aside a portion of our busy daily routine for mediation, quietly remembering now more than ever, that "Prayer" is not only beneficial but essential in these days of total warefare. Write Prof. Herman today about your perplexing problems.

E. R.—Dear Prof. Herman: Just a line to let you know that I am certainly pleased with my horoscope. So many of the things have materialized, that it is really amazing, and I can say that it is the most accurate horoscope I've ever had, and I've had plenty.

M. L. H.—What shall I do about my problem?

Ans.: Probing into the matter it seems that you have been in love with a young man in your neighborhood for quite sometime. But recently you have met someone from Florida that you care for. You are undecided as to which one you love the best. It appears to me that the feeling you have for the out of town person, is merely friendship, but you truly love your present boy friend. This will be revealed to you much clearer, very soon.

T. B. B.—Does my husband love me? When he stays away from home at night is he with another woman? Will I lose him?

Ans.: Only one question is answered in the column; I suggest that you write in for a private reply.

Mrs. E. K. J.—What can I do to find my dog?

Ans.: If you will contact the dog pound, and run an ad in the paper concerning your dog, I am sure you will get some information that will help you in locating her.

L. M. B.—Will I marry the young man I am keeping steady company with now?

Ans.: A careful analysis of your questions indicates the fact that you will marry this young man within the next year. This marriage will make you very happy.

T. D. G.—I wish to move to another city. Do you think I will ever be able to do so?

Ans.: Your lucky stars and guiding planets reveal your making a change in your location within the next three months. You will find your opportunities for advancement much better in a larger city and you will not regret making this change.

M. A. T.—I read your column constantly and find the answers to the problems of others also a help to me. Now, I wish you would give me some advice concerning this question. Will I ever see my baby brother again?

Ans.: My psycho-mentalist crystal reveals the fact that you haven't seen your brother for many years and are wondering if you ever will. An unexpected visit will occur soon and the visitor will be your younger brother. He has been trying to locate you for months and just recently found your address.

D. M. M.—Will I get to go back to my husband real soon?

Ans.: Since you and your husband have agreed upon a reconciliation there is no doubt but that you will go back together again within the next few weeks. The only way you can find happiness is to profit by your past experiences. It would be a pleasure to help you both find marital bliss; if you will write me I shall be glad to do so.

BAKERSFIELD CLUB PRESENTS FINE PATRIOTIC PROGRAM

BAKERSFIELD—The Golden Lead Dramatic club presented an afternoon in America at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Austin, 2798 Jewett ave., September 13. The affair was one of the season's outstanding social affairs. After tasty refreshments were served, a one-act play, "Sunshine Lady", with Mrs. W. M. Austin, driectress was given. The characters were Mrs. Emma Drislson, Georgia Jackson, Mr. Henry, and Mrs. Phillips. A grand evening was enjoyed by the large audience. Mr. Thomas McManus, prominent business man of Bakersfield, procured twenty ten dollar memberships for the local branch of the NAACP from leading business men of the city. Mrs C. B. Howard also made a lovely report from the National Convention after which a lovely reception was held with Mr. J. E. Ward, president presiding.

The Mt. Zion Baptist church was the scene of one of the most beautiful weddings when Miss Dorothy Soloman and Mr. Haywood Tomlin were united in marriage. The beautiful bridal party which consisted of four ushers and four bridesmaids, and flower girls were beautifully gowned in various colors. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Soloman. Rev. P. J. A. Redford performed the rites. Mrs. P. L. Winters sang, "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." A lovely reception was held in the tabernacle of the church. Lovely gifts were received by the popular couple. Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Howard entertained their friends Sunday at a lovely dinner. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Foster and Georgia, the California Eagle reporter, who will leave for Houston, Texas, soon. The Rev. Noah Taylor of Beaumont, Texas is conducting a meeting at Mt. Zion Church.

Special Group on Venereal Disease Meets Tomorrow

The Southeast District's Special Committee on Venereal Disease will hold its next meeting tomorrow evening, 8:00 o'clock, in the beautiful new auditorium of Hacienda Village Housing project.

The manager of the housing unit, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, has invited the health and welfare chairman of Hacienda Village to appoint a delegate to the conference. The meeting is open to the public, and everyone interested in furthering President Roosevelt's national campaign to "establish total moral and physical fitness" is urged to attend.

Chairman John Hargrove will preside. Committee reports will include a report on progress by the poster committee, headed by Harold Scott; and a report by Exalted Ruler E. Bentley Strauther, of a special film showing and lecture on venereal diseases held at Elk's Lodge No. 1004, J. B. Bass chapter, last week.

Many Homes Get V-Home Certificates

OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

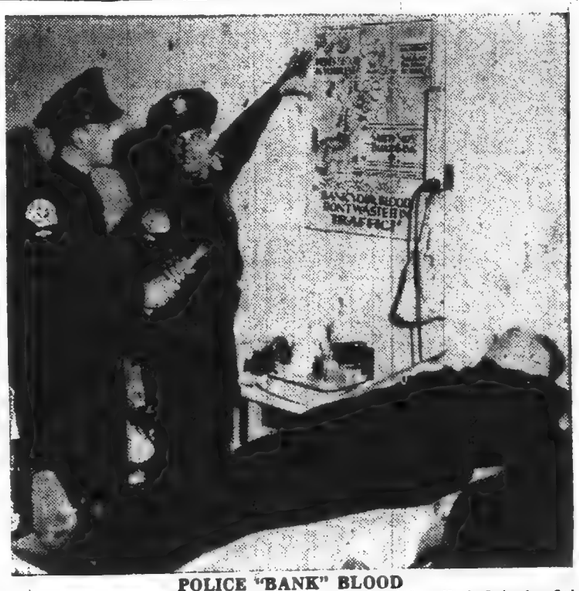
Early returns from OCD's nation-wide V-Home survey show many Negro homes among the first to receive the V-Home certificate, indicating all-out participation in the war effort and necessary precautions against air radis, the Office of Civilian Defense announced today.

In Washington, D. C., Negro air raid wardens awainted the start of the campaign on September 15 with lists of Negro homes which had already been inspected and found to qualify for the V-Home award.

Local defense officials are authorized to award a "V-Home" certificate to any home which has made such air raid precautions as are deemed necessary locally anticipated in certain practical measures to strengthen the war effort. These measures include conservation, salvage, refusal to spread rumors designed to divide the nation, and regular purchases of War Savings Stamps and Bonds. The "V-Home" certificate is to be signed by the air raid warden or other appropriate local defense official and is designed as a window sticker for display purposes.

THIS IS A V HOME!

I. This hame follows the instructions of its air raid warden, in order to protect itself against attack by air.
II. This home conserves foods, clothing, transportation, and health, in order to hasten an unceasing flow of war materials to our men at the front.
III. This home salvages essential materials, inorder that they may be converted to immediate war uses.
IV. This home refuses to spread rumors designed to divide our nation.
V. This home buys War Savings Stamps and Bonds regularly.



We are doing these things because we know we must to Win This War.

Tobin to Address Nation on British Labor

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, will give a first hand account of his observation of how British labor is helping to win the war over the Columbia Broadcasting sytem Saturday night, Sept. 26. For time, check with radio station KNX.

Every member of organized labor is urged to listen in this vital message as future of policy of American labor in our national war effort will no doubt be shaped by this important report.

President Tobin has just returned from England where as AFL delegate to the British Trade Union Congress and personal envoy of President Roosevelt, he has completed a study of British labor's part in the war effort.

★ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Ed's Note: Letter to Clarence Muse, who led a group of morale-builders in a recent journey to Ft. Huachuca.)

Dear Mr. Muse:

Please accept my earnest appreciation for the fine work you and those associated with you did for the officers and men at Fort Huachuca during the past week-end. Your appearance here was one of the finest things that has happened to this command since the time of its activation. Personally, I have not laughed so much for a long time and am yet undecided whether the real satisfaction and good out of your visit to Fort Huachuca was due to my personal amusement or to the contentment that came to me to see how much enjoyment was afforded to the men.

I have just written a letter to the Hollywood Victory Committee in an endeavor to make arrangements for you and others selected by you to come back to Fort Huachuca at least once a month. Please keep in touch with me and help me to get good entertainment of the right kind here for these men.

Although you may not be in uniform, you are a soldier just the same. If everybody does his part as well as I believe you are doing yours, we will win this war and we won't be too long about it.

With kindest regards and many thanks, I am

Very sincerely yours,
EDWIN N. HARDY
Colonel, Cavalry
Commanding.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I am writing this letter to inquire as to the amount of the mail subscription rate for your weekly publication. I myself am a member of the armed forces of the United States, and a citizen of Los Angeles, but not having received until this date, any papers or literature from my home, I had never been interested enough to inquire into them.

My wife this morning sent me all of the back copies of your paper from Feb. 26, 1942, and they were so greatly enjoyed by the members of my company, that I am sending this, so that in the near future we will subscribe to your paper, as we were stationed in San Bernardino, Calif., for the period of six months, and were entertained almost weekly by the young ladies of Pasadena and Central Gardens, surrounding Los Angeles, through the efforts of Mrs. Shaw, the USO worker there in Central Gardens, and at all times we were royally treated.

Having noticed in your paper, items of mistreatment of Negro soldiers in different parts of the country, I think, with the complete support of the rest of the company, that due credit should be given General Charles Gereheart, major general commanding the 91st Infantry Division, here at Camp White. Upon our arrival here from Fort Lewis, Washington, we were the first Negro persons to stop in this part of the state for 20 years, and the citizens of Medford, Oregon, some of which had never seen a Negro, were at first scared of us, and did not want us to even appear on the streets in town.

General Gereheart on the first day of our stay in Camp White, called a meeting of all of the officers in our unit, and the other Negro unit that accompanied us from Fort Lewis, and stated that he had been in the army for the period of 30 years, and that white and Negro troops had been under his command, and that regardless of race or color, any man in uniform was the same, and would be treated as such, as long as he is in command, and he has lived up to that in every sense of the words that he spoke.

He even had the town of Medford put off limits for all soldiers, because we were refused service in three (3) taverns in the town, and he has also stated that if any soldier of our companies ever needed his help in any matter, he was free to call on him at any time, and it has been done, with quick clarification of the situations involved which are too lengthy to write here.

We have run upon only one problem that we have not been able to solve. A call was put out for about 10 Negro hostesses for a planned USO for our troops (not that it was necessary). Only one was received, and she was a soldier's wife in our company from Riverside, Calif. We had a completely equipped USO, with all the facilities, but the job proved too much for one woman to handle, so she gave it up and returned home, but we wish to express our appreciation for the effort she put forth. So when the soldiers from other camps complain, refer them to Camp White, and it will show that somewhere we do have equal rights and freedom as given all other soldiers and free men fighting for this country. I will close now, and hope that this letter is well received.

Just one last question. In one of your back copies, I cut out a letter that Corporal David Cunningham sent his mother from Australia. Myself having enlisted almost at the same time as him; we were located in the same company, Co. "D," 47th QM Regt., at which time was located at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif. I was able to visit the company just once before they were ordered overseas. I would like to receive his mailing address so I could correspond with my cousin, Allen Hoskins, who is of "Farina" fame, and is in the same unit.

Thanking you in advance for an early reply, I remain

Yours truly,

DAVID G. LEWIS JR.
S. Sgt., Co. "E," 26th QM Regt., Camp White, Ore.

If you are buying a laxative answer these 3 Questions first

Ques. Why do most people choose a popular laxative instead of a lesser known product? Ans. Because a popular-seller can generally be counted on to give satisfaction or it could not have won the respect of its users. Ques. What is one laxative that has been a popular-seller with four generations? Ans. Black-Draught.

Ques. Why is Black-Draught made in 2 forms? Ans. Because many think the new granulated form is even easier to take.

Black-Draught costs only 25c for 25 to 40 doses. It is purely herbal, usually gentle, prompt, thorough. Follow label directions.

Ladies, they used to say: "That's TABOO!" Now read these facts

Not long ago, many a woman would prefer to suffer in silence from periodic, functional pain rather than talk about this subject.

Nowadays, women and girls openly praise CARDUI's 2-way help. Taken as a tonic, it usually peps up the appetite and aids digestion by stimulating the flow of gastric juices; thus it often helps build up resistance for the trying days to come. Or taken as directed 3 days before the time, CARDUI may help relieve pain due only to periodic, functional causes.

Try CARDUI. For 62 years thousands of women have said they believed it helped them.

Beauty, completeness, integrity, service, and economy is just a part of the creed of CONNER-JOHNSON CO., the Community Morticians and Funeral Directors.

Twenty-three years of faithful service, providing at all times the finest and most beautiful tribute to loved ones at the smallest possible expense.

LAUNCH BTW LIBERTY SHIP WITH MIXED CREW

Probably the crowning victory for democracy connected with the launching of the good ship Booker T. Washington Tuesday at Wilmington was won by the Captain-to-be, Hugh Mulza, 55-year-old Negro skipper.

In a Washington conference with Captain Edward McCauley, deputy WSA administrator, Mulzac flatly turned down a proposal that he line up a full Negro (Jim-Crow) crew.

Mulzac told the Federal man, "We are here in Washington representing organizations fighting against discrimination, segregation and Jim Crowism. Under no conditions will we o back to New York and report that we have compromised on a Negro Jim-Crow ship."

Muzzac, a licensed ship's master for twenty years but unable until now to fill this position, appeared yith a committee of the National Maritime Union, thru which a mixed crew has already been recruited.

The brilliant christening ceremonies Tuesday heard Mary McLeod Bethune deliivered a blistering win-the-war speech.

by L. A. B.

All this was rendered possible through th courage of the Negro people and the brilliance of its leadership. This was possible through the alliance with the powerful industrial element controlling national politics at the time. But the industrial North soon lost its taste for alliance with an increasingly militant Southern Negro and, having dispatched the slavocracy as a controlling voice in national affairs, conspired to abandon its Negro ally in exchange for the Dixie reactionaries' support against Labor and small farming interests. Thus President Garfield Hayes ordered Federal troops out of the South and left its unarmed Negro masses to the terror of the Klan, the share-crop system and the poll tax.

This gentleman's agreement to leave the Southern aristocracy strictly to itself in the administration of "home rule" became the unquestioned, established law of American politics. It relegated the bulk of Negroes to unspeakable suffering with no political power to strike back.

So, the psychology of the race, in and out of the South, became that of the impassioned beggar and agitator. We learned to bewail our misfortunes in the midst of a sea of defeatism. We were alone. One Administration after the other scrupulously adhered to the gentlemen's agreement. Their was no "interference" with the Solid South.

This situation has prevailed even throughout the Administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Our President inaugurated the first pro-Labor government in our nation's history. But in order to carry out the sweeping reforms of the Wagner Labor Act and similar legislation, Roosevelt, too, was forced to knuckle under to the Solid South. Throughout his first two terms, there is nothing to indicate a real opposition to the basic evils of the South. Roosevelt and the Solid South were temporary comrades and the Negro still relegated to the political periphery.

All this prior to the most explosive event in our modern history—PEARL HARBOR!

There followed an earthquake in our political life.

First of all, the war is not an imperialist war. It is not that imperialists will not try to convert it into one, as witness the Indian fiasco. But fundamentally, this is a PEOPLE'S WAR. Our allies, who are they? The heroic Chinese people, mighty Russia, Britain moving inevitably toward ectrified the world—and a Great a complete revoudiation of her

Slayer of Cafe Manager Is Convicted

Convicted of manslaugher by a jury in the courtroom of Judge William McKay, department 45, Monday was O. D. Foster, slayer of Marshall Outlin, one-time manager of "Gene Sorral's", 4006 Central avenue.

The crime occurred January 16 over a broken glass, bartender Outlin insisting that customer Foster pay for it. The man returned later, however, to stab Outlin to death as he reached up to close the doors of the well known establishment.

With proprietor Gene Sorral offering a $100 reward for the capture and conviction of the slayer, the case attracted wide attention.

Manslaughter sentence ranges between 1 and 10 years

PLAN ANTI-POLL TAX BODY HERE AS HOUSE TO ACT ON MEASURE OCT. 12

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1—After three long years the log-jam around the Geyer anti-Poll Tax bill has been broken. The 218 signatures necessary to release the bill from the House Judiciary Committee have been secured. The Geyer bill is now slated for action by the House of Representatives on Oct. 12. The American people have rolled up another smashing victory in their fight to abolish the vicious poll tax system and to mobilize the energies of 10,000,000 Southern disfranchised citizens for the successful prosecution of the war.

In line with the all-out war policy of the California EAGLE, were the paper's efforts this week to initiate a city-wide Anti-Poll Tax committee. This committee, which will be composed of peopel from all sections of the city, will have as its primary task the development of a two-week blitz campaign to line up the whole city in a solid demand that Congress remove forever the poll tax disgrace from our national scene.

CONFER WITH MAYOR

A conference with Mayor Fletcher Bowron, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, EAGLE editor, and representatives of other groups today will hammer out ways and means of bringing this vital win-the-war measure before the whole population of our city.

A mammoth petition drive for the city's churches is being planned for the next two Sundays.

One ofthe biggest dangers in resolution attached to is which provides that the late Cougressman Lee E. Geyer be recognized by the Speaker of the House directly after reading of the bill. Congressman Lee E. Geyer is dead, and the die-hard poll-taxers may use this technicality in an efort to declare the bill dead. No precedent for such a situation exists and the defeatists may take advantage of this fact to high pressure Speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn of Texas, into killing the bill.

Another danger lies in the fact that the poll-taxers will be in Congress when the bill comes up on the floor. They will be there to fight against it. This necessitates special efforts to see that every Cougressman who has signed the Discharge Petition is there to speak and vote for it.

And in the Senate the Pepper anti-Poll tax bill- companion measure to the Geyer bil has not been reported out of committee although Senator O'Mahoney, chairman of the sub-committee of the Senate Judicialy Committee, the body considering the bill—has rendered a decision to close hearings on the bill. No further hearings will be held in committee. The Senate committee is considering the bill before reporting it out.

'A People's Victory Demands a People's Paper!'

Under the banner, "A People's Victory Demands a People's Paper," we are this week launching the California EAGLE Victory Drive.

The fact that this is a people's paper that has fought long and valiantly the people's struggles cannot be denied. To the tune of hardships, privations, long hours of work, and even threats, the EAGLE has continued to bring to the attention of this community and of the nation those issues affecting our welfare. Standing as monuments to the efforts of the California EAGLE to help the people of this city fight the good fight are many community owned enterprises: the housing projects, now occupied by Negro and white workers; the stand of the community regarding the treatment of Negro soldiers expressed at the gigantic mass rally of protest at Second Baptist church last winter; the poly-clinic on Central aveune, a step toward adequate health facilities in this area, and many others.

Nor have the struggles waged by the EAGLE been alone in the immediate home front. At the beginning of this war period, the EAGLE declared that "The Negro people have a stake in this war and we intend to do everything in our power to see that equal opportunities to participate are ours. From that stand we have never wavered. We have day by dayand issue by issue brought to the people the status of the Poll-tax bill and voiced our protest against those refusing to sign it, until even Congressman Leland Ford, formerly rabid in his opposition, signed it. And we are continuing that fight. We raised our voice in support of the Second Front—and were the first Neg

Career of Crime Ends for Rapist and Kidnapper

A brutal criminal career was brought to a halt Tuesday with the conviction of Harry S. Fleming on two counts of kidnapping and three counts of rape in Judge Charles Fricke's superior court.

Detectives Earl Broady and James O'Neal, who investigated the case, termed Fleming, "the most desperate habitual criminal operating in the city."

One of his victims whom he attacked June 28, suffered a fractured skull which necessitated hospitalization for a period of three weeks. There were two other victims who appeared against the man. They plainly showed the effects of his brutal assaults upon them.

Possible sentence for Fleming is from five to two hundred and fifty years.

A crafty felon who has previously served time in the penitentiary for rape and kidnapping, he has successfully evaded conviction many times. He had been tried twice on similar charges during this year, each time securing an acquittal.

Ruth's Beauty School Co-operative corporation begins its new program. By cooperation with the national defense program, the school offers women of vision unusual possibilities for permanent, profitable employment or even their own business.

There are more requests for beauty operators than we are able to supply. Learning beauty culture does not interfere with defense workers because classes are arranged so that you will be able to attend morning, noon, or evening.

Ruth's Beauty School wants to encourage our women to keep up appearance thru knowledge of such subjects as hygiene, personality, sterilization, correct attire, sanitation, as well as learn all subjects in beauty culture.

During the month of October these classes will be absolutely free to the student. Job guaranteed immediately after you graduate. We prepare you to work in Negro or white shops.

2 Pioneers Here Taken By Death

Two long-time residents of California were taken by death within a few days with the passing of George Whitley, 77, of 3656 Halldale, on Sept. 24, and James Luther Washington, who died on Sept. 28.

Mr. Whitley was one of the original 47 founders of the People's Independent Church of Christ, and a trustee and treasurer of the church under the late Rev. N. P. Gregg. He is survived by a wife, Mrs. Maggie Whitley; a sister, Mrs. Almeda Johnson, and by other relatives in his native Sedalia, Mo.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning in the Ivory chapel of the People's Funeral Home, with Rev. Clayton Russell and Rev. Mansfield Collins in charge.

RANCHER DIES

Last rites for James Luther Washington, prominent Visalia rancher, were held this morning at 10 a. m. from the Ivory chapel of the People's Funeral Home.

Mr. Washington, a native of Atchison, Kansas, had lived in Visalia for 30 years, and was widely known and highly respected.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss LeVaughn Washington, of the social service department of General hospital, at whose home at 265 E. 45th street, Mr. Washington died.

Burial will be at Lincoln Memorial cemetery.

Monrovia Church Services Are Reviewed

MONROVIA—Sunday School opened at the Community Baptist church on time with the pastor teaching the lesson. At 11:00 a.m. the pastor delivered a very inspiring message. He also preached at 8 p. m. Ministers Body Participates in Prayer Series

At the regular monthly meeting of the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance, the devotional address was given by Bishop W. A. Washington from Ephesians. A series of prayers was engaged in by many of the members of the Alliance.

A cablegram was sent to Mahatmas Gandhi and one to Winston Churchill with regard to the status of India. Mrs. Batiley, representing the laymen of the Outdoor Life and Health Associaton, spoke before the Alliance relative to the campaign to be launched by the Alliance for the purpose of raising $16,000 by the 15th of November.

The message was delivered by Rev. John A. Davis on the subject, The Responsibility of Christian Leadership. The current and religious news was discussed by Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, who also spoke of the christening of the Booker T. Washington and of the Negro who was made Tank Commander of the U. S. Tank Division.

HEAD

The passing of Mrs. Sophia L. Smith on Saturday, Sept. 27, left her multitude of friends in abject bereavement. She was well known in many business and social circles.

Mrs. Smith was born in Clebourne, Texas, but lived in Austin, the capital of Texas, for many years. While residing in Austin, her winning personality won her many friends. Upon her departure from this city for Los Angeles, she took with her a remembrance of many fond farewells.

She was a resident of Los Angeles for 41 years, prominent in the church life of this community. Mrs. Smith was deaconess for many years at the People's Independent Church of Christ and her passing leaves her fellow church members in much sorrow.

Mrs. Smith was well known to all of the undertakers and funeral establishments. She was connected with the Angelus Funeral Home for many years. She was at one time manager of the Angelus, and at the time of her passing, she was assistant mananger and lady attendant. She was widely known as the "mother of undertakers."

Together with her husband, Grant Smith, who passed some years ago, Mrs. Smith pioneered in establishing Negro funeral service in Los Angeles. Her husband, Grant Smith, was one of the founders of Smith and Williams Mortuary, one of the oldest undertaking establishments in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Smith, was a well-known member of the Eastern Star and of the Household of Ruth. People in every walk of life knew Mrs. Smith and loved her. Her passing leaves most of this community in mourning.

She had been very ill for the past three weeks and she leaves Mrs. Marie Burns, her sister, who is her closest relative. It is believed that there are no other living relatives of Mrs. Smith.

Funeral services were held at the People's Independent Church of Christ on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Clayton D. Russell presided. Intrment was at the beautiful Rosedale cemetery. The entire proceedings were conducted by the Angelus Funeral Home.

The California EAGLE extends its sympathy and condolences to the staff of Angelus Funeral Home for the loss of such an ardent worker, illustrious member and kind friend. We also extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Marie Burns, sister and companion of Mrs. Smith.

Local Debaters Travel

The debating team of the Speech Arts club journeyed to San Bernardino, Sunday, Sept. 27, to debate the subject, "Resolved: That the American Negro Needs Total Equality Rather Than Territorial Self-government." The debate was held at the New Hope Baptist church, of which Rev. O. V. Hall is pastor.

In the party, escorted by R. C. Jackson, sponsor, were Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Satchell, Leona Yates, Annie Calomee, Dovie Williams, Louise Coston, Eugene Kinge, and Arthur Bradford.

The team will return to that city for an engagement at a Presbyterian church next month.

Pasadena Church Has Anniversary

The Community Baptist church of Pasadena will begin its 4th anniversary celebration for the pastor and church Sudap at which speak. The church is under the leadership of Rev. J. W. Coleman, formerly of Chicago, Ill., where he had been active in the pastorate for 18 years prior to his coming to this city four years ago to found the Community Baptist church.

Part of the pre-ship launching activities was the giant rally at the Second Baptist churcr, at which the above scenes were taken. Christening of a Liberty ship after the great Negro educator, Booker T. Washington Tuesday attracted celebrities from all parts of the country. A real success was the Sunday program pictured above preparing the town for Tuesday's big event.

The top photo shows Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune speaking to the throng assembled. Middle photo is of the members of the ship-launching committee and sponsors following the rally, and the bottom photo shows Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ross, originators of the idea, Mr. J. H. Wadsworth, IndustrialRelations manager of the California Ship Building Company, which built the ship,and Mr. William J. Thimpkins, Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, rep-resentative of President Roosevelt at the launching.

Women Needed in Industry, Rev. Russell Declares

By Rev. Clayton D. Russell

Many of the women who are now going into industry have never worked before and if they did the majority of them were engaged in that form of work which was open to them, namely, domestic work. They experienced a paternal relationship with their employers; theirs was a loose discipline; they were often as members of the family. In industry, the boss will never be seen. It will be a man in New York who will write the order for your dismissal; it will be a man in Washington who will determine to a large extent how and when you will work. This will be a new relationship and Negro women who face is.—many of them will have difficulty.

Then, again, there will be the new problem of doing things with people. This will be a new thing, what one might call a job or industrial dependency. Your work will depend on some one else and some one else will depend on you and this dependency wil draw together large unmbers of people. Negro women will have to adjust to this new dependency and responsibility.

I have no doubt as to the ability of Negro women to adjust to these new situations. Their whole history has been one of adjustment, but I raise these problems to show that the role of Negro women in this new field will not be an easy one and that there may be many who will fall by the wayside, both because of new adjustments that will be difficult to make and secondly because of racial discrimination that will be present in industry.

There will be many things of a racial nature that Negro women actually experienced. This will call for great broadness on the part of our women.

There is a way to beat racial discrimination. It cannot be broken down by individual effort. Racial discrimination can only be broken down by gradual every day organized action. In industry, the best weapon against racial discrimination, just as it is the best weapon against all things undemocratic in a workers life, is the trade union. Negro women must get into the new trade unions that will be formed of women workers. They must take an active part, must attend meetings, must take the floor and must act for the greatest good of all. One thing they must remember, that the greatest good for all is tied up with the fight against racial discrimination. We can not win this war with racial discrimination. Hence, Negro women in fighting discrimination must use the trade unions and must at no time in the unions stop waging an incessant war against this unAmerican practice.

Where the CIO is organized, Negro women must join, where the AFL is organized, Negro women must join. They must demand the right to join side by side with their white sister. And despite the fact that there may be barriers within the union, they must still attempt to join, for they can better fight the evil in been the trade union movement the union than out of it.

We must realize that it has done most to fight discrimination in industry. All over the country, CIO anti-discrimination committees have been active; white workers have left jobs because of discrimination against Negroes and have refused to return to work until these social injustices have been corrected. The results of labor's fight against discrimination have been shown in our lives and the position which we hold in national afairs today as a people, both economically and politically.

Then to the mass of Negro women wro have not thought of going into industry, who have thought that to be a welder was un-ladylike, was not dignified. Today is the day of the industrial worker, the strength and the freedom of any people in America will depend on the amount of integration of that people in industry and the labor movement. Get into industry, there is a war to be won and much depends on you. If you are unwilling to attempt to enter industry, you may wake up one morning and find that the government will demand that you work in industry. If you do not have a skill, you will be in an unskilled position or relegated to domestic work. But if you have a skilled position, you will be able to get a higher graded position. Now is the time to get the training and the training is free.

A birth certificate is not necessary for training. Every Negro woman, married and un-married, who is working in a non-defense industry, should sign up for National Defense Training at the United States Employment Service.

While they are securing training, they can worry about birth certificate. Now when the door is open, we should pour in and once in we should move with the labor movement so that when the war is over, we will not be the first to be fired.

Industry is calling for people, the barriers are down and we have the responsibilty of seeing that our boys are supplied with the guns and the tanks that are needed to preserve this country and what it will be in the future depends on us and our women in industry, the more Negro women in industry, the better social and economic life our people will have.

men of Munich. The peoples of all these nations are consciously fighting for a world that will be a better one. They will never permit a repetition of Versailles. First, the people won't allow such desecration of their blood and tears; and second, the quality of leadership the world over is entirely different—in China, Russia, England, America, India —and she will be a free full ally before the conflict is done.

Now, is this a war for the Bourbon South?? Is this a war for fascist America?—which owns the Bourbon South. No. No. NO!

This war must not be won! For a people's victory means the century of the common man—and THAT must be avoided at all costs.

So fascist America orders the Bourbon South to obstruct every progressive, win-the-war measure. Dixon assaults executive order 8802. Talmadge campaigns on the divisionist issue of white supremacy, the second front agreements are subjected to a brutal sabotage by the fascist press. It is all-out war. The fascists abroad have their assignment. They must storm Stalingrad. They must starve and degrade the who'e continent of Furope.

The fascists at home have their assignment. They must divide the people. They must raise false issues to guide the people war's rigid necessities—Talmadge with white supremacy. Warren with an expose of the poor houses. They must keep the people fooled that this is just another war.

But for Negro eople, what is the great triumph and challenge of the hour? It is this:

FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE 1876, THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION OF THE UNITED STATES IS SOLIDLY ARRAYED AGAINST THE REACTIONARY SOUTH!

The gentleman's agreement is dead!

This is why a Negro seriously proposes to run for Congress from a district in Mississippi on the strength of ballot rights given Negro soldiers by the Ramsey Soldiers Vote Bill, which passed last week over the desperate objections of the Solid South.

This is why the anti-poll tax measure will be enacted into law.

It is my firm conviction that the changes taking place in the South are fundamental, that they are basic, that they are in no sense token actions. I believe that change is coming as much from within the South as from outside and I call your attention to the overwhelming defeat of race-baiter Eugene Talmadge at Georgia polls.

There devolves upon the Negro people a tremendous responsibility. They are joined with the great progresssive forces of the world and of the nation. We are an ally of the win-the-war Administration. We are an ally of the Labor movement.. We are an ally of the anti-fascist middle class. We are the deadly enemy of the defeatists, the appeasers, the obstructionists, the Negro haters, the anti-second front chorus, thefascists and the monopolists.

With these allies, we will gain our struggle for full democracy in America. No lesser objective is commensurate with our manhood. To the struggle we must give every support to each progressive win-the-war policy. We must urge immediate establishment of the second front and know that this hits the fascists at home and abroad in their weakest spot. We must see to it that the anti-poll tax bill becomes law. We must crystalize our universal sympathy for the Indian people into a politically effective demand for their freedom tojoin us in the anti-fascist fight. We must agitate incessantly for the extension of democracy to native Africa. We must smash all false leaders who would use our greivances as a means of dividing us from the general anti-fascist fight.

There is a big job ahead. Victory will be ours as the result of a positive, offensive struggle!

BEAUTIFUL LADIES of the Southern Belle Social club pose prettily above. Officers are Agnes Marshall, president; Lu Edna Dodson, vice-president; Anna M. Jackson, secretary; Georgetta Allen, assistant secretary; Leora Ecles, treasurer; LuLu Wilson, business manager; Margaret Epperson, reporter.

The girls opened the fall season with their first annual dance Saturday, Sept. 26, at the beautiful Elks ballroom. Better than 800 guests expressed themselves as having had the most enjoyable evening in years. Exactly at midnight, the Southern Belles were introduced in a very unique manner, as each member appeared, her name was flashed as moon beam on the ceiling. The member, dressed in a lovely white dress appeared from a red rose with a setting of two white columns. The president wore a lovely gold net and taffeta dress with gold accessories.. Mrs. Georgetta Allen, who is spending a few monnths in Arizona, motored up yith her husband for the presentation.

The decorations and the whole affair was planned by Ralphe Porter, and music was by the California Rythm Rascals.

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

Well, readers, I'm back again. No, I didn't take a vacation last week, and I know how important the Black and White Formal was. Sorry I didn't have the full story in last week's edition, but prevailing circumstances made it impossible. However, a quick glance over the Dawn Dance for the benefit of the Kappas in the armed forces, Kappas not in the forces, locals out of the city, and you, you and you, a full account follows:

(Delayed). From twilight 'til dawn, the Kappa Alpha Psi Black and White formal was definitely on, as scheduled. Everybody was there, dressed ultra, and having a solid time. The Kappas began their frolicking Saturday night, out Hollywood way. The affair was given in the form of a cocktail party, and I hear the "Kappa milk" flowed like water. In fact, the milk flowed all evening. The different cocktail lounges and others were crowded to the brim with the sophisticates for a night. The many before-parties put the Kappas and their guests in a very hilarious mood, therefore, the usual cold formal atmosphere witnessed at the past black and whites was dropped entirely, and the whole dance was a very, very gay gathering.

The debs were at their best, dressed in every creation imaginable. Bare mid-driffs, backless, etc. Black was the predominating color this year. Blanche Groggs was outstanding in her copy from Harpers. Black lace gloves and headdress falling in line. Phyllis Hoxie and Erma Gilmore were in black and looking fine. Gloria Jones and Bill Smith made a smart couple; Gloria in black and white formal, Bill in tails. Betty Yarbrough and John Alston together again. John's back in LA to stay.

Speaking of fine looking couples, Alma Peake and John Laymen (who's leaving for the army) were looking most fine. Bill Terry and Wenfired Allen were there; so was Wesleen Foster and Booker Stevens. Wesleen was on time, in white, with ostrich plume trim. Virgie Donnelly wore white lace, and looked divine; Norma Lee McDaniel, escorted by Bill Winchester, chose black lcae. Edna Robinson and Frank Dupas were together, Edna looking fine in black velvet with white lace trim. Clyde Townes was escorted by her fiance, Coleman Baines. By the way, Celestus King jr. and his wife were there. Mrs. King quite the young matron in white. Joe Johnson was twoing it with Catherine Dow. Neal Collins, Tommy Clarke, and Billy Benfield made a susave trio in their formal attire. Orchids took their stand as the number one flower of the dawn; the white gardenia was second this year.

Local debs and gents who have been away journeyed homeward to make this affair. Frank Dupas, "Kool Kappa Kid" Lorenzo Morris, Helen Jane Ford, Al Collier, and Eddy Harris were among the home comers.

SMOOTH MUSIC

The music, played by the California Rhythm Rascals, was strictly on. George Brown's orchestra usually plays at the Kappa affairs, but the Rhythm Rascals took his place this year and played up to George Brown's par, and some of the dancers believe they were much better. The smooth waltz numbers were well accepted, as were the La Conga and the Kappa Spirit circle formed by the frat brothers.

Around 5:15 Sunday morning, the Kappa Black and White was over. Couple after couple poured out of the Elks commenting on how the formal jumped. At the close of the danc, Kappa pledgeman Sam Armstrong opened the doors of his home for the after-Kappa breakfast. Waffles coffee, and the usual menu was served. Pledges Austin Burchett and Lester Wagner were there, as their usual spirits, as were Johnnie and Laura Brewer, Lowell Stewart and Helen Jane Ford. Helen's sporting an engagement ring nowadays. The Kappas were feeling only too fine at this stop, and boisterously sang "Give Me That Old Kappa Spirit" for the benefit of the neighbors.

The after-breakfast given by Alphonsine Paltrone and Vivian Stayton was very well planned. A select group was invited. Six couples were in attendance, having a grand time. Cornelia Lumpkin and Fred Scott were there, making a perfect couple. The different breakfasts and after-hour affairs ended 'round 8 in the morning. All the tired frolickers made for home, talking about who had on what, and how "root" things were, and how the Kappas had done it again.

MR. AND MRS. TO YOU

Sunday evening at 5:30 sharp, Catherine Johnson and Wellington (Wimpy) Stanaslaus took their vows. Catherine was beautiful in white satin. Bridesmaids were dressed in aqua and pink net and satin dresses. The maid and matron of honor were dressed in pale blue. The setting for the ceremony was St. Patrick's Cathedral. Immediately following the wedding, the many guests journeyed to the reception held at the home of the bride's parents. While scanning the crowd, took note of young matrons Wyletta Harpole and Anna LaCale Price. Looking very fine. Louise Davis, Jeyne Brown, Cookie Cook, Margurite Lewis, Herold (Five By Five) Faulkner, Leonard Grimes, Dick Terry, Felix Williams, Lucille Gross and Herbie Boswell, Tamlin Harris, R. B. Porter, Willa Mae Beazartt, Doris Colley, and a host of others. Following the reception, the bride and groom, along with the wedding party, made a few stops at the night spots.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanaslaus will be entertaining the bridal party and close friends at an open house party next Saturday night.

"Do you play?"

"Oh, not so well, but I'm a member of the club." That's latest deb talk nowadays, since Ruth Cosby, Benzell Graham, Ruth Gage, Erma Gilmore, Paulite DeJoi, Renna Clarke, and Jackie Booker combined forces to do some fancy bridge playing on Saturday afternoon. Some of the girls are old hands at the game, while others are slowly, but surely, catching as catch can. The meetings are held at the different homes, and the girls chat, eat, and make merry.

WELL, WELL, WELL!

Jane Criner enrolled at Compton J. C. and not UCLA, as planned. Dick Terry and Pauline Evans are also enrolled, and I hear the three are making a perfect triangle. Vivian Stevens is still twoing it with Rey Reynolds of the Crown City. Certain parties are wondering just how long it will last . . . Norma Lee McDaniel is living the life nowadays; she's employed in the personnel department of Lockheed Aircraft. Hear that Opal Sharps is back in town and looking as sharp as ever. Naomi Davis is back at Tuskegee Institute, and according to a recent letter, is having a ball. Speaking of back-to-schoolites, June Stevens is now gracing the Fisk campus. Flo Cornelius, Ann Anderson, Jessie Mae Milhouse, and Josephine Marshall won't be affiliated with the Ivy Leafs next semester—the lucky pledges are being made by the AKA sorority.

Alice DeCuir was on some solid time last week when UCLA alumnus Robert Van Meter flew into town by TWA, stayed on a 10-day furlough, and flew back again. Bob's a second lieutenant now, which makes Alice very proud. Betty Jean Waits, and Betty Mae Pratt spent a weekend at Malibu beach just taking life easy . . . Harry Davis has departed for New York City to begin training in the Coast Guard service. Hear that Joe Johnson will be leaving soon with the Merchant Marines. We wish him good luck, and a safe return . . . Francis and Vera Smith are back in town after a lengthy visit in West Virginia. 'Til next week.

MISS DOROTHY MONROE, who was married to Mr. John L. Wade, of Shreveport, La., at Yuma, Ariz., Aug. 16. Mrs. Wade is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Moore, 1666 E. 111th place, and a former member of the EAGLE staff.

Senior Hostesses Give Tea at Eastside USO

The Senior Hostess' Tea Thursday, Sept. 24, enjoyed a large representation of lodges, church groups, social clubs, fraternal auxiliaries, and representatives from other groups. Mrs. Earnestine Davidson, chairman of the senior hostesses, deserves a deal of credit for assembling such a fine group of women.

As the guests enjoyed Chinese tea in Oriental cups, rice cakes, ginger, petite fours, Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Nance, of the Biltmore USO explained their organizational set-up for hostesses. Miss Dorothy C. Guinn, motivating factor of the Eastside USO, gave the picture of the local set-up. Miss Vye Aldridge, Eastside director, presiding over the affair, then presented the members of the first YWCA-USO committee and their assistants.

Those presented were Mrs. Della McDonald, chairman; Mesdames Vertner L. Gordon, Julia Lee, Florence Carter, Julia Palmer, Ethel Atkinson, Cornelia A. Roberson, present canteen chairman; and Jessie Coles Grayson, chairman of the YWCA Board of Management.

The Junior Business Girls entertained Sunday, Sept. 27 in the center. Each member brought a pottery cup and saucer to add to canteen service.

IWO MUTUAL BENEFIT FRATERNITY GIVES FESTIVAL SUNDAY

The annual festival of the IWO Mutual Benefit fraternity will be in the form of a Win the War Rally Sunday, Oct. 4, at the Los Angeles Breakfast club, 3201 Los Feliz boulevard.

There will be a picnic, bazaar, concert, dancing, and movies. Clarence Muse, chairman, will introduce Lt. Gov. Ellis Patterson. The affair will begin at 12 noon and continue until midnight. Admission is 39 cents.

Nuail Bias, 5426 Compton avenue, left Sunday for an extended visit to the Southland. En route he will stop over in St. Louis, Mo., for the opening of the world's series before visiting relatives in Little Rock and McGeehee, Ark.; Oak Ridge, Monroe and New Orleans, La.

S. P. and U. P. Dining Car Employees Will Dance at Elk's Ballroom Oct. 8

Dispensing the hospitality for which the railroad workers' social affairs are justly famed, will be a special host committee at the 7th Annual Joint Dance and Frolic sponsored by the Union and Southern Pacific Dining Car Employees. The affair will be held Thursday, Oct. 8, at the beautiful Elk's ballroom, 4016 S. Central avenue, from 9 p. m. until 2 a. m.

At the bar in the spacious patio adjoining the Elk's ballroom, Leroy Bird, chairman of the entertainment committee, together with Woodley "Scoop" Lewis, William "Litlte" Bailey, Lee Toran, Frank G. Allen, William Wintersmith, Andrew J. Smith, Chas. "Buck" Weaver, Stewart Bryant, Wyman H. Burney, Lawrence Cloyd, Wm. Lawson, Harry E. Barnett and William "Pee Wee" Bentley of Local No. 465; and James H. Anderson, chairman, ways and means committee, Local No. 582; J. C. Talmon, Monty Humphrey, Chas. Johnson, R. Hunt, B. Stephens, Syntel Vaughn, Ennis Stamps, S. Phillips and J. Boutte of 582, will be on hand to greet guests and to assure them prompt and courteous service. All types of liquid refreshments at popular prices will be served under the expert direction of these genial hosts.

Sammy Franklin and his California Rhythm Rascals, whose original dance arrangements have won them an enviable reputation as one of the coast's outstanding orchestras, will provide the music for your dancing pleasure.

Admission is at the popular price of 65 cents, and tickets may be secured at the Local headquarters, 4006½ So. Central avenue, or by calling CE-22511, or AD-24577. Introduction of club and organization representatives will be made during intermission.

Catherine Johnson, Wellington Stanaslaus Take Vows

In a ceremony Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock at the historic Saint Patrick's cathedral, two prominent members of the younger set became Mr. and Mrs. when Catherine Johnson and Wellington Stanaslaus took their vows.

Gowned in a bridal dress of white satin with French lace trim accented with flowing veil, the bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father.

She had as her maid of honor, Miss Vergie Donnelly, dressed in ice blue net and satin gown. Mrs. Amelia Dows was matron of honor, in blue gown with flower-accentuated lines.

Her bride's maids were Miss Nancy Pitts, Jane Criner, Jessie Mae Brown, and Jacquelyn Banks. The maids' dresses were of aqua blue and shell pink. Matching veils were worn with flower headdress. The hair stylings, done by Madame Ruby Rice, were identical, carrying out the popular pompadour effect. Marion De Man was flower girl, dressed in pink, while Richard Banks, in black and white satin suit, served as ring bearer.

Best man was Rene Hewlett. Ushers were Laurance Johnson, John Lea Johnson, Charles Stanaslaus, and Alfrdeo Dows, garbed in full dress, with lily of the valley boutonnieres. Father George officiated.

After a large reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple and their wedding party made a few stops at the top-notch night spots. The bride's gift to her maids was a strand of pearls with matching heart-shaped earrings.

Benj. J. Bowie Auxiliary Glee Club in Spotlight

President Christine Cloyd and members of Benjamin J. Bowie Auxiliary No. 228, American Legion, are looking forward to a very enjoyable evening at its next regular meeting, Friday, Oct. 2, at 8 p. m., when the glee club, under the leadership and direction of Mrs. Fay F. Beal, will be guest of honor.

History again has been made by this very efficient group of singers. The glee clubs of the Department of California held their annual contest at the Biltmore hotel during their recent convention. The Benjamin J. Bowie glee club took first honors in class B competition. In class A trio and quartet contest they were first winners, and in class B they also took first place awards. Next year we are expecting a sweepstake; it's up to you, girls.

Lilac Girls Hold Club Meeting

The Lilac Girls met at the lovely home of Mrs. Hazel Junkins Bruce. After a short business meeting, including roll call, the evening was turned over to the hostess, who served a lovely repast.

Three changes of bridge were played. The first prize was won by Miss Velda Peden; second by Mrs. Anna Washington; and third, Mrs. Myrtle Robinson.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Sarah Cage. Alice Cotton is reporter.

Club Ideal Members Fete Hubbies, Sweeties

The Club Ideal met Wednesday night, Sept. 23, at the home of Margaret White, 820 E. 47th street, where they discussed plans for their social which is to be given next week.

During the usual game of bridge, in which first, second, and consolation prizes were won by Lillian Pitts, Juanita Majors, and Lessie Madison, respectively, a delciious repast was served.

The members adjourned to meet next Wednesday, Sept. 30, at the home of Eva Lee Buckner where the members will entertain their husbands and sweethearts.

Gloria Ford, Barbara Lambert Entertained

Misses Gloria Ford and Barbara Lambert were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. Brown at their lovely home on 19th street in Santa Monica last week. On Tuesday night a very lovely party was given for them and for Barney King, who leaves Tuesday for the Navy.

Among those present at the party were Alfred Quinn, Joe Duncan, Joe Warren, Bobby Harris, Mickey King, James Jones, Bob Scott, Nathan Jones, and the Misses Marie Morgan, Roberta Rhodes, Corrine Rhodes, June Carson, Melrose Carson, Paulette Coleman, Eddie Lee Alexander, Dorothy Price, Barbara Lambert, and Gloria Ford.

Mrs. Emma Maloney Is Luncheon Hostess

Mrs. Emma Maloney was hostess to a bridge luncheon Friday at her home in W. 35th place in honor of her niece, Mrs. May Buckner of Topeka, Kansas. Prizes were won by Mesdames Angiehelle Nicholas, Louise Kenner, and R. Simms. A box of handkerchiefs was presented to the honoree.

Business and Pro Girls Hostesses to Soldiers

The Business and Professional Girls club, under the leadership of their very efficient president, Mildred Hampton, acted as hostesses to about 30 soldiers from the National Schools, Sunday, Sept. 27, at the USO House, 28th and Paloma.

In connection with a "cup and saucer shower," in which each member gave a cup and saucer and presented the house a beautiful set of pottery, the girls held a short business session, after which dancing became the chief diversion of the evening, and the guests and members enjoyed refreshing punch and cake.

After a delightful evening, the girls adjourned to meet Oct. 11 at the YWCA, corner of 43rd and Woodlawn. Girls in the business and professional world are invited to join if they are interested. Blanche Groggs is the reporter.

The federation wishes to thank donors of trophies and the general public for its wonderful cooperation in this, our 21st Pacific Coast championships. The federation wishes to thank especially the general chairman of the tournament committee, Lloyd Thomas, for this splendid work.

Members of the Ship Launching Committee responsible for the mammoth affair on Tuesday at the Califonia Shipyards where the first major vessel in U. S. marine history was named after a Negro, BOOKER T. WASHINGTON. Above, the committee has just bid bon voyage to Miss Marian Anderson, who came west to christen the ship.

SEEN AT the office of the California EAGLE is Mrs. Gertrude Muldrow, who has recently been appointed chairman of a committee to solicit funds for school desks for one of the rooms of the Los Angeles Junior academy. The Los Angeles Junior academy is a Seventh Day Adventist school, maintained to provide a Christian education for the children and youth of this locality. Although founded for the education of Seventh Day Adventist children, students of all religions are welcomed. Because the tuition charged the students is very low, the support of the public is necessary to provide adequate equipment for the school. Mrs. Muldrow is enlisting such support from the community for the purchase of the much needed school desks. Those wishing to make donations may contact Mrs. Muldrow at the academy, 1194 E. 35th street; at her home, 1819 W. 36th place, or by telephoning PA-6990.

Dr. Somerville Is High Sierra Club Hostess

Dr. Vada Somerville entertained the High Sierra club Saturday with a bridge luncheon. Club prizes were won by Dr. Alice Garrott and Mrs. Louise Kenner. Guest prizes went to Mrs. Homer Brothers and Mrs. Mamie Jackson. Out of town guests were Mesdames Panky and King of Oakland.

Mrs. Nelson E. Lang Gives Birthday Party

Mrs. Nelson E. Lang entertained Mrs. E. C. Hammond, Friday evening, Sept. 27, with a birthday party in her lovely home. Mrs. Hammond received several lovely gifts. Among them was a $25 war bond—a gift from her husband, E. C. Hammond.

Vogue Art Club Plans Mid-season Cocktail Party

The Vogue Art club held its past two meetings at the homes of Theodosia Washington and Zeresh Beaman, respectively.

Arthonia Taylor and Leola Landry were guests and were very interested in the art work needlepoint wall pictures, photothe members are doing, such as graph albums, and scrap books with decorated copper covers, raffia coverings on bottles and glasses, knitting, and one member is even learning the art of darning socks, which is a very timely hint and is no easy job, but in these times of wool shortage and high cost of living, a necessary art.

The Vogue Art club has completed plans for a mid-season cocktail party to be held Saturday, Oct. 10, 10 to 2 a. m., at 4356 So. Hooper avenue. This promises to be a gala affair, it is hoped that all our supporters will remember the date and be there. Elsie Rakestraw is president; Sara Wallace, secretary.

MRS. HARDIMAN, DR. McPHERSON TAKE MDPA OFFICES

The Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical association held a joint semi-formal installation of officers with the medical auxiliary Wednesday evening at "The Anchor," 1544 W. 35th street, at which time Mrs. Georgia Hardiman and Dr. Henry McPherson became heads of the body.

Out of town guests were Dr. and Mrs. W. Tinkard of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Florence Cole McCleave of Memphis, Tenn.

Corsages and buttonieres were presented to the new and retiring presidents, Dr. E. I. Robinson and Mrs. Florence Robinson, by Mrs. Rosetta Cooper, chairman of the entertainment committee. Following the presentation, 50 members present enjoyed refreshments.

ity Joins in edication f Trinity

Beginning Sunday with special rmons by the pastor, Dr. J. L. ston, Trinity Baptist church ll be host to thousands of urchgoers, religious leaders and ic leaders in a historic dedi tion ceremony which will cul inate Oct. 14 at their new urch, 3500 So. Normandie ave e.

The church, one of Los Ange s' most progressive, has been its new location since the first September, and great crowds ve been present at each ser ce. Additions to the member ip have been noteworthy and e increase in activities has been tle short of miraculous, accord g to the officers of the church. he dedication services have been anned for each night during the riod set, and outstanding min ters with their congregations d the leaders of the city's num ous civic movements will par ipate.

The following partial list of rticipants in the 12 services as given this week:

Monday night, Oct. 5, the eighborhood churches, Bethel ME and Westminster, with he Women's Missionary socie y as host; Tuesday, Oct. 6, Wesley and Hamilton Method st churches, the senior choir, ost; Wednesday, Oct. 7, Zion Hill and Macedonia Baptist churches, the deaconesses, host; Thursday, Oct. 8, Second and Pleasant Hill Baptist churches, the ushers, host; Friday, Oct. 9, Friendship, Pasadena, and New Hope Baptist churches, the Celestial choristers, host; Sunday morning, Oct. 11, the Los Angeles Baptist City Mission society; Sunday afternoon, the Baptist Minister's union; Sunday night, a choir festival featuring the three choirs of the church and other singing units; Monday, Oct. 12, Bethel Church of Christ (Holiness), the deacons, host; Tuesday, Oct. 13, the Neighborhood church and Mt. Zion Baptist, the Women's Ensemble, host; and Wednesday, Oct. 14, the Western Baptist State convention, the King's Army, host.

The services will begin at 8 o'clock each evening, after which there will be a tour of the buildings culminating in the J. L. Caston chapel in the educational building where a five-minute program will be rendered and refreshments served.

Among the ministers who have promised to preach are Rev. J. C. White, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, Rev. Grant Harris, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, Dr. W. D. Carter, Dr. Ralph Mayberry, Rev. F. L. Taylor, Bishop W. A. Washington, Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, and Rev. Chas. Hampton.

The church will give souvenir postcards of the buildings to all who participate in the offerings. Special announcement of the civic leaders who will participate in the Sunday morning service will be made in next week's California EAGLE.

Bishop Phillips at Phillips Temple CME Sunday

BISHOP CHAS. H. PHILLIPS
REV. L. C. CLEAVES

Bishop Charles H. Phillips, senior bishop of the CME church, resident of Cleveland, Ohio, will preach Sunday morning at Phillips Temple CME church, E. 43rd and Wadsworth streets.

His subject will be, "The Question of Brotherhood and the Social Equality Idea." He will consecrate and administer the Holy Communion to all communicants. Bishop Phillips, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Ella C. Phillips, arrived early this week.

Last May, Bishop Phillips celebrated the 40th anniversary of his elevation to the Episcopacy. He is the oldest active bishop in any Methodist body and a member of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches in America.

Rev. G. L. Hays, presiding elder of the Los Angeles district, will preach at the evening service.

This occasion marks not only the closing of the conference year but the fourth quarterly conference. Both the senior and gospel choirs will sing at all services.

On Monday evening, the business session of the conference will be held and the church and its auxiliaries will render their yearly reports.

Tuesday, Oct. 6, Bishop Phillips and a Los Angeles delegation will leave for annual conference at Tucson, Ariz.

Last Sunday, the members of the church raised $1,817.62 in the final rally of the year. This sum enables the pastor, Rev. Lane C. Cleaves, and the officers to pay the debt on the parsonage and to further reduce the mortgage on the church to $5,500. Last Oct. 14, the conference year began and the debt on the church was $9,520.97, with $1,102.96 on the parsonage. Therefore, now the church has reduced its obligation to only $5,500. From all indications the church will report over $13,000 raised this conference period.

Great has been the work of the membership of Phillips Temple CME church. The leading club of the church is the Pastor's Aid club which reported last Sunday the sum of $512 cash from Aug. 10 to Sept. 27, with Stewardess Board No. 2 next, having raised $407.65. Pastor Cleaves is indeed happy over the fine results attained this year.

CHURCH

Beautiful stucco church, corner of 47th place and San Pedro. 6-room parsonage, double garage, reception hall, and several extra rooms suitable for church clubs, class rooms, etc.

NBC Highlights to Be Reviewed

Mrs. Marguerett Moore, formerly of Chicago, Ill., and now a member of the Second Baptist Mission Circle, will give the highlights of the National Baptist convention, held recently at Memphis, Tenn., Sunday at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith, from 4 until 6 p. m. The address will be of interest to both young and old.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. A verse selected from Lamentations constitutes the Golden Text: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation."

The Lesson-Sermon relates an incident in Paul's experience. On the first day of the week the disciples came together to break bread "Paul," says the account in Acts, "preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight." Eutychus, seated in a window, was overcome with sleep and "fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him said, Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him. . . . And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted."

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "The fact that the Christ, or Truth, overcame and still overcomes death proves the 'king of terrors' to be but a mortal belief, or error, which Truth destroys with the spiritual evidences of Life; and this shows that what appears to the senses to be death is but a mortal illusion for to the real man and the real universe there is no death-process. "Matter and death are mortal illusions. Spirit and all things spiritual are the real and eternal."

Rev. Charles M. Toney, Field Secretary of the Los Angeles District of the Western Baptist Association, is in charge of the Community Baptist church at Landon, California, during the absence of the pastor, Rev. Bentley. Rev. Bentley attended the National Baptist Convention, which convened in Nashville, and will return later.

--Sept. 20th, Rev. Toney delivered both the morning and evening sermons. Services were well attended by both white and colored from Los Angeles. (belated news).

--Sept. 27, 11:00 a. m.—His subject, "Gifts Given to Men"-Eph. 4;5. Sunday school was well attended. B. Y. P. U. was above par —largest attendance of the season. Eight p. m.—subject, "Seeing Jesus Christ as You Work." 1st Cor. 3-11-

--Throughout Rev. Toney's remarks, he stressed the need of prayer, saying "PRAYER CHANGES THINGS."

ACCURACY

Many people keep no record of their personal property and belongings, or keep any practical account of the various transactions which they make in the nature of business.

You may think your affairs do not amount to enough, or that you can remember all your transactions. But when they are written down in black and white, you then have a definite record to depend upon.

Too much importance cannot be attached to keeping an accurate record of one's personal affairs and obligations. Did you ever stop to consider whether you are advancing, remaining stationary, or going backward? A few simple accounts or records would serve to keep you enlightened in this regard.

Habits of method and accuracy, with their moral and restraining influences occupy an important position in the foundation whereon character and success are erected.

C. G.—Dear Prof. Herman: I want to tell you that I am more than pleased with the benefits I have received from the use of your products. I thank you kindly and appreciate the interest you have ever manifested in my case and feel that it is due to your remedies that now I really feel like living! Good luck to you and your good work.

Mrs. M. J.—I am very anxious to have children, but so far haven't been successful. What do you suggest?

Ans.: It would be wise to consult a good specialist, and then follow his instructions carefully. I am sure he can give you some interesting information if you do so.

E. B.—Why doesn't my husband act as he should?

Ans.: Probing into the matter I find that your husband fails to exercise some of his marital duty, that of taking you out seems to be the main trouble. He seems to have formed a habit of associating with men and the places that he goes women don't usually frequent. If you talk to him about this matter, and suggest places that you both can enjoy yourself, I am sure he will be having accepted their offer.

E. H.—Will I marry my baby's father?

Ans.: Your lucky stars and guiding planets indicate a marriage in the very near future. And it will probably be the child's father. As he thinks a great deal of you and wishes to make up for some of the heartaches you have had to bear.

F. F.—Thanks for this most accurate astrological forecast I have ever had. Am perfectly satisfied. The forecast gave me the courage to carry out a plan that I had feared to undertake and now am beginning to reap the benefits since the work is completed, and possibly more appreciated after the long wait.

V. J. S.—Quite recently I met a young man whom I found very interesting. I would like to know if he was sincere in his friendship?

Ans.: It appears to me that he is as attracted to you as you are to him. I would be glad to help you make this friendship a lasting one, if you will write in for a private reply.

E. W.—What does the term "fortifications" have reference to in 1937-'39?

Ans.: The World War, which demonstrated that huge masonry fortresses were incapable of resisting modern siege guns, caused a radical revision in fortifications. The system of fortifications, the Maginot Line, along the German border, built by France after the World War, and the German Siegfried Line, constructed in 1937-39, consist of intricate networks of trenches, machine-gun nests and artillery emplacements, most of them built underground of steel and concrete. They are gas-proof, and ventilation systems provide for purified air. Construction provides for housing of a complete equipped modern army, including air force hangars.

J. B.—Of the two propositions which should I accept?

Ans.: A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that you have two offers and are undecided as to which to accept. There should be no doubt in your mind, since you are a race man. I am sure you will not regret having accepted their offer.

1. Fortified by a warm, appetising meal, these two children will return to their afternoon classes mentally alert and able to respond to the teaching provided for them. The school lunch which they are so obviously enjoying was made possible at a cost of a few cents a day by using American-grown farm products provided gratis by the Agricultural Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture.

First AMEZ Choir Slates Musart

As its annual concert de luxe, the senior choir of the First AME Zion church, at Pico and Paloma streets, will present the novel and original production, entitled "A Garden Musart," next Thursday night, Oct. 8.

Promptly at 8.15 o'clock, the first musical strains leading into the labyrinth of melody and drama, against a setting of verdant floral splendor, will be heard. Due to the increasing popularity of this annual concert de luxe, a record crowd is anticipated.

"A Garden Musart" is an original creation of the director, Mrs. Jean Willa Holmes, whose ability in this field is generally recognized. There is, indeed, much speculation as to whether it can attain the artistic beauty of "Love Tales of Autumn," last year's presentation. Mrs. Holmes is confident it will do all of that, even under the trying conditions now obtaining.

Assisting the large chorus and the fine dramatic group of young people, will be Mrs. Diete Gross, professional whistler; Mrs. Minnie Albritton-Hampton, soprano, and well known conductor; Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, versatile artist, choral conductor and radio favorite; J. B. Jones, popular bass soloist.

The piano accompanist will be none other than the young virtuoso, Miss Gloria Roberts. Mrs. E. Roberts Saunders is the church organist. Rev. H. Philbert Lankford is pastor. Tickets are on sale at the popular price of 50 cents.

Mrs. ADELE B. ASHFORD very efficient secretary of the California EAGLE, has returned to the city after a trip throughout the Northern part of the state, where she visited a numbed of relatives and friends.

Lectures at Zion Temple

Charles H. Palmer, lecturer and teacher, is conducting classes in public speaking each Monday evening at 8 o'clock at Zion Temple Occult church, 1315 E. Vernon avenue. These classes are open to the public.

Pasadena a remarkable and far-reaching health and welfare work such as he did in Chicago. That Dr. George Thomason of the California State Board rad worked for the health and welfare of humanity yith an unselfishnes which assures a rich reward.

All of these tthings about the committee I knew. But I did not dream that even this talented group could put on a banquet as perfect, as wonderful as that of last week. I did not know that any group could maneuved an afair of such proportions with magic like cleverness, enough to send reservation cards on Tuesday and have all reservations taken and a waiting list by Friday evening.

The entire affair moved me to mp very depths. The great gathering of the best and finest of our city—the real workers, the deep thinkers. The peauty of the flowers of the ladies on our committee and of the guests. The originality and inspiration of the program. All of this had me literally spell bound, and I was almost bursting for sheer joy. But I hting it was the plaque which overcame me completely. After I saw it I could think of nothing else but the wonder of it all, of the sentiment, of the beauty, of the art of the plaque. I was so brim full of surprise and delight at the love shown that words which said what I wanted to express just would not come.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

Downtown shoppers, and especially those who stop in at the Wasco Malt Shop at 555 No. Main street, are due for a pleasant surprise. The Negro people of Los Angeles have long been wondering why there are no colored waitresses in the places they patronize. Some even say whn they are in the places, "I don't see don't work here.'"

Well, it seems that Mr. John Carter asked himself that very question and proceeded to find an answer. Mr. Carter immediately launched a logical program to get colored waitresses in downtown eating places.

With the aid of a committee, Carter has been successful in placing 15 colored waitresses in the Wasco malt shop referred to. The entire store is manned by colored help. The cooks are colored, the waitresses are colored and the manager is colored. The only downtown malt shop with an entire Negro force.

Carter has also been successful in placing two colored waitresses in the Woolworth store on Main Street. He says that the Wasco management is considering the placement of colored waitresses in other stores.

POLL TAXER TAXES

Senator George of Georgia has come out with what he thinks is a sure thing. A new 'Victory Tax.' Now, the honorable Senator, as de from being a poll-tax pole cat, is a member of that minority in Congress which has consistently refused to go along with the President and with the people of the United States in support of vital war measures. He is in all probability a bund, pardon boon buddy of that deflated windbag, Eugene Talmadge.

To procede in proper fashion, this new tax proposed by Senator George is 5 percent surtax on every income from $12 a week up. Now, the guy who earns $1160 per month has to pay the same amount in proportion to the guy who makes $50.0- The whole thing get REALLY pitiful when we consider the plight of our friend with just the twelve bucks per.

According to the President's seven point economic program, there is something in the Senator's hat arrangement that aint quite kosher.

Right in the middle of the chief executive's proposals there is a statement to the effect that victory demands an adequate and FAIR tax bill.

The amiable Senator from Ga. is trying to push the weight of taxes on the backs of those who are already carrying too much. This so-called Victory Tax is just plain and simple sales tax, after the juice is turned off. Which brings to mind a question. Who pays most of the sales tax now in existence? Not Senator George or the gang (Wall St.) he runs around with.

Such a tax is in direct opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's and the people's wishes. Since such a tax bill is a sales tax measure and is anti-administration, it should be fought with all the fervor of a Stalingrad stand.

Women, Men's Days Slated at Hamilton

Women's Day will be celebrated at Hamilton Methodist church, E. 18th street and Naomi avenue, Sunday, Oct. 11.

The women have prepared a great program and have selected Rev. Mrs. Annie Jones of Pasadena as their guest speaker. At 3:30 p. m., they are presenting several choirs of the city in a great musical.

Men's Day will be held the following Sunday, Oct. 18. The men, too, have prepared a very excellent program. They have selected the Rev. Charles Warren, pastor of Taylor Methodist church, Oakland, as their speaker. At 7:30 p. m., they will present a panel discussion from the subject, "The Negro in the Post-War World."

REV. CHARLES WARREN, young, dynamic pastor of Taylor Methodist church, Oakland, who will be the Men's Day speaker at Hamilton Methodist church, E. 18th and Naomi avenue, Sunday, Oct. 18, at 11 a. m.

Santa Monica Pastor Returns

Rev. W. P. Carter, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Santa Monica, just returned from an extended trip South.

While away, Rev. Carter visited Memphis where he attended the National Baptist convention; Little Rock, Ark., and many other points. Also many army camps were visited on the trip and he was pleased to see the splendid accomplishments of the boys from California.

Rev. Carter will occupy his pulpit Sunday and will dedicate an altar Bible given the church by the deaconess board, of which Mrs. Ruth Lind- is chairman.

Mrs. Carter was also in attendance at the national convention in Memphis from which point she went to Chicago to visit her sisters. She will return soon.

USS Public Relations Post Newspaperman Accepts

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Another unprecedented step was gained in the field of Negro journalism last week when J. Robert Smith, labor editor of the New York Amsterdam Star-News, accepted the position as assistant to the director of public relations in the newly formed International United Seamen's Service, 39 Broadway.

According to Carlos Ferrer, white, director of public relations, Smith's duties will not be confined to the Negro population but the public in general. "When he joins this staff, he will assist us in all branches of publicity and public relations," he told reporters. Smith assumed his new duties, Sept. 24.

The organization will provide relief, recreation and entertainment for members of the United States Merchant Marine. It will operate 10 centers in England and others in Murmansk and the Archangel regions of Russia. They will be in addition to centers maintained by the USS in all principal parts of the United States.

It is already operating the Kermit Roosevelt residence in Oyster Bay, L. I., and another center at 68 Fifth avenue, and it plans to have still another one in the old Dartmouth club on 37th street.

HAS FDR'S ENDORSEMENT

The USS has the endorsement of President Roosevelt. "In the newly organized United Seamen's Service the people of our country have an instrument through which we may discharge a small part of our debt to our merchant seamen . . . The USS is an undertaking deserving the fullest support of the American people. It commands the thoughtful consideration of all of us," he wrote the organization.

Smith, a former editor of one of the Afro-American newspapers, has been with the Star-News for a little over two year during which time he distinguished himself by his coverages of the Natchez, Miss. dance hall fire two years ago, and the Spell-Strubin rape case in Connecticut last year.

Whil on the Afro-American, he worked in Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Richmond, Va. Smith has made several trips around the country in the interest of building goodwill for the Star-News and was always assigned to cover the top stories.

Smith served as publicity director for the historic March-on-Washington Movement mass meeting at Madison Square Garden last June when 20,000 Negroes attended.

★ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A touching letter of appreciation for the banquet tendered her last week by a grateful community was received yesterday by the EAGLE from Dr. Ruth Temple. It is here reprinted:—

I thought that I knew all about the members of the committee o management—their specific talents and their civic abilities. I knew that Mrs. Fay Allen had made history for us on the Board of Education. That Mrs. C. A. Bass was one of California's most capable news editors and civic leaders. That Mr. George Beavers, jr., and Norman O. Houston had given a big hand to all progressive work within our community and with Mr. Nickerson had erected a monument to our State by building among a minority group of people, one of California's finest and strongest and most dependable insurance companies. That Mrs. Jessie Terry had pioneered and Mrs. Faustina Johnson had followed in the great and important job of lifting hundreds of our group up to healthful housing. That Josephine Brown was not only the "press agent" of the "Womanhood's Armour" but was also one of the best civic workers to be found anywhere. That Mr. John Hargrove was doing a noble job among our labor forces. That Floyd Covingnton had accomplished a tremendous amount in human relations for people of all groups. That Mayme Lou Payne had charmed thousands by the beauty of her voice. That Dr. Leonard Stovall had founded that noble organization, the Outdoor Life and Health Association, which has pioneered the community work in tnberculosis. That Elder O. A. Troy, the committee's out of town helper, was building in

FRED LEE CHAMBERS

Funeral services for Fred Lee Chambers, 50, who died suddenly on September 28, were held in our Ivory Chapel, with Rev. Mansfield Collins officiating. Mr. Chambers, a native of Memphis, Tenn., was a former resident of Chicago, and had lived in this city for four years. A World War No. 1 veteran, Mr. Chambers had been undergoing treatment at Sawtelle for some time. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Annie Mae Robinson, and two aunts, Mrs. B. Bowen and Mrs. Julia Russell, all of Memphis. Military rites and interment were at Sawtelle.

GEORGE WHITLEY

Last rites for George Whitley, 77, of 3656 Halldale, who died on September 24, were held in our Ivory Chapel Tuesday morning with Rev. Clayton Russell and Rev. Mansfield Collins in charge of the services. A native of Sedalia, Mo., Mr. Whitley was one of the 47 founders of People's Independent Church of Christ. He had resided in Los Angeles for 39 years and for many years was president of the Afro-American Council. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maggie Whitley; a sister, Mrs. Almeda Johnson, and many relatives in Missouri. Interment was at Lincoln Memorial cemetery.

JAMES LUTHER WASHINGTON

Funeral services for James Luther Washington, 59, rancher of Visalia for 30 years, will be held this morning (Thursday) at 10 a. m. from our Ivory Chapel. Mr. Washington, a native of Atchison, Kansas, had been ill for several months and had been staying with his daughter, Miss LeVaughn Washington, of 265 East 45th street. He died Sept. 28. Interment will be at Lincoln Memorial cemetery. There are no other relatives.

Now, Let's Really Fight

WE SAID IT COULD BE DONE! IT HAS BEEN DONE! THE ANTI-POLL TAX BILL IS ON THE FLOOR OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES!

BUT THE FIGHT HAS JUST BEGUN!

After two years of bitter struggle, the Geyer Anti-Poll Tax bill has been forced out of committee in the House of Representatives and out on the floor for a vote. The last signature of the 218 needed to blast the measure out of committee was secured on the 80th birthday of the Emancipation Proclamation, Septembed 22.

Still held in the Senate Judiciary Committee is the Pepper anti-poll tax bill, companion bill to the Geyer one. Full mobilization of the Negro people and all support the war forces will be needed to gain a House majority for the Geyer measure and to drive the Pepper bill out of the Senate Committee.

Valuable guide to Negro America in this effort comes from the pen of John Pittman, recent guest columnist of the superb Chicago Defender Victory Edition, and regular writer of the People's World:

"That a bitter struggle must be waged throughout the nation for passage of the anti-poll tax measures is indicated by the obstacles already overcome. . . . .

"At a time when the success of the war effort depends on the strengthening of national unity behind President Roosevelt's economic and military program, it is already clear that the poll taxers intend to threaten the Administration program. The attack on the anti-inflation measures of the President, the attempt to absolve corporations and wealthy individuals from taxation, to saddle the full financial cost of the war on working people, to freeze wages while allowing prices to soar—this attack is already being made by the poll tax spearhead of the American defeatist conspiracy.

It is not unreasonable to suppose that the poll taxers have already entered an alliance with the farm bloc representatives of the middle west, and with the Hoover wing of the Republican Party and the Farley wing of the Democratic Party. The power represented by such a coalition is enormous.

"Home Struggle Also Is War of Coalition"

"The nature of this danger determines the tactics required to defeat it. It is, as we have seen, an ALLIANCE upon which the poll taxers depend. They are fighting a war of COALITION, and they can be defeated only by a war of coalition.

"The tactics of coalition, both as to the concentration of [redacted] number of objectives [redacted] to victory. For Ne[redacted] pects are important [redacted] zation of the ma[redacted] in Alabama, the mass of [redacted] American, this requires that these alliances express [redacted] means at their disposal—letters, telegrams, petitions, delegations, to the homes of Congressmen, and of visiting Senators, resolutions by organizations of every variety, social, religious, fraternal, economic, political.

"In addition, however, the tactics of coalition require the support of Negro Americans for the entire win-the-war program of the Administration, as well as for the specific programs of their allies. It is not enough merely to muster trade union and liberal support behind the anti-poll tax bills. The Administration and progressive forces generally must be bolstered in their fight for the President's anti-inflation program. For it will not be possible to pass the anti-poll tax bills if the Hoover-Taft-Farley-poll-tax conspirators are emboldened by successes in their fight against the anti-inflation program. Thus, the Negroes fight for equality is inextricably linked with the nation's fight for victory in the war. A blow to one is a blow to both; an advance for one entails an advance for the other.

The Launching of the Booker T.

Significant and impressive were the ceremonies which surrounded the launching of the good ship Booker T. Washington at Wilmington Tuesday. Few ships have been christened with such speedy fanfare as the Booked T. (since production could not be halted at the shipyard). Few ships have borne the goodwill of a whole race—and a whole nation as does this one.

More important to morale of Negro even than guest appearance of Marian Anderson or Mary McLeod Bethune is the fact that a good number of the stout workingmen who converted the Booker into a sea going agent of victory were Negro workers. Of real importance, also, is the fact that the Booker T.'s first skipper is to be a Negro.

Another thing: the launching of the Booker T., with all its glamour and glory, would not have been possible had it not been for the honest patriotism and lively patriotism of one of the Negro shipyard workers, Pete Ross.

P. O. Workers Need Raise

A striking problem of war time economy is seen in the predicament of postal employees, who are among the nation's most grievously underpaid workers today. Not for seventeen years have the postal workers had a raise, yet the cos t of living in the last three years has shot up 15 percent and if President Roosevelt anti-inflation program is not saved from the tender mercies of our poll tax pole cats it will skyrocket even to a more alarming degree.

As conditions are in the local post office today there is an endless confusion of abuses. There is the case of perennial substitutes, who do the work of the regularly accredited permanent civil service appointees with none of the job security of that status and in the face of an apparenly endless delay in permanent appointment. There're other special categories of deserved complaint. Whether the fault in these cases lies with the local post office administration or whether the roots of the situation may be traced to Washington, we do not know. Of this, however, we are certain, a group of worthy public servants are confronted with conditions which cry out for improvement. Such unfortunate gaps in the efficiency of Uncle Sam's war economy are not glad symbols of victory—by a long shot.

Salute to The Defender

Publication of a 100 page Victory Edition by the Chicago Defender is to be hailed as one of the historic accomplishments of Negro jouralism. In this notable Defender issue, some of the fine, high tradition of Frederick Douglass is reflected—and heartily welcomed. The publication of the Victory number represents the first conscious effort of a major, nationally distributed Negro newspaper to interpret the meaning of the present to its readers minus the beef as usual tactics of most of our press. The Defender number, we thought, was a creditable swing over to the offensive—to launch an attack at the race's enemies with our most potent weapon—Negro-white unity behind the war effort. With such an approach we betray the true defeatist unAmerican aspects of the Negro-baiter, poll taxer and white supremacist. They are thus placed in opposition not only to the interests of Negro-America but to the whole of our great warring nation.

The make-up, the complete coverage of the Defender issue is something which reflects credit on every Negro newspaper in the land

The paper was not without its shortcomings, however Prominently displayed was an article by A. Phillip Randolph [redacted]ch followed his usual defeatist line to [redacted]T, although Randolph is becoming increasingly cagey in his lip-service support [redacted] the war. Key fallacy of the whole [redacted]ndolph argument is his frequent assert[redacted] that Negroes alone can solve their pro[redacted]ms, coupled with an alignment against the President. It is clear that the advancement of the Negro today must be linked—and properly— with the nation's whole war effort and that on this basis the full vigor of Labor, progressive and all other win-thewar forces may be involved. It is only the basis of such a broad mobilization of public opinion that Negroes' rights can be gained. Randolph's separatism, epitomized in his plan for a Jim-Crow march on Washington plays directly into the hands of our enemies. That the march is directed AGAINST Roosevelt, whose present position ranges him solidly with the Negro in a struggle to overcome the anti-war poll taxers is a political blunder of vast proportions and actually a libel against thegenuine anti-fascist spirit of the Negro people. Just as Randolph's libelous statement before thonsands of listeners to the effec that he had never 'seen a Negro enthusiastic about the war'—while standing directly over a picture of Dorie Miller— was a fudamental misinterpretation of the position of Negro people today, so is his whole march on the capital scheme. Negro rights must be won and won NOW as a part of winning the war. Mr. Randolph's attempt to divide the Ne-movement will only defeat its alleged purpose. As the hard common sense of our rank and file well recognizes, their rights will be gained as the result of a tremendous and united campaign of all Americans, the forces of Wendell Willkie, of President Roosevelt, of the Labor movement of the whole swelling chorus of an America at last aroused to the historic tasks of the moment.

GOTHAM FEATURE SYND CATE

—"Bootsie just won't work. Sayas he's plannin on taking a big job; so he's restin' up."

★ SPEECH OF THE WEEK
NEGRO RIGHTS NOW--MAX YERGAN

ADDRESS delivered by DR. MAX YERGAN Thursday, Sept. 17, at Philharmonic auditorium before three thousand listeners. It has been called "clearest statment of the position of Afro-America today."

Tonight we are addressing ourselves to one serious question: Whose war is this and what are we doing about it?

The nation has given a complete and unchanging answer to that question. This is the American people's war. All sections of the population, all of of the nation's resources, ability, manpower and materiel are given over to the prior claims of the war. With unprecedented yielding of some of its hard-won rights, organized labas with sacrificial abandon and tremendously multiplied energy responded to the call of the nation to save its life by smashing all fascist power. Negroes and other minority groups, youth many of the leading industrial figures, farmers, have in their millions and with their tremendous power given evidence of a unity and determihation which will help spell the doom of Hitler.

That is the effective answer to the question of the evening. And we could leave the answer there if it were not for some great and terrible facts as follows.

This is a war for the survival of the ways of freedom and the right to continue the fight for freedom. This is a war which calls for maximum effort on the part of a united people. I wish to talk about that unity and effort from the point of view of the Negro people of America and, to some extent, from the point of view of great sections of the darker peoples of the world.

This is the Negro people's war because it is the nation's war. A national struggle which is the chief business of Congress, which takes the full time of the national administration and has the full support of the American people, becomes in every sense the struggle of the Negro people. The call to bear arms, to make sacrifices to help carry the nation's load falls equally upon Negro as well as white.

The very fact of national danger and peril makes clear the inescapable unity which must exist and can climax those purposes which the Civil War began. The sibil ities and reap oing the rethirteen million Negro citizens must in fact and in deed become an integral part of the entire life of the nation, bearing ther responsibilities and reaping the rewards of citizenship. Again that answers the question, "Whose war is this and what are we doing about it?"

This is the Negro people's war because the very needs of the war demand an immediate and effective solution of the problems confronting Negroes. This is true not because the problems are Negro problems, but because they are the problems of the entire nation.

What are these problems? First, they are economis; the problems of jobs, the need and the right of Negro men and women to have free access to every department of employment in our nation's life. The denial of work to Negroes, or the confining of Negroes to certain catagories of work becomes immediately one of the most serious obstacles to unity and to that production which the nation must have.

Or consider the question of the democratic rights of Negroes. Violence, police brutality, violence to Negroes even in their country's uniform and segregation within as wel as without the armed forces are serious problems which contiue to cry aloud to the administration, to state and local officials for redress. The nation faces a renewed upsurge of the forces of KKK. Talmadge, of Georgia, Dixon, Wilkerson of Alabama in their bitter campaign against Negroes become the spearhead of the drive to break up national unity and interfere with the war effort by arousing prejudicial actions against the Negro people.

Negroes, with all other liberty-loving Americans, rejoice in the defeat of Talmadge, of Georgia, in that state's recent primaries. The action of the people of that state is a good sign, for it serves notice that the vicious appeal to prejudice by unscrupulous politicians can be resolutely and effectively denounced and defeated by a majority, even of the small voting population of the poll-tax state of Georgia. The defeat of Talmadge is a blow to the appeasers, fascists, and anti-war forces in America. This fact is of basic importance to the Negro people of our country.

Hence it is that the Negroes make this statement to the nation today. "Our demand for full-fledged economic rights and for job security in America and our demand for a removal of all violations of our democratic rights becomes in every sense a win-the-war demand."

Any question of bargaining with the nation by Negroes is an insult to the Negro and unworthy of Negroes as a part of the nation. If there are Negroes who would resort to such bargaining methods, they would do well to consider the impossible and degraded position in which they would place the Negro people by resorting to bargaining methods.

In their win-the-war demands for full American status the Negro people have behind them the powerful impetus of a nation-wide, even a world-wide drive against fascism, against the injustices to which they in this land and millions in other lands have been so long subjected. This, therefore, is the Negro people's war because the war marks this point in history: it becomes immediately necessary for the nation to recognize and grant democratic status to all its citizens in order that those citizens may play play their maximum part in the effort to preserve the democratic life of the nation.

That is the explanation of the new cooperation of the American labor movement and the Negro people. And the consistent fight which organized labor, particularly the CIO, is waging on behalf of Negroes against job discrimination. That is the explanation of the aroused public opinion in all parts of this country against the idiotic and nationally destructive prejudices which hurt the nation's war effort to the extent that they handicap Negro Americans. That is why the fight for Negro rights must become even sharper.

In the struggle for Negro rights no pistol is held at the head of the nation. Rather the winning of greater job privileges, the removal of discrimination, and the advance of the democratic status of Negroes become means for winning the war and of saving the nation from the [redacted] of fascist slavery which Hitler and his friends abroad, as well as within America, would impose upon the American people

II

This is the Negro people's war because it is a war against fascist enslavement. It is the Negro people's war because fascism is today the climax of al the woes which Negroes have known in the past and the indication of the greater woes which they can know in the future, unless the fascist monster is destroyed.

Let me give detaiis of what I mean when I say that fascism is for Negroes and other hundreds of millions of the world's population the over-all, the inclusive fact of peril, of suffering and of destruction.

I would refer to facts about fascism. First, its ruthless and murderous destructive power, sweeping away nations and millions of peoples. We have but to recall the wanton destruction of life, property, and democratic rights by the Japanese fascists in China.

The mind cannot take in the people in that great country and horror experienced by millions of the suffering of other millions who have gone to their miserable death at the hands of the military fascist clique of the Japanese ruling class.

Nor can we forget Ethiopia upon which the Mussolini fascists rained their deadly bombs of destruction, and the regime of horror which the fascist murderers imposed upon that ancient self-governing people.

Spain alone should be warning sufficient to all peoples of the world. It was there that the fascist Franco, aided by Hitler and Mussolini and, yes, aided by his his fellow fascists in Britain and in America, tore from a people the meagre and hard-won democratic rights which they were just beginning to enjoy. The sufferings of the people of Spain will for all time symbolize the the meaning of fascism, and will thereby be a warning to the Negro people, the Indian people, the African people and the great world of labor that their one supreme task is to make it impossible for fascism to gain power anywhere in theworld.

I need not here refer to the indescribable path of suffering which has followed in the wake of Hitler across the whole of Europe. Not only sections of the population, but entire nations have been enslaved by him. And what he will do to Negroes of the whole world he has made amply clear in "Mein Kampf."

In the second place, under fascism, no trade-union organization can exist. Negro masses of America are on the eve of a new day because between them and organized labor a new understanding and a new collabora- is taking place. A fascist victory woud at once not only crush the vigor and the fighting qualities of American labor, it would bring to a speedy end the gains which Negro labor has made and those greater gains which are sure to come as a result of the natural alignment between the overwhelming sections of the Negro population who are workers and the millions of their fellow workers who make up the population of the nation.

It is only fascism, again, which has declared a pernicious and exclusive racial theory. We Negroes who know what we have suffered in America, Africa, and elsewhere, stand aghast at the indescribable suffering which fascism under Hitler, Mussolini, Franco, and the great army of Anti-Semites the world around, have imposed upon the millions of of Jewish people. That fascists in Europe, America, or anywhere else in the world would inflict even greater sufferings upon Negroes is understood, for Hitler himself has said so. About this no guess work is required: the very nature of fascism requires a scape-goat in the form of a persecuted race. The very nature of fascism requires an enslaved race, just as it requires a small circle of the domination elite class and a great class of the exploited middle and working class.

It is because fascism does what I described to people, to races, to organizations, and to the cultural life of civilization that we Negroes must see it as the inclusive peril that it is to our nation, that it is to us. This world war against fascism must be kept a war against fascism, and must remain a war in which Negroes join with millions of other peoples in helping to crush and remove from the earth this most deadly menace the world has ever confronted.

III

This is the Negro people's war because it is the war of hundreds of millions of other peoples whose needs are exactly the needs of the Negro people. Who are the millions throughout the world whose conditions are most like ours? Are they not the more than three hundred suffering millions of India? Are they not our hundred and fifty million black brothers in Africa? Are they not China's long-suffering, hard-pressed but ever-fighting millions? In other words, are they not that more than three-fifths of the world's population that constitute the great colonial peoples of the world? This is is the Negro people's war because it is a war to end imperialist oppression and it is a war for the liberation of peoples whose con like those of the Negro people

There are ample reasons for this conclusion. Vice-President Wallace in his memorable speech of May 8th simply declared that this is a war to end imperialism. Only yesterday in this very city the Vice-President declared himself against imperialism and racial and national discrimination. Though not yet as fully implemented as we wish to see them, the Atlantic Charter and the principles of the four freedoms are guarantees of our hopes out of this war. The leader of the great Soviet peoples has unmistakeably referred to this war as a war of national liberation. And in one of his famous speeches to the world has committed himself against racial and national discriminations.

But most of all we can retain our hopes for a new day from this war because the people of the world, the American people, British people, the people of the Soviet Union, China, and of th enslaved countries of Europe, who, though driven underground, are striving and workinf for victory for the United Nations and for the death of Hitlerism and the

MASTER AND SLAVE

The men and women of once free France are today tasting the bitter dregs of the worst humiliation yet inflicted by their merciless Nazi masters. Under a decree signed by the arch traitor Laval, chief of the Vichy regime, all French workers are henceforth subject to conscription "in the higher interests of the state." None doubts, however, that the proclamation has any other purpose than that of placing French citizens in virtual bondage, ready to be shipped into Germany to staff the Nazi war machine. All Frenchmen between 18 and 50, all unmarried women between 21 and 35, are subject to the enslavement act. When Hitler and his high priests in pre-war years vaunted their arrogant claims of Germanic "racial purity" and the consequent degeneracy of all non-Nazis—actually Germany is a melting pot of Teutonic, Slavic and Celtic strains, heavily diluted long centuries ago by Czechs, Wends, Poles, and non-Teutonic Prussians—the democracies greeted this nonsense with indulgent laughter. They couldn't believe the fanatic Nazis meant what they said, meant in all earnest to reduce conquered peoples to semi-serfdom, meant to re-establish slavery in this 20th century world. The people of once free France know better. Stripped of rights and freedom, they have been reduced to Hitler's bondmen.

THE ENEMY HAS NO BARGAIN

Though America's war production chief, Donald M. Nelson, warns that the country faces "a long and horrible war," it is worth remembering that this country is far better prepared to endure the rigors of long warfare than its two major enemies. The United Nations have yet to mass the full weight of their might. Meanwhile, Hitler's armies end their second summer of warfare on the Russian front with Soviet resistance still unbroken, while on the west Germany must undergo steadily increasing devastation from American and British air attack. In North Africa, Rommel's attack has bogged down under the relentless blows of American and British air power. Fair weather isn't smiling upon the enemy. Having enjoyed and profited by the enormous advantage of the initiative, both Japan and Germany have yet to feel anywhere near the full striking power of the United Nations. The setbacks we have suffered have yet to be repaid in kind, as the uneasy enemy well knows.

CONGRESS MUFFS THE BALL

Given an excellent opportunity to regain lost prestige and to put statesmanship above partisan politics by enacting genuine anti-inflation controls, Congress muffed the ball. Its action on the new anti-inflation bill has made a joke of the whole purpose of the measure. The nation can be thankful this refusal to place national interest above sectional or special interest is not widespread. Where would our war production be today if private enterprise had shown equal indifference to the needs of this critical hour? If manufacturers had insisted on making radios and refrigerators instead of tanks and guns? If banks had declined to speed production with essential loans? California's giant production program has been immeasurably aided by the $[redacted] million in war loans which, between June 1941 and June 1942, were made by branch banks covering every section and virtually every war industry of the State. President Roosevelt rightly reproved Congress for failure to enact inflation controls, but of the nation's bankers the President had these significant words to say the other day: "They have met unprecedented demands from industry for the expansion and conversion necessary to win the battle of production. They have been in the forefront of the fight against inflation not only through the sale of savings bonds to the people, but by putting into effect restrictions on consumer credit and combating unnecessary expenditures of all kinds . . . It represents a record of accomplishment of which you may be justly proud." On this front, America can give thanks the battle lines against inflation are h[redacted]ing held.

IT'S COMING TRUE

With meat rationing scheduled in two or three months, due to a 21 per cent reduction in deliveries for civilian consumption during the last quarter of the year, America will have to tighten its belt another notch. War Production chiefs have warned that the nation would have to get down to bone and muscle. Now the prediction's coming true.

NO LIMIT YET

Business activity in California topped a new high in August. Payrolls are rising, employment is gaining—sure proof that the boom is still on!

★ SPREADING JOY
By JOHN FOWLER

The unique club room at the home of Dr. N. Curtis King was the scene of a brilliant party last Wednesday night given by the East One Hundred Fifteen St. Association in honor of Lt. Robert Van Meter, son of Mr. and Mrse. Robert Van Meter of 1673 East Imperial Highway.

Lt. Van Meter is home on a furlough from Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, where he entered the Officers' Candida[redacted] School from which he was commissioned Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Army September 19. Of a classof 198, four were Negroes. He is en route to his new post at Ft. McClelland, Ala., to assignment in Administration Division Headquarters of the 92nd Division now being activated.

Friends and neighbors gathered to congratulate him and wish him God speed. All of Watts is proud of him for the distinction he has brought to our community.

The gay party given for him will live long in his memory. Greetings and well wishes were brought from many organizations and civic bodies. Dr. King brought greeting from the citizens of Watts and the Chamber of Commerce; Rev. A. Doug[redacted] Ferrell brought greetings fr[redacted] Macedonia Baptist Church and Sunday School, of which the Lieutenant is a member; greetings from the NAACP were brought by Mrs. Zella M. Taylor; while John W. Fowler spoke for the East 115th Street Improvement Association.

Among those present were Mmes. Galloway, Ladd, Talmon, Bryant, Herington, Dunn, Mouton, Foster, Stevens, Van Meter, Carter, McClelland, Randolph, Taylor, Reed, and Ferrell; Misses Roslyn Van Meter and Jane Mouton; Messrs. Galloway, McClellan, Van Meter, Rev. Ferrell., Dr. King and Mr. Minter.

Lt. Robert Greene Van Meter was a post office clerk for five years when drafted last November. He holds a B. A. degree in Englis from U.C.L.A. and was studying for his M A. which he would have received last May.

He carries with him the pra[redacted]ers and good wishes of the peo[redacted] of Watts and all who know him.

AN EXCLUSIVE CALIFORNIA EAGLE SERIAL

"NATIVE SON" ★

From the book by
RICHARD WRIGHT

Bigger's eyes were wide and his lips were parted; he scanned the print quickly: "handwriting experts busy," "Erlone's fingerprints not found in Dalton home," "radical still in custody"; and then a sentence leaped at Bigger, like a blow:

Police are not yet satisfied with the account Erlone has given of himself and ar of the conviction that he may be linked to the Negro as an accomplice; they feel that the plan of the murder and kidnapping was too elaborate to be the work of a Negro mind.

At that moment he wanted to walk out into the street and up to a policeman and say, "No! Jan didn't help me! He didn't have a damn thing to do with it! I—I did it!" His lips twisted in a smile that was half leer and half defiance.

Holding the paper in taut fingers, he read phrases: "Negro ordered to clean out ashes . . . reluctant to respond . . . dreading discovery . . . smoke filled basement . . . tragedy of Communism and racial mixture . . . possibility that kidnap note was work of Reds . . ."

Bigger looked up. The building was quiet save for the continual creaking caused by the wind. He could not stay here. There was no telling when they were coming into this neighborhood. He could not leave Chicago; all roads were blocked, and all trains, busses and autos were being stopped and searched. It would have been much better if he had tried to leave town at once. He should have gone to some other place, perhaps Gary, Indiana, or Evanston. He looked at the paper and saw a black-and-white map of the South Side, around the borders of which was a shaded portion an inch deep. Under the map ran a line of small print:

Shaded portion shows area already covered by police and vigilantes to search for Negro rapist and murderer. White portion shows area yet to be seached.

He was trapped. He would have to get out of this building. But where could he go? Empty buildings would serve only as long as he stayed within the white portion of the map, and the white portion was shrinking rapidly. He remembered that the white portion was now much smaller than was shown here. He closed his eyes, calculating: He was at 53rd streett. If they had gone from 18th street to 28th last night, then they would have gone from 28th street to 38th street since then. And by midnight tonight they would be at 48th street, or right here.

He wondered about empty flats. The paper had not mentioned them. Suppose he found a small, empty kitchenette flat in a building where many people lived? That was by far the safest thing.

He went to the end of the hall and flashed the light on a dirty ceiling and saw a wooden stairway leading to the roof. He climbed and pulled himself up into a narrow passage at the end of which was a door. He kicked at the door several times, each kick making it give slightly until he saw snow, sunshine, and an oblong strip of sky. The wind came stinging into his face and he remembered how weak and cold he was. How long could he keep going this way? He squeezed through and stood in the snow on the roof. Before him was a maze of white, sun-drenched roof-tops.

He crouched behind a chimney and looked down into the street. At the corner he saw the newsstand from which he had stolen the papers, the man who had shouted at him as he stood by it. Two black men stopped at the newsstand and bought a paper, then walked into a doorway. One of them leaned eagerly over the other's shoulder. Their lips moved, and they pointed their black fingers at the paper and shook their heads as they talked. Two more men joined them and soon there was a small knot of them standing in the doorway, talking and pointing at the paper. They broke up abruptly and went away. Yes, they were talking about him. Maybe all of the black men and women were talking about him this morning; maybe they were hating him for having brought this attack upon them.

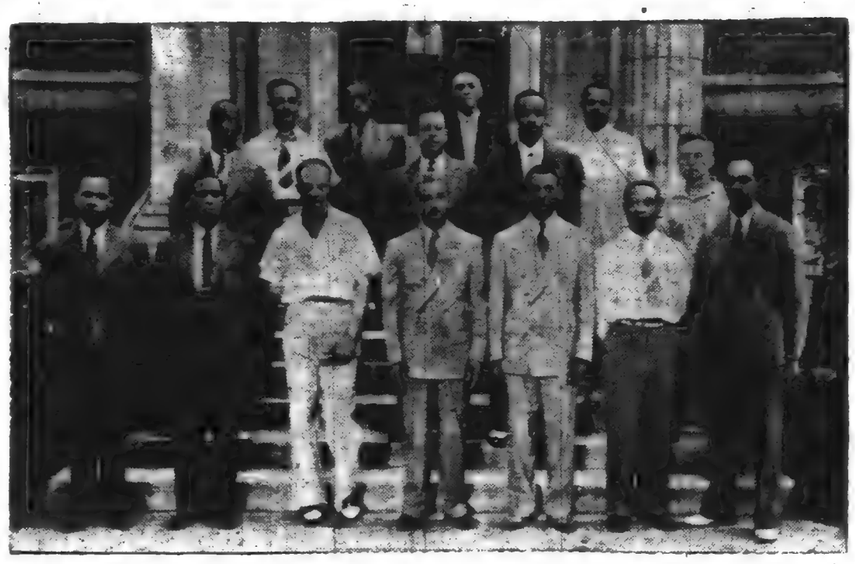
He had crouched so long in the snow that when he tried to move he found that his legs had lost all feeling. A fear that he was freezing seized him. He kicked out his legs to restore circulation of his blood, then crawled to the other side of the roof. Directly below him, one floor away, through a window without shades, he saw a room in which were two small iron beds with sheets dirty and crumpled. In one bed sat three naked black children looking across the room to the other bed on which lay a man and a woman, both naked and black in the sunlight. There were quick, jerky movements on the bed where the man and woman lay, and the three children were watching. It was familiar; he had seen things like that when he was a little boy sleeping five in a room. Many mornings he had awakened and watched his father and mother. He turned away, thinking: Five of 'em sleeping in one room and here's a great big empty building with just me in it. He crawled back to the chimney, seeing before his eyes an image of the room of five people, all of them blackly naked in the strong sunlight, seen through a sweaty pane: the man and woman moving jerkily in tight embrace, and the three children watching.

Hunger came to his stomach; an icy hand reached down his throat and clutched his intestines and tied them into a cold tight knot that ached. The memory of the bottle of milk Bessie had heated for him last ninght came back so strongly that he could almost taste it. If he had that bottle of milk now he would make a fire out of a newspaper and hold the bottle over the flame until it was warm. He saw himself take the top off the white bottle, with some of the warm milk spilling over his black fingers, and then lift the bottle to his mouth and tilt his head and drink. His stomach did a slow flip-flop and he heard it growl.

He felt in his lungs a deep sense of duty, as powerful as the urge to breath, as intimate as the beat of his heart. He felt like dropping to his knees and lifting his face to the sky and saying: "I'm hungry!" He wanted to pull off his clothes and roll in the snow until something nourishing seeped into his body through the pores of his skin. He wanted to grip something in his hands so hard that it would turn to food. But soon his hunger left; soon he was taking it a little easier; soon his mind rose from the desperate call of his body and concerned itself with the danger that lurked about him. He felt something hard at the corners of his lips and touched it with his fingers; it was frozen saliva.

He crawled back through the door into the narrow passage and lowered himself dowwn the shallow wooden steps into the hallway. He went to the first floor and stood at the window through which he had first climbed. He had to find an empty apartment in some building where he could get warm; he felt that if he did not get warm soon he would simply lie down and close his eyes. Then he had an idea; he wondered why he had not thought of it before. He struck a match and lit the newspaper; as it blazed he held one hand over it awhile, and then the other. The heat came to his skin from far off. When the paper had buned so close that he could no longer hold it, he dropped it to the floor and stamped it out with his shoes. At least he could feel his hands now; at least they ached and let him know that they were his.

He climbed through the window and walked to the street, turnd northward, joining the people passing. No one recognized him. He looked for a building with a "For Rent" sign. He walked two blocks and saw none. He knew that empty flats were scarce in the Black Belt; whenever his mother wanted to move she had to put in requests long months in advance. He remembered that his mother had once made him tramp the streets for two whole months looking for a place o live. The rental agencies had told him that there were not enough houses for Negroes to live in, that the city was condemning houses in which Negroes lived as being too old and too dangerous for habitation.



And he remembered the time when the police had come and driven him and his mother and his brother and sister out of a flat in a building which had collapsed two days after they had moved. And he had heard it said that black people, even though they could not get good jobs, paid twice as much rent as whites for the same kind of flats. He walked five more blocks and saw no "For Rent" sign. G——! Would he freeze trying to find a place in which to get warm? How easy it would be for him to hide if he had the whole city in which to move about! They keep us bottled up here like wild animals, he thought. He knew that black people could not go outside of the Black Belt to rent a flat; they had to live on their side of the "line." No white real estate man would rent a flat to a black man other than in the sections where it had been decided that black people might live.

His fists clenched. What was the use of running away? He ought to stop right here in the middle of the sidewalk and shout out what this was. It was so wrong that surely all the black people 'round him would do something about it; so wrong that all the white people would stop and listen. But he knew that they would simply grab him and say that he was crazy. He reeled through the streets, his bloodshot eyes looking for a place to hide. He paused at a corner and saw a big black rat leaping over the snow. It shot past him into a doorway where it slid out of sight through a hole. He looked wistfully at that gaping black hole through which the rat had darted to safety.

★W. J. WHEATON

"The future of democracy in the world and for the American Negro depends to a great extent on the role of the Negro women during these war years and the responsibilities they will accept."

We quote the Rev. Clayton D. Russell. We might add, that is obvious. The wome are not shirking any of the responsibilities They are meeting them with a courage and devotion that should receive the commendation of all. It is not expected that every woman can grasp the full meaning or that all of the women can measure up to requirements of leadership. Leadership develops with the expereience which comes from contacts. Just as th cream separates from the body of the milk so does the leader rise from the masses. But the masses must support that leader, and that is what is so commendable in the women of this era. Tehy are moving with an unselfish desire to make democracy a word of meaning: their sole ambition is to make democracy not a term but an actuality. In the past we have been disposed to decry the numerous and undemocratic inhibitions which have set us (the Negro) apart and denied us the full participation of citizenship, and have been too prone to depend on mass meetings and reslutions which ended with their adoption. It has taken the leadership of women to plan, work and if necessary fight to eradicate those evils, and break the barriers that are erected to hinder the progress of a true democracy.

The women are marching in a solid phalanx against the foes of democracy, both at home and abroad. They are fighting the creeds of the Nezis, Fascists and all opponents of human equality. They know that the indeology of those creeds are the antithesis of the freedoms for which the world is fighting. It is not alone the women of our race who have problems to solve and battles to win: women of other groups also have their troubles, but theirs is mostly a fight against ignorance. It was our good fortune to come in contact with a young woman who teaches a school in the mountains of a southern state She is a graduate of one of the outstanding colleges for women. In the course of our conversation, she told me of her expereiences encountered in trying to civilize. . . .that was her word. . . the people she sought to teach. She said that it was through such ignorance that political demagogues held their power. It was because of such ignorance that mob violence was unchecked.

"The younger generation of the south is fighting and with incredible success the racial antipathies of the section," she said. We lauded the eforts off women of our racial group in seeking to bring about a better understanding, and she informed us that although they had to brave the sneers and threats of social ostracism, of political and, sometimes religious antagonists of human equality the work for a better understanding was gainng and women of both races were working together for the betterment of humanity." That dramatic play, "Tobacco Road," was not over drawn, she said. She told me also of a young Negro woman of her acquaintance, a graduate of a Negro college of the South, who was making a ascrifice for the people of her race and was teaching a school in one of the most isolated sections of the rural south. So it is that the unself-regardless of color, to stand together, plan together, and sacrifice together, not only in the war, but in the reconstruction plans that follow the war. Unless Labor's voice is heard in the national war and reconstruction plans, a more terrible depression than we have ever known stands before us."

Earl Dickerson, member of the Fair Employmen Practice Committee, called upon the Urban League movement to support the Committee's right for independent status. "Yesterday the Urban League was forced to ask employers for jobs," he declared, "because neither the League nor any other agency had any authority to do other than beg for fair play. Today, through creation of the Fair Employment Practice Committee, with the power of the President behind it, we are in a position to demand that employers cease discrimination and give Negro workers their rights as citizens to share in industrial employment. We must not move backward from this progressive development. If the FEPC is wiped out or crippled so as to be ineffective, the efforts of the Urban League and other organizations like yours will be thrown back several decades in its fight for Negro advancement."

National officers who attended the Conference are William H. Baldwin, President, Dorothy Straus, Helen Cooper Cooper and Dr. Sadie T. M. Alexander.

Host for the Conference was the Urban League of Pittsburgh, R. Maurice Moss, Executive Secretary.

3 Jailed on Bunco Charges By L. A. Police

Hattie Johnson, Hattie Mitchell and Floyd Mitchell, all of Santa Monica, have been arrested and jailed by Officer O'Grande of the Newton Street bunco detail, on charges of grand theft bunco.

They are charged with having bilked various residents of Southern California out of large sums of money during the past few months. According to police reports, one woman was victimized of $700 and another of $290, the latter in Santa Ana.

It is felt that the apprehension of these three means the break-up of a bunco ring which has been fleecing victims of large sums of money for some time.

All three are represented by Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, who immediately made efforts to reduce the heavy bail placed upon his clients. According to the attorney, the Mitchells deny any complicity in the series of thefts and states it is a case of mistaken identity.

ZOMBIES, MYSTERY IN 'FOUR SHALL DIE' AT LINCOLN

FRED AVENDOLPH DROPS INTO LOS ANGELES

IN TOWN . . . Fred Avendolph and his charming wife are visiting here. She is a native of these parts.

They came to call upon her mater and pater from the city by the lake, Chicago. He is one of the few men (I only know two) that work as linotypers on big dailies. Fred grinds out copy at the Chicago Tribune. But at nights, Fred beats a drum; while he is no Lionel Hampton, Cozy Coles or Sidney Catlett, he has nosed out Floyd Campbell for first drummer man of Chi. Fred can write, too. He used to travel with Earl Hines and did a little publicity for Duke Ellington.

Toni Anthony, the little singing lass whom you heard at the Lincoln theatre recently has all her arrangements written by her talented hubby.

DELLA MILES TO VISIT HUBBY

Della Miles, reigning queen of the chorus girls, will shuffle off to Buffalo to join her hubby before he joins the army. Her hubby, Marshall, is a darn good reason why every little boy should study arithmetic. Marshall is a whiz when it comes to numbers. Marshall would be happy if he could get in the same outfit with his pal, Sergeant Barrow, Joe Louis to you.

Incidentally, the draft hasn't checked the bookmakers on the Central Avenue track.

Joe Louis and Oscar-winning James Stewart led the parade to join the army. Clark Gable brought up the rear. With Joe Louis our sepia big shots stopped. They all seem to want to wait until their number is called. Noble Sissle, who went through the last war with Jim Europe, now is serving his country on one of the alphabetical lists, head of entertainment.

Jimmy Lunceford and "Rochester" probably would have signed up a long time ago. Both have hours in the air and both own airplanes. But they are above the age limit for aerial warfare.

We need more Negroes in the War Information Office. As the door opens wider, the draft becomes stronger and we need to know how our black boys are doing in the various outposts.

MRS. ALLEN JONES HAS VOC PARTY

There was never any more group of intrepid men than the VOCS from Draft Board No. 215. These Volunteer Officer Candidates must have been handpicked by the Rev. George Albert Miller and William G. Roberts, local board chairman No. 215, to say nothing of that little affinity, Miss Talbot. These splendid young men who have volunteered to do their bit for their country are: Wendell Jackson, Allen Jones and Armand Hudson. Mrs. Allen Jones gave an impromptu party for VOCS at her home, when the lads joyously returned from having their blood tests and X-rays.

The Mrs. Jean Arthur Atkinson royally entertained Mrs. Marie Bell, gay lady from Chicago, who is out here to meet her son when he comes to L. A. on his furlough.

STATE GUARD'S M. P.s DESERVE SALARY

POPULAR POLICE: Sid Hendricks and Bennie Ayers.

Speaking of police reminds me of the Military Police Detachment of the 7th Regiment of the State Guards, commanded by Sgts. Wyndon and Morrison. The boys come on duty at 9 p. m., and work, mind you I said work, until 6 a. m.

These boys work in close harmony with the Army's military police and the city police.

It has been often said that the army has been able to put their MPs elsewhere because of the splendid work these boys are doing. The majority of storekeepers, businessmen have all been most grateful to the State Guard MPs. They have removed many a State Guard who, who wanted to "tear up a joint" or shoot some one.

I talked with several MPs traveling their beats Saturday night and they said, "We seldom ever have any trouble with the soldiers from the regular army. The majority of them are gentlemen. But our headaches come from our own men in the 7th Regiment. They regard their active duty status more as a job than in the army. And these boys drown themselves in wine and sally forth to do battle with anyone.

The only criticism I have heard came from Officer Candidate Ralph D. Gibbs, also of the 7th Regiment, who is in private life one of our leading restauranteurs. He stated, "You can quote me. Last week I saw the 7th Regiment MPs armed to the teeth with sawed-off shotguns and sub-machine guns."

We told him that this was not the regular detachment of MPs, but 7th Regiment MPs in from Camps Chino and Temescal under Provost Marshal Captain Frank Cleveland, rounding up all AWOLs and soldiers who were under suspicion for felony crimes. (Frank Cleveland is a regular city police officer on leave to serve his state in this war emergency.). Then Candidate Officer Gibbs came back, "Well, these local MPs came into my place of business, filled their bellies with food and then marched out without paying the bill. When the girl asked for pay they replied, 'Gibbs is in the State Guard'."

In spite of this, the 7th Regiment MPs are not all bad, and the majority of them, if they knew who took unfair advantage of Mr. Gibbs, would mete out their own form of punishment. But to Colonel Moody Staten, Major James Hollinsworth, I say I can see no reason why the men who volunteer to go to Camps Chino and Temescal get paid, while the MPs do not get five cents (not even carfare) in Los Angeles. Surely their work is as hard or even harder than that of those who do guard duty out of the city.

Why not place the Los Angeles MPs on acting duty status? Put a platoon or a company (full complement) on active military police duty (they are most active now. We mean PAY THEM.) in th Los Angeles area. Let them work day and night. There certainly is a need for them.

At least they could be fed so that they wouldn't have to resort to petty larceny to get food to give them strength to travel all night. There are any number of citizens who would be glad to see these State soldiers, these guardians of the peace of Central avenue and other sections receive pay. Soldier, show this to Colonel Staten. He may do something about getting pay for your buddies.

"FOUR SHALL DIE" COMING TO LINCOLN

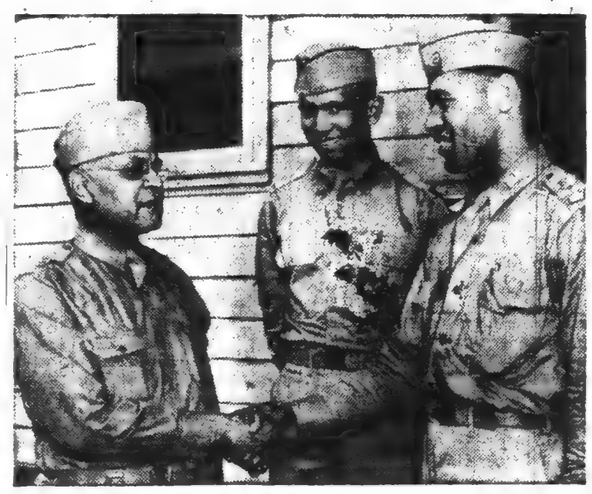
With the most pretentious preparations of all during their narly four years of making all-colored cast features, Million Dollar Productions has ready for release, "Four Shall Die," with Leo C. Popkin directing. It opens at the Lincoln theatre on Saturday, Oct. 3.

Twelve specially built new sets, including luxurious interiors, a scientific laboratory and steamship landing were used.

The story by Edward Dewey is a mystery melodrama, with a background of mysticism, and unsolved manifestations, traditional to the island of Haiti. Three months of research were made there concerning "Zombies" or the "Walking Dead."

Handsome Neil Webster, former Morehouse and Wiley football ace, is the star, with beautiful internationally famous Dorothy Dandridge as leading lady, and Mantan Moreland, famous comedian in a featured role.

JITTERBUG CONTEST AT LINCOLN FRIDAY NITE



There will be a big contest at the Lincoln theatre Friday night, Oct. 2, as is the usual custom for Friday nights. New contestants are cordially invited to join in the festivities.

Manager John Maloney is still looking for the old winners and the new winners to make photographs of them.

ish spirit, the great desire to serve is what is making the women of today the leaven that will raise the world into the full democracy for which humanity is striving. Tehy fill be entitled to have a full volce in the proceedings that will strive to so equalize the conditions of the post war world conference that all, regardless of race, of color or of religious beliefs wil share alike. We can trust the Negro women of this United States to play their part. Their honesty and sincerity of purpose can not be denied. The saneness of their judgement is without question. Tehy are planning for the future yith wisdom. You: Women have a great influence over the youths of this generatnon. You: whose unselfish devotion struggle for the cause of right is an inspiration. You: whose sincerity and religious devotion will, and mustfi exercise a durable influence in the founding of a better world. Yourd task is obvious. powers of the Axis.

It is for this reason that the Council on African Affairs, the Negro people of America, along with the great bulk of the freedom-loving people of America, stand for a free India and a democratic Africa. Just as the nation needs all of the parts of the nation, including the Negro people, to win this war, so do the United Nations need all of the enemies of fascism, including the Indian people and the African people.

It is for this reason that we call upon the Churchill government to override the dictates of the Tories and the men of Munich, still powerful in British politics to recognize the right of India to identify herself freely and thereby effectively with the side of the United Nations.

It is for this reason that we call upon Great Britain and the government of the Union of So. Africa to mobilize and arm the fighting men of Africa and to recognize at once the justice of the demand of Africans for more control of their land, for better wages, for a removal of obnoxius pass laws, and for a real voice in their political life.

These would be immediate win-the-war actions. These steps would bring at once to the aid of the United Nations the millions of India and Africa. These steps would release the large numbers of fighting men of the western nations from service in the Far East and would enable the United Nations to do that one thin still urgently needed for victory to our side. What is that one thing? To open a second front in western Europe now. To relieve the hard-pressed and heroic fighters of the Red army and subject Hitler to the thing he most dreads, namely, a war on at least two fronts.

We can declare here tonite that the Negro people of America, along with their fellow Americans, out of their great admiration tfor the heroic fighters of the Soviet Union and the indescribable heroism of the Chinese people call for the opening of a second front, for the fullest utilization of the forces of Britain and America now to gain a speedy victory over Hitled in Europe now.

Because this war offers a nation-wide immediate approach to the problems of the Negro people of America; because this war is is a war against fasism, which is the inclusive enemy of Negroes and all other liberty-loving people; and because this war is a war in which the Negro people of America join with their fellow Americans in supporting fully. Negroes have no side but that side which includes the mighty American people, the peoples of Britain, of the Soviet Union, of China in this struggle for human freedom. We therefore call upon our national government, upon state and local forces thoughout the nation to wipe out discrimination and limitation that stand in the way of Negro support of the war. We call upon the British government to recobnize India's demand for the right to enter freely, and under Indian leadership as an ally of the United Nations. We call for immediate democratic steps in Africa as win- the-war measures and as the real basis for the fullest mobilization for the African people. This is a war of the Negro people because these demands are just and because they will help win the war and make for human freedom everywhere.

MR. EUGENE SORRAL heartily congratulates the Maritime Commission and the Government on the launching of the Liberty Ship named in honor of Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, Ala. "We doff our caps to our Government for this recognition," says Mr. Sorral.

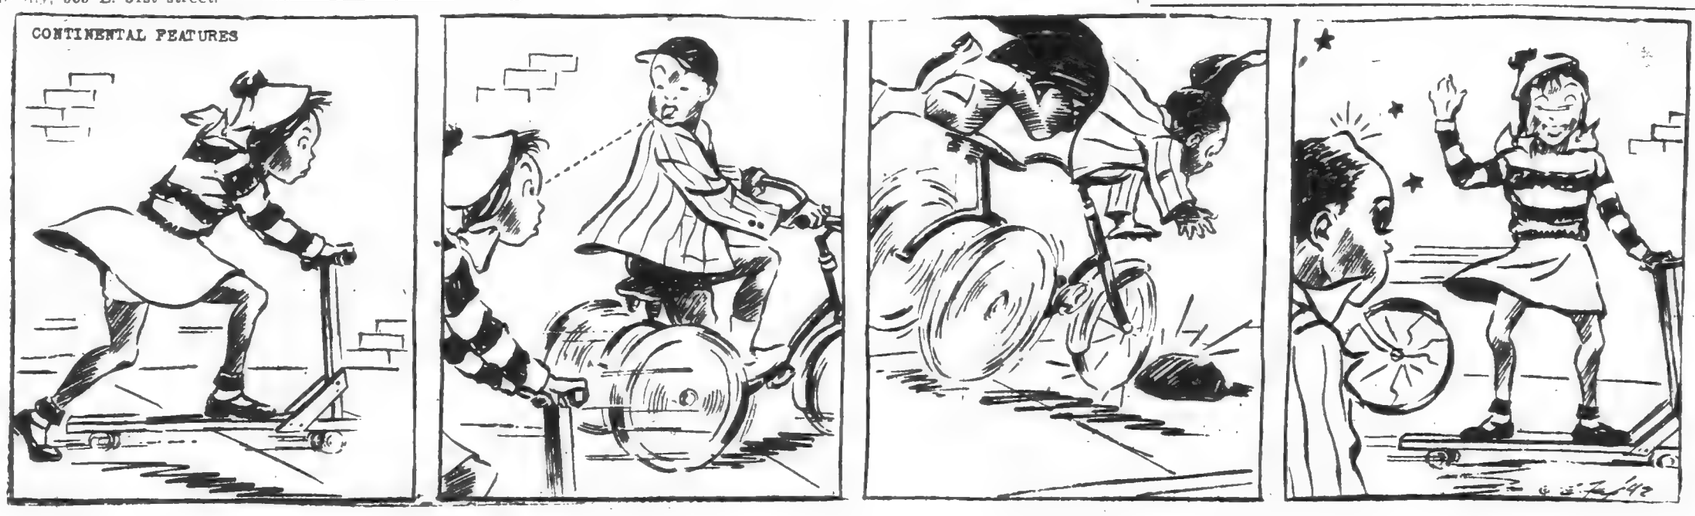
Experienced Help Is Need of Overall Cleaning Co.



The California Overall Cleaning company is in urgent need of experienced help. Many positions are open. Experienced laundry help may apply for any of the following positions: pressers, folders, markers, distributors and sewing machine operators are wanted.

The California Overall Cleaning company is offering steady employment, good pay and bonuses. Experienced help in this line can start right in at a given rate of pay. Being a union shop, the plant will pay the required wage to those workers who start right in working at a specific job.

If you are now working and have the required experience consider this great opportunity. You probably work a little ways from your home. You either spend money for carfare or you have a car. In the event that you have a car, you spend needed money for gasoline and you wear out your tires. Now, when gas rationing comes into effect, transportation to and from your place of work will be a problem.

Why not take a good job close to home? Walk to work and walk home. Work close to your home. Help yourself and your government by taking a position close to your home. You will relieve already congested transportation systems and conserve your nation's rubber and gasoline, which are so vital to victory.

Apply at the California Cleaning company, 959 E. 31st street.

Chalky Comes Thru Like a Real Champ!

Dan Shaw, Oakland: Your story on the Henry Armstrong-Earl Turner scrap last night arrived on publication date. It made good copy; sorry we were unable to use it . . . Give our own Chalky Wright plenty of credit for that humdinger battle he waged against Lulu Costantino the other night to retain his New York-recognized world's featherweight crown. Chalky confused all of the experts (?) . . . That Tuskegee-Wilberforce game at Soldier Field, Chicago, Friday night, Oct. 9, will be staged for the Army Emergency Relief . . .

Saw the 1942 edition of the UCLA Bruin lose a game, 7-6, to Texas Christian he should have won last Friday. The Uclans muffed about five opportunities to score in the first half, mainly because of the loss of a crashing fullback of the type of their injured George Phillips. They looked pretty much like the Uclans of old—several individual greats, but no team play, which might be because it's too early in the season to judge a football team.

They might get going, what with Phillips, the coast's best kicker, back in the lineup, and if they can uncover an open-field threat. On the order of a Kenny Washington or Jackie Robinson . . . Cecil Hudson headlines at H'wood Legion tomorrow night, meeting Mexican Mario Ramon . . . Ran Jackson boxes in the semi . . .

Matchmaker Snowy Baker of the Olympic has announced a Henry Armstrong-Juan Zurita match for Oct. 13. That should be a corker. Zurita will really test Hank's ambitious comeback campaign . . . Jack Chase, undefeated here, took a comparatively easy 8-round decision over Bobby Birch at the downtown club Tuesday night, which gave us an even break on our prognostications, since we picked Jimmy McDaniels over Costello Cruz (and lost) . . . Hudson needs a win at H'wood tomorrow night, so we are going to put our two-bits on him . . . The UCLA gridders take on the St. Mary's Pre-Flight Training School eleven Saturday at the Coliseum. ELITE GIANTS TO FACE MAJOR, MINOR LEAGUERS

The 22nd year of Winter League baseball will get underway Sunday, Oct. 4, at the old and familiar White Sox park, 41st and Ascot avenue.

The game Sunday will send two of the best aggregations in local baseball together, with major and minor league stars filling the lineups of both teams.

A major and minor league all-star team from Pasadena will furnish opposition for the Elite Giants. Pasadena has such stars as Rinu, with Pittsburgh this year; Myers and Ramsey of the Western league; Stan Gray, Bob Evans, of the Texas league, and other players of the same ability.

The Giants, with Kenny Washington, Chet Brewer, Olin Dials, Biz Mackey, Popsicle Harris, Nate Moreland, and others, will uphold the supremacy set forth by Winter League teams of former years.

CALIENTE, Mexico, Oct. 1.—A queen has been found, and she is mistress of both sexes. Her name is Border Beauty. At beautiful Caliente Sunday she won her fourth race in succession, beating the imported Sir Winsome by a nose.

This is the second time that the queen had hung a nose decision on the black streak from England. Although he was catching the queen in the last strides and in a few more jumps—well, it would have been a different story.

But, again that is "if" and "ands." So, today, we take off our hats to the queen of the sprints. The new queen was born just three years ago on a little ranch in San Diego county about four miles from Caliente. Her breeder and proud owner, H. T. Palmer, gave her lessons on running at his ranch and then brought her across the border to the race track and carefully prepared her for the killing. When the day came and Palmer gave the word those that were in began setting it in on Generalissimo Walter Marty's books, and also the mutuel machines.

And as the horses paraded to the post, the beauty of the queen attracted the attention of the feminine fans and they, too, started to make their wagers on her.

As the starter released the gates to send them away on their journey, the first call was that Border Beauty was in front. As the field turned into the stretch, the crowd yelled, "Here comes 'Border Beauty'." And she was coming—not only running, but flying, and passed under the wire with something to spare.

This little filly has improved so much since winning her first race that she was called on to race against older horses, and Sunday, she demonstrated her class by beating the best on the border course, and was given the title of "Queen of the Border." We join in and say, "Long live the queen."

Well, the goodly crowd that was on hand witnessed two very close races. In one race, the finish was so close that four horses seemed to hit the wire at the same time and it took three photos to decide the winner.

Form players and long-shot boys about broke even. The Daily Double paid $85.20, while the Quiniela paid $71.80.

Well, that's the news for this week. Save your metal and also your fats. That's what will beat the Japs. So long, GEORGE.

CIO Council Says Free Coleman

The Los Angeles Industrial Council of the CIO, at its last council meeting, Sept. 24, went on record calling for "the immediate and unconditional pardon of Festus Coleman."

In a petition to Governor Culbert L. Olson, the organized workers of the L. A. CIO called on Gov. Olson to "right the injustice done to the Negro people by granting an immediate and unconditional pardon to Festus Lewis Coleman. It is imperative that the civil rights of Negro Americans be protected from miscarriages of justice in the courts."

The case of Coleman, young Negro worker of San Francisco, who has been imprisoned for 99 years on the charge of rape, has secured national attention. To his defense have come such prominent Negroes as Max Yergan and Paul Robeson, who visited him during their recent visit to the coast.

H. Douglas Greer Is Mourned

Professor H. Douglas Greer, one of the mountry's best known musicians and philosophers, died at the Los Angeles General hospital, Sept. 4, 1942. A resident of Los Angeles for the last 20 years, Mr. Greer spent his early years in Boston, Mass. where he acquired his musical education and where he was known as a musical genius.

He was known and respected by people of all races to whom he had given much comfort and counsel. For over sixteen years he sehved as chorister in the leading church of the city. He is mourned also by his many pupils.

The last rites for Professor Greer were administered by Rev. John D. Gordon in private services from the Angelus Funeral Home with only members of his family and close friends attending.

Professor Greer is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bessie A. Greer; a mother, Mrs. E. L. Congo; an aunt, Miss Belle Porter of San Fransisco; and a host of relatives and acquaintances. He was laid to rest Sept. 8 in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Greer was at her husband's bedside as he passed.

Address By Mary Bethune at BTW Ship Launching

(Ed's Note: Address delivered by Mary McLeod Bethune, president of Bethune-Cookman college, president of National Council of Negro Women, and director of the Office of Negro Affairs of the National Youth Administration, at the launching of the Liberty Ship, "Booker T. Washington," at Wilmington, Calif., Sept. 29.)

The launching of another vessel to help in the all-important job of getting materials and equipment to our men on the far-flung battlefronts of the world, is a magnificent occasion in its own right.

I bring the gratitude and congratulations of the 15,000,000 Negro people of America, and I'm sure, that of all fair-minded, thinking citizens, to the California Shipbuilding Corporation for their spirit of courage and democracy in the naming and launching of this Liberty Ship—Booker T. Washington. And most assuredly high praise and honor to this far-seeing citizen of ours who conceived the idea —Peter Ross!

This is an advanced step in the building of the morale of a group of people who are fighting for a chance to fight. May I here, on this occasion, voice the loyalty of my people to the "all-out" program of our Commander-in-Chief; and pledge our full support and cooperation to all of those agencies working with, and for him, in bringing to the United Nations a speedy and complete victory.

This is not just another cargo vessel. This is a ship that epitomizes the true spirit and ideal of democracy.

This is a ship named for a great man—not just a great Negro—a great man who happened to be a Negro, Booker T. Washington.

This is a ship built by the skill and toil and sweat of white, black, yellow and red Americans, working side by side in harmony and cooperation proving to the world that given a chance democracy CAN work.

This is a ship which will be christened by the greatest artist in the world today—not just the greatest Negro artist—the greatest artist who happens to be a Negro, Marian Anderson.

This is a ship which will sail out upon the seas under the command of a Negro captain—Captain Hugh Mulzac—with a crew of white and Negro officers and men, all serving side by side as living proof to the world that DEMOCRACY WORKS!

Oh, if Booker T. Washington were only here to see this!—to see his philosophy of industrial education bearing fruit to the advantage of our country in an hour of pressing need. One of the graduates of his illustrious school, Tuskegee Institute, is in this audience today, and doubtless, many more who have been inspired by his philosophy, and trained by the National Youth Administration are among the more than 500 skilled, semi-skilled, and unskilled Negro workers who are helping to make these ships possible.

America is proud, today, of these fellow workers. They are the heroes of the hour. They are demonstrating the fundamental soundness of democracy. They are flinging into the teeth of Hitler and Hirohito the challenge of free labor, democratic labor, inspired labor that refuses ever again to be enslaved. They will continue to build in record time ship after ship to slide down these ways, fashioning a bridge from the factories here at home to the fields of battle abroad. And the BOOKER T. WASHINGTON is part of that bridge.

As this ship is christened and launched today, may it stand forever as the true symbol of LIBERTY and FREEDOM, epitomizing the spirit of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man!

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, in the name of the American citizens, I SALUTE YOU!!!

Liberty Ship Festivities Here Sunday Dramatic

By HARRY LEVETTE

Last Sunday's pro-launching program at Second Baptist church—two days previous to the actual christening of the government ship, "Booker T. Washington," by Marian Anderson—was replete with impressi highlights, and will go down in racial history as the first of two days long to be remembered.

The harmonious singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by Hall Johnson's Negro Festival chorus swept a new thrill through the great crowd. The fervor of Rev. Frederick D. Jordan's invocation equaled the storm of applause that greeted master of ceremonies Coley Stafford's introduction of Peter Ross, who suggested the name for the new vessel.

Said Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, "This is a great moment; a historic moment. I am grateful for being here, and I feel very humble in being invited by the committee to come from Washington to speak and take part in this wonderful occasion.

"We have been striving hard to prepare youth so that when the doors of opportunity open, they will be ready to walk in. The day is here; black boys, brown boys, yellow boys, tall ones, short ones all over the land; girls, who could get only domestic work before, now in slacks carrying their lunch boxess, marching, marching with happy faces into the defense plants. They're free; this is the day of freedom for our boys and girls, for the plants that barred them before are calling for more and more of them."

Said Dr. Thompkins, recorder of deeds, "On behalf of 15,000,000 Negroes I want to thank Mr. George Joseph Wadsworth, representative of the Calship shipbuilding, who accepted the suggestion of their colored foreman, Peter Ross, to christen the new ship after a Negro.

"Mr. Wadsworth, it takes a lot of courage to do what you did. Most of our other friends died tragic deaths, Lincoln, John Brown, and others . . . If the race had listened to Booker T. Washington's doctrine of vocational training there would be more Negroes as captains of ships . . . Booker T. Washington was the father of industrial education which has spread throughout the world."

Said Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, invited to make impromptu remarks by master of ceremonies Stafford, "We must lay aside political lines, prejudice, personal dislikes and all other drawbacks to the winning of this war. I am a Wendell Willkie type of Republican; I am behind President Franklin D. Roosevelt 100 per cent. We must stop whispering, carping, dissention and get to work to help him on a second front; on all fronts."

"India's fate is linked with that of the West Coast of the United States—the next target of Japanese attack. Defending our borers, we defend your shores. Heed our appeal!"

Army Chaplain's Duties More in This War, Says Capt. Holden

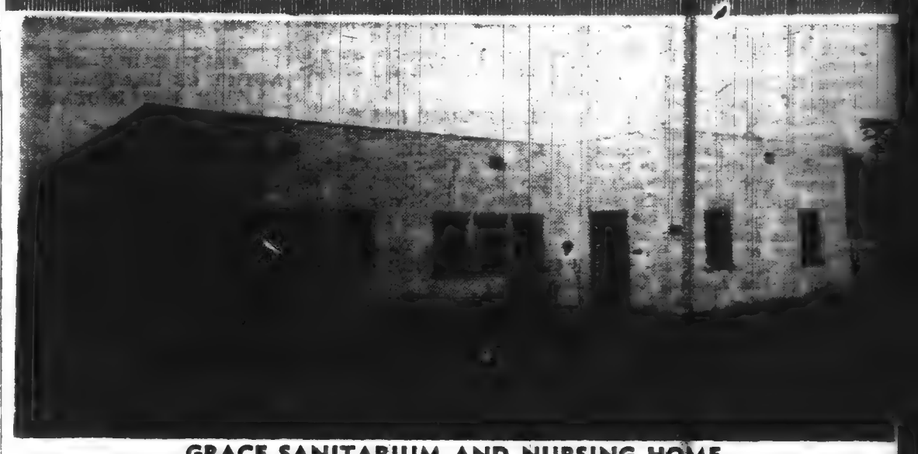
That the duties and responsibilities of a chaplain in this conflict are far greater and more varied than those of the AEF of World War I, was revealed this week by Chaplain Oscar Holden, who has returned to his post with the 93rd Division at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., after a leave to visit relatives here.

"It is no easy matter for even an officer to get a leave now," he declared and had it not been for the fact that his mother had come all the way from Kingston, N. C., to meet him in Los Angeles, his recess, too, might have been delayed.

They were the house guests of Mrs. Ruby Golden at ner Cimarron avenue home while here.

Ben Lawrence, well known former movie player, an uncle of Captain Holden, and wife, Mrs. Ana Lawrence, entertained them with a welcome dinner at their cozy home, 751 E. 51st street.

Other guests at the affair, in the form of a turkey dinner, included Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand Mason, Mrs. Golden, and Harry Levette. Mother and son were also taken on a tour of places of interest by Lawrence.



Speaking of life at Ft. Huachuca at present, Captain Holden said that while the fort itself is permanent, the cantonment of the 93rd is merely their training ground; that they are daily rounding out into the physically fit, highly trained fighting men the army is throwing into the front to whip the Axis; that far from a chaplain's duties being merely to hold religious services, he is vested with a great deal of the responsibility of keeping up the soldiers' morale, settling disputes, aiding in keeping contacts with home ties, and even occasionally assisting in the handling of psychopathic cases.

PROTRACTED MEET AT TRUEVINE BAPTIST WATCH FOR IT!

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE FOR CHANGE OF NAME
No. 479193

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles.

In the Matter of the Petition of CLARENCE WILSON, LENA F. WILSON and MELVA WILSON for Change of Name.

The application of Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson, and Melva Wilson for change of name, having been filed in Court and it appearing from said application that Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson, and Melva Wilson have filed an application proposing that their names, Clarence Wilson, Lena F. Wilson and Melva Wilson, be changed to Clarence Wilson Washington, Melva Wilson Washington, and Lena F. Washington.

Now therefore, it is hereby ordered and directed, that all persons interested in said matter do appear before this Court in Department 34 on the 8th day of October, 1942, at 1:45 o'clock p. m. of said day to show cause why the application for change of name should not be granted.

It is further ordered that a copy of this Order be published in the California Eagle, a newspaper of general circulation, printed in said county, at least once each week for four successive weeks prior to the day of said hearing.

Lee, Primmer Cop Central Bowl Feature

Bowling 210 and 181, respectively, Willis Lee and Eddie Primmer walked off last week with cash prizes in men and women's play for high scores at Central Bowl, 46th and Central avenue.

Lee bowled 210, while Miss Primmer chalked up a 181 point total.

Other high scorers—men: W. Clark, 198; Floyd Lawrence, 195; Charles Plummer, 193: women: Althea Gardner, 170; and Bernice Ray, 160.

Managed by Nate Moreland, famous football and baseball ace, the Central Bowl offers the cash prizes as a weekly feature.

Held down to two-man teams because of the war, last week's team play saw Floyd and Garland Lawrence losing to N. Pointer and W. Lee in a three-game match series by one pin.

The team of Pointer and Lee met Lloyd and Adams last night in the weekly team play feature.

SAN DIEGO GIRLS' CLUB MAKES FORMAL BOW

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—The Alpha Omega Girls club made its formal bow to social San Diego recently at the Clay Avenue YWCA, with a lovely semi-formal dancing party. About eighty (80) guests enjoyed the hospitality of the club.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated with flowers, balloons, and streamers. The color scheme was red and white, the club colors. An array of tiny multi-color lights threw their soft rays upon the beautifully dressed debutantes and their charming escorts.

The Alpha Omega club was organized in the early summer an dhas as a sponsor, Mrs. Lucile Brown. The members include 7 of the most popular debutantes of San Diego. Miss Gloria Bailey, president; Gloria Simon, vice president; Mable Leary, secretary; Janice Leigh, assistant secretary; Delores Turner, treasurer; Juanita Cobb, parliamentarian; and Eleanor Merrick, reporter.

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, well-known reader and chorus-choir director, Los Angeles, was in San Diego last week preparing a 50-voice chorus in a beautiful pageant to be presented at Bethel AME church, Monday, Sept. 28. Many 10th Cavalry boys are expected to be present.

Miss Clara Collins, an employee at Naval hospital, is leaving on a short vacation to visit her sister, Miss Beatrice Collins, in Philadelphia some time next month. Miss Collins is well and favorably known as a fine cateress.

Mrs. Mayola Johnson Curl, vocalist, had for her holiday guests over Labor Day, Mrs. A. D. Smith of Oakland and Mrs. Beatrice Stevens, Berkeley. Both these ladies are ardent workers in the North Oakland Baptist church. They enjoyed visiting with many other former New Orleans friends residing here. A trip across the border added to their pleasant stay in our city.

Mrs. Fannie Mae Calhoun, a long-time resident of La Jolla, left for Oakland early last week to join her husband, James Calhoun, who is engaged in defense production work.

Mrs. Mabel Williams, wife of John Williams, and one of the leading sopranos of Bethel AME choir, met with a serious accident last week. She was run down by an automobile. She is at home now doing nicely after spending several days in a local hospital for special treatment.

Mrs. Freeman and her niece, Ola Williams, returned from visiting relatives in Riverside a few days ago.

Mrs. Minnie B. Pope returned from Los Angeles, Monday where she was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Winifred McFarlar. She also attended the revival that is being conducted by Rev. C. Johnson, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church.

The 25th marriage anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Hicks was observed in grand style Sunday, Sept. 20, at their pretty home, 2762 Commercial avenue, where in their spacious living room, Allen N. Hicks and Maude Roberts, replighted their wedding vows which were read by Rev. L. H. Owens at 5 p. m. in the presence of a host of invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks solemnly reaffirmed their faith in each other after a voyage of 25 years on the matrimonial sea together. The newly re-weds seemed quite happy over having reached the quarter of a century port safely. The guests were served in the living room and in the attractively arranged patio. The following ladies graciously assisted in serving the 125 friends who came to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. Hicks on this auspicious occasion. Mrs. Tennie Ragsdale in charge of the guest book; Mrs. Aubrey Rogers, Mrs. H. P. Holomon, Mrs. M. Brooks, Mrs. Alma Bell, Mrs. Cleo Kyles, of Los Angeles; Mrs. S. Jones, Mrs. Frances Spann of Los Angeles, Mrs. Vera Marming. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, also letters, telegrams, and presents from out of town friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Logan celebrated their 14th marriage anniversary with a buffet supper, Sunday night, Sept. 20, at their residence, 2237 Ocean View boulevard. Congratulations and best wishes were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Logan for many more years of happy wedded life.

The EAGLE correspondent spent a very pleasant social hour or two with Mrs. Lucille Simmons, erudite and progressive manager of the well-kept Simmons hotel, the stopping place of many notables who visit San Diego.

ANESTHETIST—Mrs. Eola Lyons Taylor, who resigned her position as director of nurses, Flint-Goodridge hospital, New Orleans, to give full time to the hospital's department of anesthesia. She is one of the very few Negro nurses qualified to administer anesthetics.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our beloved sister, Louise Spates, who departed this life Sept. 16, 1942. We also express gratitude for the many beautiful floral offerings.

....Marie Downing BEAUTY and ROMANCE

SPONSORED BY LaVeuse BEAUTY BUREAU

The Lariesse Beauty Bureau was established by the Godefroy Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving women's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

It grows increasingly obvious that many women who are dissatisfied with their fate in life, have no one to blame but themselves. Not all of us are blessed with the body of a Venus, and there are those who spend a lifetime bemoaning this fact. On the other hand, there are those better adjusted, happier females, who know how foolish this is. These women are the DO-ers of life; those who busy themselves with ways and means of remedying defects, or compensating for them by the development of some other advantage.

Throughout the country within recent years, there have sprung up gymnasiums for women, or exercise salons which are patronized by people from all economic and social positions in life. They are women who, for some reason or another, are not satisfied with the contours of their body, and who are determined to do something about it, instead of attempting to hide the defects with uncomfortable, constricting girdles which seldom succeed in their mission.

Most public schools and Y.W.C.A.s are equipped to cater to this group of ambitious femininity. But there is no common, classroom answer to your body remodeling problem. Not only your silhouette and weight are involved. Your difficulty may be caused by bad posture, incorrect diet, an ungraceful walk, etc. Yet all are problems which can be solved with intelligent study and strict adherence to a schedule . . . for a while. No job or schedule that you can undertake can pay you greater dividends.

Here are some of the body defects which usually can be corrected by exercise: Large abdomen, thick thighs, fleshy ankles, heavy upper arms, full waistline. Round shoulders, sway back, and protruding stomach are sometimes a result of bad posture, standing and sitting incorrectly. Bad skin, the condition of one's hair, and the quality of one's disposition are sometimes the result of incorrect diet. Anyone can learn to walk well and nothing is as expressive of a happy, self-confident attitude, as a graceful, swinging stride. As a rule this is no accident. You can give yourself a strong, handsome body, and the proud walk of a princess, by exercise and concentration upon an ideal.

Our advice to you is to consult the director of physical education at the gymnasium in your community. She is an educated, specially trained individual, who will be flattered at your confidence and request for advice. And then follow this advice. We can't all afford body massages, the services of a charm doctor, or a fancy exercise salon. But smart instructors of physical education say that a psychological change, a happier, more optimistic mental attitude, usually follows physical improvement, and we say that if this is true, it is worth as much in time, effort, and money, as you can afford to pay. Take advantage of the body improvement which can be yours with a little intelligent study, and a lot of will to be beautiful.

What are your beauty problems? Write: Marie Downing, Lariesse Beauty Bureau, 3509 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

It isn't TABOO any more for girls to know these truths

Girls today can be grateful that some subjects are discussed more frankly than they used to be.

That's one reason why thousands of women have come to know about CARDUI's 2-way help. Some take it, as directed, three days before "their time" to help relieve periodic pain due only to functional causes. Others take it as a tonic to stimulate the appetite and aid digestion by increasing the flow of gastric juices, thus helping build up strength and energy for those demanding days to come.

A 62 year record says CARDUI may help. Try it, won't you?

ro newspaper in the country to do so. We have urged, and continue to do so, complete freedom for India, for we see the stug-gles of the Negro people of America inext ricably bound to the struggles for freedom of the people of the world.

These things, you might say, are merely the job of a newspaper. There are, however, many kinds of newspapers. Every newspaper serves the interests of someone or some force. And it is too well known that most newspapers serve the interests of those who control them. In no other way can the manner in which the Indian situation has been distorted by the United Press, controlled by Scripps-Howard, be accounted for. In no other way, can the libelous editorial against the second front by Manchester Boddy in Tuesday's Daily News be explained.

We, the Negro people have too much at stake in this war. We must not become confused on the issues today and we must know the correct course to follow to insure that the last dastardly semblance of inequality is wiped forever from this earth. In our struggle in the correct direction lies our freedom. Following after those who would confuse and divide us lies our destruction. Now, more than ever, we must know the truth. Only a paper, clear on the issues of the day and dedicated to the winning of this war for the liberation of ALL people can hew a clear path out of the maze of confusion and deliberate falsifications of those issues. Only such a newspaper, a people's paper, a Negro people's paper, will dare to buck the defeatist forces of this country, wh o, having held the whip so long are making every desperate effort to continue that hold.

Only such a newspaper can dare point out that the struggle of the Negro people at this hour must be a united struggle— we can no longer afford the luxury of a struggle of the Negro people alone for our freedom. "Prejudice as usual must go" aand we must lead the way.

It takes daring to chart such a course and stick to it day by day, week by week, for the enemies of the people are never asleep. Therefore to be a people's paper for a people's victory, we must be suported by the people. The California EAGLE Victor y Drive is enlisting the support of the people of Los Angeles to insure that it may conti nue to fight for the people. We are fight-ing the good fight; we are asking you to keep the faith.

This you can do by getting subscriptions from everyone in your home, your neighborhood, your club, your shop, and your business for the California EAGLE. It is to your interest and theirs that the forces of reaction that would stifle the voice of the EAGLE shall not be victorious. THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE, THE PEOPLE'S PAPER, has become the cry of the hour. Let us soar with the EAGLE to VICTORY!

christened the ship, which is sponsored by another great Negro singing star, aPul Robeson. Her impressive rendition of the National anthem grought a rousing cheer from the htrongs gathered at the California Company shipyards.

J. H. Wadsworth, president of the firm delivered a stirring tribute to Booker T. Washington, terming the educator "one of the truly great Americans."

Another distinguished Washington visitor wtas Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, Dr. William J. Thompkins, long-time friend of Booker T.

The whole idea for the naming of the ship started with Peter Ross, a worker at the shipyards—one with an idea and the courage to express that idea and work for it.

Into the building of the ship went the labor of workers of many racial extractions. Chinese. Filipinos, Mexicans, Negroes, and whites, and out of the labor came the first large ship in the American Merchant Marine ever to be named for a Negro, her weight, 10,500 tons.

"America is proud today of these fellow workers. They are the heroes of the hour. They are flinging into the teeth of Hitler and Hirohito the challenge of free labor, democratic labor, inspired labor that refuses ever again to be enslaved."— these were the proud words of Mary McLeod Bethune.

Present as honored guests at the launching were Mrs. Portia Washington Pittman, daughter of Booker T. Washington; Miss Fannie Pittman and Miss Louise Washington, grand-daughters of the educator. Miss Elaine Mulzac, daughter of the Captain was also present.

Representative groups of the city's school children were present. There was Yolande Stovall and Roberta Ecton from John Adams Junior High school; Haroldine Browning from Polytechnic High school; Constance Dorsey and Thomsina Ayers of McKinley; Algenardo Johnson of Jeferson; Lucinda Bailey of Lafayette, Beldon Smith of Jordan High school; and James Warren of Dorsey.

cards but were not allowed to be initiated into full membershiy whereby they could participate fully in union activities. A victory was won in this direction and a handful of members were so initiated prior to the reactionary motion in the union's executive council not to consider any further applications from Negroes for initiation. The action was based on the fact that a part of the International ritual denies Negro membership. It is claimed that the International must act first although steps of the union itself have already broken this precedent.

The few Negroes that have been initiated have been hard at work to bring this condition to the attention of the membership as a whole and to urge as many Negroes at Lockheed and Vega as possible, to apply for membership. It is pointed out that union participation is the one sure means of fighting for fair upgrading. "This fight," a speaker for the Negro workers said yesterday, "is only part of the fight to broaden the understanding of labor, as well of management, of the true meaning of national unity."

Dr. L. B. Brown at Baptist Temple

The Baptist Temple had a great day Sunday. Pastor J. C. Sweeney delivered two great sermons morning and evening. There were four additions to the church.

Dr. L. B. Brown, who had just returned from Baltimore, Md., and Chicago, worshipped at Baptist Temple Sunday morning. He prayed a wonderful prayer after the sermon by Dr. Sweeney. Dr. Brown spoke in glowing terms of the great work God had done through Dr. Sweeney in erecting such a wonderful place of worship that was out of debt. He also brought greetings from the Baltimore ministers to Dr. Sweeney.

Among the many things he stated was that the Baltimore ministers called Dr. Sweeney one of the greatest preachers in America and that they wanted him to return East.

Dr. Brown has been asked to be one of the teachers in the Pure Gospel Bible school. Dr. Sweeney is delivering a series of sermons from the subject, "Success and What it Costs." Everyone should hear these great messages. The public is welcome.

Anti-Bias Resolution Passed By State AFL Convention

Labor again spoke out to condemn racial discrimination last week as the State AFL convention went on record three times in oposition to race bias.

And another, oft-repeated cry, close to the hearts of Negro Americans, was that demanding full support of the President's 'second front' pledges. 1800 AFL delegates said:

"We reiterate our often expressed complete confidence in the leadership and wisdom of the President of the United States and pledge wholehearted support to the program and strategy which may be required to bring about the successful and complete victorious end of the war and the crushing of the Axis and dictators."

In their resolutions on discrimination, on India, on the President's 7-Point program, and on the endorsement of political candidates, this convention was united as never before behind the support of the President and his win-the-war policies.

A highpoint of the convention was the report of James Anderson, field agent of the Federation, and one of the top Negro union men of the State, which hailed the breaking down of many racial bars but pointed out that much work in this direction is yet to be accomplished.

Delegates:—

1—reaffirmed the State Federation's previous stands against racial discrimination of any kind and gave their approval to President Roosevelt's executive order 8802 outlawing bias in war industries.

2—Asked President Roosevelt to intercede to bring about the best possible arrangements for the complete cooperation of India and the Indian people with the United Nations, and approved a report urging freedom for India.

3—Endorsed wholeheartedy the proposals of the American Federation of Labor to the CIO to make a serious effort to achieve organic unity between the two organizations.

the United States—the next target of Japanese attack. Defending our borders, we defend your shores. Heed our appeal!"

Added urgency was given this statement when it was learn that in some quarters in India there is a tendency to view the United States with suspicion and there is growing an almost unanimous distrust of British promises —according to Herbert Matthews, New York Times correspondent.

Reports coming from these areas also state that repression by British police and troops continues and that a surprising number of Indian women and girls are leading activities for national independence.

News was also received this week of the landing of Negro troops in India, where their chief complaint was that they were too far from the fighting line. to participate in any of the acts

That Negro troops will not have of military suppression of the Indian people in that President Roosevelt has already announced that American troops will take no part in these actions.

WENDELL WILLKIE PUTS UNITED NATIONS ON THE SPOT

Wendell Willkie, who is President Roosevelt's envoy abroad, has defied the defeatists and appeasers in demanding an honest deal from the United Nations in the matter of opening a Second Front.

Mr. Willkie has been to Russia and seen Russian men and women in a death struggle to defend their country and their homes. He has talked to Chiang-Kai-Chek of China, seen the determined heroic, hungry and half-clad Chinese people battle the five-year old invasion of the Japanese Fascists. And he knows what's going on in India.

Without reserve or mincing of words, the 1940 Republican candidate for the presidency not only recommends the opening of the second front, but declares that he will dedicate the rest of his life "urging that the world be constructed on a basis granting to all men freedom, the right to governments of their own choosing..

Willkie further says, "In the United States, we have talked a lot about our production figures, but our allies (Russia and China-C. A. B.) have seen very little of our actual arms—so it is only natural for some of them to wonder how much longer they will have to eat, like children, at the second table."

It is my personal opinion that Mr. Willkie is appealing to the United Nations and especially to his own nation that we stop leading the people up blind alleys—that we get into this war and

State CIO Acts on Problems of Minorities

The state convention of the California State CIO Council in its first pre-convention meeting at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel authorized a special convention committee to deal with problems of minority groups. The CIO is meeting at the Hollywood Roosevelt because the hotel previously reserved for the convention, the Biltmore, refused to house Negro delegates.

This committee was one of the few special committees to be established. The committee is headed by Revels Cayton, state vice-president, and who for the past year has directed CIO activities among minority groups.

Philip Connelly, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Industrial Union Council declared that the CIO considers the question of the problems of minority peoples within the CIO as important as any question that has come before the convention, and as a result the executive Board thereby established a special convention committee to deal with the question.

"We are proud of our record so far, and the committee will be charged with the responsibility for mapping plans for the state so that progress toward the establishment of thefull rights of this section of our people can be continued."

Today the executive board is to take up in detail the report of the activities of its anti-discrimination committee during the past year. The report will review the activities of the USES, and the discrimination at North American.

CONTINUES DRIVE TO PUT ANTI-POLL TAX MEASURE OVER IN CONGRESS

With support pledged by Gov. Culbert L. OLson, Mayor Fletcher Bowron and with a local committee headed by Supervis-or John Anson Ford, Los Angeles' anti-poll tax fight moved into high gear today.

One of the items of chief importance in conducting the anti-poll tax fight is making certain that Congressmen disposed favorably toward the bill will be in Congress when the measure up for voting next Tuesday.

In many parts of the country the anti- poll tax fight is taging a house to house form and through this medium of informing the residents of New York of the urgency of constant contact with their representatives, 90 noCgressmen have pledged to vote for the bill.

According to the latest word from Congressman Thomas Ford, of the EAGLE's home district, who will probably be floor leader for the bill, the greatest danger of opposition lies in the Senate, for 218 House members have by their signatures to the discharge petition, practically committed themselves to vote for it.

The greatest problem in this direction lies in being sure that they are there to do so.

The CIO today sent out a call to arms to its nearly 6,000,000 members throughout the United States to "watch Congress" on three bills, chief among which is the anti-poll tax bill, for as they pointed out, "Poll-tax repeal is at the heart of our victory drive, for the poll-tax bloc, which the ten million Negro and white workers and farmers in eight southern states, is the center of organized oposition to the President's seven-point program today just as it has been the center of organized labor-baiting and organized opposition to every piece of labor legislation ever presented or enacted.

In Los Angeles today, Mayor Fletcher Bowron expressed his support of the bill with the regret that he cannot actively engage in work for it as chairman of the Los Angeles anti-poll tax committee, since he, is already serving in dual capacity of Mayor and Civilian Defense Director for Los Angeles.

Mrs. Betty Hill, outstanding Negro Republican leader, forthrightly stated that regardless of

Soldier, 2 Civilians Shot By MP

In a fusilade of pistol shots that punctuated the early morning hours, a soldier and two civilians fell with 45 calibre bullets in their bodies yesterday at 3:45 a. m. Wounded at the hands of Corp. Marion Brooker, a military policeman from the 75th Chemical Corps stationed at San Diego, were Theodore Webb, 1193 East 32nd street, Ollie Lason, 4052 Wall street, and Jack Minzer, 5707 Wilsburn avenue, Bell, California.

Patterson, the soldier most severely wounded of the trio, is in 73rd Evacuation hospital, Sawtelle, suffering from five wounds in the lower part of his body, in a critical condition and, according to physicians, may die. Minzer shot, shot in the right shoulder. Lason, with a bullet in the left leg, will recover. Brooks was arrested shortly afterward at the scene of the affray in front of 4312 So. Central, by Richmond Dunn and B. L. Hoskins of Newton St. He was booked on three charges of suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, and later turned over to army officials. All connected with the near tragedy were colored.

According to witnesses, Theodore Webb and Thomas Lncky, 926 East 21st street, they saw the shots being rapidly fired by Brooks but knew nothing of the argument until later. The explanation of the affair came from Pvt. Brower, also of the 77th Chemical Corps, companion of Patterson. According to Brower —Brooks had stopped them and demanded to see their papers. They asked him to get them to the depot, so they could return to their post at San Diego, but he attempted to arrest them and an argument ensued. Suddenly, Brooks pulled his service automatic and began shooting at Patterson, even, as Brower claime, while Patterson had his hands in the air in obedience to Brooks' command. Five of the steel-jacketed pellets found their mark, but the other two went wild and crashed through a glass front of lunch stand across the street, sriking Minzer as he sat at the counter eating.

Lason had just parked his car on the east side of Central avenue and was getting out when the other wild bullet felled him.

If, according to the witnesses, testimony, the actions of the M. P. were inexcusable, he will be severely dealt with by army authorities. In case Patterson dies, the charge will be changed to that of murder.

Macbeth in Move for Japanese

A demand for habeas corpus for Japanese citizens held in evacuation camps was filed this week in Federal court by Attorney Hugh E. McBeth, Negro lawyer.

McBeth raised the demand in court before Federal judges Harry Halzer, Campbell E. Beaumont and J. F. T. O'Connor in behalf of Ernest Wakayama, Hawaiian-born Japanese held in a detention camp since the evacuation of Japanese from the war zones. The case, which is attracting great attention, is considered as a test case, and those doubting the wisdom of releasing the Japanese at this time fear that the wily McBeth may find a loop-hole that will make further detention of the Nisie illegal.

He is well remembered as having taken up the fight against Hollywood Legion Boxing arena, which for nearly a score of years had barred colored fighters.

BACK FROM OVER THERE

STAFF SERGEANT D. SEBASTIAN SCHIFFER tells Eagle of experiences in war-torn Australia, where he was under fire. Reporter jots it down.

LOCAL STAFF SERGEANT HERE FROM ABROAD

Staff Sergeant D. Sebastian Schiffer, Los Angeles product and former local boxer, was home this week after seven months of active duty abroad, part of the time spent at dangerous Port Moresby, New Guinea.

He has been through many air raids and "seen a lot of action."

About the fighting spirit of Negro troops in Australia, the Sergeant said, "The boys are doing a great job. They have performed many heroic deeds. Several have received decorations from from Gen. MacArthur."

Hailing Australian hospitality, Schiffer said, "The Australians took the Negro soldiers into their homes, calling them the black yanks, favorng them to other soldiers. They call our boys 'fair dinkum blokes, meaning that we are good fellows. Many of the Negro soldiers have married Australian 'sheilas,' their slang for girls.

About the fighting qualities of Japanese soldiers, the Sergeant was distinctly impressed. He said, "Whereas we fight to win, and sometimes to save our skins, they fight to die. This in spite of the fact that the average Japanese enlisted man makes between eight and fifteen cents a day. They are cunning foes and must not be underestimated.

To insure peace, Schiffer held, "the Japanese armies must be utterly annihilated." This war the returned soldier thinks is a "fight for America's freedom If the Axis wins, they would make a world not fit to live in. The danger is very real, I think. There is no theoretical question as to whether this is 'our' war—one thing, we'd just better not lose it!"

Schiffer is slated to attend Officers' Candidate Training school. He spent more than six months in the battle area and is one of the first men locally to receive the gold overseas chevron denoting such service. In the army over three years, Schiffer was once a noted West Coast boxer.

Lena Horne Injured on Film Set

BY HARRY LEIETTE

While executing one of her most strenuous dance evolutions during the filming of a cabaret sequence in M-G-M's "Cabin in the Sky" Tuesday, beautiful Lena Horne, one of its greatest stars, was badly injured and had to be rushed to the hospital.

In landing from a spectacular leap and turn, her right ankle twisted, chipping a bone in the joint and tearing a ligament.

Her physician stated that it will be several weeks before she will be able to walk or dance on it again. She suffered intensely until the arrival of the ambulance and was administered first aid treatment to relieve the pain.

Eddie "Rochester" Anderson picked her up from the floor and carried her to her portable stage dressing room.

"Rochester" was her dancing partner during the important sequence.

The night club scene was played before stylishly dressed guests numbering nearly two hundred. Duke Ellington's band is swinging out the music and the couple are the idols of the crowd as all other dancers stop to watch them.

Being one of the most important scenes in the story, all production had to be stopped Tuesday by order of the director. However, such scenes as can be made without Miss Horne will be shot pending her recovery.

Now the Scripture Says:

"Let not mine enemies rejoice over me." So my Aunt says that she is not ready to declare that Sister Daisy Jones is her enemy, but she certainly couldn't see how a FRIEND could laugh the way Sister Daisy laughed when she (my Aunt) slipped and fell into that mud puddle.

Yours until a whole lot of people will no longer rejoice over other people's downfalls,

EUGENE HENRY HUFFMAN.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

AFL Convention Predictions and Prognostications From Here There and Everywhere:

This week in Toronto, Ont., (Canada) the American Federation of Labor's Annial Convention met. Representatives of some six million worker through out the United States and Canada are meeting to discuss the many problems that confront organized labor and the Allied Nations in the present emergency.

In order to keep in step with the constant fight of the people of these United Nations against their home grown fascists, disrupters, fifth columnists, saboteurs and anti-administration elements, this convention must fight against and oust any and all questionable characters, who would cause dissension in the ranks, conspire against the progressive policies of joint labor-management activities and fight against the adoption of resolutions for immediate offensive action.

From every corner of this great continent resolutions will come in faor of immediately opening the Second Front. In all probability, this convention will support the President's seven point anti-inflation plan, his price fixing measures and condemn Congress for trying to put a ceiling on wages instead of stabilizing them through the stabilization of prices.

On the question of wages, the executive council of the AFL stated that "an adequate and equitable wage for workers is particularly vital in wartime because of its influence on morale and on the ability to maintain production," and outlined a four-point ways and means plan to determine wage demands.

1—Whenever companies are able to pay wage increases, workers should equitably share in the wealth they create.

2—Where companies claim inability to pay wage increases and are paying sub-standard wages, the case should be examined on the basis of facts as to the company's financial condition.

3—It so vital to raise sub-standard wages so that pay throughout industry will as nearly as possible equal the best.

4—Wages must be adjusted through colective bargaining on the basis of facts as to the company's ability to pay, with recourse to mediation and arbitration, if necessary.

Perhaps the biggest job, the most important duty, of the AFL, aside from the dominant victory motif of the convention is the question of the elimination of discrimination against Negroes and women. The greatest problem connected with this question is the successful integration of all new workers, Negroes and women into trade union life and to make model labor citizens of them.

On the question of complete labor unity, Vern Smith, of the People's World, says, "Yet, with the appeaser forces raising their heads for the final struggle for a compromise victory for Hitler, with the Roosevelt program in the scales of a national election, there never was such need of labor unity within the country as gefore.'"

The reactionary forces of the AFL will in all probability fight against any progressive measures that might come up in this convention. When the Secand Front resolutions are presented there may be some who will rise up in opposition. There are those who are delegates, yet not true representatives of the membership, who ar not in accord with the policies of our Commander-in-Chief and will try to perpetuate some sort of foul play during the convention. Delegates will be alert for the past evasion of important issues, such as the question of racial discrimination. The American Federation of Labor's leadership and membership are in all sincerity for all measures that may be progressive in purpose, but they are wide open to attack from the subversive elements within their own camp whose underhanded methods present a real threat to the war effort, the battle of production, and the labor movement.

(Editor's Note: The following are excerpts taken from Opportunity Magazine's Survey of the Month.)

NORTH CAROLINA NEGRO NAMED VICE-PRESIDENT OF STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR

For thefirst time in its history, the North Carolina Federation of Labor has elected a Negro as a Vice-President. He is Haywood Williams of Durham, N. C., 32-years old, a line setting employee of the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company and a member of Local 194, Tobacco Workers' International Union. The action was taken at the closing session of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Federation, held at Asheville, N. C., on Aug. 12. It was necessary for the Federation to amend its by-laws to elect Mr. Williams, who was chosen by Negro delegates. He is a member of of an all-Negro union.

This is the first time a Negro was been chosen a vice-president of any Southern state Federation, with the exception of Alabama, whose Federation had one Negro vice-president. As vice-president, Mr. Williams will be an exofficio member of the executive board of the North Carolina Federation.

NEGRO WAR WORKERS RECEIVE LABOR MERIT BADGES

More than 3,000 Negroes in the North Carolina Shipbuilding company, Wilmington, N. C., are scheduled to receive Labor Merit Badges for meritorious production effort, the U. S. Maritime Commission revealed recently.

The North Carolina Shipbuilding company is one of ten firms designated by the Board of Awards of the Maritime Commission to receive the 'M' Burgee-Pennant, the Victory Fleet Flag and Merit Badges for outstanding production performance.

In addition to the award of the 'M' pennant to the plant, each worker engaged in the Maritime Commission work wil be given a merit badge.

NEGRO SEAMEN URGED TO REGISTER FOR MERCHANT MARINE EMPLOYMENT

All Negro seamen holding Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation papers were urged recently to register at local United States Employment Service offices in principal cities ond towns for work in the now under manned merchant marine, one of the war's real high-pay fields.

A national registration of former merchant marine seamen, has been announced by Admiral Emory S. Land, War Shipping Administrator.

According to the War Shipping Administration, a total of 7,000 Negro seamen worked at least one saltt water or Great Lake voyage between August, 1940 and Aug., 1941. In addition, 13 480 Negroes holding Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation papers were not on sea duty at this time. This indicates a potential total of 20,840 Negroes experienced in merchant marine service.

Admiral Land explained that, due to the steadv increase in size of the American Merchant Marine, there lies ahead the necessity to employ as many experienced seamen as possible to help man the ships carrving vital war supplies. Over 100 000 seamen and officers will be needed to sail the 2,300 new ships that will be built by the end of next vear.

"There is no compulsion in this registration," he said. "All that we ask of these men is that they let their country know who they are, and if they are willing to return to the sea. They will be called only as the need for their particular skill becomes acute...

MRS. FDR, IN SAN DIEGO, MAKES PLEA FOR SCHOOL

SAN DIEGO—(By E. B. Wesley)—Mrs. Franklin D. Rooseveut was a visitor in the city a day or two last week as the guest of her son, Lt. John Roosevelt, and his family in Coronado. More than 200 civic, social, and military leaders heard Mrs. Roosevelt speak at the First Methodist church Thursday afternoon at which time she made a strong plea for the Bethune-Cookman college at Daytona Beach, Fla. The following are some of the statements made by Mrs. Roosevelt:

"I wish every person in America could know Bethune-Cookman college as I know it," she said, following her introduction as "honorary chairman of this campaign committee" by Dr. Frank H. West, head of the foundation fund for the Methodists.

"One of the reasons why I am so interested in this school," she said, "is because it is building youth leadership that might try to attract a following among Negroes."

She urged that all Americans "realize that the time is here when each of us must ask himself: What rights should every citizen have in a democracy?"

"Do we believe that members of a minority race should have equality under the law?" she asked. "Do we believe that all men and women have equal rights to jobs, provided they are capable of holding them? That each has an equal right to the opportunities of education?? To participate ingovernment?"

These are basic steps, Mrs. Roosevelt asserted, "in putting our own house in order."

"Other nations can believe in sincerity, only as we show them by example, not in lofty talk, how a democratic and Christian country deals with minority races," she said.

Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, was a visitor at the Pacific Parachute plant Thursday afternoon of last week. "Skippy" Smith, famous young parachutist, is manager of this plant—only one of its kind owned and operated by Negroes. This project is financed by "Rochester" Eddie Anderson, renowned stage and screen star.

Our Night of Fun club, a comparatively new organization, met with Mr. and Mrs. Cassey Jackson, 2126 Everett avenue, Saturday night, Sept. 26. A feature of this club is the observance of the birthday of each member. Mrs. Jackson's natan day came within the week of the 26th, and she was the recipient of many beautiful cards and other tokens of friendship which she deeply appreciated. Mr. Isaac Haines is president and Mrs Mavola Johnson Cudl, secretary of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Zollicoffer recently entertained at breakfast in their imposing home on 29th street in compliment to Rev. J. V. B. Goins of Austin, Tex., cousin of Mr. Zollicoffer and Presiding Elder of the Austin district, composing 25 charges. Thirty-five years had rolled by since the two relatives had met. Other out-of town guests enjoying the hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Ford White; Mrs. A. Griffin, Mrs. Howard M. Spann, Mrs. Ollie Henry of Los Angeles. Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, reader, choir director, and composer, also of Los Angeles, added much to the merriment of this event.

A pretty wedding in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis V. Allen of 2844 Franklin avenue Monday evening was that of Chris Canta, chief steward in the United States Navy and former president of the Filipino society of San Diego, and Miss Enthen De La Verne o San Fransisco. Madam J. Esqueira was the matron of honor, and Mr. Allen, best man. Others in attendance were Mmes. Carmela Camacho, Esperaza Marquez Juliano Barbara Solodad Adame, Senor Jules CCamcho, A. B. Santos, M. Lee Glover. Professor J. M. Acugria of Tia Juana. Soloists on this occasion were Senora Marquez and Camacho of Tia Juana, and Mr. Lee Glover of this city. Prof. Acugria was the accompanist. Rev. Kei T. Wong, Chinese minister of the Chinese Congregational church, performed the ceremony. The newly-weds will make San Diego their home after a honeymoon in the north. It was the bridegroom's request that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen be the scene of the marriage.

The annual scholarship of $25 given by the Beta Mu chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority, was awarded to Miss Estherlyn Cheaves, local San Diego High graduate of 1942. Miss Cheaves began her studies this fall at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. She writes that she is very pleased with her new surroundings.

The formal opening of the USO has been scheduled for next week. The exact date will be announced later. Mr. Javne assisted by Miss A. Gladden of Los Angeles will have charge of this recreation center for the soldiers.

On Monday night, Sept. 27th, a program of unusual merit in charge of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, inimitable entertainer, was presented at Bethel AME church and was known as the Double Victory program. Among the prominent speakers were Mr. D. V. Allen, president of the Race Relations Society, Dr. E. A. Bailey, and Mr. Fred Johnson. Little Isabel Vorce led the audience in the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Rev. L. H. Owens, pastor of the church assisted Mrs. Bilbrew to conduct this big program.

Mrs. A. E. Morgan, a very active member of Bethel AME church and civic worker, returned to the city last Saturday after an extended eastern trip where she was able to see her husband, Mr. William C. Morgan, who is in the U. S. Navy and is now in a war zone somewhere.

Miss Clarice Hubert, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Owens and a recent graduate of San Diego College left for Berkely Monday to further pursue her studies.

The surprise wedding of the week was that of Miss Thelma Gorham to Mr. Genoa Thompson in Yuma, Ariz., Sunday morning, Oct. 4., Miss Gorham, the elder raughter of Mr. and Mrs. graduate of San Diego Senior High schoool, San Diego State college, and Atlanta University, Ga. She is now holding a lucrative position in the San Diego Welfare department. Mr. Thompson, formerly of New Orleans, La. is the first Negro mechanic to be employed at Ryan Field. eH is a skilled electrician. m The groom has been caught in the draft and went to Los Angeles for the finals on Wednesday of this week.

The Women's Civic League is honoring Miss Loraine Van Lowe, San Diego's first Negro day school teacher with a reception Sunday, Oct. 11, at 3 p. m. at the Community Center, 2936 Imperial avenue. Miss Van Lowe is now teaching social science and English at the Memorial Junior high school. Her pupils are of mixed races. Miss Van Lowe is a graduate of San Diego State College and of Columbia university, where she received her degree. The educational committee, of which Mrs. Ida Jackson is chairman, is inviting the public to join thew in recognition of Miss Van Lowe's success.

Mrs. Asa Shepherd, chairman of the Women's Civic League Membership drive, which is now gaining momentum, together with the president, Mrs. J. E. Craft, entertained the captains of the drive, Mrs. Jessie Morris, Mrs. Vivian Matthews, Mrs. Iola A. Rowlette, Mrs. M Curley, Mrs. Ida Jackson, Mrs. Ella Bell Davis at a tete-atete Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Craft. Since the drive closes the second Sunday in November, they made plans for reaching every Negro woman in San Diego. The evening was spent enjoyably, and every one left with the determination to have a larger membership in the League.

Rowland Home Scene of Buffet Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Feltenberg, and Miss Nancy Harris entertained with a buffet dinner at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland on S. Hobart boulevard, in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hickman, nee Emily Mason.

Those present were Mmes. and Messrs. Hamilton Boswell, Edward Atkinson, Emmett Ashford, William Knox, John F. Simmons, Ernest J. Mason, Misses Edith Jones, Mabel Hawes, Tyler Mae Richards, Katherine Kenzy, Messrs. Tommy Long, Shelton Bishop, Thomas Reid, Wilbur Mason, and James Robinson.

PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt presenting the President's manuscript to Francis R. St. John, chief of the circulation department of the New York Public Library, while Dr. L. D. Reddick, curator of the Schomburg Collection, looks on. Mrs. Roosevelt opened the exhibit of "The War And The Whole People," at the Schomburg Collection of Negro Literature by presenting the original manuscript of President Roosevelt's Atlantic Charter address. This unusual exhibition includes rare manuscripts and speeches from the four continents. Together they show the determination of the common man the world over that the great sacrifice of life and treasure in this war will result in a better world of security and equality. Among the original manuscripts now on display are speeches of General Chiang Kai-Shek, Emperor Haile Selassie, Commissar Joseph Stalin, President Elie Lescot of Haiti, Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Walter White, Wendell Willkie, Governor General Felix Eboue of French Equatorial Africa, Mrs. Roosevelt, Charles S. Johnson, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Chairman Paul V. McNutt, Miss Tallulah Bankhead and Dr. Hu Shih, former Chinese ambassador to the United States.

Seance at Temple of Divine Truth

The public is invited to attend an orange seance to be held at the Temple of Divine Truth, 109 E. 33rd street, of which Susie A. Jackson is the pastor. The seance will be Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock, Oct. 9, and will be conducted by a wonderful psychic reader. Floyd Smith is secretary.

Alliance Will Meet Monday

The Interdenominational Minister's Alliance will meet in regular bi-monthly session Monday, Oct. 12 at 11:00 a. m., at the YMC A., 28th and Paloma streets.

Rev. Dr. A. Wendell Ross, president, will be the order of the day, discussing, "The Highlights of the National Baptist Convention." Other interesting features will be presented. The public invited.

Every tanker sunk last Spring in the Axis submarine drive along the Atlantic Coast cost us enough gasoline to drive 13,000 cars from New York to San Francisco.

The many friends of Madame Florence Cole Talbert, who now makes her home with her husband, Dr. McCleave, at Memphis, Tenn., will rejoice in the privilege of hearing her as guest soloist at the morning worship at Eighth and Towne this Sunday morning.

Dr. Frederick D. Jordan, pastor, stated that in response to his request and the urging of her many friends, Madame Talbert had extended her stay in the city in order to serve this occasion.

The theme for the morning sermon will be "Builders of Tomorrow." A special anthem will be rendered by the senior choir, ably directed by Jester Hairston.

A crowd of devout worshippers, suggestive of an Easter Sunday, responded to the World Day Communion Service invitation of last Sunday, falling only a few persons short of their goal of 1000 communicants for the day. The officers of the church were unanimous in marking it one of the greatest days in the history of the church. Ten persons united with the church during the day. One of these was a soldier, Sgt. Reginald Taylor, temporarily stationed in this vicinity, whose previous membership was St. James AME church, New Orleans, La. After service he was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hodge.

Already in the organizations and departments of the church, the election of officers is progressing rapidly. The Decorateur club this week elected Mrs. Mary Person as president to succeed Mrs. Jozelle Bryant. Mrs. Minnie Tucker was reelected for her 7th term as president of the Patron and Patroness club, and Mrs. Florence Carter was reelected president of the Courtesy club. The Sarah Allen Woman's Mite Missionary society also retained its president, Mrs. Artishia W. Jordan, for this year. It is expected that all of the elections will be completed within the next two weeks. An impressive installation service for the officers of all the organizations is being planned, and detailed announcement will be forthcoming at an early date.

Rev. F. L. Taylor Announces Special Services

Rev. F. L. Taylor, pastor of Providence Baptist church, announces the special services of the month at the church, 507 E. 35th St. Rev. Taylor who has just returned from his vacation and attendance at the National Baptist convention at Memphis, Tenn. promises these services to have an unusual appeal to the congregation and friends.

Sunday, October 11, at 3 p. m. will be the Christian Friendliness service when everyone is invited to meet Big Sister, Mrs. Lillian Stewart; at 7:30 the same Sunday Dr. E. S. Branch, pastor of the Fourth Missionary Baptist church, Houston, Texas, will speak. October 18th will be Pastor's Aid Sunday with Rev. E. D. Payne of the First Baptist church as guest. The 25th of October will see the laying of the cornerstone at 3 p. m. with MWSF & A M of which M. Starling J. Hopkins is the deputy grand master in charge. There will be a week's services leading up to this great occasion.

RIVERSIDE LODGE, NO. 13, INITIATES 18 CANDIDATES

RIVERSIDE— (Delayed)— The members of Orange Valley Lodge No. 13, with the assistance of members from San Bernardino, Santa Monica, El Centro, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, and Fresno Lodges, witnessed a grand initiation of eight candidates. At 10 p. m., the members of Queen Elizabeth Chapter No. 8 served a delicious ham dinner in the social hall of the Second Baptist church. Afterwards the great labors of the initiation were resumed.

After the regular meeting of Queen Elizabeth Chapter No. 8, a stork shower for the Matron, Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, was given at the home of Mrs. Hettie Carter. Many lovely gifts were received. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Jask Akins and Mrs. Cora Lott motored to San Fransisco and visited many friends over the weekend. Mrs. Akins and son were former residents of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams and family spent an enjoyable day visiting relatives and friends in Los Angeles. Also Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lott enjoyed the visit of relatives and friends in Los Angeles.

Many Riversiders attended the Farewell Tea honoring Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Austin Sunday, Sept. 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eason, 523 West 50th St.

3 Big Choirs Will Sing at Independent

A gala musical celebration of three mammoth choirs, totaling 150 voices and featuring cathedral music and gospel song will mark the finale of the 27th anniversary of the People's Independent church this Sunday at 6:30 p. m.

It was 27 years ago that the late Rev. N. P. Greggs, meeting with 47 followers in the Odd Fellows Hall, created the foundation for "the church that serves." In 1916, these followers, under the guidance of their pastor, moved to the location at 18th and Paloma, where the church now stands. Today, after 27 years, 20 under the founder and 7 under the present progressive minister, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, the members of the church and the community can look back on 27 years of rapid and fruitful activities on the part of this church.

The People's Independent church stands today with its 6000 enrolled members as a symbol of the creative power of religion among the people. Not only has this church sought to administer to the spiritual needs of the people, but has sought to correct those evils which so often grow out of the conditions of life. Never has this church sought to isolate religion from the everyday life of the community, nor to isolate the problems of the community from religion.

Under both the late Rev. Greggs and the present minister, who as a lad received his training under Rev. Greggs, the People's Independent church has tried to solve many of the problems of the people through the dictates of Christianity. Consequently many progressive measures for the amelioration of social conditions of this community have been born and nurtured within the church.

Today various social agencies are operated from the church and it can be questioned whether there is another Negro church in America that has the varied social program which has been developed at Independent.

Of these many social activities mention must be made of the Employment Office, which has been instrumental in placing thousands of Negroes within the years and which today is playing a great role in placing Negroes in National Defense industries. The Employment Office has been in operation for the last six years. Within the program of this agency, its recently resigned director Mrs. Louise Robinson, often created jobs for the community by persuading firms to hire Negroes where in the past discrimination had been evident. Today the same policy is being followed by the new director, Miss A. Davis, who in a very short time has done much to wipe out discrimination against Negro women in various industrial firms.

Independent also operates a Boy's Home, located at 915 E. 50th street, to care for those youth who are the victims, often of conditions, social and economic, over which they have no control. This home was the answer to the direct need of Negro boys for a place where an opportunity would be offered for the rehabilitation of predelinquents. Within the last three years scores of boys have received the assistance of the home, which has prevented them from following a manner of life that would have hampered their future. The superintendent of the home is Frank Randolph.

The Dental Clinic, under the guidance of Dr. N. A. Fearonce, has done an invaluable service for the community by treating the teeth of the community's young people. At present, the clinic is under reorganization. The new program will consist of health education for parents during the war emergency. Courses will be held on nutrition for adults and children, food values, first aid, Red Cross and child care for young mothers. In the past, the health program has included first aid under the war program sponsored by the Red Cross, under Mrs. Kimbrough.

The youth program of the church is symbolized in the Scholarship Fund for College Youth, which has been under the direction of the minister's wife, Mrs. Gwendolyn Russell. A church choir of youth is maintained under the direction of Albert McNeil.

The interest of the church in the life of the community and in those who are not members of the church, regardless of race, creed or color, is demonstrated by the weekly radio program, "The Visitor," heard every Sunday at 10:15 a. m. This program is dedicated to spiritual messages for the sick and shut in. Often, at times when very important matters were before the community, the church has gladly donated the facilities of the radio to the community. Over these programs have been heard some of the most learned men of the Negro race.

Today, in following out the program of service which the church has adhered to during the last 27 years, the People's Independent church is listed as an air raid shelter for the people of the community in case of emergency. Rev. Russell is enrolled in Civilian Defense as an air raid shelter warden.

Behind all the community activities of Independent has been the desire to live the Christian life on earth; to make the greatest sacrifices for the greatest good of all.

The church maintains a staff of 10 paid workers. The assessed value of the church is $75,000 debt free. The enrolled membership is 6000.

For the anniversary, the members of the church have accepted the taask of raising $3000 for a war emergency fund for community aid. The final report of this campaign will be heard this Sunday.

The choirs that will participate this Sunday will be the senior choir of the church, under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, the N. P. Greggs Gospel choir and the choir of youth, under the direction of Albert McNeil.

Sunday's program will be a musical worship of thanksgiving and rededication to the principle that makes People's Independent church "the church that serves."

Ivan Harold Browning, internationally known tenor, will be the featured soloist at the morning services at Independent church Sunday.

Special Notice to All

The great opening service at the Holy Temple, 1245 N. Fair Oaks avenue, Pasadena, will commence Sunday, Oct. 11, at 11 a. m. Our friends are cordially invited to attend this service.

This temple is dedicated to those who are interested in spiritual development and spiritual education in holiness and perfection; learning how to master and control ourselves and all other things in harmony with cosmic law, and the word of God. That they may do the things Jesus did, read John 14:12.

This great temple is where the sick are healed (and you can learn how to heal others), the lame are made to walk, the blind can receive their sight, the dumb speak, burdens are lifted and souls are blessed. Come one, come all to the Holy Temple; be filled and baptized with the Hoy Ghost and power.

REV. PAUL COWGILL, Director;
DR. M. W. GRAY, LL. D., President.

2 Steps Made for Meat Rationing

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—Through its chairman, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, the Foods Requirements committee of the War Production Board today announced two steps implementing the wartime meat program established earlier this month.

To make certain of sufficient meat for Army, Navy, and Lend-Lease uses, the committee set up a policy of limiting total packer deliveries of meat into civilian consumption, and placed the limit for such deliveries during the final quarter of 1942 at the following percentages of total packer-deliveries during the final quarter of 1941: Beef and veal, 80 percent; lamb and mutton, 95 precent; pork, 75 percent.

To provide for fair sharing of this meat supply, the committee asked civilians voluntarily to hold consumption at 2½ pounds per person per week.

Limitation orders effectuating the policy on restricted civilian meat deliveries by packers will be drafted and issued by the Office of Price Administration.

DEMAND EXCEEDS SUPPLY

Secretary Wickard pointed out that, statistically, the limitation figures for the last three months of 1942 indicate an over-all reduction of 21 percent below the amount of beef, veal, pork, lamb, and mutton vailable in the last quarter of 1941. However, in actual operation, the order may not result in so great a cut, since adjustments will be made when necessary to allow for changes during the past year in the pattern of distribution, and the wartime food requirements of different areas.

Wickard commented that the allowance to which civilians are asked to limit themselves in the interest of fair distribution is entirely adequate for good nutrition.

Explaining the two new steps in the wartime meat program, Secretary Wickard said:

"During the coming year American farms will produce and packing plants will handle over 24 billion pounds—a greater amount of meat than ever before in history.

"But the demand for this meat will be even greater than the huge supply.

"Three weeks ago we estimated Army, Navy and Lend-Lease needs at six billion pounds. This has now gone to six and one-half billion pounds. Civilian consumers would take more than 21 billion pounds if it were available. The total supply is 24 billion pounds. The total demand is 27½ billion pounds. There must be sharing of the supply.

"The wartime problem of managing our meat supply is twofold: (1) to share the total output so that the minimum needs of our fighting men will be filled; (2) to share the supply available to civilians so that everyone has an equal chance to get his fair portion."

Hold Ordination at Cornerstone

The ordination service of Rev. Ann Frances Reed was held at the Cornerstone Baptist church, 1428 E. 14th street, last Sunday at 3 p. m. Rev. D. C. Austin is the pastor.

The selected council of ministers included Rev. Smith, Rev. A. Moten, Rev. R. M. Marshall, Rev. H. D. Higdon, Rev. J. N. Whitten. Rev. Whitten was in charge of the council. The entire council was elated at the success of the service. Rev. A. F. Reed was given a rating of 85 per cent.

The members and friends are praying for the success of Rev. and Mrs. Aun France Reed and that God forever bless them both.

Homecoming Day at Second Baptist Church Sunday

Sunday will be Home Coming Day at Second Baptist Church. About forty shut-ins will be conveyed to the church for the morning worship. Dinner will be served them free of charge in the lecture room. Following this will be a testimonial meeting and Holy Communion.

Every member of the church is expected to make a special effort to come "home." All persons who were at anytime connected with the church are cordially invited to re-enroll, make their pledges, and get back into the active fellowship with their church. There are hundreds of such people in Los Angeles. Now is the time to come back into the fold. At 3:30 p. m. the Ushers will have their annual service with thirty other churches cooperating, while at 6 p. m. the Missionary Society, which is sponsoring Home Coming day, will promote a Christian Fellowship meeting with cooperating societies from other churches.

The Minister in Second Baptist has preached several series of sermons since being there, but none has elicited more interest than the present, "Concerning God". This theme will be discussed over a period of thirteen consecutive Sundays. Topics dealt with have been: "The God you Can't Discourage", and "Jehovah Versus the Christian God."

Beginning Sunday the following in order will be preached: "The Incomparable God," "What is God Doing During This War?" "How to Please God," "The God of Eternal Mercy," "The God of Everlasting Love," "Sinners in the Hand of God," "God Making Man's Wrath Praise Him," "God and the Kingdom Idea," "God's Unspeakable Gift," "God Fully Revealed in Christ".

Great crowds are in attendance. Last Sunday downstairs was filled, and two thirds of the balcony. Come early Sunday if you wish to have a good seat.

Dr. Thompkins Signs Festus Coleman Petition

Among the many people to sign the petition asking for the pardon of Festus Coleman, San Fransisco youth sentenced to 65 years in the state penitentiary on a charge of rape, was Dr. William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia.

Dr. Thompkins, who came West for the launching of the Booker T. Washington as the personal representative of President Roosevelt, is visiting his relatives, Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Stovall and Miss McCullough. Eagerly signing the petition, Dr. Thompkins said that he was glad to do whatever he could to see that Festus Coleman, sentenced in one of California's most patently prejudiced trials, was released.

Special Services at Greater Olivet

The Greater Olivet Baptist church, 981 E. 35th street, is continuing with the installation services in honor of the newly elected pastor, Rev. W. P. Hutchinson, A. B. Sunday afternoon, Oct. 11, at 3.00 o'clock, the Rhoda girls sponsor the second program. If you missed the Young Matrons program Sunday you missed a treat. Don't miss the Rhoda Girls. Dinner will be served free every Sunday afternoon through Nov. 29. All well wishers are invited.

An Illinois village with no crime problems donated 12 tons of cell metal from the local hoosegow to the salvage drive.

ALPHA PHI ALPHA FRATERNITY FORMAL—The members of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Alpha Epsilon chapter, hold their 9th annual formal on the campus of the University of California in Berkeley on Sept. 26, when they invited their friends to a "Queen Coronation Ball." The ball, a huge success, was chairmaned by James Allen. The "queen," Miss Elise Honegger, of San Francisco, and a sophomore at the University of California, was given a great ovation and presented the crown by Harold Jones, president of the fraternity. Miss Honegger was also presented a beautiful bouquet of roses, which was a compliment to her lovly gown of blue net. After the coronation the brothers of the fraternity joined hands and formed a circle to sing the Alpha hymn with their newly crowned queen in the center. This fraternity is proud to have given four of its brothers to the armed forces recently. (E. F. Joseph Photos.)

READY FOR the oven is part of a batch of cookies being prepared for 1000 soldier boys weekly at the American Red Cross canteen. Left to right, at work are Mrs. Josephine Wittaker, Mrs. Bessie Patterson, Mrs. L. J. Fairbanks, and Mrs. Annie Kennedy.

MUSIC MAJOR—Miss Jeanne Morrow, of Pasadena, who left last month for Fisk university to continue her study of music there. Miss Morrow has been presented in several recitals in her home city, and critics have been unanimous in their recognition of her musical talent. She is the daughter of Mrs. Cora L. Morrow, who for the past 12 years has been a regular certified teacher in the Jefferson Evening High school of Los Angeles, and is employed by the Los Angeles City Board of Education.

★ CROWN CITY CAPERS

By PHILIPPA JONES

BY CAROLYN A. COLLIER

PASADENA—Here's yours truly pinch-hitting for Philippa Jones and hoping I do a good job of it! Three weeks have passed since school started and eight cent a pint sherbert and hotfoots aren't funny anymore.

TCH! TCH! HOW 'BOUT THIS?

Friday was a great day for us girls, as Billy Benfield invaded our campus. Jackie Bunch had a good time at the party. She went as a chaperon for her younger sister, Lula, but spent her time looking over the boys from the younger set for prospects when the army takes the older boys. B. Y. P. U. couldn't hold P. J.'s interest but a certain girl could. How abont that, P. J.? Abbie Jones is home on a 15 day furlough. Paul Devine is the "Casanova" at East Campus. He walks with one girl to class and comes back to the table with another. Where was that little run you male to L. A. from 2—9, Ralph McAfee. Why did Rufus Blake sleep all day Sunday, and then go to his own league Sunday night? Could it be twelve boys from L. A. (Watts)? Jackie and Gloria are going in for tennis with our new campus members, Karl O'Kely and Roy Stevension. Betty Benson seems to be the only one who rates letters from Grady. If J. C. keeps on winning their football games, Juis Ramirez is going to be a poor man if he keeps betting Jackie and yours truly. We get a malt every time Pasadena wins. Let's not give any more hotfoots, please, they are not becoming to Barabara Reynolds and Willie Slayton has toomuch fun laughing. What two sisters have their eyes on Ralph McAfee. Harold Johnson, a former Pasadenan, is a free man again. T. D. Floyd is back at East Campus playing quarter back for the Bulldogs. Taylor Morton and Nettie Mack make a fine couple on the Campus as well as off. Freshmen at J. C. coming from a different Junior High schools are Barbara Ramirez, Juanita James, Gwen Morrow, Jerry Thornton, and quite a few more, whom we are all glad to see.

Rumors of coming mariages are going around. Cookie Cook and Jack Terry seem to have gotten caught in that rumor.

Yours truly is crying over the departure of her brother, Arthur, overseas.

Modern dancing has drawn such personalities as Philippa Jones, Jessie Arnold, Lora Jacques, and Jackie Bunch for nymphs of tomorrow.

Who is married to Joe Bell, soldier stationed in "Dena," Esther Owens, or Jerre Dickens. Who is always singing 'I Wonder When My Baby's Coming Home?" —backwards.

Surprise of the month: the marriage of Imogene and Bill Irving. All the luck in the world to these two swell people. How about that date Jesse and Jimmy have Sunday? Why does Julia Baily come out to E. Campus so much—it couldn't be to see Willie Slayton, could it?

What is there to Frank B. going to Sy Hester's house so often? Also, Butter Ellis and Dolores Carroll. Haven't heard about Dot Mimms lately. I wonder how she enjoyed the dance Sunday night? We'll, miss the Canvas covering out at the table. We will all be couple of shades darker. How about the Arthur-Duncan and Mary Porras time? We don't hear much about Fred and Crysette stepping out, but they do step out, but definitely! And How about Billy Scott, Cris?

Who holds Jayne Harrison's heart, Ralph McAfee, David Scott, "Bump" C. or Colonel Young? Where does M. L. Jackson come into the picture?

I wonder who will be "coupling it" Sunday at the Orpheum. This is a hint to all those that are not coupled. We had an inspiring assembly, Spike Jones and his City Slickers. The fastest man in Siam and "Clink Clink" were some of the crazy songs played.

How about the kids going to "La Pintoresca Library" to study (supposedly) and have a ball! We'll all hate to see the many Pasadena and L. A. boys we all know going into Uncle Sam's armed forces. What will we girls do without them, pull a J. B. and look for new prospects. As we rob the cradle, let sing gently "Rock A-bye, Baby."

I'm looking forward to the day when: Harrison Bailey comes home. Jonathon Moreland is drafted. Fine boys and ugly ones who aren't conceited. The day Thelma stops sleeping. Willie S. stops singing the blues. Jerry T. shaves his beard. The war is over and all the boys come home. V is doubled in the other races and yours truly stops getting traffic tickets—C. A. C.

P. S.!

For anyone's information, I didn't have anything to do with the above. AMEN!

P. E. J.

CLUB IDEAL HONORS PRESIDENT LILLIAN PITTS

A gala affair given in honor of their president, Lillian Pitts, was enjoyed by members and friends of the Club Ideal Wednesday night, Sept. 30.

They met first at the lovely home of the club secretary, Eva Lee Buckner, where they were served cocktails and hors d'oevres, and from there they met at the Harlem where they danced and dined.

Due to the regrettable illness of her husband, the president was unable to attend and her cheerful presence was keenly missed by everyone.

The fun started when Lessie Madison, acting mistress of ceremonies, had each member and guest introduce himself with a joke which continued until the presentation of the floor show after which everyone started for home declaring that it was one of the most enjoyable affairs attended by them.

Present also among the distinguished guests was Mrs. Florence Cole Talbert, world famous singer.

Adrienne Ellis and Eva Flack Off to Teach in North Carolina

Miss Adrienne Ellis, graduate of the University of Arizona, and Miss Eva Flack, of 137 North Occidental blvd., who attended City College here, left this week for Greensboro, North Carolina, to do what they can to spread the teachings of Baha'i Faith, particularly with respect to race unity.

Both young women attended the West Coast Baha'i summer school, at Geyersville, this summer, studying the words of Baha'u'llah, founder of the Baha'i Faith, who taught that all mankind were as the leaves of one tree, and the children of one Father; and that mankind was created to carry forward an ever-advancing civilization.

The young women take with them the good wishes of the hundreds of Baha'is of the Los Angeles community, and are sent under the auspices of the Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States and Canada.

Old Records Make Boys Happy at Eastside USO Center

History repeats itself. The U. S. O. Center had a gift of old Victrola records. With our improvised music box, such records with Ruth Etting, Mamie Smith, Bert Williams, Ethel Waters, and others were enjoyed by service men and hostesses. This gift, along with our musical instruments, enlivens the evenings.

Miss Gertrude Christman visited the Center and recounted her interesting meeting with Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune. The men listened eagerly, as they are interested in any news of accomplishments of the Negro race.

Last Wednesday evening our "Intellectual Gab-fest" was held. The topic was "After the War—WHAT?" The discussion was lead by Pfc. Joseph Crosby; about seventy-five men and hostesses were present. The topic for this Wednesday, Oct. 7, was "Marriage During the Present War... During this week the fellows have been invited to broadcasts, church services and home hospitalities.

Things we like: Men who come in every evening to study their lessons in our upstairs Reading Rooms.

Donors this week have been legion. Some of them were Mmes. Florence Witcher, Willie Mae Harris, Lucille Beverly, Louis B. Windsor, Sadie Davis, C. D. Frederick, Cora L. Flood, H. A. Greenwood, Miss Gertrude Chrisman and others.

If you are wondering what is being done for our boys, come to the Center and see.

Air Wheeler's Club Enjoys Frolic

The Air Wheeler's club, the latest organization of service men formed here, held its first frolic last week, in the nature of a cocktail dansant, in the swank Westside clubhouse of the Alpha Bowling club, Western avenue, near 29th street. The event proved successfully just how popular the boys are.

The new club is composed of those chauffeurs recruited from civil life, whose duties are to see to it that all members of the Army Air Corps assigned to their cars arrive safely at bases and ports and on time. The organization was founded by Robert Bennett, and patterned after the old Colored Chauffeurs club, formerly headed by Bennett.

With a goodly sprinkling of the soldiery present, the smart crowd made a splendid blend with the beautiful appointments of the clubhouse. The club is headed by Clifton Bennett, popular in local club sets, as its first president. Twenty of the 50 men now enrolled as chauffeurs attached to the air wing of the army are members of the Air Wheeler's club. Bennett said he expects all to be listed in the club membership before another fortnight.

The membership roster includes besides its president, Charles Morrow, secretary; Peppy Prince, business manager; Robert Bennett, advisor; Charles Hughley, treasurer; Louis Villers, Chester Wyatt, Alexander Ward, Dave Wilder, Anthony Gordon, Thomas Thurman, Preston Prince, Frank Fennell, James Cleveland, Howard Grant, Otis Welsy, Willie Sykes, Richard W. Burns, and Waldo Cooke. More than 250 guests were present at the dansant.

Mrs. Lilah M. Black Visits Eagle Plant

A visitor to the California EAGLE this week was Mrs. Lilah M. Black, who recently sold her apartments at 1671-73-75 W. 35th street and purchased the duplex at 1244 W. 36th street, at the corner of Budlong and W. 36th.

Mrs. Black is now at home to her many friends at the above address, 1244 W. 36th street.

MARJORIE GORDON, former owwner of the News-Guardian of Los Angeles and one-time employee of the Kansas City Call, left Oct. 6 to join the WAACs in Des Moines for the duration of the war and six months thereafter. Miss Gordon, a resident of Los Angeles since 1936, was born in Kansas City, Mo., and is a graduate of Lincoln High school there. She is the sister of Mrs. Pansy Smith, a former visiting nurse of Kansas City, who is now doing nursing service for national defense. Prior to her departure Miss Gordon was a member of the choir of Avalon Christian church.

MRS. TERRY GUEST SPEAKER MONDAY

Mrs. Jessie H. Terry will be guest speaker at the opening breakfast at Sojourner Truth Home, 1119 E. Adams boulevard, Monday morning, Oct. 12, 10:00 a. m. Mrs. Terry will speak on "The Home Front." The breakfast is 40c. For reservations call AD-8426.

Former Chicago Matron to Wed

Mrs. Kenova McKinney and Mr. Edward Warfield will be married in simple ceremony Sunday, October 25, in People's Independent church of which the bride to be, is an active member. The Rev. Clayton D. Russell will officiate.

Mrs. McKinney was formerly of Chicago and was active in social, civic and religious circles. Mr. Warfield was a former U. S. Army man for many years who saw service through the European country. He is now stationed at Sacramento, where he is employed by the government in secret service work.

The couple will be at home to their friends in Sacramento.

CORPORAL ABBOTT R. JONES HOME ON FURLOUGH

Corporal Abbott R. Jones, attached to the U. S. Calvary training center at Fort Riley, Kansas, arrived here Monday on a 15 day furlough. Young Jones, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jones, 92 Pepper St., Pasadena.

Corp. Jones was star end on the Pasadena J. C. football team a few semesters back. While at Ft. Riley, he and UCLA's Jackie Robinson were constant pals of champion Joe Louis.

★ GOLDEN WEST BRIDGE

We are very sorry, indeed, that you have not had your Bridge Notes for the past two weeks. We make every effort to see that you have them and we appreciate your inquiries about them.

Many things have happened since we were with you last. The first trophy put into play for our Friday night series just a year ago this month was won by this writer. Thanks to the good playing of the partners who helped me with my three wins. C. J. Maddox and Estell Bryant gave me my first win. Boy Scout Maddox again for my second win, and Louis Beal for my third and final win.

GWBA members, shed no tears over the loss of this trophy as the person who donated it gave a new and more expensive one ($75). Its beauty is something to behold.

Only four points behind us for the September series were May Denton and Gene C. Campbell.

Winners Oct. 2 were Agnes Beal-Dr. A. L. Wallace. First, N-S: Clarabell Cash-George Whisenant. First E-W: Elizabeth Harris won Thursday afternoon's play. May Denton and Mrs. Denny tied for second. Louisa Ran won Sunday's play. Boy Scout Maddox, second. Viola Henry and genial Gene Robinson tied for third.

Get your teams together and be ready for our next play. The date is to be announced. If you haven't your partner for our second annual open pair regional to be held at the clubrooms Oct. 17-18, you had better do so at once. Our women's pair and men's pair regional will be held soon, and our first sectional is to be held in November. Save your tires and play duplicate with us on all these dates. Sunday at 7 p. m., Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.; first and third Thursdays at 2 p. m., and Friday at 8:30 p. m. Our address is 1054-56 E. 54th street; AD-5946.

SANTA MONICA CHURCH GUILD CHAPTER ENTERTAINS

The Nannie Burroughs chapter of the YMW's Guild of Calvary Baptist church entertained last Wednesday evening in the church dining romo with a very pleasant refreshment party honoring the combined chapters of the senior missionaries of Calvary Baptist.

A short program was rendered. Following the opening with the Lord's Prayer, there was a reading by Miss Estell Bennet, the exchange of greetings by Mrs. Frances Celistan, president of the general missionary society and Mrs. Mary Jewel Holloway, president of the Nannie Burrough's chapter; appropriate remarks by Mrs. Harris, and a resume of the activities for the past quarter by the educational chairman.

The Guild is nearing the completion of another successful year which will have witnessed many acts of dispensing cheer to shut ins and those less fortunate. Two new members are enrolled, Mrs. Lila Mitchell and Mrs. Louise Lennox. Mrs. Geraldine Irvine has a two month's leave of absence.

Mrs. Florene Fennell entertained the Guild at her home several weeks ago. This meeting was highlighted by the taking of photographs and the making of musical and oral recordings, which caused much amusement when played. Mrs. Blanche N. Carter, Guild counsellor, who has been in the South and other points is expected to be present soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Clark returned recently from a vacation to Houston and San Antonio, Tex. Mrs. Clark visited her parents in the latter city.

U. S. PROBES ASSAULT OF 2 MINISTERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—The Department of Justice has under consideration the cases of two Negro ministers who allegedly were assaulted on an inter-state carrier on Sept. 8, 1942, while en route to the National Baptist convention in Memphis, Tenn., the Office of War Information revealed today.

The two ministers, the Rev. J. C. Jackson of Hartford, Conn., and the Rev. S. A. Young, of Washington, D. C., conferred with Victor Rotnem, chief of the civil rights section of the criminal division of the Department of Justice, on Sept. 22. This conference was arranged by Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who also attended.

The two convention delegates charged that they were assaulted by white passengers on a Southern Railway train while in inter-state travel from Washington, D. C., to Memphis, Tenn. The two alleged attacks occurred near Scottsboro, Ala., and Gurley, Ala.

According to the two ministers, both of whom had received Pullman accommodations at Washington, the incidents occurred when they attempted to visit other Negro delegates in a day coach near the front of the train. To reach this coach, it was necessary for the two ministers to pass through two day coaches occupied by white passengers.

Rev. Young declared that he was attacked by a white passenger as he entered the coach when he failed to obey an order to "Go back!" The minister stated that he was struck in the face and that his glasses were broken.

Rev. Jackson, who is president of the New England Negro Baptist convention, charged that he was similarly attacked a short time later when he attempted to return to his Pullman reservation after visiting Negro delegates in the forward day coach. The 76-year old minister stated that his eye glasses were broken, his face cut and his lips bruised.

L. A. Workers School Fall Term Begins

With problems increasing daily, with the Battle For Victory becoming the concern of every man woman and child in our nation, greater knowledge and ability to deal with the task becomes increasingly necessary.

This, approximately, is the reason why spokesmen for the L. A. Workers' School expect a record attendance at its fall term beginning Oct. 5 and ending Dec. 23.

The expectation for a record-breaking registration is based on the fact that the curriculum this term contains a great many new courses dealing with the history and problems of the Negro People: a new course, Victory and After, based on the new book by Earl Browder, foremost spokesman of the Communist Party in the United States; courses in Labor, Collective bargaining procedure, First Aid, Women and War, Life in the Soviet Union, as well as history, economics, and other timely subjects.

Those interested in further information as to the courses, etc., should communicate with the Workers School located at 212 W. 3rd street, Los Angeles. Descriptive catalogues will be sent FREE to all who will write, or telephone to the school, MI-5303.

Just to make sure, a Midwest youth enlisted in both the Army and the Navy. When the Army called him he was at a Naval Training Station.

A train conductor and attendant intervened in the dispute.

Paving The Road That Leads To Victory ---

Last Tuesday the Negro Consumers and Producers Cooperative Association, which owns the Victory Market, had its regular meeting at the Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma Streets, under the chairmanship of Rev. Clayton D. Russell.

Most of the stockholders were present to listen to the reports rendered by Mr. Othello Nance, bookkeeper, and Mr. Isaiah Robinson, treasurer of the association. Their reports showed that the Victory Market has, in the first five months of operation, grossed more than $76,000 in receipts.

This is indeed a record for such a young co-operative. The "co-op," as it is called by Rev. Russell, was conceived, and is owned and operated entirely and completely by the people of this community. The Victory Market is the largest co-operative retail market in the United States, and is the largest Negro-owned market in the West, employing more than 15 Negroes.

For those who are not the proud possessors of "Victory Market Co-op Stock," there is still time to get in on the ground floor. From Rev. Russell's latest report, there is some $10,000 worth of stock left for a few lucky people.

The board of directors of the Negro Producers and Consumers Cooperative Association are Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, Mr. Isaiah Robinson, Atty. Crispus Wright, Mr. C. A. King, Rev. S. A. Williams, Mr. J. W. Robinson, and Rev. Clayton D. Russell, chairman. The association also has an advisory board, some members of which are Rev. J. R. Henderson, Rev. Grant Harris, Mr. S. P. Johnson, Rev. L. C. Cleaves, Mr. J. W. Griffin, and numerous others.

The association is incorporated under the State laws of California and has a capital stock of $25,000. The charter, granted the N. P. & C. C. A., permits them to buy and sell produce, and to retail it, and distribute it. With the Victory Market, whose manager is Mr. Theodore Albritton, the association is moving rapidly towards the fulfillment of their charter.

"The Negro Producers and Consumers Co-operative Association has three objectives or concepts," Rev. Russell stated. "They are generalized as ultimately to enter into the production field, but first of all, to unite Negro buying in this community." He continued, "Secondly, as a result of united buying power, to enter into farming, dairy farming, poultry raising, animal husbandry and other food production lines." Rev. Russell further stated that, "This will enable the Negro people to go a long way upon the road which leads to economic independence."

Rev. Baxter Duke Urges Blood Tests

"If I were President of the United States for one day, I should issue one dictum—a physical check-up for every man, woman and child."

So Rev. Baxter Carroll Duke—pastor of the Avalon Christian church— declared last Friday nite, Sept. 25, at a meeting of the Southeast District Village Health Association, held in the beautiful new auditorium of Hacienda Village Housing Project in Watts.

In Chicago, the pastor pointed out, clubwomen have united to stamp out venereal disease in Illinois. "I wish," he concluded, "that someone in California could share a vision like that. Meantime, I hope it will not be asking too much to let me become a part of your Southeast District Health Association, to help in any way I can."

Dr. Ruth Temple, Assistant City Health Officer, also spoke as guest speaker. After Chairman John E. Hargrove had thanked the hostess of the evening, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, manager of Hacienda Village, for the privilege of meeting in the Hacienda auditorium, Dr. Temple took the floor.

"Good health," Dr. Temple said, "is a democratic factor. Rich as well as poor strive to attain it; and disease can attack any of us."

The Southeast District Health Association, she declared, had been formed to aid citizens seek health. The aims of the society are large, she said, but the immediate problem is that of venereal disease. Statistics show that the cost of venereal disease is staggering, both in money and in human misery.

The meeting adjourned after a film showing had been announced for next time. The film, "Know For Sure," chairman John Hargrove said, is a talking picture, made in Hollywood with Hollywood stars, and is a frank presentation of the problems caused by syphilis.

Young People's Day at Wesley

Sunday will be Young People's Day at Wesley Methodist, 8th and San Julian. Miss Leonelle Hutton is chairman and Miss Frances Bowdoin co-chairman.

The young people are sponsoring both morning and evening services under the minister of youth, Rev. J. J. Hicks. The young people's 50-voice choir is directed by Georgina Browne.

The theme of the day will be "Victory Through Christ" and will be carried out with the colors, red, white, and blue.

Rev. Bentley at Landon Church

Rev. Bentley, pastor of the Community Baptist church, Landon, has returned to his church after a very enjoyable trip to the National Baptist convention.

He delivered a very inspiring message at the morning services which were well attended, and was very happy to find the church had carried on splendidly during his absence.

Sister Mouton, with the assistance of Sister Powell and Sister Wesley, have organized a junior choir.

Deacons Mouton, Zigler and Wesley gave their support in every way possible as did the other members to Rev. Toney, who was with us the third and fourth Sundays of August. His sermons were enjoyed very much.

The Sunday School is growing very rapidly. Sister Zigler is superintendent. Sister Dothard, president of the Missionary society and others of the community, surprised the pastor by the purchase of a piano. Everyone is happy to have the pastor home again. Estella Powell is clerk.

Rev. Isaacs Tells Sermon Topics for Sunday

An appreciative and enthusiastic crowd greeted the minister, Rev. J. B. Isaacs, Sunday, at Second AME church, corner 43rd and San Pedro place.

The choir was out in large number and a very impressive communion service was conducted. The minister spoke from the subject, "Broken Things," and pointed out that "life was made up of broken pieces of experiences, but out of these broken bits come exceptional opportunities which, if carefully observed, produce blessings."

The Sunday school, under the supervision of Mr. Buckner, was largely attended and several new scholars were added to the roll.

The minister, Rev. Isaacs, will speak at both services on Sunday next. At the 11:00 o'clock hour he will speak on "Demonstrative Christianity" and at the evening meditation hour he will speak on "Help in Hindrances." The senior choir will furnish music at both services.

The public is cordially invited to worship with us at Second church. Religion is like a bicycle; when it stops going it falls over. Let's keep ours going.

Acquire 750 Acres in AME Project

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—The acquisition of the additional 750 acres of the tract at Paradise Lakes by Bishop David H. Sims for the African Methodist Episcopal church in the First Episcopal district, is perhaps the most important real estate deal by an organization of the Negro group in the entire country. The church already owned 50 acres, developed to such an extent that during the summer months more than 90 children were given vacations under supervised, trained social workers.

Irving G. Schorsch, head of the Tioga Realty company here, announced that the negiations are completed for the transfer of property. The project is located at Alloway, New Jersey, and comprises 800 acres with more than 10 miles of roads, protected bathing beaches, recreation centers for children, library, caretaker's lodge and other attachments. When fully developed the project will have a community of 10,000 persons. Fifty acres of the project have been set aside for recreational and social welfare purposes.

Another portion of the lake frontage has been set aside for children, each receiving two weeks of camp activities as guests of the church. Classes in religious education and other important meetings are expected to be held in the open air forum.

Bishop Sims, who is recognized as one of the great social leaders of our country, said that "in the Paradise Lakes development, all of whom are represented in the project by their pastors, many of the members are also officials.

Tabernacle Men Invite Public to Sunday Worship

The men of Tabernacle Baptist church, 950 Hemlock street, cordially invite the public to worship with them in their third annual Men's Day, Sunday, Oct. 11. A well-planned program has been arranged. There will be an old-time spiritual service at 11:00 o'clock.

In the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock a gospel feast, with three visiting churches, New Hope Baptist, Saint's Home, and Ward Chapel, will be presented. Rev. A. Lively will be the speaker and the music will be furnished by the joint choirs of the visiting churches.

The Apha Qualidad club is also in charge and will feature some of its best talent. Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock will be known as a night of music in Tabernacle. A large variety of local celebrities will furnish the program of solos, duets, quartets, horns, drums, fiddles, flutes, and other musical instruments.

AME Pastor, Wife Return

The members of Ward Chapel AME church, 1250 E. 25th street, are this week, Friday, honoring the return of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Price and Mrs. Price with a reception at the church. The affair is in charge of the committee composed of Sarah Snowden, Virginia Dodson, and M. D. Ranson.

Soloist at Four Churches in Day

Lillie Moore, sweet singer of First AME choir, member of the Festival Negro Choir, of which Hall Johnson is director, and one of the soloists of the Gospel Choral Union, hung up a record of service at four churches, First AME with choir, Second Baptist with Festival Chorus at the B. T. W. pre-shop launching meet at 4:30 p. m., soloist for the Evening Star Baptist choir program where $40 was raised and guest soloist for the Women's Day rally at Zion Hill church at which $570 was raised. Here is one who believes that we only live to spread God's word in song.

Collins, Choir at Baptist Temple

Dr. Mansfield Collins, pastor of the Great Neighborhood church, his congregation and choir will be at Baptist Temple Sunday at 3 p. m. Friday night the Melody Girls will sing at the Baptist Temple. The public is invited to participate in both these programs at 620 East 48th street.

Morning Star Baptist to Burn Mortgage Sunday

REV. W. L. STRAUTHER

The Morning Star Baptist church, now located at 41st place and Ascot avenue, was organized in a store building at 1271 E. Adams boulevard, on Wednesday, July 28, 1928, by our present pastor, Rev. W. L. Strauther. We worshiped at this place for two months.

Our growing membership forced us to find a larger place. We moved to 38th and Compton avenue. We were indeed grateful to Mr. Pierson, who let us worship in that building without the charge of rent because of the religious motive. We stayed there for one year. Through prayer and our faith in God, our membership increased to 92.

Our next location was on San Pedro, a very undesirable locality. We also worshiped at 47th and Compton for two months. Then we bought on E. 25th street near Hooper. Moving into our new home, we enjoyed five successful years of growth and worship.

Upon selling our equity there and with some other help, we were able to make a small payment on our present church and parsonage. We have been at 41st place and Ascot since 1935 and were able to pay the last note on both church and parsonage on Sept. 21, 1942.

Our church has grown very fast, and we can happily say that our membership is being well trained and taught by our pastor. They seem to be in complete harmony with each other and ready to cooperate with the pastor's program. Lost souls are being saved in almost all our services.

This Sunday, Oct. 11, 1942, will stand out in the history of the Morning Star Baptist church as one of its greatest days. On that day the mortgage of our property will be burned. Rev. A. Moten, pastor of Bethlehem, and his choir will render the afternoon service at 3:00. We extend an invitation to all our sister churches and their pastors.

We, the members, feel that we owe a debt of gratitude to God for using our pastor, who came from Pasadena, to organize and build the Morning Star Baptist church. Rev. Strauther pastored and labored for 10 years in Pasadena. Under his ministry the Metropolitan Baptist church was padi for and a parsonage was bought. The church was represented in the state and national convention.

The Morning Star Baptist church is one of the strongest religious institutions in the city and ranks spiritually, numerically and financially among the city's leading churches.

Rev. Strauther is a well-trained teacher, a good preacher, and a God-sent minister. His wife, Mrs. E. L. Strauther, has stood by him for 26 years giving help and sharing in his unhappiness as well as happiness. At this time they seem to be enjoying more than ever a happy and successful married life.

May God continue to bless our church, pastor, and his wife.

FALL COUNCIL of Seventh Day Adventists will convene at Cincinnati, O., in its annual meeting, when denominational leaders gather, lay plans, and adopt the yearly budget for the world-wide church program. Elders Peterson and Troy, members of the advisory committee of the Negro department, are slated to address the gathering. They will also visit Chicago where Elder Troy pastored for five years. The denominational headquarters at Washington, D. C., where Elder Peterson served for 11 years as secretary of the Negro department, will also be visited on business pertaining to the denomination's work. Mrs. Troy and Mrs. Peterson will accompany their husbands on this first trip back to their former places of service since taking up work in their California churches.

Mrs. FDR in Plea for Race College

Outstanding people of the community had an opportunity to meet the two first ladies of the land last Thursday in response to an invitation by Miss Helen Gehagan, leading figure in Democratic party circles,, to meet Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune and to hear about the Bethune-Cookman college at Daytona Beach, Fla:

Mrs. Roosevelt spoke briefly to the group of her knowledge of the Bethune college and of her appreciation of the institution as a step toward real democracy in the United States. Mrs. Bethune spoke at length on the history of the school and of how she singlehandedly built this institution for under-privileged girls.

The climax of the afternoon was the cantribution of $300 by three stare of movieland—Ethel Waters, Hattie McDaniels and Clarence Muse. everyone else present pledged a donation to the work of the school.

Present were Mr. Lynn Atkinson, Mr. Harry J. Bower, Mr. Alpronso Bell, Mr. William Farnum, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Helms, Mr. Jean Hersholt, Mr. and Mrs. Honnold, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Martindale, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Mudd, Mr. and Mrs. E. Thompkins, Mr. William Nnckerson, Dr. Wilsie Martin, Mr. Clarence Mue, Miss Hattie McDaniels, Miss Ethel Waters, Miss Fay Allen, Mrs. Covinton, Mr. Paul Williams, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, and Mrs. Jessie Terry.

Dr. Harris Freed on 3 Counts

Dr. E. D. Harris, prominent pharmacist and proprietor of Harris' Pharmacy at 27th street and Central avenue, was acquitted of three counts invloving Section 337 of the Penal Code, commonly known as bookmaking, after a sensational trial without a jury before Judge Thomas L. Ambrose in Dept. 42 of the Superior Court last Monday morning.

The acquittal came after a lengthy argument by defense attorney, Curtis C. Taylor, representing Dr. Harris, who pulled a fast one upon Officer Aaron of the Newton Street Vice Detail.

The officer had testified that he sat on a stool at the soda fountain and saw Dr. Harris record a bet on a piece of paper while seated near the candy counter. He offered this testimony both at the preliminary hearing and the trial.

After the prosecution, which was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Russell, had rested, Attorney Taylor dramatically produced three photographs of the interior of the drug store showing that the candy counter contained a cash register which completely shut off all view from the soda fountain, and proved to the court that it was impossible for the officer to see anything that Dr. Harris wrote from where he was sitting.

The prosecution was unable to offer anything to overcome this evidence and after the case was argued by both counsel, Judge Ambrose gave Harris the benefit of the doubt and acquitted him of all three counts. Had he been convicted he would have faced a possible stiff jail sentence, as bookmaking has been made a felony by the legislature.

New Rene-Jeffries Song Disc Making Big Hit

A new song, a new recording disc, plus a new business combo, is making rapid strides in Eastside Los Angeles. Otis Rene, noted song writer, and Herbie Jeffries, marvelous voiced singing star, are both well known throughout the nation despite their connection with so much newness.

The Excelsior Record, and the song number, "At Least You Could Save Me A Dream," is the new material that is at present setting the town afire. The number is from the capable pen of Otis Rene, famed co-writer of "Sleepy Time Down South," and more recently author of "Someone's Rocking My Dream Boat," and is vocalized by Jeffries, noted songster who only recently severed his connections with Duke Ellington's orchestra.

Not only is the number, "At Least You Could Save Me A Dream," the number one hit song on the Eastside, but is also the favorite of radio and recording stars out at Glenn Wallick's Music City, deep in the heart of Hollywood. In popularizing the Excelsior recording disc, Rene hopes to thus afford a wonderful outlet for many local sepia song and dance artists to reach a large paying public.

WPB's order halting production of metal doors, door frames and shutters is saving the U. S. about 120,000 tons of steel for war, on the basis of 1941 output. That's enough metal to provide all the steel needed for the steel parts of 6,315 big U. S. bombers.

OAKLAND USO JR. HOSTESSES FETED

OAKLAND, Oct. 8.—Last week some 65 junior hostesses of the De Fremery USO club journeyed to Stockton to be honored guests at a reception and dance sponsored by the San Joaquin Colored Women's club of Stockton.

The purpose of the occasion was the formal presentation of the 55th Aviation Squadron stationed at the Stockton air field. This squadron is composed of some very fine young men.

The reception was given in the beautiful Stockton Civic auditorium. Music was furnished by the orchestra of the air base, and the general consensus of opinion is that they were "tops."

The members of the San Joaquin club worked hard to make it the success it was, but it would not have reached the peak that it did had it not had the untiring support, both morally and financially, of their leader, Mrs. Marie Lloyd, president of the club, and a leader in the civic and social life of this section.

BETROTHED . .

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weems proudly announce the betrothal of their daughter, Evelyn Jeanne, to Lieutenant Paul Willard Brown. The bride-elect, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Elvira Jefferies, entrained Wednesday evening for Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., where she will take her vows. Miss Weems was a student at Los Angeles City College, and very popular in the younger set. She was very active with the local movement of the USO. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown of this city. He is a recent graduate of Officers Training School, Engineering Division. Both young people are members of pioneer California families.

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

When mail is received from home town boys, actually fighting on foreign soil, it gives one an odd feeling, which makes one realize the fact that this war is real.

Besides the many letters coming from local boys stationed at Tuskegee Flying school, Fort Riley, Kans., Fort Belvoir, Va., and other forts inthe U. S

I received word from the Camp Haan boys, who were armong the first to sail. These boys are somewhere in Australia, and the letter, which was written by William Love, and Charles Hall, states that the boys miss the homeland much more than we realize and would like more than anything to hear from old friends. They say Hi-ya to al the chicks, and want them to take it easy til they get back to take up where they left off with the fancy rug-cutting and the ball-pitching.

Everyday the local boys are leaving. Bill Johnson, Fritz Banks—and Bobby Boswell have received final papers. Fritz departed for the service last week. Bobby is taking his furlough, and will remain in the city a few days longer. Bill leaves for Tukegee on the 22nd. Bob Edwards and Bill Milton have volunteered their serivces, along with William Spencer and others. Rupert and Joe [illegible]pson leave for the air corps Saturday.

ALPHAS PLEDGE MORE MEN

The Alpha fraternity, realizing the seriousness of the times, have let down with some of their rigid requirements and are pledging the faithful Sphinxmen who are eligible before their departure to the armed forces. Paul Weavr, Artis Grant, Bobby Boswell, Bill Johnson, Henry Milton, Booker Stevens and Harold Faulkner are in the group.

Fraternity pledges who were inducted before being made by the Frat have written back, stating that they may never enter school again and, therefore, they will never reach the goal of being a superior frat brother. In the past the Auphas have made three or four men each year. But in order to give these deserving Sphinxmen an even breake, they are loosening some of the age-old rules, and making threee times as many men as they have in the past. The fellofs are being initiated this week.

Over the week-end, army mates of my grother, Lt. "Woody" Brown, passed through the city en route to San Francisco from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Lt. Chas. (Local boy) Boswell was in the group along with Lts. Davenport and Newton, who are Easterners. The boys made a two-day stay in the city, seeing the spots, and taking in all the points of interest. Charles visited his family and many friends. Sunday evening at 7 o'clock the Lts. left the LA station. Melonee Temlge was on hand, wishing Chuck a cheery good-bye. Tuesday morning the boys sailed from Frisco for foreign lands.

Good old UCLA opens her scholastic gates tomorrow morning for enrollment. This will find practically all of the old kids in the army or working in defens plants. The many defense workers realize that education is vital so instead of givinb it up alltogether, they are taking a few units and holding down their defensegobs on the other hand. Arthur Trent is one ofthe rare specimen returning this semestre. Trent is taking a specified course, which is vital to the army. Marion Clarke, Rachell Tsom, Phyllis Hoxie, and Jane Edwards are among defense workers returning.

Some of the oud students enrolled at S. C. Leo Williams because of location and Henry Milton says the same thing, but the Younger Set's inclined to believe differently.

WHY a leading American citizen should be called upo to make such pleas in the midst of a purportedly all-out war, it is my conviction, lies in the unprecedented falsification, distortion and omission of which the American press has been guilty thru the war months. Some papers are real Nazi propaganda agencies revealing American military secrets to the enemy. Others are equally vicious appeaser sheets. In opposing and playing down necessity for a second front Now these papers—and the exceptions in the major U. S. press you may count on the fingers of a one-armed man--faithfully follow the cynical, blood thirsty policy of Munich: the disgusting effort to play off Hitler's fascism against the Soviet Union. It is this will o' the wisp which has brought us to the present tragedy. Continuation of this stupidity will lose us this war—lose it to the most revolting band of Cut-throats in the history of the world. The war of coalition, of united action, of allied strategy, of a second front now can bring us a sure victory, a victory which will spare us further years of bloodshed and murder.—a victory which will bring the energies of the people of the world directly to the business of constructing a world of freedom "in which all people may have the right to a government of their own choice."

TO THOSE cynics who believe such a world impossible, be reminded that the people will make this world. The millions of India, of China, of Russia, of Europe, of America, and of Great Britain. The millions of South America. It is for this that all these are willing to die in the contest against Hitler. There is new day to be lived. For the Negro people of America this day will bring freedom—freedom which our people will enjoy, not because someone promised it to them but because they will have nothing less.

BUT all this is dependent upon what we do NOW. It is dependent upon whether we fight a war of appeasement or one of coalition.

THOSE leaders who discern the epic outlines of the present struggle are the citizens of the future. Those whose blind prejudices, whose fear and distrust of the heroism and the inflexible determination of common people everywhere lead them into appeasement and defeatism—these are remnants of an age whose funeral services are being conducted on every battle field in the world.

State TB Chief Is East Area Speaker

The staff physicians of the East Area Health Program met Wednesday, Sept. 30, at the 28th Stree. Health Center with Dr. Leonard Stovall, medical director, presiding.

The guest speaker, Dr. Edward Kupka, chief of the tuberculosis division of the State Health department, addressed the group, expressing appreciation for the contribution already made by members of the Southern California Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical association in giving its services to support the program instituted by the Los Angeles Tuberculosis and Health association in this area.

Plans for the expansion of the program of health education and control of tuberculosis in this area, and recognition of problems confronted by the Negro medical profession and sympathy for problems of Negroes, were discussed at length.

Dr. Henry McPherson, president of the Southern California Medical association, expressed appreciation behalf of the association for the work done by Dr. John Urabec, consultant to the medical staff of the East Area Health Program, who has enlisted in the medical corps of the United States Army and will be leaving soon.

James Stone, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis association, told the group of plans for extending the program and introduced George Shahan, his assistant, who replaces Glenn Armstrong, who has become assistant to Ford Higby of the California Tuberculosis association at San Francisco.

Sandwiches, coffee, and milk were served, and all agreed it was a most stimulating and enthusiastic meeting. Next staff meeting will be Oct. 28.

This Newspaper is an institution developed by and for people of this community to present news of the day, foster better race relations, lead public opinion and contend for Constitutional Rights at all times and in all public institutions and places for all peoples.

"Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." Prov. 4:23.

The Poll Tax Wobbles

Before another issue of this newspaper reaches the stands, the House of Representatives in all probability will have voted upon the Geyer anti-poll tax bill. That this vote will be a favorable one is OUR responsibility. The overwhelming majority of the American people are solidly behind any measure which will extend the democratic right of franchise to ten million fellow citizens. This IS the sentiment of our people. Negroes, because they are four million of that disfranchised ten million, have a peculiar and tremendous responsibility to mobilize ALL Americans so that their collective will may be felt in the Halls of Congress during the next few, fateful days.

There is no way of over-emphasizing the importance of the anti-poll tax measures. Not only are they a fundamental democratic reform; not only are they the first visible implementation of the 15th Amendment to the Constitution since Reconstruction;—but they are emergency WAR measures of life and death significance to every citizen of this nation.

Because of the poll tax restrictions upon the vote, less than 20 percent of the electorate in eight Southern states is able to cast ballots. In many districts, the percentage runs as low as five percent, as for instance in the district which loud-mouth John Rankin "represents." This means, simply, that a whole section of the United States is without any people's representatives in the nation's highest legislative body. Whom, then, do the hundred-odd poll taxers really represent? They represent the most reactionary, race-hating financial groups in America. They are the puppets of the U. S. pro-Hitlerites. They are the shock troops of the Axis invasion. Hasn't the Vice-President of the United States called polltaxer Martin Dies a member of Hitler's gang? Isn't the office of poll tax Senator Robert Reynolds the Washington headquarters of known Axis agents? Doesn't poll taxer Rep. Rankin shout infamies against the Negro people on the floor of Congress directly out of Mein Kampf. Don't the poll taxers as a solid, neuseating mass, vote against every progressive, win-the-war measure? The anti-poll tax bills are designed to give a disfranchised American people the right to boot TRAITORS out of this country's capital. They are designed to extend democracy to ten million citizens whom we ask to die for that democracy.

Olson Is Our Man

California history was made a few days ago when in full page advertisements which appeared throughout the state, the platform of Gov. Culbert L. Olson set forth denunciation of racial prejudice and a pledge to fight it as a deterrent to the nation's war effort.

This militant action follows the Governor's general, progressive policy. He is one of the few major State executives in these United States who has forthrighly denounced the poll tax system and placed this state on record as supporting the Geyer and Pepper bills to remove that tax. He has already announced his support of pending state legislation to make industrial discrimination unlawful. With the application of sufficient pressure, Gov. Olson will pardon Festus Coleman just as he did that other martyr, Tom Mooney. And let us bear in mind that the very first plank in the Republican platform is against the release of "depraved criminals." WHO do you suppose they're talking about?

It is dishonest to hold that Olson has been in all things a paragon of virtue. He has not been any such thing. But on the issues of vital importance to this state and this nation—the organization of a State Guard, over rabid opposition by those who now parade around as 'non-partisan' Warrenites, in support of the President's whole economic war program, especially executive order 8802.—Olson's administration ranks as one of the greatest in the State's history. He has appointed Negroes to policy forming boards, to the bench, to state commissions. Realization of permanent binding state laws against racial discrimination may be secured only in the election of such a chief executive. The foul Hearst-Hoover connections of candidate Earl Warren are the embodiment of that section of the Republican party which this newspaper, for 63 years Republican, has always fought. We fought it when Hoover ran for President. We fight it now.

The leader of this paper's Republican party is ducking Japanese gun-fire. His name is Wendell Willkie.

Victory Market Gross Is $76,000

Announcement by the Negro Producers and Consumers Association that the Victory Market at 43rd place and Central avenue has grossed $76,000 since its opening in April is a business accomplishment of historic significance for the whole community. It represents the new phase of business life in this area. It is important to chart the means by which the Victory market success was made possible.

Development of an advanced business life in the merchandising fields on Central began with the establishment here of branch stores of the downtown emporiums. One notable home-grown institution was the Gold Furniture Store, which has consistently played an important role in philanthropic and social affairs of the area. Ranking representative of the branch stores is the spectacular Eastern-Columbia store at 45th and Central. In building this 'buying palace,' the Eastern-Columbia people determined to bring to our district an establishment which might add beauty to the community. Their great success in this determination may be seen at the striking Central avenue branch, which is entirely manned by Negroes.

The birth of the community-ownership idea and its superb realization in the Victory market was—and is— the next step in the development of our business life. The Victory market is the product not only of the dollars of our citizens, but of their faith, their confidence and their loyalty.

Oust Jack Tenney

Candidate for State Senator on both Republican and democratic tickets from Los Angeles county is a manwho has exerted as evil an influence upon the affairs of this state as any individual in its long and weary history. Jack Tenney, the character is chiefly noted in the Negro community as a vicious enemy of the people whose "little Dies committee" attempted to smear the State County and Municipal Workers of America, fighting CIO union which recently secured long overdue pay raises for Negro municipal employees, and even dared to attack Mrs. Jessie Terry, distinguished figure in the Negro community and a member of the local Housing Authority.

Opposing Tenney is Mrs. Larue McCormack, whose politics we may not all agree upon, but whose long life of service—yes, actual, day to day drudgery—in the interest of Negro people makes the choice between her and Tenney an automatic one.

Mrs. McCormack, an official of the International Labor Defense, fought long and hard for the liberation of the Scottsboro boys. In recent years, she has become one of the nation's most active anti-peonage fighters. At great personal risk, she fought the case of a Negro worker, escaped from peonage, in Arizona within the past few months. One of the specific issues for which Mrs. McCormack will FIGHT in the State Senate is a law abolishing property race restrictions,—and in her case that means there will be a battle royal on the subject.

Rev. S. A. Williams Is a Great Church Leader

Rev. S. A. Willams, pastor of St. Paul Baptist church, has achieved a stature in the community indicative of his many years of unselfish service, his brilliant institution of a model church adminstration and his willingness at all times to support progressive movements in the community.

It was at his packed church last Sunday that hundreds of signatures were secured on a petition to Gov. Culbert Olson asking a pardon for Festus Coleman, young San Francisco worker who is faced with a sixty-five year sentence at San Quentin because—ACTUALLY—he caught an army officer performing an act with a seventeen year old girl in Golden Gate Park one summer night.

This is the kind of religion which Jesus taught.

No Point at All

It was a small Jim-Crow Southern town. There was only one man in town who could pay his poll tax and vote in United States elections. Because they had no role in the conduct of 'democracy' most of the folk in town didn't have much interest in politics. They left all that to the guy who could vote. There came about a rumor that the country was at war. The guy who could vote confirmed it.

Two or three weeks later somebody inquired what the war was about. The guy who could vote told 'em.

"Well," he said, "its all about some woman the Japs raped—name of Pearl Harbor."

WAR OF MANY FRONTS

The long delay in opening that fateful Second Front, on which the outcome of the war in Europe may depend, only reflects the fact that the United Nations are already fighting on a dozen fronts. Air, sea and land power has been spread around the globe in a defensive effort to hold the Axis power from further gains, until the day the Allies are possessed of the planes, ships and manpower with which to take the offensive. They apparently are not now in such a position. Demands for launching a second front through air attack alone, which looks so beguiling in blue print form, will hardly succeed in shaking present Allied strategy. This is to disperse air power to cover threatened areas girdling the globe from the outlying Aleutians to the Solomons, Australia, North Africa, the Mediterranean, and British Isles. The 1000 plane-a-night raids launched by Britain in May have been sharply reduced; so have the operations of the Flying Fortresses, despite their early and dramatic successes in bombing attacks against Germany. The need for these planes in other theatres of war this summer, particularly to check Marshal Rommel's swift advance in Africa, forced an immediate reduction in the size of the air raids upon Germany. Land and sea power have likewise been widely dispersed, giving mute but eloquent testimony to the difficulties of a Second Front today, and of wresting the initiative from foes who have never yet lost it.

GENERAL WINTER

"I," announced Hitler in his latest speech, "have conquered General Winter." This is sure to be chill comfort to the German people, for in attempting to conquer General Winter on the Russian Front earlier this year, they and all of Europe's conquered people were forced to yield up the heavy blankets and overcoats by the millions. They face an even more cheerless prospect now, for this winter is expected to be Europe's coldest of the entire war, due to a nearly complete absence of coal for domestic consumption in the Nazi-occupied countries. Transportation facilities, strained close to the breaking point to meet Germany's war needs, are not available to meet the civilian needs for fuel. Hitler's arrogant boast will not shake the icy grip of General Winter. Helpfully, it may shake the German people's supine faith in an "all powerful" Fuehrer.

THEY RIDE OUT THE STORM

Elmer Davis, able director of the Office of War Information, testifying before a Senate Investigating Committee, states that many of the nation's smaller enterprisers must share part of the responsibility for their present unhappy plight, threatened as they are by the two-edged sword of materials scarcities and stringent government regulations. They have been loth to give up civilian trade for war production, according to Director Davis, "hopeful that the other fellow" would do the job for them, and spare them the necessity of converting plants to war work. Nonetheless, as California has seen it, this is not the whole picture. In Northern California alone, a WPB official announced the other day, more than $25 million in war contracts have been awarded to 278 small manufacturing firms. The significant point is that these are "little fellows'" firms who, singly, could never have won a war contract. So they wisely pooled their resources and skills in common troops. California's foremost branch banking system was the nation's leader in helping these small owners and managers of machine shops, garages, farm implement plants, wood and metal working shops, organize and equip themselves to handle war contracts. Through the energetic aid of this institution, small enterprisers are now engaged on multi-million dollar contracts, turning out everything from merchant ships to howitzer gun carriages. Given a helping hand, and possessed of the requisite grit and determination, thousands of California's little fellows are proving their ability to ride out the storm.

ORDER OF THE DAY

Addressing Blackshirt battalions on the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Fascist movement, Premier Mussolini directed his listeners "to love Italy more than anything else." After 20 years of a bombastic nationalist regime, patriotism by compulsion has become the order of the day. In dictatorships, everything is compulsory—except what is forbidden.

★ SPREADING JOY

By JOHN FOWLER
By JOHN FOWLER

If you have noticed me carrying my head just a little bit higher and my being in a little more jovial mood most of the time during the last few days, it is because my two young nephews from Oakland are in town visiting. These two young gentlemen, and I do mean gentlemen, are the twin sons of my sister, Cora Fowler, and Felix Beckford. They are 1A in the draft, and are expecting to be called soon. They are students at California.

I am mighty proud of these boys, because I see in them all I hoped to see in my own son, Roy, had he remained on this plane. They expect, after induction, to apply for officer's training. Fowler is going to the medical corps and Felix to the ordnance.

Now that the fun and glamour are over I want to pay a sincere, sacred tribute to Peter Ross for the foresight and determination to put into practice the resolve "If I be lifted up, I will draw my people up with me."

Pete did just this when he found himself in an elevated position with the California Shipbuilding corporation. He immediately began to look around for an opportunity to render some distinguished service to his race. 'Twas then he hit upon the idea of naming a ship after one of our greatest Americans.

It seems that when God has some task of great magnitude he always selects someone of humble birth to perform it. Thus it was, because Peter Ross was ready, he was called to institute the greatest act of real democracy we've seen in America.

Right now, the Americans of African descent find themselves in a more favorable position in the eyes of America and the world than at anytime before. Let us not fail to take advantage of it. Let us accept the responsibility, appreciate its gravity, and carry on to the glorious victory, just as our men on the battlefronts have acquitted themselves in every war America has engaged in.

Truly this is our war, and if we hope to enjoy the peace, we must give everything we have, if needs be, to win the war. It is not enough to say our men are scattered all over the world. What are we doing at home? Are we buying bonds? Are we standing at attention as air raid wardens and Red Cross help, and are we volunteering our services at Casualty Stations in our own communities? If not, then what Peter Ross did doesn't mean anything to us, at all. Words will not win the war; deeds will.

This week I am honoring Mr. and Mrs. Titus Alexander, two well known old sweethearts.

Tuskegee Alumni Adopt Big War Bond Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—The North Eastern Tuskegee Alumni association, concluding its third regional conference in Detroit, Mich., recently inaugurated a plan which may provide the Alabama institution with a half million dollars worth of United States War Bonds.

The conference, attended by delegates from the states of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania, asked each Tuskegee alumnus to set aside a nickel a day for one year and 50 cents on each birthday. This accrued saving will purchase a $25 War Bond for Tuskegee.

The plan was outlined to the conference by Jesse O. Thomas, representing the United States Treasury department.

Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the General Alumni association of Tuskegee Institute, reported there are 20,000 graduates of Tuskegee living in the United States. If each graduate would follow the plan, Thomas said the principal and accrued interest of the bonds purchased would amount to $50,000. This nickel a day plan repeated over a 10-year period would result in the accumulation of one half million dollars.

HOW TO GET A JOB

BY REV. CLAYTON RUSSELL

One of the things that has hindered many Negro men and women from getting jobs in war industry has been the lack of correct information as to where and how to secure defense and industrial work; also how to overcome many of the traditional barriers against minority workers.

The Federal Government has set up The United States Employment Service thoughout the nation as the agency which is to handle the supplying of workers for war work. In the past it was theU. S. E. S. that supplied workers for all industries that needed workers and who applied. With the war greater emphasis has been put on the agency. The government training program has been placed in its hands. Industries who have received government contracts have been asked to use the offices of the local United States Employment Service.

Consequently, one of the first moves in looking for a job is to register with the U. S. E. S. A card is placed in the files and is kept open only if the identification card which is given to each applicant is stamped once a month by the agency.

After registering it is important to keep in contact with the U. S. E. S.

However, the Service is not the only place where one can get industrial work. Failing there people can and often it is wise to contact many of the firms who hire through U. S. E. S. but also advertise though the newspapers that they have their own employment offices. For example Douglass Aircraft maintains its own offices and gives the address of its offices in the newspapers every day. Many times a person may not get a job though the Aircraft Hiring Hall of the USES but may turn around and go to the company's hiring hall and be placed. This does not necessarily mean that the U. S. E. S. may be prejudiced to Negro workers or workers of other minority groups, but there are many factors which may determine the hiring at the company's office and may not enter into the picture at the U. S. E. S.

This will be true until all hiring for the war effort will be concentrated by the government in the hands of the Federal agency. This may happen in the very near future; hence, it is important for everybody to register at the United States Employment Service. Not only is it important for the reason that eventually all war hiring may be through this agency, but it is essential to the war effort for one of the ways in which our government determines the source and strength of war manpower for industry is through checking the registrations of the U. S. E. S.

In seeking a job there are certain requirements that have to be met. Many of these requirements work hardships on many people, but this is war and hardships are to be expected.

Birth certificates are necessary. Many of our people do not have birth certificates. Because of this many have been deterred from seeking work in the war effort and if they can't quickly, fort. Birth certificates can be secured and proof of American citizenship can be established.

For those who need birth certificates, the best place to secure information as to what the state of your birth demands for a late birth certificate is to visit the California State Department fo Immigration and Housing at the California State Building on Spring and First Streets. There you may secure information as to what you have to do to secure a birth certificate from your state These birth certificates are called delayed Birth Certificates. On many jobs delayed birth certificates are not enough, but in the majority of cases they are.

In cases where birth certificates cannot be secured easily, there are other proofs that are acceptable. Baptismal Certificates, old life insurance policies, old biblical records of birth, voter's certificates and poll tax receipts are acceptable. In many cases people have to have one or more of these documents. School records can also be used.

The Department of Census in Washington, D. C., issues statements as to the birthplace and the citizenship of Americans. To get these statements, a letter should be sent to The Dept. of Census at Washington, D. C. To get these statements it takes a bit of time, but if $3.00 can be sent, special workers can be put on the job to search the records of the Dept. of of Census with one of the above documents are usually satisfactory proof. In writing for these statements it is necessary to send the name of parents, of sister and brothers, also where one was living during those years when the census was being taken. The census is taken every ten years. It was takn in 1890, 1900, 1910 and and 1920, also 1930. It is important to send the city, the street if possible where one lived during th mentioned years.

Many people seeking jobs today are people who have never worked or who have never been in industry, consequently it is often necessary to take national defense training. National Defense training is of the greatest value for many Negroes. And every Negro should take advantage of this training. Even if you are working in defense industry, it is important that you take training. This is vital in order to enable Negro workers to be upgraded in industry. Being upgraded in industry will mean that Negro workers, who are a large section of American workers, will make a greater contribution to the war effort. National Defens training can be secured from the U. S. E. S.

Today I want to urge every Negro person capable of working to move into industry, into war industry; I want to urge all Negroes and particularly Negro women to sign up for National Defense Training, regardless of employment. Every high school graduate should seek national defense training and try to fit himself in industry. High school training will be of great assistance; however, it is not all. Many people who have not high school training have other assets which will compensate for the lack of education.

Now is the time to get prepared for the days to come, and the future may well depend on the preparation we make today. The barriers are down. We are needed. The march is on to win the war and the peace. Are you in it?

★ A LETTER TO OUR BOYS

NEWS OF THE FELLOWS IN SERVICE.

DEAR GANG,

Every week I hear so much about guys in the service, and I have wanted for a long time to relay some of it to you. But, knowing that it would be absolutely impossible to reprint all of it, and being a very, very—well extremely—lazy individual, I did nothing, a crime these days. But thinking it all over, I decided that although most of the names that come in mean very little to me, the very fine things these names are doing, do. And thinking it over further, I decided that most of the names mean a great deal to you, and therefore, the very fine things they are doing will mean a great deal more.

For instance, I learned recently that Joseph Cooks, Carl O. Williams, Julius Armstrong, George Daniels, Lonnie Griffin, Dikes Wilbert, Phillip Joseph, Calvin Robinson, and John C. Chiles have all been inducted at Camp Wolters, Tex., and have been assigned to duty with a battalion stressing rifle training. Also, Pvt. George C. Harpole, jr., has just been promoted to the rank of Corporal at Fort Sill, Okla.

Pfc. Dewaine Richardson at Rice, California, sent his mother a poem, and I read the poem, and while it will never make the Hall of Fame, it said something that made me very ashamed of myself. The name of the poem is, "If People Understood," and I started thinking that I don't think people do understand.

"We realize there are a lot of people
That only see us when at play
Perhaps a little tight and noisy at night
But that doesn't happen every day

It's the welfare of this, our nation
We are striving for and not in vain.
With the same courage that that other Americans showed
In the battle of the Marne.
You can make our lives more cheerful
And make most of us feel like a man
If whenever you see a soldier
Just offer to shake his hand.

Tell him the folks at home were with him
When he decided to take the stand.
To join the United States Army
And keep freedom in this land."

I was talking about this same thing to a friend while we were driving up the highway, which is always sprinkled these days with anxious boys waiting to be taken for a ride. I began thinking how glad we were to give that ride and how people thing differently of soldiers today because of how important they are, when I realized that too many of us just don't thing often enough.

And there's the 23rd Aviation Squadron up at Bakersfield. These boys do the ground work at Minter Field. They have a recreation hall, but there are a few things which would go a long way toward making them think less of home and more of the job to be done. Resourceful these boys are— they want to open their own barber shop so that they can finance their other needs, among which are a pool table, mechanical magazines, Negro newspapers, writing paper, phonograph records, and wall mirrors. Oh, yes, they haven't the two barber chairs with supplies to open the shop.

And now that Christmas is coming and our gifts to the soldiers should already be off the mailing list and in the mail, a little more thinking will help a lot.

Talking about fine work,—down at Fort Benning, Ga., soldiers of the 21st Quartermaster Regiment, under the command of Col. Ellis F. Altman, comprise largest truck organization operating as a unit in the Army today. Driving these trucks, I am told, involves not only control over thirty feet of vehicle, but making proper selection from among the ten speeds forward and two in reverse with which the truck is equipped, and keeping an eye on instrument panel almost as complex as that of an airplane. Each vehicle is made up of two units, which together are over thirty feet long and ten feet wide, with a gross weight of over ten tons, dwarfing the standard Army 2½ ton truck and

"NATIVE SON" ★

From the book by
RICHARD WRIGHT

He passed a bakery and wanted to go in and buy some rolls with the seven cents he had. But the bakery was empty of customers and he was afraid the white proprietor would recognize him. He would wait until he came to a Negro business establishment, but he knew that there were not many of them. Almost all businesses in the Black Belt were owned by Jews, Italians, and Greeks. Most Negro businesses were funeral parlors; white undertakers refused to bother with dead black bodies.

He came to a chain grocery store. Bread sold h[ere] for five cents a loaf, but across the "line" where white folks lived, it sold for four. And now, of all times, he could not cross that "line." He stood looking through the plate glass at the people inside. Ought he to go in? He had to. He was starving. They trick us every breath we draw! he thought. They gouge our eyes out!

He opened the door and walked to the counter. The warm air made him dizzy; he caught hold of a counter in front of him and steadied himself. His eyes blurred and there swam before him a vast array of red and blue and green and yellow cans stacked high upon shelves. All about him he heard the soft voices of men and women.

"You waited on, sir?"

"A loaf of bread," he whispered.

"Anything else, sir?"

"Naw."

The man's face went away and came again; he heard paper rustling.

"Cold out, isn't it?"

"Hunh? Oh, yessuh."

He laid the nickel on the counter; he saw the blurred loaf being handed to him.

"Thank you. Call again."

He walked unsteadily to the door with the loaf under his arm. Oh, Lord! If only he could get into the street! In the doorway he met people coming in; he stood to one side to let them pass, then went into the cold wind, looking for an empty flat. Any any moment he expected to hear his name shouted; expected to feel his arms being grabbed.

He walked five blocks before he saw a two-story flat building with a "For Rent" sign in a window. Smoke bulged out of chimneys and he knew that it was warm inside.

He went to the front door and read the little vacancy notice pasted on the glass and saw that the flat was a rear one. He went in the alley to the rear steps and mounted to the second floor. He tried a window and it slid up easily. He was in luck. He hoisted himself through and dropped into a warm room, a kitchen.

He was suddenly tense, listening. He heard voices; they seemed to be coming from the room in front of him. Had he made a mistake? No. The kitchen was not furnished; no one, it seemed, lived in here. He tiptoed to the next room and found it empty, but he heard the voices even more clearly now. He saw still another room leading farther; he tiptoed and looked. That room, too, was empty, but the sound of the voices was coming so loud that he could make out the words. An argument was going on in the front flat. He stood with the loaf of bread in his hands, his legs wide apart, listening.

"Jack, yuh mean t' stan' there 'n' say yuh'd give tha' nigger up t' the white folks?"

"Damn right Ah would!"

"But, Jack, s'pose he ain' guilty?"

"Whut in hell he run off fer then?"

"Mebbe he thought they wuz gonna blame the murder on HIM!"

"Lissen, Jim. Ef he wuzn't guilty, then he oughta stayed 'n' faced it. Ef Ah knowed where tha' nigger wuz ah'd turned 'im up 'n' git these white folks off me."

"But, Jack, ever' nigger looks guilty t' white folks when somebody's done a crime."

"Yeah; tha's 'cause so many of us ack like Bigger Thomas; tha's all. When ol' ack like Bigger Thomas yuh stir up trouble."

"But, Jack, who's stirring up trouble now? The papers say they beatin' us up all over the city. They don' care whut black man they git. We's all dogs in they sight! Yuh gotta stan' up an' fight these folks."

"N' git killed? Hell, naw! Ah gotta family. Ah gotta wife 'n' baby. Ah ain't startin' no fool fight. Yuh can't git no justice pertectin' men who kill."

"We's all murderers t' them, Ah tell yuh."

"Lissen, Jim. Ah'm a hard-workin' man. Ah fixes the streets wid a pick 'n' shovel ever' day, when Ah git a chance. But the boss tol' me he didn't wan' me in them streets wid this mob feelin' among the white folks. He says Ah'll git killed. So he lays me off. Yuh see, tha' G—— d—— nigger Bigger Thomas made me lose mah job. He made the white folks think we's all jus' like him!"

"But, Jack, Ah tell yuh they think it awready. Yuh's a good man, but tha' ain' gonna keep 'em from comin' t' yo' home, is it? Hell naw! We's all black 'n' we jus' as waal ack black, don' yuh see?"

"Aw, Jim, it's awright t' git mad, but yuh gotta look at things straight. Tha' guy made me lose mah job. Tha' ain' fair! How is Ah gonna eat? Ef Ah showed where the black so and so wuz Ah'd call th' cops 'n' let 'em come 'n' git 'im!"

"Waal, Ah wouldn't. Ah'd die firs'!"

"Man, yuh crazy! Don' yuh wan' a home 'n' wife 'n' chillun? Whut's fightin' gonna git yuh? There's mo' of them than us. They could kill us all. Yuh gotta learn t' live 'n' git erlong wid people."

"When folks hate me, Ah don' wanna git erlong."

"But we gotta eat! We gotta live!"

"Ah don' care! Ah'd die firs'!"

"Aw, hell! Yuh crazy!"

"Ah don' care whut yuh say, Ah'd 'fo' Ah'd let 'em scare me inter tellin' on tha' man. Ah tell yuh, Ah'd die firs'!"

He tiptoed back into the kitchen and took out his gun. He would stay here and if his own people bothered him he would use it. He turned on the water faucet and put his mouth under the stream and the water exploded in his stomach. He sank to his knees and rolled in agony. Soon the pain ceased and he drank again. Then, slowly, so that the paper would not rustle, he unwrapped the loaf of bread and chewed a piece. It tasted good like cake, with a sweetish and smooth flavor he had never thought bread could have. As he ate his hunger returned in full force and he sat on the floor and held a fistful of bread in each hand, his cheeks bulging and his jaws working and his Adam's apple going up and down with each swallow. He could not stop until his mouth became so dry that the bread balled on his tongue; he held it there, savoring the taste.

He stretched out on the floor and sighed. He was drowsy, but when he was on the verge of sleep he jerked abruptly to full wakefulness.

Finally, he slept, then sat up, half-awake, following an unconscious prompting of fear. He groaned and his hands flayed the air to ward off an invisible danger. Once he got up completely and walked a few steps with outstretched hands and then lay down in a spot almost 10 feet from where he had originally slept. There were two Biggers: one was determined to get rest and sleep at any cost; and the other shrank from images charged with terror.

There came a long space of time in which he did not move; he lay on his back, his hands folded upon his chest, his mouth and eyes open. His chest rose and fell so slowly and gently that it seemed that during the intervals when it did not move he would never breathe again. A warm sun came onto his face, making the black skin shine like dull metal; the sun left and the quiet room filled with deep shadows.

As he slept there stole into his consciousness a disturbing, rhythmic throbbing which he tried to fight off to keep from waking up. His mind, protecting him, wove the throb into patterns of innocent images. He thought he was in the Paris Grill listening to the automatic phonograph playing; but that was not satisfying. Next, his mind told him that he was at home in bed and his mother was singing and shaking the mattress, wanting him to get up. But this image, like the others, failed to quiet him.

The throb pulsed on, insistent, and he saw hundreds of black men nand women beating drums with their fingers. But that, too, did not answer the question.

He tossed restlessly on the floor, then sprang to his feet, his heart pounding, his ears filled with the sound of singing and shouting.

He went to the window and looked out; in front of him, down a few feet, through a window, was a dim-lit church.

Victor Nickerson Feted as He Goes into Army

Victor Nickerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nickerson, of the Golden State Insurance company, this week answered his "greetings" from the people of the United States sent via the U. S. Army. Prior to his leaving he enjoyed a week of entertainment given in his honor by friends and relatives.

Beginning with a delightful dinner party given by Mrs. Clara Brown of Pasadena, a supper at Brookside Park with Mr. and Mrs. Hart, also of Pasadena; and ending with a party where more than 50 guests showered him with useful gifts.

The week was interspersed with other activities such as a supper party at Ivie's Chicken Shack with Melvin and Frances Nickerson as host and hostess, and a delicious dinner at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. James Woods.

MRS. A. C. BILBREW TO BE FETED

An Old Lace and Lavender Tea in honor of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew will be given Sunday, Oct. 18, from 3 to 6 p. m. at Ralphe Porter's Casa Rafael, 453 E. Adams boulevard, by the senior choirs of People's Independent Church of Christ and Phillip's Temple CME church.

Daughter of Emmett Ashfords Christened

Last Sunday morning, immediately after the 11:00 o'clock services at St. Philip's Episcopal church, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Ashford, Adrienne Cherrie, was christened by Father H. Randolph Moore, vicar.

Negro WPA employees on the Housekeeping Aide Project made 181,258 visits between April 7, 1942, and June 30, 1942, and gave assistance to 53,294 families.

Carrie B. Henry Death Shocks Watts

The passing of Mrs. Carrie Bell Henry, beloved citizen of Watts, on Sept. 17, came as a shock and sorrow to her friends.

Mrs. Henry was highly esteemed and dearly loved as a friend to all who knew her, and her sincere Christian life inspired those privileged to have been touched by her kindly influence.

For 8 years she served as matron at the 12th street branch of the YWCA where she was affectionately called "mother" by both young and old who frequented the institution.

A faithful church member, a consistent Christian, a good neighbor, a loving mother, a true and understanding friend, Mrs Henry will be missed from her community, not only for her good influence but for the prudent counsel given by those who sought her advice.

The family of Mrs Henry acknowledges with heartfelt appreciation the many warm expressions of sympathy from their friends during the hours of bereavement.

Carver Fellowship Club Sets Dinner Dance

The George Carver Fellowship club met Saturday, Oct. 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wynn, 4063½ Woodlawn.

Instructions in First Aid were given by Miss Maria Scott; also plans for the closed dinner dance next Saturday were completed.

Mrs. William Stevens and Mrs. Ada Reed, co-hostesses for this affair, stated that 8 soldiers from the Eastside USO will be entertained that evening. Discussion was also held on the tea during which Deaderick Jenkins, author and club member, will introduce his first novel, "This Is Not My World."

Declaration of Principles of Citizens Defense Committee

Due to the fact that the Citizens Defense Committee was organized primarily to assist the National Government with all means at its command in the solution of those problems that confront it in prosecution of the war against the Axis Powers, and to seek the attainment of equal and exact justice for minority groups in the civil, social and industrial life of our common country, candor demands that a declaration of the purposes that inspired such organization and the manner in which such ends are to be accomplished be made to the thinking and bona fide public by those who sponsor and believe in such movement. Therefore, we declare:

First: The Citizens Defense Committee stands definitely opposed to any type of segregation in the school system, or any other branch of the local or Federal Government.

Second: We stand for the right of a qualified Negro to hold an administrative position just the same as any other person in the other race.

Third: We will employ any proper and legal method or process for the elimination of any and all obstructions to the successful prosecution of the war and to that end we aim to destroy all fascist influences that encourage disloyalty among the common masses who are suffering and whose blood is being spilled and will be spilled in defense of the Government of the United States in the present war.

Fourth: Mmbership with this organization is sought from all honest and bona fide citizens of the United States, regardless of any religious belief, political affiliation, or occupation or profession, upon the basis of equality. But paid tools of fascist cliques, bodies or organizations are not desired.

Fifth: This committee will employ all means within its power to eliminate discriminatory practices against minority groups in the industrial, civil and educational institutions of the City and County of Los Angeles, and in the State of California and in the service and under the authority of the Government of the United States; and to that end this committee will not equivocate in taking a firm stand against the policy or administration of any public official, body or board that encourages and carries on discriminatory practices against any minority group.

Sixth: No one interested in the organization of this committee and in the promotion of its purposes seeks any profit, office or benefit for himself or herself, save and except such satisfaction as may be realized from the successful prosecution of this war by the United States government and the elimination of discriminatory practices against minority groups as hereinbefore indicated.

Seventh: For the attainment of the above-mentioned ends we propose to devote our efforts, time, means, and ability, and ask the cooperation of all honest and bona fide citizens.

Respectfully yours for Justice and Victory.

Gas Rationing Will Not Affect Farm Workers

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—Migratory workers, including farm laborers who move with the harvest from one section of the country to another, need have no fear of being stranded away from home by the advent of national gasoline rationing, William M. Jeffers, WPB rubber director, announced today.

Under present gasoline rationing in the East, and under plans being prepared for the entire nation to conserve the country's auto tires, workers engaged on farms and war construction projects rank as essential workers in the war effort. They therefore are entitled to supplementary gasoline rations to move about as their work requires.

Those now away from home who decide to stay in the areas where they are now working, will be entitled to gasoline rations necessary to enable them to carry on their work, and to get back to their home towns when their work has been completed.

USES Seeks Men With Sea Experience

A drive for the registration of all men with sea exerience is being conducted in Los Angeles by the United States Employment Service office at 1100 South Flower.

"Two thousand new ships now scheduled for production will require 100,000 seamen, radio operators, cooks, engineers and officers to man them," Wood stated.

"Any man who has once been to sea can do his country no greater service than to ship again. This war will be won by the side that 'gets there fustest with the mostest,' and whether that side is our side depends upon the men who man our ships."

New ships with new comforts, good food, and shore clubs restricted to the merchant marine await the Victory fleet sailors, the Los Angeles Manager said. Pay has been greatly increasd. Able-bodied seamen are making $300 a month, radio operators, $400, cooks $300 and officers even more. In addition, each man receives free life insuranc in the amount of $5,000, and disability and personal effects insurance. Hospital service and dental care also are given without charge.

Writers to Offer 10 Scholarships

The Negro Victory committee has been selected by the Hollywood chapter of the League for American Writers to help sponsor the awarding of a series of scholarships to members of this community. This is being done in an effort to reach a more representative part of the community at large.

Ten scholarships to the Lecture Forum, beginning Oct. 13, and one to each of the classes in the Writers School, beginning Oct. 19, are being offered through the Victory committee.

The School for Writers is a non-profit organization staffed by top professionals in this field interested in the development of writers. Classes offered include screen writing, radio short story, journalism, playwriting, the novel, reading for studios, and motion picture direction.

Some of the instructors are A. I. Bezzerides, author of "They Ride By Night"; Eliscu, Gorney and Meyers of "Meet the People" fame; Director Frank Tuttle, and others.

John Howard Lawson, eminent playwright and screen-writer, is the speaker in the series of lectures being presented at Plummer park. The subject, "Our Democratic Heritage," deals with "men, ideas, and struggles in American history from 1776 to the present day."

Deadline for application for scholarships is Oct. 15. Mrs. Clayton Russell, head of the local committee, can be reached at PR-79633 for details. For further information regarding the school's schedule and fees call the league office at 1204 No. Vista, HO-0794.

Junior Choir at Neighborhood

The junior choir of Zion Hill Baptist church, with Catherine Lindsey as director, will be guests of the gospel choir of Neighborhood church, with Belle Riley, director, on the occasion of its First Anniversary celebration Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock.

Other congratulatory guests will be a woman's ensemble, Blanche Woods, director; Louise Cooksey Walker, Ruth Bujol, and Ophelia Robinson, soloists; Erminie Murray and Mary Parker, readers. The public is invited to attend this hour of gospel feast.

ATTORNEY PORTER SEEKS COMMISSION IN THE ARMY

Terminating a brief, but brilliant career, Attorney Everette Marmon Porter entrained Tuesday for Fort MacArthur. Attorney Porter volunteered his services to his country. His official status at his draft board, No. 217, was volunteer officer candidate—VOC to the Army. Porter put his law book away for the duration and grabbed an Army manual. Upon completing his basic training he will attend an officer's school where, upon graduation, he will be a Second Lieutenant in the Army of the United States.

Porter is the first of the legal profession's young crop to volunteer from Los Angeles. For Porter to make such an all-out decision to offer his services to his country was not easy by a long shot. It meant that he had to give up his practice and his office where he was a law partner with the brilliant young attorney, David W. (Bill) Williams in the Blodgett Building. It meant leaving his friends, his wife, and his home.

The above happens to everyone who goes into the Army, be he vounteer or draftee. But Porter also had to qualify by taking a written test, an oral test, and a stiff physical test. To be an officer, more is requested. Needless to say, he qualified. We are devoting a great deal more space to this because it has been whispered by the group of radical-minded people that the Government was trying to get around having too many Negro officers. Let me tell you that this is not true. The Negro officer candidates are WELCOME. As Porter moved from each post and station to qualify, each soldier, non-commissioned officer and officer, gave him every encouragement. YOUR GOVERNMENT WANTS NEGRO OFFICERS. In some cases, they even give you the benefit of the doubt. It's a great Army today.

EVERYONE AN AMERICAN AT INDUCTION CENTERS

This writer visited an induction center, and let me tell you, they go out of their way to understand the problems of each man. Every member of the induction post, from buck private to officer, is a gentleman and every inch an American. And while I am at it, the USO is indeed a great thing. At the induction center they serve free food and hot coffee and make every draftee welcome, regardless of race and color. Think about that the next time the USO asks your aid.

LTS. HARRIET WHITE AND JOURNEE WHITE

While I am on the Army, Lt. Journee White is one of the proudest men in this nation. His wife, Harriet, former police stenog or something, graduated as a second lieutenant at the WAAC school in Des Moines, Iowa, where he (Journee White) also graduated as a second lieutenant during the World War. Add to that the fact that Third Officer Harriet White wears the same gold bars her husband wore on the battlefields of France.

Lieutenant White, while not with the Army of the U. S., is a second lieutenant today in the State Guard.

HOLD THE HORSES, TROY FLOYD IN THE ARMY

We must apologize for a statement we made last week. We said that the draft boards were steering clear of the boys on the Central Avenue Race Track. The streets, 42nd place and Central avenue, will look very lonesome without one of its most famous characters, Troy Floyd, former ork leader of "San Tonya, Texas." Nash, you know, who runs the Nash Studio of Dance, will soon be learning how to take steps himself in this great army of ours. We don't know whether Percy Moore—yeah, the same guy who gets his name in the newspapers so much—will be seen around much longer or not. We do know that he was there at the induction center.

BITS AND BITS: Jean and Jack Atkinson are on a second honeymoon and in a place where most marriages go on the rocks—Reno, Nevada.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mansfield, the gay wans, are in Chicago. They live up Berkeley way. I bet that Billie Mansfield is a mess in the Windy City. That's her home, you know.

PETER ROSS, A GREAT MAN

I wish that some of these organizations which hand out medals and plaques for outstanding achievements will add the name of PETER ROSS.

Peter Ross is the man who suggested that a big boat be named after Booker T. Washington. Ross had an idea and told that idea to the right people at the right time. But here's what Ross deserves a medal for. He forgot all about himself. He didn't ask that the boat honor him or his family, but a man who probably was responsible for his having the talent to work with his hands.

It was a great thing. Ross made it possible for a Negro master to captain a ship, and a ship's captain makes nice money. It will create jobs for other Negro ship officers as well as white ones. To say nothing of the advancement to be made of the lower grade sailors of our race.

PETER ROSS WANTED TO HELP OTHERS

Ross didn't create any job for himself. He was thinking of making a job (I should say JOBS) for others of his race. He also wanted to set the pace for a mixed division of white and colored soldiers, by asking that the ship have a complement of a colored and white crew with colored and white officers.

Maybe Peter Ross will get no medals from Negro organizations. But Peter Ross and Booker T. Washington's portraits will hang in the cabin of the captain of the good ship "Booker T. Washington." The name, Peter Ross, will live in the hearts of every black officer and seaman who man the now illustrious "Booker T. Washington."

Doing something for your fellow man—not looking for any praise or money—will earn you a seat, a golden seat, when the Master on High calls you home to rest. Well done, Peter Ross. I salute you. A man who had a big idea and didn't have his hand out. The "Booker T. Washington" will carry food and supplies to colored and white troops in every port in the world. Every Negro will hold his breath as the good ship "Booker T." dodges the torpedoes of the Japs and the Nazis. The Negro will breathe a sigh of relief when she lands her cargo safely in friendly waters. God bless you, Peter Ross.

In last week's issue we quoted Ralph Gibbs as saying that several MPs of the 7th Regiment of the California State Guard "filled their bellies and walked out without paying."

The MPs resented the assertion and Ralph Gibbs said it was NOT the MPs. But some other group of soldiers. Anyway, he (Ralph Gibbs) was not present.

Girls! Don't deny yourself this help because of an old TABOO

Just because an outworn modesty forbade discussing such subjects, is no reason why you should drag yourself through days of cramp-like pain each month without seeing whether CARDUI may aid you.

For 62 years many girls have sought relief in CARDUI's 2-way help. Some take it as a tonic: it usually stimulates the appetite, aids digestion by increasing the flow of gastric juices; thus it helps build energy and resistance for needed days. Or you may prefer to take it, as directed, 3 days before "your time": CARDUI then often aids in relieving functional pain.

This time try CARDUI.

★ A LETTER TO OUR BOYS

making the famous "Jeep" look like a toy. Keep your eye on Ft. Benning. Things are happening down there. We're watching with interest the Officers Training School, which, with the rest of the Fort in a comfortably antebellum [illegible] of tomorrow, is operating as a mixed unit with Negro and white officers eating, sleeping and studying together.

There are a lot of things I would like to tell you, but I just heard the bell ring, which means that I have to come out of this corner. And speaking of corners, though, I just heard that "Pee Wee Deale," Henry Armstrong's former second trainer and personal business secretary, is with the boys at Camp Lee, Va., and from now on he's training the boys to "settle a few matters with some guys across the ocean." It's your turn now, gang. If you, guys in the armed forces, like this kind of correspondence, wontcha let a poor news gal know about it?

Sincerely,

HANDY BROS. ISSUES NEW SONG BOOK

"Unsung Americans Sung" is the latest offering by the Handy Brothers Music Co., Inc., known throughout the world for the distribution of such great contributions to American music as the "St. Louis Blues" and the "Memphis Blues." This book of songs is designed to teach the history of our pioneers by singing about them.

An outgrowth of the firm known as Pace and Handy Music Co., organized 35 years ago with Harry H. Pace, then professor of Greek and Latin in a midwestern university, and W. C. Handy, a teacher of music in Memphis, the Handy Bros. Music company, with Charles E. Handy, president, furnishes music by the Negro to the world. Continental Europe, the whole British Empire, South America, and Australia have agents for the distribution of the products of the company.

Elsewhere in these columns is an advertisement of other Handy Brothers products, the latest acquisitions being a musical setting of the "Twenty-third Psalm" by Lillian Evanti for voice and piano, and a musical setting by Margaret Bonds of Langston Hughes' celebrated poem, "The Negro Speaks of Rivers."

Dining Car Employees to Dance Tonight

A joint dance and frolic, sponsored by S. P.-U. P. Dining Car Employees, Locals 582-465, promises to be the biggest and grandest affair ever given by these two groups. All of the previous attendance records are expected to be broken. Many labor representatives from the major Pacific coast cities will be in attendance. Introduction of club members will be made during intermission.

Music will be furnished by Sammy Franklin and his California Rhythm Rascals, Thursday evening, Oct. 8, Elks' ballroom, 4016 S. Central avenue. Dancing 9 p. m. 'til ?. Admission 65 cents (tax included).

NOLAN IN PIC ON LINCOLN SCREEN

When Brett Halliday, the famed mystery writer, conceived tive, he thoubht in terms of a tall rangy, red-haired sleuth whose ready wit and aggressive manner solved murder after murder in a hurry. But when Michael Shayne comes to the screen of the Lincoln theater on Oct. 10 in his latest adventure, "The Man Who Wouldn't Die," you'll note that some of the characteristics of Hallday's gusty detective are missing—notably the red hair.

Not to disparage the cinematic Michael Shayne—who, incidentally, is that favorite of thousands, Lloyd Nolan. For the movie counterpart of fiction's top private detective has many other saving graces that make him even more desirable. Though Nolan is neither tall nor rangy, he is neertheless plenty agile as his many accomplishments attest. And when it comes to ready wit the screen's Mike Shayne can give fiction's red-headed "dick" cards and spades and still top him.

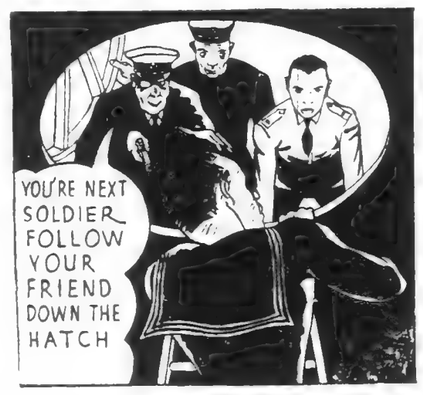
And the climax is this—Nolan always has a lovely girl or two to help him solve his mysteries. In his latest picture, "The Man Who Wouldn't Die," there's raven-haired Marjorie Weaver and comely Helene Reynolds who complicate the picture, but add much to its entertainment.

TO STAGE SHOWS FOR LEGION FUND

More than 300 theatres thruout California have completed plans to stage midnight shows, proceeds of which will go to the California American Legion fund for child welfare and rehabilitation work.

In the metropolitan areas, the majority of the midnight shows will be held on Saturday, Oct. 24. Other performances will be held on the three succeeding Saturday nights.

All seat sales will be handled by the Legion posts and not by the theatres. In California now there are 591 Legion posts and practically all of these will take part in the midnight show programs. Half of the proceeds will go to the individual posts for their child welfare and rehabilitation programs and the remaining half will be turned over to the California Legion's Special Foundation fund.



Crack Legion musical units, fast stepping drum majorettes and other extra attractions will augment the midnight shows.

Stars of Major League Calibre Here Sunday

You'll see some good reasons why Negroes should be admitted to major leagues come Sunday at Wrigley Field. That's when the best team of eastern colored players since 1935, according to sponsor Joe Pirrone, meets an all-star aggregation of major and coast loop stars. If the campaign to get Negro ballplayers into the majors is not to fizzle out here in the West, support these games, lend the players your moral and financial support! . . .

Juan Zurita Real Test for Hank Armstrong

A victim of Henry Armstrong in Hank's hey-day, Juan Zurita the sturdy and hard-socking Mexican veteran, figures to offer Armstrong his stiffest test yet next Tuesday night at Olympic auditorium. Hank is reported to have sought a postponement to let an injured maulie heal. But the commission ordered the bout to go on. Hank had best be in well-nigh perfect shape. It's a worthy cause for which the boys are fighting, as two service charities will benefit. And that's a plug!

Ex-Xavier Star on L. A. Bulldog Roster

The UCLA Bruins, a much-improved outfit Saturday over the week before when they dropped a 7-6 decision to TCU, take on the coast and Rose Bowl champions Saturday in the persons of Oregon State wearers of the moleskins. A great game is in prospect, for it wouldn't surprise this column to see Joe Bruin come close to staging an upset . . . Solari and Vic Smith are going to do all right as broken-field threats. The gang put up a good fight against the Navy Pre-Flighters, and with a little luck would have done better than lose 18-7. The score doesn't indicate the closeness of the struggle . . . The L. A. Bulldogs, of the Coast Pro league, will do battle with the Hollywood Bears, in the pro opener Sunday at Gilmore. On the Bulldog roster is Buster Mills, former Xavier university star . . .

The column likes Armstrong over Zurita after a hard, tough battle. Jimmy McDaniels is going to give Jimmy Garrison a rough evening at Hollywood Legion tomorrow night.

Coaches Name Jefferson's Varsity and 'B' Elevens

Coach Clark De Groot, of Jefferson High school, sent into the practice scrimmage with Jordan High school Friday, Oct. 2, the boys whom he will probably play as first string on the varsity.

They are Esko Bell, right end; George Rogokos, right tackle; Daniel Machabie, right guard; Pesquera Diodire, center; Rosmond Cardeon, left guard; Johnny Moses, left tackle; William Johnson, left end; Wilbur Hall, fullback; Lafayette Love, right half; Leroy Gay, left half; and Adrian Shields, quarterback.

Among the reserves are Harry Cage, who scored the only tally for the B team last season; Charles McArthur, who was barely edged out of the center position on the first string; Frank Hamilton, who can snag passes with the best; Roderick James and Edgar Myers.

"B" ELEVEN NAMED

Leo Johnson, Jefferson's ace back, enrolled just last week. He had been working in a defense plant during the summer. He is now busy learning the new plays and getting in form.

Coach Larry Pickens, B mentor, after an extensive training of his prospects, has selected as starters for the season:

Sylvester Bell, left end; Bra Seton, left tackle; James McKim, left guard; Gilbert Armenta, center; Clarence Boswell, right guard; Frank Gonzales, right end; Johnny Williams, left half; Donald Troy, quarterback; Grant McCoy, right half; and Ernest Cach, fullback.

Other boys who look good are Harry Jones, Charles Edwards, Gordon Lightner, James Whitfield, Gene Thrash and Boles Lewis.

A Philadelphia refining company recently junked old and idle equipment and obsolete plants, netting about 1,000 tons of steel for the scrap metal campaign—or enough to provide all the steel needed in manufacture of 50 Flying Fortresses.

LT. LEWIS ALLEN McGEE, JR.

LT. WILMORE B. LEONARD

LT. JACOB C. WOODS

LIEUT. HENRY B. PERRY

Four 2nd Lieutenants at the flying school, Tuskegee, Ala., are Henry B. Perry, a graduate of St. Augustine's college, Raleih, N. C.; Lt. Wilmore B. Leonard, a graduate of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va; Lt. Lewis Allen McGee, jr., formerly of Gary, Ind., a former student at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.; and 2nd Lt. Jacob C. Woods, commissioned Aug. 1 from the Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland. He is attached to the Ordance Company asa commanding officer. Lt. Woods was a member of the police force of Chicago, Ill., before entering the Army.

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Mexico, Oct. 8.—The longshot players stabbed in and got one right from the old feed box in the 10th race when Quick Over, winning his second race in his entire career, paid $140.40 to win, $51.40 to place, and $13.20 to show.

Jockey Nicholson brought the son of Soon Over to the outside coming in the stretch to beat the favorite, Oso Mac, by one length with another longshot finishing third.

In the first race of the day, the boys that take a chance on the field were rewarded when Bright Shot won and paid $26.60. The favored Little Eric was third.

Bing Crosby's good two-year old beat the favored "Hand Torch" in the prep race for next Sunday's $1500 stake for the best two-year olds at the track. Boot Black, who won his first out and then went wrong, has been training well and may go to the post favorite in the event. He won his first race by 10 lengths and then later won a five-furlong event in the fast time of 1:01, beating the best of his age at the course.

Another old favorite that will return will be Abide, the wonder horse.

All in all, next Sunday's races will be the best that have been staged at the border course in some time, and racing director and presiding steward, George Shilling, with Racing Secretary Joe Walter, has lined up a million dollar card for the fans.

Generalissimo Walter Marty is in a class by himself when it comes to making prices. Very seldom do the fans catch him out of line, although a week ago Sunday the fans did get to all the books and nearly annihilated them when Draco was held at 30 to one.

Jockey F. Chojnacki stole the show by riding four winners and little Jockey Koyk rode three and finished second on five of his other muonts. The Daily-Double paid $22.80, while the Quinlela paid $62.00. The halter was busy Sunday when three horses found new owners. The highest claim was Oso Mac for $1000.

Well, folks; that's the news from "south of the border, down Mexico way" where the sport of kings entertains you with thrills and excitement every Sunday. So, until this Sunday, keep smiling. Have a little fun; buy more U. S. War Stamps and Bonds.

Save your fats, and gather all the old metal that you can—your Uncle needs them. So long.

Little Sandra Ann Speights Has a Party

Winsome little Miss Sandra Ann S. ights, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Speights, of W. 28th street, was hostess at her second birthday this past Sunday.

She was very attractively attired in pale pink with a matching manicure of which she took the greatest of care, and although slightly overawed at all the proceedings, she soon recovered and carried out her duties as hostess with her usual aplomb.

The small guests brought many beautiful gifts and to show her appreciation Sandra plyed them all with all sorts of goodies. Her parents' beautiful home was decorated with scores of yellow and blue balloons and there were yellow aprons for the girls and blue caps for the boys, to their delight.

The guest list included these potential graduates of 1956.

The Misses Carol Grayson, Kay Julie Taylor, Patsy Watson, Sandra Hoskins, Judy Spaulding, Barbara Jean Crozier, Claudia Thompson, Nanette Goodin, and Andrea Thompson; Masters Daral Grayson, Howard Nickerson, Kenny Washington jr., Bobbie Moore, Billy Washington, Rodney Gooden, and Marks Cazanaugh.

A wonderful time was had by all, including the mothers and fathers and before this reporter left the scene of festivity, little Sandra Ann requested that her lovely godmother, Mrs. Sara Brown Wallace, be publicly thanked through the power of the press, for her happy second birthday party which said godmother planned and was responsible for.

EASTERN GIANTS BATTLE ALL-STARS AT WRIGLEY

Comparison of the type of ball played by Negro and white major leaguers will be afforded Sunday, 1:30 p. m., when the Eastern Colored Giants face the Major and Coast League All-Stars at Wrigley Field.

Sponsored by Joe Pirrone, long-time "father of Winter League ball," the doubleheader will give Los Angeles baseball fans a chance to compare the play of white major leaguers and Negro stars who are fighting for a chance to play major league ball.

Pirrone told the EAGLE this week that the Giants' roster this year is loaded with the best talent seen here since 1935 when Satchell Paige was the big noise.

Dotted with outstanding players from the Kansas City Monarchs, Negro world champions, the Homestead Grays, Newark, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, the Giants also include several old favorites like "Cool Papa" Bell, "Wild Bill" Wright, Wayne Kimbro, "Smiling" Mackey, "Lefty" Glover, and Chet Brewer.

Glover will be remembered as the flinger who pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Pirronemen in 1940 at Gilmore field.

Two newcomers who will bear watching Sunday are Second Baseman Serrell of the Monarchs, and Howard Easterling, hard-hitting Homstead Grays star, who will hold down the hot corner.

Field manager of the Giants is Brewer, while Marshall Armstrong, long identified with winter loop ball, is the business manager.

Sunday, the Giants will occupy the dug-out along the first base line.

FRENCH TO HURL

The Major-Coast League All-Stars boast a line-up studded with Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves, Philadelphia Athletics, Louisville, Hollywood and L. A. players.

Larry French, Dodger pitcher who was one of the leading hurlers in the National league this year with 15 wins against four defeats, will probably pitch the first game Sunday. He came close to the Hall of Fame when he pitched a one-hitter several weeks ago.

Other Dodgers are Babe Dahlgren, Cliff Dapper, and Newt Kimball. From the Braves are Nanny Fernandes and Max West. Jess Flores, former Angel, recently sold to the Athletics, rounds out a capable mound staff.

An old and familiar figure, comedian Carl Sawyer, will be up to his old tricks during the games.

The line-ups:

GIANTS		ALL-STARS
Bell, 1b		Herman, 1b
Serrell, 2b		Dahlgren, 1b
Williams, ss		Hughes, 2b
Easterling, 3b		Kress, ss

Hank, Zurita in Top Spot at Olympic

Henry Armstrong, former triple boxing crown wearer, makes his first local appearance since opening his comeback campaign next Tuesday night when he tangles with Juan Zurita, Mexican veteran, in the 10-round main event at Olympic auditorium.

Two charities, AWVS and Service Sports, Inc., will share in the gate receipts. A $20,000 house, the biggest in years, is expected to see the battle. Tickets are priced from $1.00 to $5.00.

Armstrong, winner of 8 battles since he launched his quest for the welterweight crown, stopped Earl Turner in Oakland his last time out. He has lost but one bout, and that questionably, to Reuben Shank several months ago in Denver.

Zurita, an established local favorite, boasts convincing wins over George Latka and Richie Lemos as his main "credentials" for an Armstrong tussle.

A sterling card will back up the Armstrong-Zurita go.

Semi-Pro Nines Play at White Sox

At White Sox Park, 41st and Compton avenue, Sunday afternoon, the Elite Giants, led by Kenny Washington and "Red" Davis, will cross bats with the Northrup Bombers, great semi-pro aggregation.

The Bombers recently returned from Wichita, scene of the national semi-pro play, where they showed to advantage.

Southern California has seen the Elite Giants hold their own in semi-pro circles. Under the leadership of Kenny and Scoop Matthews, they have landed in several play-offs, and last Sunday opened the winter campaign by splitting a doubleheader.

The line-ups:

GIANTS—Wade, cf; Renfro, lf; Davis, ss; Washington, 2b; McGinnis, rf; Matthews, 1b; J. Brewer, 3b; Prince, c; B Lane, c; Moreland, p; Anderson, p; Franks, p; Purdy, u; Mothershed, u.

BOMBERS—J. E. Berkowitz, ss; Bill Harris, 1b; Ham Rhein, 2b; Bill Proute rf; Bill James, cf; Sam Arico, 3b; Neckowvich, lf; Doc Crandall, c; Tillie Schaffer, p; Glen Gabler, p; T. Bair, u.

Legion Auxiliary Members Urged to Pay Up

Mrs. Christine Cloyd, president, and Mrs. Mary Tolbert membership chairman of Benjamin J. Bowie Auxiliary No. 228 American Legion, are urging all members to pay their 1943 dues by Nov. 1.

The 23rd district president Mrs. Mary Gates, was present at the last meeting with a large attendance of district officers among whom were Mrs. Lorene Glanzman, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Nolan, treasurer; Mrs. Lillian G. White, historian; and Mrs. Natalie Myers, page. The vice president, Mrs. Glanzman stressed the importance of taking out early membership.

Mrs. N. Ca[illegible], president of Teddy Roughriders, and Comrade George E. Davis, second vice commander of Benjamin J. Bowie Post No. 228, were also visitors. Comrade Davis spoke to the auxiliary asking cooperation for the midnight show to be given at the Lincoln theatre at a later date. The president is looking forward to receiving the moral and financial support of all members.

For pri- vate reply, send 25 cents in coin and stamped envelope for my ASTROLOGY READING and receive by return mail my FREE OPINIONS on any THREE QUESTIONS. Address all communica- tions to PROF. HERMAN, the ASTROLOGER, care of THE CALI- CALCULATIONS

The welfare of society is fre- quently promoted by the success- ful ventures of commercial en- terprise. To restrict such efforts, would prove a weak and foolish attempt to impede the progress of mankind.

The inexperienced believe that luck forms so large a part in speculation that it is subject to rules and, governed by few, if any laws. But such is not the case, as costly experience has proven to many would-be mer- chant princes.

The first thing about success is to achieve it, the second is to keep it. This may appear easy, but in reality it is difficult. The same rule applies to love and happiness. First, we must reach that goal, then strive to keep it.

Attaining our desires need not be a problem, for there are ways and means of accomplishing them. Let Prof. Herman assist you thru his intelligent interpre- tation of your Zodiac sign and your personal horoscope.

E. R.—Dear Sir: I have been reading your column for some- time and feel that you are doing humanity a great favor by giv- ing advice free of charge in the California EAGLE every week. I hope that others realize how great your work is, and take ad- vantage of your experience and acknowledge as I have done.

G. H.—Does this particular boy love me?

Ans.: It appears to me that this boy thinks a great deal of you, but remember you are only 14 years old, and for that reason I suggest that you don't take it seriously. When true love comes to you later on in life you will appreciate it, and know it for what it is worth.

G. S.—Does he love me? Will we ever marry? Will my baby be taken?

Ans.: Only one question is an- swered in the column. I suggest that you write in for a private reply at your earliest conven- ience.

C. M. S.—I am to be broad- minded, but I am wondering if what people are saying is true?

Ans.: The information you have been getting about your husband and this other woman is not true. He does like to go out and stays sometimes a little longer than he should, but is true to you. Until such time as you see for yourself some philander- ing on his part have confidence in him and pay no attention to idle gossip.

S. G. C.—Will my business ad- venture succeed?

Ans.: Your lucky stars and guiding planet indicate the next two months as successful ones for you. And any business en- terprise that you may be inter- ested in and endeavor to enter into will prove beneficial. Send for your horoscope for more in- formation in that respect. There are several things in store for you that you should know.

D. D.—In regards to your ques- tion, I suggest that you consult a specialist and follow his ad- vice. Your health is very im- portant and should come first.

W. C.—Dear Prof. Herman: I don't believe in miracles, but really you have proven that it isn't necessary to be blue, un- happy and lonesome. Thru the use of your products I have found love and companionship. I don't know why I waited so long to consult you, but am cer- tainly glad that I did.

Miss L. W.: Will I ever marry?

Ans.: Concentrating upon your question I find that marriage will enter your life within the next three years. You are very interested in someone now, but that doesn't appear to be the man you will marry. You will meet another young man who will bring a spark into your life that will take fire in your heart, and bring happiness which you desire.

E. T. H.—Will I get the job I want?

Ans.: A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that you will be successful in ob- taining this job. Your past ex- perience will prove quite help- ful, and you will make a definite place for yourself in that firm.

★ POST OFFICE FACTS & FIGURES

BY PAUL L. HACKETT

This column is dedicated to all post office employees and our good friends who take on in- terest in our welfare. We intend to make it interesting, education- al and informative at all times. Constructive criticism and sug- gestions are solicited. References to persons or individuals which might tend to offend or embarass will be meticulously avoided.

It might be of interest to some to get a general idea of the func- tioning of a post office in a large city. We will divide the work in- to three phases which are de- pendent upon one another. These consist of the following: distri- bution, transportation and main- enance.

Clerks and carriers are respon- sible for distribution, while post- al laborers assist, make dispatches in buildings and act as convoy guards for registered mail on dis- patch trucks. Garagemen, drivers, and driver mechanics dispatch all mail between stations, post office buildings and trains. Cus- todial employees keep buildings and all equipment in condition.

Each group has a distinctive duty to perform, but it is depend- ent on the other to complete the cycle. It is for this reason we feel it is foolish for one fellow worker to get that certain com- plex about another. Remember, that fellow with a broom, mop, or grease on his clothes is helping you to stay on your job.

We all sing the same blues, the key might be different—but the words are the same. "When are we going to get that pay raise?" We have got to do something ab- out these working conditions at the Terminal. Man, they are get- ting unbearable!

We all say AMEN, let's get to- gether; two heads are better than one, even a puddin' head. What do you say?

A SCENE in the P. O. cafe- teria.

A clerk sitting off in one cor- ner by himself eating his lunch; the newspaper is keeping him company. His lighter complected fellow workers are chatting at another table.

In another section a part of custodial workers and postal la- borers are talking things over. We are pretty good buddies, us laborers. Get wise to yourself, brother clerk, we won't hurt your prestige; Don't kid yourself — it's all in your mind. Come on over and get acquainted; we may be able to tell you something.

Those who squawk so loud ab- out democracy might try prac- ticing it themselves, so others will believe that they believe in it themselves. How about a little race fraternizing?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, is selected from Psalms and reads: "Salvation be- longeth unto the Lord: thy blessing is upon thy people." The subject will be "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

The Psalmist, in a Lesson-Sermon passage, says: "O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever. . . . He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destruc- tions. Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" "Submit yourselves there- fore to God," writes the apostle James. "Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. . . . Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up."

A selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, will include the statements: "Man is never sick, for Mind is not sick and matter can- not be. A false belief is both the tempter and the tempted, the sin and the sinner, the disease and its cause. It is well to be calm in sick- ness; to be hopeful is still better; but to understand that sickness is not real and that Truth can destroy its seeming reality, is best of all, for this understanding is the uni- versal and perfect remedy."

Blanchette to Put Beauty Products on Sale

This week the proprietress of Blanchette's Beauty shop an- nounces the inauguration of a sales and distribution campaign for two products of her own making. Her products are wide- ly known as Blanchette's Press- ing Oil and Blanchette's Scalp Conditioning Oil.

Blanchette's has been using these products for over 15 years and has gotten amazing results over the period of years. Blan- chette's Beauty shop has been lo- cated at 2514 S. Central avenue for the past 11 years, but the proprietress has been in the beauty establishment business since 1927. She is well known among the women of this com- munity and has served them throughout the years to the best of her ability.

Other beauty establishments have wanted to use these two products for quite some time. Mrs. Blanchette is intending to start her wholesale business with the other colleagues of her pro- fession by offering her products to them first. She also intends to distribute throughout South- ern California.

Mrs. Blanchette studied cos- metology at the McDonald School of Beauty and took many other courses which might enable her to extend her career over a greater field. She experimented with the different types of scalp and hair oils and made an ex- acting research into the art of making beauty products. As a result of her many experiments, she made for her own use, Blan- chette's Pressing Oil and Blan- chette's Scalp Conditioning Oil, which she is offering to the many people and establishments in need of her special products.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The three glamour ladies this week are Gladys Pittman of newspaper fame, Miss Billy Davis of Town Club and Myrtle Harris of beauty parlor fame of Frisco.

Three best dressed ladies of the week are Mrs. Cotton Harris, Ernestine Porter and Billy Starr, all of Frisco.

At ringside of the Armstrong and Turner fray t'other night all records were broken for sepia sports handling big dough, going the limit on Henry Armstrong, George Moore and Norman Saunders. Next go is with Zivic and will be at the auditorium in Oakland where George is sure to get a square deal. The price will be from $2 to $7.

Bettors on the World Series in the first game had to sit back and wonder after St. Louis scored four runs in the 9th.

It looks like the Louis and Conn bout was just another one of those things. Ha, ha, ha.

John A. BurTon and this writer are making it four in a row with all bands with big names, including Lionel Hampton, Cab Calloway, Count Basie and Duke Ellington on the 12th of October. All playing to capacity crowds.

Thanks to everybody saying, "Hello, Jay" and "O. K., Jay," when they pass as I am handicapped with poor eyesight.

Bay Meadows races off to a fast start with Bill Kyne and the racing board in the background.

Clarence (Memo) Moore, Black Dot, Steve Brody, Clarence Dunn, Jack Londy, Roy Gardner, Tex Allen, Lucius Lomax jr., Ralph Roberts, Vernon Brown, Verette, Rich Brody, Clarence Estelle, Mr. Hollywood, Al Tace, Howard Boyd, Sweet Wine, Mac Pinckston, Robert Monroe, Jimmie Jordan, Marion Taylor, Artie Graves, Little Mickey, Little Brother, Calvin Vincent, Cecil Washington, Bee Hill, Clarence Coffin, Leon Fields, Nathan Roberts, Goodwin Bddley and Skeeter Beantley are seen in ringside pews getting a close-up on all events. Some sports.

Jess Wilson and his wife, Velda Wilson's, dinner and entertainment t'other night was a killer and the music went until uuthe wee hours in the morning after the street lights closed their eyes.

For all race papers, the Courtesy Barber shop, 1903 Sutter; Jack's, 1931 Sutter St.; Foster Barber shop, 1967 Sutter, and the Town club, 1963 Sutter, and the Club Alabam, 1820 Post, and James Jeffries Barbecue stand, 1810 Post street.

Mrs. Jessie Lee Henton, visiting from San Diego, having a nice time at Jack's Tavern, escorted by Louis Alexander and Robert King, formerly of Los Angeles.

Ida King, Jim Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Grant, went to Mendocino Lake for a short time to hunt mule tails. Will be back in time for the opening of the Bay Meadows race track.

Turkey Thompson fought Gus Dorazio, Oct. 7, Oakland.

Mrs. Letha Bell, from Los Angeles, is visiting Mrs. E. Stevenson of San Francisco; can be seen in and out of the best places, knocking themselves out and listening to the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clay and Mrs. Novell Breeden flew in from Tiajuana, Mexico, in time to attend the birthday party given by Jess Wilson for wife, Velda Wilson, at Cherryland Breakfast club t'other night. Velda, the perfect hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Larry Grayson and Miss Bernice Givens can be seen arsling in and out of the best places on both sides of the bridge.

Mrs. Cotton Harris and husband were at the Cherryland t'other night having a good time with the crowd.

Mrs. E. Stevenson sends her regards to Sgt. Walter Beeker at San Luis Obispo.

Drop in and see Frank Coleman, manager of Hollywood, when in Oakland. They have suits made to measure.

James Hill, Juanita Pinckston in and out of all the swell places.

J. D. Benton: Received your card from L. A. Take it easy and don't pay too hard.

Mrs. Roxie Conley, formerly of the Burford hotel, and now with Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Dozier, will be leaving Frisco on Friday to make her home in Seattle.

Cab Calloway's dance Monday night topped Lionel Hampton's dance at the Oakland auditorium by 1100. Some dance.

Robert (Kid) North and J. H. Turner are the big bosses at Bay Meadows this season and are giving all the boys a job that want to work.

Dave Mifflin, gambler and playboy of Frisco, who lost and tossed a fortune away in the last six months, seems to be washed up for the duration. He is one swell guy.

Gert Maxwell, Bea Roberts, Jim Grant and wife out for a little fun, sipping choice drinks in and out of the best places.

Most of the big names in Frisco, men and women, have turned their efforts to defense plants.

Adelle Ward is with Scaggs most evenings when she comes to town. Sady Roby, Gene Green, Mrs. Marshall Breedon, Mrs. Clarence Dunn, Mrs. Tex Allen and Mrs. Harold Collins are in the top row and ringside at all big events; also Minnie Lee and Sady Robey's sister.

Gladys Lewis, working at one of the airplane factories.

Don't pay any attention to the marriage rumor of Sidney White and Marie Bentley as it is off.

Understand that Black Dot, Clarence (Memo) Moore, Rainey Shaw, Al Trace, Louie Verette, Walter Green, Jay Chavis, Jim Nelson and Lucius Lomax have received their money back from Mike Jacobs as the fight is cancelled. George Sprout, Tim Stin, of San Diego; and Billy Dansby, of Sacramento, are included with the above.

Dorothy Hammond, of the Town club, is on the sick list.

Clavin Vincent is suing this writer for five G's for stealing his best girl. He should have kept her on the outskirts of town.

Town club, with Pauline Saunders, Velda Wilson and Billy Davis, just can't handle the people. When there—rush!

Dorothy Pitty, Thelma Thompson, Vera Marshall, Elizabeth Booker, Ida King, Miss Lindel and Mrs. Morrell at Jack's, will keep any three bartenders in the world busy.

Vernon Brown and Louie Verett are making every post a winning post.

Genevieve Stern, Margaret Dodson, Little Mama, Bernice Verette, Ray Boughnight, Peggie Armstrong, Peaches Lee and Lottie Coffin handling big dough.

Nioma Gibson and Vera: You played hard Sunday night.

Janie Foster: I told you to slow down. Sorry somebody clipped you for all that dough. Too bad that Foster didn't come a little sooner. He may have saved you.

Clarence Estelle has a new find; her name is Miss Nina Jones, who is a very pretty person.

Billy Richmond, Percy Williams, Mr. Hollywood, Rich Brody, Howard Boyd, Boyd Pinckson, J. D. Brown, George Chids, L. D. Benton, George Rasberry, Artie Graves, Henry Randelle, Cecil Washington, Tex Allen, Clarence Dunn, Big Tex, Marion Taylor, Novel Gibson, Ted Freeman, and Sweet Wine on the ringside at the fights and all events.

Mary Thompson and sweetheart just returned from Ren full of smiles, saying "We have just made the trip to the altar." Mrs. Thompson is a beauty operator.

Artillia Burns, Myrtle Harris and Iva Osborn are tops as beauty operators at the Adrian, 1930 Sutter, Frisco.

Eva Kelly and her swell bunch of beauty operators play hard several times a week.

Pretty Dolly Strange of Frisco: What's your excuse for not stepping out any more. We are the same people.

Myrtle Bishop, the torch singer, and Dorothy ex-Smith: Where do you take your mail. Everybody wants to know.

The Richbrook hotel is run by Ben Brooks, on Laguna near Post, but you must have a big name to get accommodations.

Robert Lee Spencer and his pretty wife, Genevieve, dress like a million and were seen playing hard over the week-end in all of the best spots.

Don Jones and his wife, Myrtle, were out sightseeing, looking on, and having some fun in Jack's.

Tite Montgomery and wife, Rose, make a swell couple and lay the dough on the line. Same goes for Pete Rector and his wife, Myrtle, a beautiful couple.

I wonder where Ethel Carter is also Betty Lou, Fay Batchlor, Alice Crawford and Jad Burr, as they are missing all of the big events.

I see Fern Taylor and her family at the Armstrong fight the other night.

You are cordially invited to attend a semi-formal birthday dinner party given by Jess Wilson in honor of Mrs. Velda Wilson at the Cerryland Breakfast club Tuesday, Sept. 29, 12 o'clock midnight. There were 80 couples at the dinner and everyone had a wonderful time.

Buddy Beatie, formerly of Philadelphia, Pa. fire engine company two retired, traveling now en route to British Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, Ore., also Victoria, B. C. He has friends there. Stopped in San Diego, Los Angeles, Frisco, Reno and will return to the East. But when? The draft doesn't bother him. He is an ex-sergeant, U. S. Army, last war.

Miss Alice Keyes and party visited the Club Alabam.

Lillian Roberson, Billie Star, Mrs. Gertrude Maxwell will be seen up and down the highway playing the nags.

Arbow just arrived in town after the funeral of Louise Spates, having a few drinks with his friends, Clarence Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Thugin Brown and Miss Vivian Walker.

Looks bad again. Miss Eleanor Crawford was seen with Clarence Dunn in the Alabam having lots of fun.

Miss Kay Harrison of Pasadena is house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Speed. Enjoying the night spots and downtown show. Looking like a million dollars.

A few big names: Ethly January, lady about Berkeley; Irene Crawford, secretary, Boilermakers union; Richard Guilmenot, president of Boilermakers union; William Cummings, representative of the People's Voice.

Juanita Daivs entertaining her sister, Gayle Johnson, from Los Angeles, and her sister-in-law and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stillson, from San Jose.

Cecil Washington and wife, Dolores, and Miss Olivia Greer, from Los Angeles, and playboy Calvin Jones, playing at Jack's.

Charles Monroe Hartzog, of San Diego, and Miss Reba Crosby of Houston, Texas, were joined in wedlock in San Francisco. The couple is very happy.

The Club Alabam, after being closed for 30 days, is packing 'em in with the music of Don Anderson, with Al Levy, guitar; Percy Reed, traps; and Harold Garrett, former radio, screen and stage artist, on saxophone and M. C. Don Anderson is the up and coming favorite of the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Robinson and Mrs. Hazel Davis were seen driving Nathan's mother who is visiting San Francisco from St. Louis, around the city and up and down the highway. Mrs. Davis' husband, Eugene, is now in the army.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hawkins, Sam Hawkins and Charles Coleman around looking on and spending money.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hicks can be seen in and out of the best places on each side of the bridge.

Emily Williams, Eugene Johnson, and Willie Brown caught in Jack's Tavern, could not get out while the argument was going on and Juanita Pinckston was struck accid itally in the rush.

Mrs. Ruby Johnson, Albert Fairchild having a grand time. Mrs. Johnson is formerly from Houston and making her home in San Francisco.

For any further information, write or wire Jay Gould, 1716 Webster street, San Francisco.

Hire 1500 Mexicans for Beet Fields

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9—Agreement for the employment of 1500 Mexican workers in California beet fields had been signed today by California Field Crops, Inc., representing four major beet sugar corporations, and Farm Security Administration, it was announced by the federal agency.

The understanding provides that no Mexican farm workers will be admitted into the United States if their employment would displace American workers or result in reductions of prevailing wage scales in agriculture. Before they can be brought in, the United States Employment Service must certify that domestic labor ies inadequate to harvest vital military crops.

Provisions required by the government of Mexico before agreeing to release any workers that it could spare without impairing its ofn eceonomy include guarantees as to wage rates, period of employment, working conditions, housing,fi health, and sanitary facilities, transportation and repatriation when the work is completed. Assurances of fair treatment of Mexican workers while within this country are also included. They are to be exempt from military service and to be protected against discrumination in any form.

Akron, Ohio, recently held a "Give-a-Gur" campaign to aid the scrap metal drive, fixing a quota of 12½ lbs. per person—the amount of metal in a .30 caliber machine gun. A parade featured two 10-ton steam rollers, a 7-ton concrete mixer, several hearses.

The rubber on U. S. trucks and buses is wearing out at the rate of 35,000 tires a day.

Story of Race Workers, S. P. Railroad in Graphic Mag

Graphic Magazine, in its Oct. 7 issue on sale at newsstands today, tells the full and tragic story of the recent mass immigration of Negroes from the Deep South to work on the Southern Pacific railroad.

This story, with many pictures taken by Mansfield Collins, son of Pastor H. Mansfield Collins of Neighborhood church, 27th and Paloma streets, relates the hardships of 3100 boys and men recruited in a hit and miss manner in the South and brought to Los Angeles for railroad work. Of the 3100, the story relates, only 400 obtained the promised jobs on the railroad, the others were thrown on their own resources, most of them flat broke, all of them in a strange community.

Many of these men, through no fault of their own, became charges of Los Angeles welfare institutions. Many of the recruits were boys under 18, too young by law to work in California in such jobs. These men went without food for the first three days of their trip, the story continues.

The services of many of these men were offered to farmers who were in desperate need of field hands, Graphic relates. Despite their need for workers, the farmers could find no place for the southern boys.

FANNIE WILLIAMS EXCELSIOR GUARANTEED HAIR GROWER

Fannie Williams Excelsior Guaranteed Hair Grower has been on the market for years. It is a wonderful preparation. It stops harsh and brittle hair from breaking and falling. It corrects itching scalp, ring worms, tetter and eczema, and keeps your scalp in a very healthy condition. It is not a gummy or sticky grower. It leaves the hair natural and soft and the hair grows rapidly.

You can get the grower at the following places:

Mrs. Corrine Grayson, 1247 East 53rd street.

Dorothy's Beauty Salon, 1821 Imperial highway, Watts.

Ethiam Drug Store, 1490 West Jefferson boulevard.

Mrs. Fannie Williams, 1749 E. New Hampshire.

By halting the use of steel drums to pack some 200 products, the U. S. will save enough steel to build two 35,000-ton battleships and at least 10 hard-hitting destroyers.

CIO CONVENTION BLASTS BIAS; ELECTS NEGRO VICE PRESIDENT

With one of its sessions chaired by a Negro, its State Vice-President, Los Angeles' Revels Cayton,, the CIO State Convention thundered to a dramatic climax this week with a demand for an end to discriminatory practices in industry.

Handed the Convention gavel during its most important session by Phil Connelly, State CIO chieftain, was Luther Merriwhether, prominent figure in the local State County and Municipal Workers Association. He took over the giant session and carried forward business in expert fashion.

Polling third highest among the near-score of State CIO Vice-Presidents was Negro Revels Cayton, hard hitting chairman of the local Anti-Discrimination Committee of the CIO.

Forthright pronouncements on the danger of racial discrimination to America's war effort marked the confab as historic in the State's annals. The Convention dispatched to President Franklin D. Roosevelt a Declaration on Racial Discrimination. It follows:

—The war against Fascism demands the total mobilization of all the American people.

While any section of the people is kept from participation in the far effort there is danger of Axis victory.

Those in our nation who cause discrimination because of race, creed or color are denying to millions of Americans their patriotic right and duty of helping defend their country and crushing the enemies of all humanity.

Those who cause discrimination, or in any way foster discrimination in industry, in trade unions or in any other phase of our economic life, aid the enemies of our nation.

To help put an end, once and for all, to racial discrimination,, and so help build our nation's unity we, the undersigned, state and county officers ond interna-

The scope of this great war is tremendous. It is being fought everywhere, by eveyone in the world. That is why it is so easy to neglect the daily struggle of our own home environs in favor on a too-steady contemplation of the battle of the great battle "over here."

And this home front is important!

It is here that tomorrow's victory's are drafted. It is here that the thousand-and-one odd things necessary must be done by all of us.

For instance, there is the problem of Lieut. H. Horak of the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps.

So enthusiastic is Lieut. Horak over winning the war that she can't understand why the young women of this community are not equally anxious to join the great army of women recruits, who, like the Chinese and Russian women, are fighting with their men to save their lands and preserve their nations.

She is calling for volunteers.

Diminutive but steady of gaze and apparently physically fit, Tommy Dell Hazley appealed to the Citizens' Victory Committee last Tuesday evening about the discriminatory tactics employed by the Goodyear Rubber Company when she applied for employment at the plant. in answer to widespread advertisement in the metropolitan papers. Attention, War Man-Power Commission Minorities Division.

A situation whose correction is even more important for victory on the home front is that revealed in a recently received letter to the Victory body from four local young men, Charles T. Williams, 1283 West 35th street; Wallace H. Sedes. 639 East 37 street; Charles W. Thrash, 2197 West 29th street: and Lantz Balthazer, 997 East 42nd place.

Their letter follows:

Ethiopia Joins United Nations

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt today welcomed Ethiopia to membership in the United Nation and accepted the African government's adherence to the pact signed by 29 nations at war with the Axis.

The President's action was revealed at the White House today in the release of an exchange of cablegrams between Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, and the chief executive of the Government ofthe United States. The White House declared:

The President has received the following cablegram from Haile Selassie, the Emperor of Ethiopia:

My government and people are anxious to assume the obligations of the United Nations pact. We, the first nation to regain its freedom and independence, wish to place the military and economic resources of our country at the disposal of those nations who gladly sacrifice all for liberty and justice."

The President replied as follows

"I have received your Majesty's telegram stating that your government and people are anxious to assume the obligations of the declarations by Unitel Nations and that Ethiopia desires to place its military and economic resources at the disposal of the nations which gladly sacrifice all for li-

PRO-FASCIST BELT HITS NATIONAL UNITY

Hitler smacked his bloody lips today, while receiving the glad tidings that his little helpers in Meridian, Miss., had come through with the lynching of two fourteen-year old Negro boys accused of the usual "attemped rape."

The kids bodies were found at the Shubuta river bridge, about 35 miles south of the Dixie city.

It is no accident that Mississippi is the home of the Horace Wilkinson Association for the Preservation of White Supremacy or that the dirtiest mouth in Congress is that Mississippi's John Rankin. The campaign for the pardon of Festus Coleman, young San Francisco Negro sentenced to 65 years for rape and robbery in one of the country's most notoriously biased trials, began following the loss of the appeal to the Superior Court of California. The "Little Scottsboro" case has attracted wide attention, and support is

WE WIN THE HOUSE; NOW THE SENATE!

WE HAVE SCORED A TREMENDOUS VICTORY! It is the biggest one in the last sixty years, which, by and large, have been one defeat after another. Passage of the Geyer Anti-Poll Tax bill in the House of Representatives this week brings us within shooting distance of a fudamental prerequisite for our achievement of full status as American citizens—the regaining of civil rights in the South. Final enactment of the Anti-PollTax bill means that ten million citizens, four million black, will vote in eight southern states where they have never voted before. Given the chance, they will assuredly vote OUT of office those pro-Fascist stooges who are a solid wall of oppsition to the successful conduct of our nation's war against their comrades of the Axis world.

In every sense, the advent of representative government in the South is a VITAL WAR NECESSITY!

That is why the whole city of Los Angeles is rallying to the anti-poll tax fight. That is why our Mayor has pledged his support to the battle against poll taxes. That is why the local committee to carryf orward the crusade is headed by Supervisor John Anson Ford..

The poll tax contest reaches its climax in the Senate. Every despicable trick of the Bourbon South will be used. But this is one fight against the Bourbon South which we don't have to lose! In fact, the odds are with us, for the interest of every American who wants victory, who wants to rid the Congress of the United States of traitors like Martin Dies and John Rankin,—is tied up with OUR FIGHT. And no evil can resist the might of an American public opinion, fully aroused. Let's rise that public opinion! Letters! Telegrams! Let's go, Americans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15

Fascist America was groggy today as the House of Representatives voted 252 to to 84 in favor of the Geyer anti-Poll Tax bill..

The bill must now go to the Senate where it will face the same kind of opposition which kept it in the House Judiciary committee. However, responsible observers indicate that the measure can be made law within the next few weeks IF there is an unprecedented mobilization of mass support behind it.

It is pointed out that an a-

Pasadena Woman Is Attacked

As a crowd of people in the neighborhood of 1332 East 41st place looked on, Mrs. Irma Harrell of South Pasadena was attacked by a man described as between 20 and 24 years old and dressed in a 'zoot suit' on Oct. 4, police revealed yesterday.

How it all could take place under the eyes of numerous residen of the area without anyone even thinking of calling the police is what is baffling everyone.

Mrs. Harrell was allegedly accosted with the words, "I told yon not to stay out so late.—Give me your purse."

The woman ran upon a nearby porch, attracting the attention of the occupants, who came due but offered no assistance. She was dragged between two houses and attacked.

President Smacks Anti-Negro Employers

WASHINGTON, D. C. (C), Oct. 15—Charged with discriminating against Negroes in hiring and placement of its own employees, it was learned this week that the United States Civil Service Commission was being investigated by President Roosevelt's Fair Employment Practice Committee.

The Fair Employment Practice Committee, now a unit of the War Manpower Commission is probing the Civil Service Commission as part ofa drive being waged to curb discriminatory practices in governmental agencies. As the Civil Service Commission influences personnel policy in a host of governmental agencies, the probe will form the key to guide the Fair Employment Committee's dealings with firms engaged in defense work that refuse to

Princeton U. Students Say Lift Race Ban

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15—The old ark of Jim Crow was given a shove this week, as the students of Princeton University challenged the administration to demonstrate its belief in democratic ideals by opening its doors to Negro students. Princeton University, so aptly described by Paul Robeson, a native of Princeton, as "a university for Southern aristocracy--one that might just as well have been in Memphis, Tenn.", has never allowed a Negro to enter its portals.

Under the title "White Supremacy at Princeton", the Daily Princetonian, student newspaper edited by Francis L. Broderick is carrying on an intensively editorial campaign to arouse the students to demand the end of the school's lily white policy.

An indication of student feeling was epitomized in the remarks of one of them following a forum where an opportunity was given everyone to air his feelings on the subject. Said one

Lockheed Workers Want Union Status

--With community figures and union representatives scheduled to be on hand a show-down is expected tonight on the long-fought issue of Negro workers at Lockheed-Vega plants and the International Association of Machinists, AFL, which refuses membership to Negroes.

--Despite an earlier relaxation of this policy, the union currently follows the dictates of the International body, whose ritual carries a specific bar to Negro membership.

Negro employees at Lockheed-Vega have consistently demanded full participation in the union which is the bargaining agency for ALL workers at the plant. It is believed that the rank-and-file odf workers here would promptly kill the bias regulation, but union president Dale Reed argues that the matter is out of jurisdiction of local bodies, being part of international regulations. Next Machinists convention, at which such an issue might be considered, is in 1944.

Union leadership will have an opportunity to present its views to local community leadership as well as to the Negro workers tonight at 8 o'clock at the 28th St. branch YMCA, 28th and Paloma streets.

Observers point out that a courageous stand on racial discrimination by the Machinists would go a long way toward convincing California Negro workers that the splendid anti-discrimination resolutions passed as the recent State Federation convention in Long Beach really meant business.

Herbert Ward, Negro worker, has been functioning as organizing chairman of the men and has rallied an enthusiastic group bent on fully participating in the home front war.

Faith is a dependence on th veracity of another Divine Faith is a firm assent of the mind to things upon the authority of Divine Revelation:

We read of Shrines, pools, the buried places of Saints, etc., as possessing some magic power to heal. Thousands come away actually healed through visiting these places. It is merely a matter of Faith. Thousands of others come away unhealed, simply because they lacked the necessary faith.

Faith surmounts obstacles which the world declares impossible. True Divine Faith looks not upon the object itself, but rather toward "the Almighty," who is the Creator of all things.

Faith is the connecting link between that which we desire and its fulfillment. Comfort and understanding, peace and happiness may be derived from Prof. Herman's advice, write him your problems today.

A. G. Dear Prof. Herman,

I am sorry I couldn't order anything this week. I am going to send for your Hindu Love and Charm Bag as early as I can next week. Everything you have sent me so far has been wonderful and has helped me. If anyone doubts your work and products tell them to write to me.

J. L. M. Does the person I love, love me?

Ans. Probing into the matter, I find that the person you are in love with also feels the same way about you. Marriage will be the result of this affair, and you will be quite happy.

M. G. Does A. H. intend to keep his promise?

Ans. Your lucky stars and Guiding Planet indicate the fact that this young man intends to keep his promise to you, and you will find that he is honest and trustworthy at all times.

E. T. Did someone take the money?

Ans. It appears to me that your boy friend missed this money around the 22nd of September, and hasn't been able to recover it as yet. But, he hid it in his trunk and a careful search will reveal this money.

E. J. T. Why don't I have a boy friend?

Ans. According to your age, you should not worry about having a steady boy friend yet, as you are only 16 years old. Boys like you but they are also young and nothing serious should come of the association. Concentrate upon schooling, and try to cultivate interest in fields where it will do you the most good and you will not regret it later on in life.

D.B.B. Will my husband take me back soon?

Ans. Concentrating upon your question I find that your husband has been planning on a reconciliation for sometime, but wasn't sure that you had made up your mind to that affect. If you explain your feelings to him, I am sure he will quickly put your mind at ease.

T. E. S. Dear sir,

I read your column often and see the many people you help find the answer to their problems and happines. Now, I am coming to you for some advice. Does the girl I have in mind hold something against me?

Ans. Your Zodiacal Sign indicates certain changes in your life and some surprises. It also indicates the fact that this girl thinks a grea td ea foo yu.l etaino etaeto a great deal of you, but you made her angry a few weeks ago and that is the reason why she hasn't written. R. E. What originally did Columbus discover on Oct. 12?

Ans. History states that one of Columbus' expeditions disembarked on an island called Guanahani by the natives., but renamed San Salvador by Columbus on Oct. 12, 1492.

V. D. H. What is the best for me to do?

Ans. A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that if you follow your own mind, you will be satisfied. If you wait too long, you will not do what you really wish to do, and will regret it. For further information and help, write in for a private reply.

Business and Professional Girls Meet

Mmes. Jo Ann Willis and Myrtle Hughes were hostesses to the Business and Professional Girls club at its bi-monthly breakfast meeting Sunday morning, Oct. 11, on the lawn of the YWCA, corner of 43rd and Woodlawn avenue.

Misses Mildred Kellam, western area representative of the conference; Miss Dorothy Guinn, YWCA secretary; and Eugene Pickett, representative of the Eastside Labor Protective committee, were guests at the meeting and led an interesting discussion on wages and hours of business and professional workers.

In an effort to cooperate 100 per cent with the Victory at Home program, the members volunteered to spend holidays and spare time helping to gather tomatoes.

At the climax of the discussion hot buttered rolls and coffee were enjoyed by members and guests.

★ RAMBLINGS OF A ROVER

By Charles Satchell Morris II

While little mention of the same has been made, either in the daily or the weekly press, another exodus of Negroes from the Deep South apparently is in full swing at present. Every public carrier on which this writer recently rode while returning from Dixie was crowded with members of our group bound for California. The Golden State seems to epitomize for them freedom and opportunity. Nor did they seem to suffer from the inconveniences and discomforts en route, for almost without exception they did not complain even when traveling conditions were almost unbearable from my viewpoint.

The nation will soon awake to the fact that there has been a new influx into western communities greater than that which occurred during World War No. 1.

There is a marked tendency, especially on the part of the Southern Pacific railroad, to herd our folk together on the trains and to bring them into this state upon what amounts to Jim Crow circumstances. Last week while in Arizona the writer frequently saw the Argonaut and the Sunset Limited, which operate from New Orleans, confine Negroes to the two front coaches, which in every instance were overcrowded. At Tucson on Thursday morning he boarded the latter train and entered a chair car occupied almost without exception by whites from the heart of the South. A soldier, beside whom he sat, openly resented his presence and there was the almost incoherent speech which dominates the region below the Mason and Dixon line.

Except for the fact that no distinguishing signs marked "colored" or "white" were in evidence one would have assumed oneself riding in the area of lynchings and the boll weevil. Race members in California must needs be on the alert regarding this situation for in this state the folkways and mores are now being formed and if this condition be tolerated we shall be face to face with illegal Jim Crow.

Boarding a Pullman at Yuma—for the ride to Los Angeles—the writer observed (as he had done on the trip to Fort Huachuca) that not a single passenger addressed the porter as "George." Indeed, the gentleman who presides over the welfare of the upper-crust travelers seems nowadays to be a little monarch and to be held in great deference by those who can afford superior comfort. Whether the protest of the combined Caucasian "Georges" has brought about this change or whether the passengers have realized the importance of the Pullman porter in the scheme of things, remains a mystery. Nor did the porter pay any patronizing attention to his lone colored passenger.

Females far outnumbered the males coming to this region of flowers and of sunshine. One buxom sister trailed a miniature army of 7 children and whenever the procession wended its way through the coaches—as quite often happened—I thought of the elephant who would be as glad to see the lady and her 12 children as she and they would be glad to see him.

Levity aside, colored women are playing a new role in the scheme of things. When nowadays prospective employers ask for domestic workers at 50 or 60 dollars per month plus maintenance, one employment agent of my acquaintance reminds the person desiring help that that was BTW, or "before the war." Even girls are demanding from 80 to 125 dollars per month. Many specify that even at that there must be no children in the family or the wages must be more. In addition, not only do these girls require Thursday afternoons off, but in many cases, Sundays as well. Some specify that they be permitted to wear slacks while on duty and be permitted to entertain their boy friends any evening.

At least there is revolt against the starvation wages of Dixie. The writer expects that in the not distant future these females will be satisfied with nothing less than luxuriously-appointed club rooms for recreational purposes.

Finally, the Rover has been advised by several prominent college presidents in the South that even in the so-called co-educational institutions the enrollment is now 80 per cent female and 20 per cent male. Since the girls have outnumbered the boys for many years past on our campi, it is easy to visualize a situation fraught with serious maladjustments.

The girls will be forced to marry [illegible] this way than the other way raound, since women are the great conservators of the race and exercise virtually monopolistic rights in the home and over the children. It seems that colored women will play a large part in the shape of things to Having learned that some of the nation's slowest trains bear the highest-sounding titles, the writer next week will give some of his impressions of that amazing city in the mountains—hard by the desert—Fort Huachuca.

An average home burns enough fuel oil in a year to drive a destroyer 50 miles.

Negro WPA employees on the Housekeeping Aide Project made 181,258 visits between April 7, 1942, and June 30, 1942, and gave assistance to 53,294 families.

THE ONLY Negro girl to graduate from Los Angeles High school with high honors which merited her a membership in the Ephebian Society is the distinction which Miss Bioletta Thomas, above, enjoys. Maintaining an "A" scholastic average, Miss Thomas had the honor of being elected president of the Aesculapian Club, a medical society. The charming young lady is now a student at the University of Southern California, where as a chemistry major, she hopes to prepare herself for a position as chemist with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Miss Thomas has an academic family background—her sister has been teaching for 12 years, her aunt for 30, and her mother, a college graduate, is now a toyrarian, located at 953 Towne avenue. John Thomas, a brother, is with the quartermaster corps in Australia. "We, the Negro race, cannot procrastinate any longer if we are to advance. This means our stamina must remain undaunted, and our motto must be 'Forward, forever, forward,'" says the young student.

★ GOLDEN WEST BRIDGE

This Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 17 and 18, are big days for western bridge players. It's the date of the GWBA's second annual open pair regional match. The 1941 champions are Melvin Hughes and R. J. City. Who will be the 1942 champions? It could be you. All ABA members are eligible for this play and are urged to participate. The enthusiasm for this play is high. So be in your seat and ready to match wits with the best bridge players in the West at 9 p. m. Saturday.

The three top N-S pairs Friday, Oct. 9, were J. D. Dunn-C. J. Maddox, 86 M. P.; Viola Henry-May Denton, 84 m. p.; Agnes Beal-Dr. A. L. Wallace, 77. E-W, George Whisonant-Lewis Woods, 86½; Margaret Hale-Elmer Floyd, 83; Beatrice Reeves-Melvin Hughes, 81½.

Sunday, Oct. 11, winners were Louisa Roan, first, 43½; Joe Henry, sceond, 43; Lucille Dunn-J. D. Dunn, and Viola Henry tied for third with 41½.

This afternoon at 2 p. m. we play att the clubroom. Friday at 8:30, Sunday at 7:00, and Tuesday at 8:30.

Come out and take part in some or all of these plays. We assure you that once you become accustomed to this fascinating game, you will have no desire for that luck game—rubber bridge.

Local debs are, more than ever before, doing their bit for the USO. The new Hollywood Canteen, sponsored by the stars, opened several weeks ago, and recently held registration for girls to act as hostesses. Hundreds of girls registered, and we are glad to hear that Wesleen Foster, Marion Clarke, Florance Cornelius, and Francis Patterson were among those accepted. The girls work on different shifts, entertaining the soldiers by dancing and talking with them. The stars act as bus boys, cigarette girls, work behind the sandwich counter, and entertain the boys. Quite a few Negro soldiers visit the canteen, so the "teesing brown" debs have a grand time making them happ . .

EVENT OF THE WEEK

The Alpha initiation was by far the event of last week. For six days the nine pledges, Artis Grant, Bobby Boswell, Arnette Hartsfield, Paul Weaver, Henry Milton, Kenneth Hays, Harold Faulkner, Herbert Simmons, and Bill Johnson had to meet the whims of different superior brothers. During the full six days, the pledges wwore one gold shoe, and one black (Alpha colors); each night they received a good peddling; and last Thursday night, the boys were ushered into the Memo cocktail lounge, dressed in all types of clothing, and recited little poems on the evils of liquor and green wine. Herb Simmons, dressed in a form fitted black velvet creation, was outstanding. Hank Milton sported long white underwear, with black tails and top hat. Artis Grant, in red flannels; Paul Weaver in a zoot suit, meeting the measurements given in Jump for Joy; and to top it all, Kenneth Hays, in a little Lord Fauntleroy suit, bobby socks, straw hat, and all. Besides the Central avenue parade, the lowly pledges were driven to the outskirts of town and had to walk back. As a climax to the initiation, the boys were paddled at four a. m. Sunday morning. All stood the final beating, and emerged full pledged Alpha men.

As a starter off for Fall gatherings, the Society Few Social club had its introductory dance at the popular Alpha Bowling club. The affair was semi-formal, and the usual crowd, with a few variations, was present having the usual grand time. Gene Williams and Elmer Roots were down from University of California. Charles Anderson was on hand in his coast guard uniform; and Connie Moore was in evidence escorted by Betty Butterfield. Cathedral Stonefields were a star-studded Y audience. Sister Taylor and Bill Wynn were there, as were Kappa Pledge Booster Stevens and Vivian. Roy C. Hill introduced the charming club members. Among Noonan, Pauline Evans, Lorraine Romaine, Tyus and Mildred Gutter, who took their places as charter members of the body. Darrington Wharton was there getting his point over with one of the Fox sisters, William Spellcoe playing the field for the evening, and Julius Anderson escorted one of the club members. Kenna Clarke, Ruth Cosby and Jean B. won looked stunning in their different gowns. Jack Ferry was on hand with northern visitor, Felix Specford of Cal. Donald Bowdoin was back in circulation with a charming deb. The music was good, and the many guests enjoyed dancing till the wee hours of Sunday morn.

WELL, WELL, WELL!

Hear that LeRoy Beavers will be home soon, playing on the Cal Frosh football team. Nathan Jones and the wife were seen dining out last Sunday eve, accompanied by Winston Smith and company. LaMar Wright is doing all right, playing with Lionel Hampton's orchestra. Billy Benfield is still in town, and has not departed for the army, though he will have to go in the future, as will the rest. . . Nancy Balen is sporting a ring on that main finger, and it is definitely the real thing. Benzel Graham and Helen Thompson are being made by Sigma chapter of fAKA. According to rumor, the glamorous Gwen Columbo will be middle-aisling it with Tommy Tribble very soon. Hear that the little tiff between Joe Johnson and Ann Anderson was cleared up a few hours before Joe's departure to the armed forces, and everything is all right. Lester Freeman and Geo. Sturdivant seem to be taking life very easy nowadays, with no deb worries, and plenty of money. The colored soldiers stationed at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica are being entertained at the YWCA on the UCLA campus Saturday night. The superior AKA body, and the Ivy Leaf pledges are to act as hostesses. 'Til next week.

Urban, Alfred Grass Feted By Parchmans

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Parchman (Elsie Grass), entertained with a reception Sunday, at their home, 1458 E. 43rd street, honoring Mrs. Parchman's brothers, Urban and Alfred Grass, who have been inducted into the army and will leave this week.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Gladyce Clark and Mrs. Georgia Jones, who presided at the coffee and tea urns, and Mesdames Marian Fawcett, Alicia Strickland, Elvira Kennon, Ruth Lindsey, Mamie Prevost, Wilda Huntley, Ramona Morett, and Miss Fredricks Garrett, who proved exceedingly clever in assisting Mrs. Parchman in maintaining her established reputation as one of our city's clever young hostesses.

The many guests present to wish God-speed to the two brothers enjoyed violin solos by Miss Emma Smock, accompanied by Mr. Middleton; and piano solos by Miss Ray Tate, six-year old daughter of Mrs. Parchman.

The Grass family are old-time residents of Los Angeles and the brothers take with them the best wishes of the entire community.

Mrs. Gilbert Lindsay Entertains

No affair was quite as lovely as the cocktail party given a few evenings ago by Mrs. Gilbert Lindsay, honoring Mrs. Charles P. Buchanan of The People's Voice; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rowe, and Dr. Wm. J. Thompkins, recorder of deeds, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Lindsay's table was a picture to gaze upon, laden with the most beautiful and tasteful hors d'oeuvres.

Those to greet the charming visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bottler, Mrs. Fay E. Allen, Judge and Mrs. Edwin Jefferson, Mrs. William Cummings, Mrs. Leonore King, Assemblyman and Mrs. Augustus F. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown, Mrs. Zenna Green, Count Stafford, Clarence Muse and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Johnson.

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew Takes Year's Leave of Absence

Mrs. A. C. BILBREW

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, widely known choir director, pianist, dramatic reader and composer will take a leave of absence from the direction of famous Independent Church of Christ choir beginning Nov. 2. Her last appearance before her extended vacation starts will be on Sunday, Nov. 1. This will be her first leave during seven years of highly praised work.

Honoring her for her faithful service, the two choirs of Independent church have combined to hold a farewell Appreciation Tea next Sunday, Oct. 18 in Ralph Porter's beautiful Casa Raphael 423 Adams street, from 3 p. m. to 7 p. m. An excellent musical program is being prepared, but the committee hopes that, in keeping with the informality of the occasion, other musicans will bring their instruments and serve as guest artists. Mrs. Fannie Benjamin is chairman of the arrangements committee.

The pleasantest of relations are attendant on Mrs. Bilbrew's departure to a destination as yet unrevealed, but it is thought that besides resting she will be attending to important business in connection with her new patriotic battle song, "Let's Go, Americans," whose popularity is growing by leaps and bounds. Incidentally, when she played it for Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune at the Terry residence during her recent visit here for the launching of the Booker T. Washington, the noted leader became so enthusiastic over the song that she arose and marched to the stirring martial measure.

LAWRENCE WHISONANT, baritone, singing his last concert as a civilian, before enlisting as a private in the army. This concert was on the Mall in Central Park, New York City, with the Naumberg orchestra, Victor Bay conducting. At the end of his numbers, the audience of 5,000 rose and cheered long and enthusiastically.

Esther B. Isaacs, Woman's Day Speaker, Wesley

Mrs. Esther B. Isaacs will be the speaker at the morning service for Woman's Day at Wesley Methodist church, 8th and San Julian. A woman's chorus of 40 voices will furnish the music, with Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew as guest director. Mrs. Leola Longress and Mrs. Lillian Moore will be the soloists.

At 3:30 p. m. there will be an All-States rally and grand musical program featuring outstanding musical talent of the city. The evening hour at 7 o'clock will be in the form of a military salute with a very impressive processional featuring Mrs. Bilbrew's song, "Let's Go America." The second half of the program will portray the "Ten Commandments of Womanhood."

The public is invited to worship with us all day and see and hear these splendnid programs. Dinner will be served after the morning service. Mrs. Maud Batson is general chairman, Mrs. Lorenzo Bowdoin, co-chairman, and Mrs. E. W. Rakestraw, program chairman.

Card of Thanks

We, the family of the late Mrs. Mamie Early, wish to thank the many friends for their kind words of sympathy, and the beautiful florals in the passing of our stepmother, and grandmother.

KEEP THE LACTIC LINE FLOWING

Margie Stewart, RKO film player, collects empty glass milk bottles, cans and cases from an apartment house to aid in the campaign to round-up stray milk containers. She is pictured, above, presenting her "catch" to Roger Jessup, chairman of the board of County Supervisors. October 15th to 30th have been designated "Round-Up" weeks by the dairy industry. According to the Department of Agriculture, the delivery of dairy products will be seriously interrupted unless all outstanding containers are returned.

FOOTBALL HYSTERIA AT COLISEUM SUNDAY!

There will be laughs galore at the Coliseum on Sunday afternoon, when the Comedians play the Leading Men of Hollywood in the world's funniest football game. Donald Barry, Broderick Crawford, and Alan Marshall, strike a tintype pose of the early 1880 vintage. Below, Captains Betty Grable, left, and Rita Hayworth, right, cheer their teams in recent workouts for the big charity tilt. John Wayne, center, is the mainstay of the handsome screen heroe's team. Players will include Edward Arnold, Randolph Scott, Phil Harris, Billy Gilbert, Allan Jones, Nat Pendleton, Edgar Kennedy and many more. The mammoth "Parade of the Stars," with more than 100 screen celebrities, will open the festivities. Proceeds go to the U.S.O. and Mount Sinai Hospital. Tickets are on sale at Southern California Music Company, 737 South Hill Street, and all Mutual Agencies. 50,000 general admission seats at 50 cents will be on sale at the Coliseum Sunday, the day of the game.

Fall Program Underway at 8th, Towne

The favorable results of the recent membership campaign and survey at the First AME church, 801 Towne avenue, Rev. Frederick D. Jordan, minister, are greatly apparent in the accelerated tempo with which the fall activities are getting underway. Increased attendance at all of the worship services, larger contributions for all of the phases of the church finance and new enthusiasm in the activities of the several organizations and departments is evident.

At an important meeting of the board of stewards this week, details of the financial program of their department were adopted, including the support of the minister, conference claims and community benevolences. The stewardesses for the three boards of the church were nominated by the pastor and elected by the steward's board, according to the discipline of the church. They will be announced at the service this Sunday morning and installed along with other officers at the public installation ceremony to be held Sunday evening, Oct. 25.

Last Sunday evening the message was delivered by the Rev. A. A. Moore, of Campbell Chapel AME church, Denver, Colo. Rev. Moore will be remembered in Los Angeles as a former pastor of Bethel AME church.

This Sunday morning service will feature Miss Pauline Wilkinson, talented young artsit of our city, as guest soloist, anc special music by the senior choir. The message at both the morning and evening services will be delivered by the pastor.

A recent development in the extended community interest of the church is the Wilson-Andrews Foundation for charitable relief. Through voluntary, contributions of members and friends this fund now contains several hundred dollars. At a meetinge of the board of directors next Wednesday evening the sphere of interest for the fund for the current year will be determined. One activity under consideration involves the support of additional health service for school age children in the community. A survey last year showed that available aid for this service in many school communities is now woefully inadequate.

GET GOVERNMENT POSITIONS—Miss Alice Warren, left, and Miss Lynn Jackson, right, graduates of the YMCA School of Commerce, co-ed business school operated by the Dryades Street YMCA, New Orleans, left the Crescent City this week for Washington to accept senior typists appointments with the government. The "Y" school, with a current enrollment of 465 students, has scores of its graduates in government jobs.

St. Paul Baptist in Financial Gains

The St. Paul Baptist church is still forging ahead in a financial manner. Last Sunday was a banner second Sunday for money raised without any rally effort.

The usher boards made an initial offering of $260 on a set of chimes that they have assumed the responsibility of procuring. The official board has selected the chimes which are rated to be the best. Pastor S. A. Williams asked for a special donation to take care of a special case. The response was $104.46.

The financial report for the first Sunday was $418.10 and for the second Sunday, $441.17. Therefore, Pastor Williams, still having in mind the erection of a Bible Temple, suggested to the official board that a deposit be made in the building fund. It was unanimously agreed to deposit $500 in the Building and Loan association.

Tuesday night, in the advisory council of the People's Consumers and Cooperative market, Pastor Williams purchased $100 worth of stock in the name of the St. Paul Baptist church.

Do not fail to attend the Bible movement each Wednesday from 8:00 to 9:30 p. m. This movement is destined to be one of the major factors in the church program, because upon the word of God everything worthwhile is founded. The public is invited to St. Paul Sunday evening, Oct. 18, to witness something that has never been seen in the church before. Don't fail to come.

Gala Affair Held on 30th Birthday of Guild

The parish hall of St. Philip's Episcopal church, 1527 Paloma avenue, last Sunday afternoon was the scene of a gala affair given in honor of the 30th birthday of the Willing Workers Guild. About 100 guests enjoyed the beautifully decorated hall and partook of the dainty refreshments.

When St. Philip's was in its infancy, Mrs. Rosa Henry organized the guild, which has been very active all during its 3 years, doing fruitful and excellent work for its church.

The officers of the guild are Viola Pollock, president; Birdie Pinchback, vice president, Josephine Curry, secretary-assistant secretary; and Madge Andrew treasurer. Members are Adel Ashford, E. Baugh, B. Alston Mary Everett, Clara Franklin Juanita Henderson, E. King, Lottie Irvin, Josephine Johnson, J. Morten, E. Lobbins, Gene Weinburg, and Lela Murray.

The members looked very beautiful indeed, receiving their guests in lovely dresses adorned with orchid corsages tied with yellow ribbins. They are grateful to their friends for making this, their 30th birthday anniversary, a success in every way.

L. A. Visitor

Among the visitors to Los Angeles last week was Miss Mamie Davis, official representative of the USO from the national board of the YWCA. Miss Davis was on her way to San Francisco to teach there.

Pasadena Community Baptist in 4th Anniversary

A week of services, climaxing with a banquet on last Monday night, brought to a close the fourth year of the establishment of Community Baptist church at Hammond and Fair Oaks avenue in Pasadena.

Jesse W. Coleman, graduate of Virginia Union university and Chicago seminary, came to Pasadena and visioned a community educational and religious center. He took over an abandoned pool hall, and transformed it into a pleasing and progressive center for the uplift of the community.

Testimonials from Attorney General Warren, Congressman Hinshaw, Board of City Directors, Community Welfare groups, Civilian Defense, and Board of Education Secretary Monsen, the Council of Religious Education, ministers and laymen, including Rev. Ford, of the Methodist church, and Rev. Marion McLaughlin, of the AME Zion church; Dr. Compton, dentist; attorneys Will Sargent and Loflin, Judge Fox testified to the community-wide interests of the pastor and the church-center he founded four years ago with the able assistance of his wife, Mrs. Louise Coleman.

Nearly 90,000 copies of the citizen's handbok for war, WHAT CAN I DO? were distributed by the State Council of Defense during September.

Macedonia to Hear Chicagoan

Mrs. Sallie Martin, Chicago, Ill., a singer of national renown, will return here soon making her first appearance Sunday morning, 11 o'clock, at the Macedonia Baptist church, 114th at Graham avenue. Pastor Ferrell invites you especially.

At St. Paul Baptist church, 3 p. m., she will be sponsored by the Gospel Choral Union of Los Angeles, at which time Pastor S. A. Williams and sister Ruth Banks, president of the union, will gladly welcome you to a spirit-filled church to hear a spirit-filled gospel singer.

At 8 p. m., she can be heard at the Providence Baptist church, 35th street at Trinity, at which time Pastor F. L. Taylor will launch a great revival campaign in which Sister Martin will serve as soloist. Many other appearances will be made during the month of November. For further information please call Rev. F. Douglas Ferrell, LA-7413.

New Hope Board Meets

The New Hope Senior Usher board held its social meeting at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Threadgill, 9412 Hooper avenue, the first Sunday in October.

The guests included Mrs. Bird and Mrs. P. Crage. The president, Mrs. Chlera Jones, introduced Mrs. Carrie Bowie, corresponding secretary, who thanked the host and hostess for a lovely evening. Her remarks were recorded on Mr. and Mrs. Threadgill's recording machine.

McCoy Invites City to Men's Day

The McCoy Memorial Baptist church, 802 E. 46th street, invites the public to worship with them in their Men's Day service Sunday.

Rev. P. A. Harris, a native of Texas and the grandson of Rev. S. R. Chambers, and the nephew of Rev. Timothy Chambers, will deliver the message. Rev. Harris is the pastor of Good Street church, Dallas, Texas. Rev. L. H. Monroe is assistant pastor of McCoy Memorial.

Dr. B. A. Jordan

The growing series of attacks upon citizens by Eastside youths was added to this week with the assault upon Dr. B. A. Jordan by two Negro boys. Dr. Jordan suffered fractured ribs from the assault, which occurred around 9 p. m. Monday evening as he was returning to his home, 148 East 51st street.

Dr. Jordan, seeing the boys coming, stepped aside to allow them to pass and was immediately attacked by the larger of the two, who knocked him unconscious. A wallet containing $75 and a wrist watch were stolen.

The case is being investigated by the University police station.

ON THREE-WEEK TOUR—Rudolph Moses, left above, and Charles W. Buggs, dean and science division heads, respectively, of Dillard university, New Orleans, left last Friday night on a three-week observation tour of five of the country's foremost nursing schools in the interest of Dillard's new division of nursing established this year. They are visiting the University of Toronto School of Nursing and School of Hygiene, Toronto, Canada; Skidmore College Department of Nursing, New York City; Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, Va.; Meharry Medical college, Nashville, Tenn.; and Vanderbilt University School of Nursing, also in Nashville.

Choir Director Streety Dead

William Streety, music instructor of this city, died Tuesday, Oct. 6.

Streety, who had studied band instruments under Major N. Clark Smith and Wade Hammond of the 10th Cavalry, directed several choirs in the city, but the evangelical choir of St. Paul Baptist church was his most outstanding work. His arrangements of the old songs made this choir just a little different; his work shall ever be a cherished memory.

Streety also won a scholarship course in voice culture with Madame Egbert of Detroit, Mich. In his passing the Musician's Union has suffered a great loss. He leaves a wife, father, sister, and other relatives and many friends to mourn his passing.

CIO Honors Crew of BTW

On Tuesday, Oct. 20 6:30 p. m., a banquet will be held in honor of Captain Hugh Mulzac and the crew of the first ship in the United States captained by a Negro master.

It was through the efforts of the National Maritime Union that such a precedent was set and it is expected in the near future that other ships named after great Negro leaders will be launched and captained by Negro seamen.

The crew of the "Booker T. Washington" will be composed of seamen of the 28 United Nations. Each of these nations will be represented by having a seaman of that country aboard.

In honor of Captain Mulzac and his crew, the National Maritime Union and the Los Angeles Industrial Union Council of the CIO are giving this banquet at which many notable people will be in attendance, among them being Gov. Olson, Ellis Patterson, Robert Kenny, the Hall Johnson Festival Negro Chorus, Humphrey Bogart, and Raymond Massey, who are at present making a picture about the National Maritime Union carrying goods to the Allies.

Also present will be most of the officials of the CIO and AFL and Negro leaders including Ferdinand C. Smith, national secretary of the NMU, who is coming out from New York especially to attend this banquet. Smith is the first Negro honored by the NMU by being placed in the leadership of the organization. Tickets are available at the CIO building, 5851 Avalon.

Anita Whitney Avalonians Get Blood Tests

The friends of Anita Whitney, author of "Native Daughter," and an outstanding political leader in California for many years, are giving a musicale in her honor Sunday from s until 5 p. m. at 1438 East 57th street. Miss Whitney will speak at 4:30 p. m.

Everyone interested in what can be done to advance the position of the Negro people in the struggle for the winning of their full rights will benefit by hearing Miss Whitney, who has been in the forefront of the struggles for the workers for more than a half century.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By MARTIN HEWLETT

On the question of 'Hot Cargo, (or is it too hot to handle?)

Proposition No. 1 is a referendum on Chatper 623, California Statutes of 1941 to appear on the ballot (general election) November 3 outlawing hot cargo and secondary boycott practices by employers and employees during the war.

The referendum affords the electors of the State of California opportunity to approve or disaprove the action of the State Legislature in adopting Senate Bill 877 in 1941 which appears as Chapter 623 of the Statutes of that year.

Herewith are presented the arguments for and against the continuation of the 'Hot Cargo and Secondary Boycott.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST:

Labor is for the farmer— very seldom has labor applied the secondary boycott to agriculture. Furthermore, the AFL has frowned upon the organization of this kind of worker. But it must be remembered that any industry such as agriculture in California which pays such low wages and imposes such detestable working conditions, and which is notorious for its resistance to any reasonable labor relations, is bound to lay the foundations in employe- employee relations for considerable trouble. Until some basic adjustments are made, serious trouble will continue in these sub-standard areas.

It must be understood that not only are farmers hurt because of a strike, but the workers as well, more so. This is a problem also that will involve State and Federal Governments in the provision of adequate housing facilities.

Supreme Court Upholds Secondary Boycott in New York Case

United States Government Uses Secondary Boycott—

Labor's War Record irreproachable—Labor has volunteered to prevent the stoppage of work in any war industry for the duration. As facts will show, it has kept this record. By labor's record the claim of the employer is absolutely destroyed.

Restrictions would introduce irons to maintain slave labor—

One who sells a product of a merchant or manufacturer who is engaged in a labor dispute with his employees, inescapably becomes an ally of the employer."—part of the decisions of U. S. Supreme Court.

Disruption caused by short-sighted employers.—

Facts show who are the real Law Violators—

Public backs up labor—

'Innocent Third Party.' Straw Man—

Slave Bill will victimize public.

American Democracy threatened.

Slave Bill backers raise "Wild Cat" strike issue.

Threatens the constitutional right of Free Speech.

ARGUMENTS FOR:

Farmers threatened—throughout the nation farmers have opposed the oganization of farm laborers into labor unions. They have opposed unionization chiefly because of the seasonal nature of their work and the ruinous effect of a strike at a crucial time. As stated, the farmer is in a vulnerable position because of the seasonal nature of his work, the perishable nature of his produts, and the many hands through which much of this produce must move in the channels of trade. There are many perids in the year when stoppage would be ruinous to him and to his employees. It mihgt be added that neither Society could afford to have these operations stopped. People must eat, and food comes from the the farm.

Senate Bill No. 877 was sponsored by farmers in self-defense.

It was adopted by two- thirds vote over the Governor's veto.

WAR-TIME MEASURE—This is apparent from section 1135 of Chapter 623. Because of the appeal of the President to the people of the nation to set aside or arbitrate differences in order to anid disruptions in the war program, the restrictive provisions of Chapter 623 are needed now. Without said restrictions, productions is curtailed and necessities destroyed.

voluntary servitude.

Outlaws Most Vicious Practices—

"The secondary boycott and strike, like the sit-down strike is an unsound weapon for labor to wield, and labor is in the process of finding it out."—Francis Perkins

★ CROWN CITY CAPERS

By PHILIPPA JONES

PASADENA, Oct. 15—Well, hello, again. After a short absence I'm back again, bringing you all of the latest news, gossip, etc. I do want to thank Carolyn Callier, your guest columnist for last week. I'm sure everyone enjoyed her efforts, so thanks a lot, Carolyn.

Along the patriotic line, the USO girls of Pasadena spent the evening in Riverside. Food and fun was enjoyed by all. Among those having their share of the pleasures were Barbara Reynolds, Julia Bailey, Lexie Hines, Harriet Wills, and others.

Last Sunday many enjoyed the singing of Hall Johnson's choir at First Methodist church here in Pasadena. The Social Debutantes ushered. Some of the members of this popular club are Hannah Nash, Rebby Winfrey, Carrie Humdy, and Clara Huff.

Also last Sunday, those that didn't attend Hall Johnson's concert were at the Orpheum listening to Erskine Hawkins. Among those present were Bette Jones, M. L. Jackson, Jenny McReynolds, Wendell Cummings, Grace Gilchrest, P. J. King, David Jones, Clarence Rucker, and others. Carolyn Callier, Betty Benson, Gloria Bunch, Lucille Harrison, Thelma Jackson, and Jackie Bunch were also present trying out a "manless date" since they are sure Uncle Sam will have all of the young men soon. They found that it wasn't so bad after all, and that they can get along without the male sex.

Really doing some fine football playing last Friday were Willie Slayton and T. D. Floyd. The boys, two first stringers on PJC's Bulldogs, were a credit to any man's race. Also on the team but not having a chance to show his talents, was Jonathan Moreland.

Waldine Logan, formerly of Pasadena, is now Mrs. Norman Hay, of Santa Barbara. Also hear that an old 'Denian, Betty Hicklin, is married and loving it.

Have heard that Bill Irving knows all about the sea by this time, and would like t know what's happening at home. Anyway, hello Bill; best of luck always.

SO WHAT?

After sitting through three shows of the Erskine Hawkins' talent, East Campusers are back to school with Moke and Poke imitations. Some of the sayings (?) going around are: "Bunch eat your lunch," "Willie acts so silly," "Stinson, where's Benson?", "Cast your looks on those books," or "Just cause you're by a pol, you don't have to act a ——." In fact, the new East Campus motto should be, "You cant be on time if you don't rhyme." I wonder what will be the latest when they see Count Basie?

Lula Bunch seen at the game last Friday in the company of one, Mr. Dudley Akins. They seem to be having a wonderful time but olde sisters, Gloria and Jackie, were there to keep an eye on her. Spaking of her older sisters, Roy Stinson and Karl O'Kelly seem to be doing a lot of that.

All I can hear Ollie, out E. C way, talk about is Charlie B. He must be a great man. P. T. King is also seen quite frequently at that campus. I've stopped trying to find out the reason why, but you can't stop a person from thinking.

It's too bad about "Monchie" Sheppard. He's in the hospital with infantile paralysis. We hope he has a speedy recovery. Also wish the same for Aldon Jones.

Robert Morgan got a bad case of homesickness so he returned home after being away at school only a short time. But all the girls up Pepper way were glad to hear the news. Now I begin to wonder was it homesickness?

Johnny Barton, famous for his yells on "I'll Be Around," is always around the campus around 12 o'clock. Could a fine be the reason why?

I wonder are Creole Anderson and Bob Brown still that way about each other?

After hearing the President's speech concerning the drafting of boys of 18 and 19 the girls have started lining up the younger younger set (all in fun (?). Jessie Arnold has Aldon Jones picked out. Thelma Jackson has her eyes on Burt Williams. Since Fred is doing all of the talking about the army, Crystle can have her pick of Joe Devine. As for me, I live on Pepper street, so maybe I'll be glad for that case of homesickness. Who knows?

Elbie H., seen riding around in the car that used to be Phil Harrison's. A cool cat. Well, what do you think of that? (I saw Erskine, too.)

I wonder what C. C. has on J. B. that he doesn't know about? Also wonder who holds Willie Slayton's attention? While I'm wondering, I wonder if Dan Pullen has caught Jeffie Brown yet?

Bob Robinson was home on a furlough and I hear Tommie Moore greeted him with a great show of affection. Could he be the ONE?

After having been home on an 18-day furlough, brother Abbie left for Fort Riley last Wednesday. Also hear my other brother, Roscoe, is about to join the air force. Jack Gordan was another one of the soldiers home on furlough.

Am told from reliable sources (three guesses) that Harrison Bailey has joined the Navy.

Charles D'Antignac seen hearing the 20th Century Gabriel last Sundaya. He has been quite ill.

Frank Strange is pulling a Dan Grisson; he's singing "Let's Try Again."

It looks like everyone is waiting for the next person to give that Hallowe'en party, so in the end, we might all be sitting at home on that night. I know Lora Jacques will be disappointed, for she was planning a fine disguise with her modern dancing costume.

Paul Devine's motto must be "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

I'm told Herbert Barnum was down for the week-end making Eloise Butler very happy.

Betty Benson can tell you all about typing; she's a champ at it.

Jessie could be heard saying Monday (my own version), "Say there, get out of my chair; 'cause like 'Jack, the Bear,' you ain't going to get nowhere."

Cookie Cooke states that life at SC is simply the best. I hear she and Jack have their understanding.

Well, that's about all for now. Remember, "I'll Never Smile Again?" You will hear from me again next week.

So, adios muy amigos; hasta la vista.—P. E. J.

Protect Your Job And Your Family

Vote NO On Proposition 1

Most of the leading attorneys of the State of California have declared that there is a seriousness existing as to the constitutionality of the Hot Cargo Bill. They further stated, that labor, through its pledge of full support to the war effort and through the Federal Legislation now being enforced, is doing a more complete job than could be hoped for under the provisions of this Bill. The legal minds of this day believe that the Bill, if passed, would perpetuate a great harm and would serve as an element to create disunity within the ranks of the people of the United States.

First of all we must examine this bill from all angles. Senate Bill No. 877, Chapter 623, is an act to add Chapter 8, comprising Sections 1131, 1132, 1133, 1134, 1135 and 1136 to Part 3, Division 2 of the Labor Code, relating to hot cargo and secondary boycotts, enacted by the people of California. Chapter 8, the chapter in question, when boiled down states that hot cargo, or merely the product or products involved in secondary boycott, and secondary boycott, or labor's plea to its brother unionists and the general public for support of its stand on the issues involved, is hereby declared unlawful.

If this is so, then organized labor is no longer organized and the unity, power and strength of organization is automatically disbanded.

Senate Bill No. 877 is correctly termed "Slave Bill" because: No matter what their grievances were, workers would not be allowed to go on strikes against their employer if any of the materials they had been working on originated in an establishment whose owner was engaged in a labor dispute with his own employees. Neither would they be allowed to refuse to handle "Hot Cargo" or to work for their employer because of the dispute between the unfair employer and his employees. If they refused, or persuaded others to refuse, or if they did anything whatsoever to cause their employer loss or injury in order to make him stop doing business with the unfair employer or handling his products, they would face the severe penalties provided for the violation of this proposed law.

It is obvious why the anti-labor employer groups fought so hard for the enactment of this bill. If the workers obeyed such a law, the solidarity of organized labor, against which the employers are helpless, would be utterly destroyed, a strike would be unthinkable, and the workers would literally become slaves. If they defied such a law, their organizations would be destroyed, for not only could the employers obtain injunctions, but no ceiling would be placed on the amount of damages for which they could sue.

Now we must consider how such a bill as this might affect the public. If "Slave Bill" 877 became a law, what affect would it have on you, both as a customer and a worker?

This would mean, for instance, that in Negro districts, where business houses depend entirely on Negro trade, that it will be against the law for Negro organizations to insist that such establishments employ Negro help. Upon refusal of such Negro organizations to patronize it, and to ask others to refuse, would be a violation.

As a customer, you would be guilty of a crime if you took sides with labor in any dispute between an employer and his employees — no matter what the dispute was about — and showed your approval of labor's stand by refusing to deal with that employer, or buy goods, or buy anything from any firm that handles his goods. As a worker, you would be guilty of a crime if you refused to do any work of any kind connected with these goods.

And when one stops to think of only a few of the reasons why employees have a dispute with their employer, the unparalleled viciousness of Slave Bill 877 becomes apparent. The employer may be refusing to pay a living wage, or forcing his employees to work under wretched conditions. On the other hand, he may be refusing to buy war bonds and stamps, or he may be flagrantly unpatriotic or even an enemy alien. It would make no difference under this law.

After this somewhat lengthy discourse, you are probably wondering what you can do. You can (A) become a registered voter, if you are not one already; (B) see that the qualified members of your family, your friends and neighbors are registered voters; (C) make sure that you exercise your right and duty to vote; (D) see that voting members of your family, friends and neighbors vote, and make certain that they know how to vote on this issue; (E) take an active part in every plan sponsored by the California Federation of Labor to get the hundreds of thousands of votes which will be needed in November, 1942, to keep Slave Bill 877 from becoming a law. Enroll your friends cooperation as well. (F) See that your union contributes its share of the financial support to the California Federation of Labor's campaign against this bill.

Vote NO on Proposition No. 1, for a NO vote is a yes on your opportunity for securing jobs, a right to work where you please and the protection against specialized wage standards for workers.

Thanksgiving Services and Cornerstone Laying Ceremony at Providence Baptist

REV. F. L. TAYLOR

MRS. BERTHA TAYLOR

Rev. F. L. Taylor and wife, Mrs. Bertha Taylor, announce busy days in their church work since their return from the National Baptist convention in Memphis, and their vacation in Chicago.

They request your presence in the following services, beginning Oct. 19, through Oct. 25:

Landon Church Reviews Services

At the morning service at Community Baptist church, Landon, the pastor, Rev. John A. Davis, spoke from the subject, "The Burning Bush."

The evening program featured an address by Mrs. John Mitchell, a solo by Mrs. Mandelin Williams of Los Angeles, a brief report of his trip to Mississippi by Jewell Wallace, who had just returned. John Zion jr., accompanying Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. Louise Oatis and Mrs. Maria F. Hudson, reading papers, were other numbers on the program.

Mr. Anderson of Tennessee, Miss Cathrine Rice of Mississippi, and Mmes. Slaughter and Lulu Range of Louisiana were the visitors for the day.

Eagle Editor at Baptist Church

The Abyssinia Baptist church, of which Rev. L. D. Stevens is pastor, is observing Women's Day Sunday, Oct. 25. The women of the church are being asked to give one dollar toward the financial success of the day.

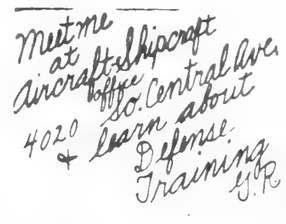
The afternoon program at 3:00 p. m., will be headed by Charlotta A. Bass, editor of the California Eagle. Special musical numbers will also be given. The morning program will be conducted by the ppastor, and the eveinng program by the women of the church.

Quarterly Meet Set at Second AME

Next Sunday quarterly meeting will be held at Second AME church, with Presiding Elder Rev. F. A. Harris occupying the pulpit at both services. The senior choir will sing at the morning service and the gospel choir, under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Smith, will render the music at the evening hour.

At the 3:00 o'clock service, the Rev. Alfred K. Quinn, of Santa Monica, will preach and his choir will sing.

The first quarterly conference of the year will be held on Monday evening with Presiding Elder F. A. Harris presiding. The auxiliaries will make their quarterly report at the conference.



The Sunday School was very well attended under the superintendency of J. Buckner; four new teachers were added to the staff. A special business meeting is called to meet on Thursday evening when the pastor, Rev. J. B. Isaacs, will preside.

Seen among the visitors and worshipers on Sunday last at Second church were Rupert Adams, Rev. Bledsoe, Miss Vivian Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. King, Mrs. Geraldine Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thomas, Mrs. Della McDonald, and Mrs. Sallie Childs.

The minister, Rev. J. B. Isaacs, spoke very interestingly on the subject, "Demonstrative Christianity," and pointed out among other things that "Christianity does not consist only in words expressed, but may also include deeds performed. If we are redeemed by Jesus Christ we should at all times be able to demonstrate it by the lives we live."

Nearly $1000 was pledged in a special effort launched to liquidate the present indebtedness of the church.

The minister says, "Healing is not a process but a revelation; for the revealing of the perfect man always heals."

Nearly 400,000 "We are Prepared" certificates have been issued to householders, it was announced by the State Council of Defense.

Evening Star Baptist Church Celebrates 10th Anniversary

Rev. L. B. Brooks and wife, Mrs. Lillie P. Brooks, announce the close of 10 years work as pastor and founder of the Evening Star Baptist church, 1123 E. 34th street.

This 10th year anniversary closed with 7 special services to which Rev. L. B. Brooks, Mrs. L. P. Brooks and the Evening Star Baptist church wish to thank all members and friends who helped in making this the best of all anniversary services of the years.

The attendance was good. The spirit of Christ was with us and the liberality was beyond our expectation or comprehension. Total amount of money raised and given to Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Brooks was $424.02 plus many personal gifts.

The following churches participated in this 10th anniversary: Sunday, Oct. 4, 3 p. m., guest church, Providence Baptist church, Rev. Taylor, pastor, Monday, Oct. 5, 8 p. m., guest church, Morning Star Baptist church, Rev. W. L. Strauther, pastor; Tuesday, Oct. 6, 8 p. m., guest church, Cornerstone Baptist church, Rev. D. C. Austin, pastor; Wednesday, Oct. 7, 8 p. m., guest church, Israel Baptist church, Rev. H. D. Higdon, pastor; Thursday, Oct. 8, 8 p. m., guest church, Progressive Baptist church, Rev. R. B. Porter, pastor; Friday, Oct. 9, 8 p. m., guest church, Bethlehem Baptist church, Rev. A. Moten, pastor; Sunday, Oct. 11, 3:30 p. m., anniversary sermon. Guest church, Zion Hill Baptist church, Rev. Grant Harris, pastor; Monday, Oct. 12, reception.

Rev. L. B. Brooks also wants his many riends to know that he is continually coming back in health, and my one request above all is still keep praying for him.

FELLOWSHIP MEET AT SHILOH AME ZION

Shiloh AME Zion church held a fellowship meeting Sunday with presiding elder, Dr. J. B. Holmes, in charge. Rev. Paul V. Goodwin of the First Baptist church, Bishop and Mrs. W. C. Brown and Rev. W. F. Watkins also participated on the program.

Pleasant Hill Celebrates

The 30th anniversary of the Pleasant Hill Baptist church and the 34th wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. A. Wendell Ross were celebrated simultaneously Tuesday evening with a musical program and reception to which the public was invited.

The program, which was a testimonial to the many years of service of both the church and two of its most faithful members was largely attended.

Rev. Malone at Lincoln

REV. S. M. MALONE

Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock services, the Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, located at 1550 Hooper, will focus its activities in the efforts of a Men's Day rally. Under the leadership of the young Rev. Percy Williams, the morning service will consist of a program prepared entirely by men with the theme, "Man the Defence of the Home."

Under the chairmanship of Alvin Watkins, and with the program organized by Thomas Green, the speaker of the morning will be Major Dean.

Supporting the worship of the service will be a male choir under the direction of Robert Hardon. He will also present the famous L. A. County quartet. Other sterling musical renditions will be offered by Lawrence Lassiter on the violin, George Comfort, tenor soloist; Millard Lacey, clarinetist; and Samuel Brown on the piano. Retired Police Captain Homer Garrott will have charge of the attendance.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. S. M. Malone, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist church of Pasadena, will preach the sermon. Rev. Malone is bringing the Metropolitan Church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Sharnetta Floyd and Jack Mitchell, famous gospel singer, and the entire congregation. They will have the entire afternoon program in charge.

Ministers Rap Father Riker

The Interdenominational Ministers Alliance met in the YMCA Monday. Attempts by the Church Federation of Los Angeles to coordinate the religious activities of the city were discussed by Rev. F. A. Harris, presiding elder of the AME church for this district. Plans by the alliance to raise $16.0000 to liquidate the indebtedness of the association are going forward.

Devotions at this meeting were conducted by Rev. K. A. Arrington. Rev. M. St. George McCulliam gave the devotional address from the subject, "The Lord's Prayer." The activities of Father Ricker of Holy City were denounced as opposed to our democratic form of government by Rev. L. B. Brown, who made a report on the subject.

Women's Day at Tabernacle

The women of the Tabernacle Baptist church, 900 Hemlock street, cordially invite the public to worship with them in their third annual Women's Day, Sunday.

The morning audience will hear Rev. Mrs. Bell of Chicago, while a few of the features of the afternoon will be Rev. A. Lively, with his choir and congregation; the Douglas Temple choir and congregation; the Pleasant Hill quartet, the Bethlehem female quintet, and Rev. Mrs. Crumes as the speaker.

Choral Union Meets Sunday

The Los Angeles Gospel Choral union, of which Miss Mary R. Banks is president, and Mrs. Riveta Fuller, corresponding secretary, is presenting its monthly inspirational meeting at the Bethlehem Baptist church, 49th street and Compton avenue, Sunday at 3:30 p. m. The meeting is sponsored by the senior choir.

The union is composed of 10 choirs, singing spirituals, anthems, new gospel songs, and hymns. The public is invited. It may be at your church next, sponsored by your favorite choir.

Hamilton Has Men's Day

The men will have their day at Hamilton Methodist church, E. 18th street and Naomi Avenue, Sunday, Oct. 11, with special services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

At 11 a. m., the Men's Day sermon will be delivered by Rev. Charles Warren, pastor of Taylor Memorial Methodist church, Oakland. Rev. Warren, one of the oustanding young ministers of the church, will take for his subject, "The Men for Tomorrow's World."

At 7:30 p. m., the men will present a program featuring a panel discussion from the subject, "The Negro in the Post-War World." Slated to appear as participants are Joseph S. Dunning, Floyd Covington, L. G. Robinson, Paul R. Williams, Al Robinson, Augustus Hawkins and Thomas Griffith.

Special men's group of singers and special musical selections will feature both services. The men of Los Angeles are invited to attend each service.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Morris Castleberry and the many, many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of my husband. Pastor Williams, Rev. Anderson, Rev. Taylor and other ministers for their consoling words and the Conner-Johnson firm for their services rendered.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text from John reads: "John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

Paul, in an exhortation to the Hebrews, says in a selection given in the Lesson-Sermon: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God." Also included is this statement from First Peter: "Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ."

Along this line Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Jesus bore our infirmities; he knew the error of mortal belief, and 'with his stripes (the rejection of error) we are healed.'" "Our Master fully and finally demonstrated divine Science in his victory over death and the grave. Jesus' deed was for the enlightenment of men and for the salvation of the whole world from sin, sickness, and death."

Poll Tax Battle to Senate

wakened public opinion drove Congress to action on the President's anti-inflation legislation.

Press services in the nation's capital, after a conspiracy of silence holding over a period of two years, suddenly realized that the anti-poll tax battle is front page news this week. Demonstrating once again the corruption of these services, both U. P and A. P. carried biased stories which quoted every poll tax enemy and dug the same mysterious "informed quarters" to bewail the bills Senate hopes as they have in the past discovered to pooh-pooh the second front.

VICTORY CAN BE WON!

...The brilliant tactics employed to blast the bill out of the House can be duplicated in the Senate!

However, in this effort a greater outpouring of public demand must be had. Importance of the anti-poll tax fight lies in the fact that it would return to ten million American citizens in eight Southern states the right to vote in national elections. That these millions would be a powerful weapon with which to drive out of Congress the pro-Fascist representatives now seated there in the name of Dixie is seen in the fact that the rank and file of Georgia voters, even though limited by poll tax restrictions, dispatched Gov. Eugene Talmadge to the political ash-heap when an aggressive union-supported candidate pointed out that Talmadge's rank Negro-baiting was only a dodge to hide his connections with Fascist America. The scores of anti-Roosevelt saboteurs now scuttling many of the President's win-the-war policies will be on their way out when the people of the South, white and black, are able to cast an honest ballot.

WORK NOW!

The poll tax measures are the most important for Negro America in the last sixty years. It is our job to see that it is passed. A city-wide anti-poll tax committee has been formed, headed by John Anson Ford and supported by Mayor Fletcher Bowron. A poll tax victory mass meeting will be called within the next few days. Meanwhile, clubs, unions, and Column.

Inflamed by the state's corrupt press, scared to death of the anti-poll tax bill and the whole prospect of genuine national unity in the anti-Fascist war, poor southern are driven to a suicidal lynch rage. Never was the "hands off" policy in southern affairs demonstrated as so fatal to the welfare of the whole nation. Demands for immediate action have already been lodged with the Department of Justice.

The lynched boys, Charlie Lang and Ernest Green, both of Shubuta, were taken from the Quitman jail by a mob of criminal 'unidentified 'persons' who 'overpowered' City Marshall G. F. Dabbs.

The boys were arrested last Tuesday and accused of way-laying a 13-year old white girl who was walking home from school. Southern gallantry precluded statement of just which 13-year-old girl in the state of Mississippi in the the usual phony U. P. story covering the crime.

According to his story, Dabbs was quickly 'overpowered' by mob. Sheriff Lloyd McNeal of Clarke county, found the bodies "suspended from a bridge where the girl was waylaid."

SIDEWALK

that no provisions had been made for Negroes, but, with special permission of the district manager they might be allowed to take the prescribed courses.

These United States of America are divided into (8) eight districts. California is in the sixth district, which comprises the Pacific coast states, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, and Arizona. In this district, there are 38 schools, but in all the the eight districts there are only two schools for Negroes. They are in regional number two, which includes Alabama and Florida.

The group was referred to the district manager, Mr Schow, whose office is in Santa Monica. On Oct. 4, we called on Mr. Schow in a group of five and Mr. Schow began at once to make elaborate excuses, saying that he was without authority to enroll Negroes in the schools for the Civilian Pilot Training and he referred us to the two schools primarily for Negroes at Tuskegee, Ala., and Tallahassee, Florida. We made mention of the fact that there are 38 schools in this district and we are not allowed to attend one of these schools and we asked why. His answer was that his instructions from Washington were to this effect but that with the consent of then national director of Civilian Pilot Training whose office is in Washington, D. C ,we might be able to get into one of the schools in this district. We have written the National Office asking for the permission to attend one of the schools in district 6 and made mention of the fact that we were referred to his office by Schow. This letter was sent airmail with an enclosed stamped addressed envelope.

We are appealing to you for advice as to what steps we might take to further our cause. We feel that we are justified in giving this matter all the publicity that is possible. We shall make an appeal to all the Negro welfare organizations for support, as we are to be affected by draft in other branches of the army. We are willing to make the same sacrifices as any other group and we should be given the oportunity to be well prepared when the time comes so that we can render the best service most effectively.

Says Race Soldiers Limited to Zones in Australia

Acting during a four months trip through the Pacific as war correspondent for the coast representative of the Associate Negro press, Robt. Hayes, of Los Angeles, returned last Friday with many tales of his travels, some of which can be told, but others will have to wait until after the war. These include actual experiences of warfare, during his voyage on a merchant ship which included in its itinerary, Australia, the Fiji Islands, New Calodonia, the Hawaiian Islands and others.

One of the most interesting facts he revealed is that while Sidney and other large Australian cities show no discrimination against the colored soldiers there fighting under Gen. Douglas McArthur, they are free to move about only in certain zones in Melbourne when on leave. Apparently a bar instituted against colored bands and prize fighters there in 1927 still had its influence in Melbourne.

Although there was little difference in the facial appearance of the natives of Fiji and Caledonia and that of American Negroes, said Hayes, it is almost unbelievable the abject poverty in which they as a rule are living. Coaling ships and other arduous duties for a few shillings per day, most of them were unable to procure sufficient clothes to wear. Hence, thy do not hesitate to beg for clothing or anything else newcomers will give them.

A storm at sea is all that saved their ship from becoming the prey of a Japanese submarine, Hayes believes. He said it came up and tried to manoever into a position to launch its torpedoes, but the mountainous waves prevented this and it had to submergs without doing any damage. Their ship hurriedly altered its course and sped away from the vicinity as fast as the storm would alow.

Now, at the end of this meeting, on the basis of the arguments which I have heard tonight, let me say this: 'If the Negro has the guts to come to Princeton, even when it may not be too pleasant for him at first, then I say we want him here and by God, I am for it'. I never thought I could ever say a thing like that".

Before buying ANY laxative, consider these 3 Questions

Ques. Does it make any difference what laxative you buy? Ans. It certainly does; most people prefer a laxative that is gentle in action but thorough in results. Ques. How can you know what laxative, when taken as directed, will usually give gentle, thorough, prompt relief? Ans. One simple way is to ask for Black-Draught. Ques. Is Black-Draught economical? Ans. Very! Only 25c for 25 to 40 doses.

Black-Draught is purely herbal. It has been a popular-selling laxative with four generations. Many say the new granulated form is even easier to take. Be sure to follow label directions.

Warren Must Be Defeated

Earl Warren has the worst record of any man who has ever run for the governorship of California on the ticket of a major party. The threat of his election thru an insufficient understanding of his dangerous connections on the part of average citizens, especially Negroes, who stand to lose most by such an election— is a very real danger and is a challenge to every patriotic American.

This is no time for mincing words. It is no time for mud-slinging. It is a moment in which the American people have an historic mission to perform—we must sweep out of office each representative of the masses whose actions lay him open to attack as native Fascists, as a traitor, as a Quisling enemy from within. There are fourteen highly significant reasons why Earl Warren should not be elected in a brilliant and statesman-like publication of the State Democratic party. We proudly reprint that indictment and will follow it with raising specific questions upon which Warren's record places him firmly within the ranks of Negro-Ameria's arch foes.

FOURTEEN REASONS WHY WARREN SHOULD BE DEFEATED

1—He opposes the President's war offensive policies as exemplified by the United Nations agreement for a 2nd Front in 1942.

2—He pretends to be "non-partisan" when in reality his chief backers are Herbert Hoover and William Randolph Hearst.

3—He is opposed to the unity of all the nations fighting Hitler. His supporters attack England and the Soviet Union.

4—He is opposed to the enactment of ALL of the seven points in the President's war economic policy. He is opposed to the $25,000 limit on incomes.

5—He opposes nursery schools for the children of mothers working in war industries.

6—He favors the abolition of the income tax but wishes to see the sales tax retained.

7—He is in favor of the anti-labor, disunifying "Hot Cargo" Bill.

8—He refuses to denounce the appeasers and negotiated peace advocates in his own party.

9—He belittles the role being played by labor in the war effort by refusingto say anything about it. He will not give labor representation in any of the state's affair's if elected.

10—He has done nothing and will do nothing to secure jobs for Negroes and Spanish speaking Americans in war industries.

11—He tries to give Californians the impression that he supports the President and that the President wants him to be Governor: but not even Wendell Willkie —the leader of his own party, has endorsed him.

12—He is not suported by any labor or responsible minority group organization in the State.

13—He framed, persecuted and secured the conviction of the labor leaders King, Ramsey and Conner with a stacked jury.

14—He attacked Governor Olson for proclaiming a state of emergency after Pearl Harbor and has since demoralized war moves of the state by unfounded criticism.

Further, Earl Warren is running on a platform whose first plank prattles against the release from state prisons of "desperate criminals." His failure as Attorney General to make one solitary move toward freeing Festus Coleman, young Negro of San Francisco sentenced to 65-years at San Quentin in a case which has become nationaly famous as a demonstration of perverted justice.

Warren's failure to act in this case, however, is fully in line with his whole reactionary record. Although he has found plenty of time to prosecute labor leaders and others who have incurred the displeasure of his great patron saints, Herbert Hoover and William Randolph Hearst, he has never gotten around to such Hitler agents as Father Riker of Holy City, California, who daily sends out vicious anti-Negro pamphlets, opposes amendment which freed Negroes from slavery. Riker, apparently with an OK from Warren ran for governor of the state on the Republican ticket during the primaries. It was at this very time that Warren was upholding an unconstitutional law to bar Communists from the ballot. Though he could bend over backwards to follow the Hearst-Hoover red-baiting line, Warren found nothing wrong with a candidate for governor who campaigned (actually!) on the issue of 'Great White Manism."

LET'S NOT fool ourselves. The election of Earl Warren in the state of California would be a national tragedy which would cancel out the defeat of Eugene Talmadge in Georgia. The connection between these two men, in fact, is a very close one. Both represent the same, dastardly forces in American life. Both are spokesmen for the most reactionary, anti-Negro sections of the American people. Both are against Roosevelt. Both are against an adequate war effort. Both are backed by known American Hitlerites, Talmadge by the notorious DuPont firm and Warren by the Hearst-Hoover gang. These are the men who hate and despise every measure for the social advancement of the American people during the Roosevelt adminstration.It is these people who are not overly concerned with victory in this war, especially NOT that kind of victory which Wendell Wilkie charts—the victory of the common man, everywhere. That these characters appear before the voters of California draped in the American flag and gushing over with affection for Franklin Delano Roosevelt is not only funny but an outrage upon the intelligence of our citizens.

Our Mexican Neighbors

Grand Jury investigations into the conditions surrounding the development of boy gangs in Los Angeles' Mexican community are long overdue. Solution of the problems of discrimination faced by the Mexican people as a whole in our great state is also something that has moulded on the agenda for too long. With alleged pro-fascists working to corrupt the natural discontent of Mexican people into an anti-war sentment, the moment is ripe to involve the whole state in a determined effort to remove, once and for all, the unreasoning discrimination which has been heaped upon the Mexican population of Southern California, an oppression which far surpasses that endured here by Negroes and comparable only to our condition in areas of the deep South.

Mexican workers were brought into California as virtual slave labor for the agricultural imperialists of the state.Their condition as Amercian peons has been upheld until recently through severe social ostracism, educational inequalities and dreadful housing conditions. The revolt of urban Mexican youth against this environment here is a real outgrowth of oppression. It bears an unmistakable common identity with the tragedy that was Bigger Thomas' lot. The solution to the problem of riotous Mexican youth is not as supremely involved as some would have us believe. Proper public housing will go a long way in the right direction. Even more important, however, is the effort to secure adequate defense training for Mexican young people —and to back up that training with immediate placement in those very industries which howl long and loud about the 'shortage of manpower.' Industrial discrimination has struck a far more deadly blow at Los Angeles' Mexican group than at any others. Negroes, although a much lesser numerical minority of the whole population in Southern California than are the Mexicans (70,000 to 300,000), have secured a far more effective implementation of the President's executive order 8802 than they have,—our defense employment far out-numbers theirs.

So long as the principle of discrimination may be employed to cheat ANY group of justice, our achievements are not safe. Any division of the American people today is fraught with danger for us all. The fight for the rights of Mexican citizens is part of the struggle of Negro America. It is also part of WINNING THIS WAR!

Free Festus Coleman

Sunday in San Francisco a giant mass meeting will urge upon Gov. Culbert L. Olson an immediate pardon for Festus Coleman, young Negro WPA worker sentenced to sixty-five years of imprisonment at San Quentin for the crime of walking through Golden Gate park.

Here are the facts in this case—

One summer night Festus Coleman was walking home from his job through Golden Gate park when he came upon an army officer and a young girl engaging in an immoral act.The soldier, outraged at being discovered, assaulted Coleman, calling in the aid of another officer nearby with another young woman. The two over-powered Coleman, took him to a police station and proffered charges of rape against him. According to the officers, the Negro had attacked one young woman while holding the two men at bay with a gun! This weapon has never been found. The two hospitals to which the assaulted girl was supposed to have been taken were "forgotten" by one and all. The judge who tried Coleman filled the court record with anti-Negro comments, and the lawyer who "defended" Coleman has since been disbarred!

These are the circumstances surrounding the sentence of sixty-five years at San Quentin for this young Negro. If ever— in the long history of injustice— a man deserved pardon, it is Festus Coleman.

"MR. BROWN, DID THE BOARD TELL A GENT NAMED BOOTSIE TO PROVE THAT HE HAD DEPENDENTS? WELL, HE'S GOT 'EM HERE NOW.

★ W. J. WHEATON

The torches cut through the steel plates that held the ship to the way and as the great hull trebled with anxiety the "ALL CLEAR" sounded and the Booker T. Washington slid gracefully into water , and as if in response to the enthusiastic cheers of the assembled throngs, dipped her bow in tribute. It was a glorious moment and if their was one in the vast assemblage who did not have a choke in the throat and a pride in his heart that person was, indeed, void of feeling.

When the Booker T. Washington was launched she already had a cargo. She was freighted with desires and the hopes of fifteen million Americans of Negro heritage. The prayers were that this ship, representative of the democ- spirit which was epitomized by "That Great American who happened to be a Negro" would tell to the world at large that the United States of America had laid the Corner Stone the foundation on which is to be erected the structure of the "Four Freedoms".

The ceremonies accompaning the launching will be better described by more competent writers. It is not necessary to say that our women were prominent. Miss Marion Anderson who broke the traditional of wine no doubt was thrilled as she exclaimed,"I christen thee the Booker T. Washinton!" Previous to that Miss Anderson sang the National Anthem as only she can do. Then there was the gracious Mary McLeod Bethune, eloquent, foreeful, and with logic she told of the true meaning of democracy and extolled not alone the precept but the example that was set for the nation by the visible mingling of the workers of every race, working in the spirit of true democracy. We learned that the idea originated with the wife of Peter Ross, and that Mr. Ross put the idea into action, with results. We don't detract from the glory of Peter Ross, even if it be reflected. That which impressed most was the expression which lighted the faces of those women.

Not one who did not appear impressed with the seriousness as as well as the importance of the event. One could but note that they realized that tere is a growing need for every ounce of energy; every phase of sane planning, which will be their task in the days to come. If one could read the desire of each heart and enterpret each mind, it without doubt would have been we must, will That through the sincerity of purpose, which is the dominating feature of our women will lead to success. Have you noticed the decided, right about face of the Daughters of the Revloution? WeLL: once they refused to allow Miss Marion Anderson to sing in concert in their auditorium. Miss Anderson sang at the Lincoln Monument. Well do we remember that. Well folks, as one of our radio announcers would put it, those same daughters have invited Miss Anderson to grace them with a recital. We are not of the imaginative type, but, as the Booker T. Washinton dipped its huge hull into the water, we envisioned the spirit of the great Educator standing at the bow and with a smile and outstretched arms gave his blessings and cried with the assembled thousands, "Carry on, carry on!".

★ SPREADING JOY

By JOHN FOWLER

MOTHER EARLEY

Saturday afternoon all that was mortal of Mother Mamie Earley, stepmother of Walter Earley, lay before the altar of her favorite church. Yes, the church of which she was one of the founders—Wesley Chapel— where scores of old friends and acquaintances came to pay their last tribute of respect to her there in the sanctuary where for nearly a half century she came regularly to kneel and renew her covenant made long years ago away down in Texas, amid the sweet perfume of brilliantly colored flowers.

I was particularly impressed with the loyalty of old friends— one large floral piece was from "Neighbors and Friends of 18th Street." I saw Lawrence Criner, with tear-dimmed eyes, gently leading his grandmother down to the altar to have the last look at her friend of a life time. Also Jesse Coles-Grayson and her husband were there to pay their respects to the memory of her mother's friend.

Rev. Rakestraw was assisted by Rev. L. R. Jordan, the former pastor of Wesley Chapel. The obituary, a gem of rare beauty, was written and read by Mrs. Theresa Bailey. Members of Pioneer Club No. 1 acted as pallbearers; Roberts officiated.

THE IOWA CLUB

The Iowa Club of the city honored me by inviting me to install their newly elected officers for the ensuing year. The ceremonies took place in the beautiful home of Mrs. Mary Lofton on E. 55th street, last Thursday afternoon. The following officers were installed: President, Mrs. Laura Dunlap; vice president, Mrs. Nina Wright; treasurer, Mrs. Eliza Wise; secretary, Mrs. Nellie Williams; chaplain, Mrs. Susie Hodge; advisor, Mrs. Bertha Dardene; assistant secretary, Mrs. Evaline Van Meter.

These former residents of the tall corn state have one of the foremost social and civic clubs in the community. Combining many of the fine traditions of Iowa and California, they have a cultural background that is at once interesting and refreshing. Among its members are the following well known Iowans: Mmes. Fay Allen, Heln Banks, Laura E. Fowler, Emma Johnson, Tabitha Mash, Anna Griffin, Anna Tomlin, Myrtle Crumbly, and Mrs. Francis Mayo.

IKE McVEA

Next Tuesday night the Pioneer Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the residence of pioneer Ike McVea, 1223 E. 33rd street. Old timers will enjoy this opportunity to meet many of the old friends that they haven't seen for years. Arthur Henry, Jim Alexander, Billy Carroll, and Sandy Gardener, all of the old Wiley ball team, are expected out. Come on out; Ike promises to put the big pot in the little one for the old gang.

FLORENCE COLE-TALBERT-McCLEAVES

Our own Florence delighted the congregation of old Eighth and Towne Sunday morning. Somehow I feel that her sainted mother gave a smile of satisfaction when she finished with the song that touched the hearts of us all.

THE MUTUAL AID SOCIETY

I think one of the prettiest little tea parties was that of the Mutual Aid Society, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, 1049 E. 42nd street. All afternoon, beautifull gowned ladies and gentlemen assembled and enjoyed a musicale and literary program. Of course, everyone knows of the Mutual Aid Society. It is the oldest auxiliary of the church. It was founded by Charlie Clarkson some forty odd years ago. Truly they have throughout the years, gone about giving that cup of cold water of which the Master spoke.

My hearty congratulations to president N. C. Duncan and the other officers and members of this worthy organization.

This week the Old Sweethearts parade is being led by Mr. and Mrs. Ruben H. Matthews, the parents of Charles Matthews.

Johnson Choir Thrills Pasadenans

The Inter-Church Christian Social Relations committee of the Woman's Society for Christian Service presented the Festival Negro Chorus of Los Angeles, directed by Hall Johnson, in a benefit recital of Negro spirituals at the First Methodist church, Pasadena, last Sunday, as a benefit for Scott Methodist church, of which Rev. Karl Downs is pastor.

The large audience thrilled to the choral arrangements by Hall Johnson, which are famous thruout the world. The affair was not only an esthetic one but was educational as well, for in the presentation of the program was an interpretation of the spirituals which was highly appreciated by the audience.

Said Johnson, "In listening to a program composed entirely of Negro spirituals, the informed music-lover must inevitably be struck by the great variety of music styles employed to express the religious thought of a simple people whose existence, at the time, was everything but varied. With regard to the texts, it should also be kept in mind that no matter how quaint or amusing the hearer may find the words of these songs, to the original singers these words were the only natural vehicle of their profoundest feelings and should be listened to as such."

George Lynn assisted in arranging the program and in securing the more than 100 sponsors. The Inter-Church committee is composed of 10 churches of Pasadena of which Scott Methodist is a member.

The State Council of Defense reports that deposits of blood plasma have been made to the extent of 7,500 units in 12 strategic locations. The total will be brought to 27,357 unit..

Baptist Temple Dedication Set

Sunday was a great day at the Baptist Temple, 620 E. 48th street. Dr. J. C. Sweeney preached from the subject, "Union With Christ." Four adults joined the church.

The Baptist Temple is looking forward to its great dedication program, which begins Sunday, Oct. 25, and will continue until Nov. 15.

During this time some of the most noted pastors, musicians, gospel singers, and business men will participate in the services. The public is invited to attend.

★ WORLD THIS WEEK

By ROBERT PATTERSON

DEATH TO THE CRIMINALS

No haven in any Doorn will give shelter to Hitler and other Axis leaders at the successful conclusion of this war. A United Nations commission is even now preparing to draw up formally a list of the high crimes against humanity committed by the outlaws who are the titular heads of the Axis countries. These post-war trials will not lack for evidence. The campaigns of atrocity, of organized murder, of wanton aggression committed by the Axis ringleaders brand these men in the eyes of the civilized world as irresponsible criminals. Being largely responsible for having mislead their own people to plunge the world into a ghastly blood bath which is yet far from ended, it seems both proper and desirable that the culprits should be brought to the bar of justice and given a full taste o fthat punishment they inflicted without pity upon others. The quality of mercy will indeed be strained if, fater spending millions of lives to stop the Axis juggernaut, the United Nations permit to go unpunished the power-crazed killers who created that juggernaut and deliberately set it moving on its path of destruction.

MANPOWER CONTROL

The decision of the War Manpower Commission to draft legislation for the control of the nation's labor force is long overdue. A war production program so stupendous in scale as ours cannot conceivably be carried through successfully while the nation's manpower is left, laissez-faire style, undirected and uncontrolled. Without power to allocate skilled workers to industries where they are most needed, without power to hold skilled workers in industries where they are needed, without power to require the training of workers where and when needed, the government has been powerless to avail itself of the full resources of the country's manpower. Even the owner of a 16-cylinder Duesenberg who finds himself unable to control the steering gear finds his 16 cylinders small matter to boast of until he remedies his predicament. Opposed to us are nations long prepared, and totally organized, as fighting machines. It is unlikely we can successfully bid for victory without pittting against them a fighting machine equal in organization, superior in striking power.

THAT KEEP 'EM FLOWING

Speaking to the Boston conference on distribution a few days ago President Roosevelt declared it imperative that those who transport farm and factory products to the consumer "seek in every way possible to expedite the free flow of goods." To the fullest extent possible, this has been the voluntary program adopted and enforced by the nation's motor transport fleets. On them rests a special responsibility in this period, for they have had to take over many of the jobs relinquished by the rails due to the war emergency, in addition to maintaining their own war shipments and regular services. Yet by establishing information clearing houses, eliminating duplicate schedules and ending non-essential deliveries, highway carriers have successfully reduced total monthly mileages covered, despite an increase in the shipments carried. The extent of these conservation measures on national scale can be guged from the fact that in our 11 Western states alone 7,572 communities, big and little, are served wholly by motor transportation. Let the wheels of the truck-trailers be stopped by lack of tires, by arbitrary restrictions on the distance they may run, and a virtual "finis" would be written to the existence of these thousands of communities. Those who transport farm and factory products are doing their ablest "to expedite the free flow of goods." Whether motor transport can continue depends on something else--the free flow of synthetic rubber production.

DEEDS SPEAK LOUDER

Following hard on the heels of numerous pledges of support to the war effort and national unity, John L. Lewis has succeeded--after a stormy battle--in leading the United Mine Workers of America out of the ranks of the CIO. Labor's long divided house is now broken into three parts, thanks to the power hungry tactics of Boss Lewis. If unity be a matter of deeds and not words, the labor czar has made but small contribution to it.

THE FARMER SETS A RECORD

The estimated cash income of farmers, reports the Department of Agriculture, will this year reach all of $15 billion. In at least one sense, that critical tire shortage isn't keeping the farmer from going to town.

★ "WHAT'S COOKIN'?"

Dear gang,

From now on, until I find a better name, this section of the sheet will be known officialy as "What's Cookin' " and the first one that says, 'Ham,' will be worthwith stricken off the list, and you know there're only 74 days until.

While eating extremely early breakfast the other mornning,I overheard two soldiers telling a sailor a joke. If they could laugh at it (and they did) then you'd better. Said soldier No. 1, "You know, the Japanese go around telling everyone in Japan that the Americans are starving to death (this was to the tune of two fried eggs, toast, etc. etc. and, yes, ham on everybody's plate, except the flaccid old lady who insisted on eating mush). Said soldier No. 2, "Huh?" Said sailor . . . . . "

." Said soldier 1, "Yeah, they say that every time one American meets another, the first thing he says is, 'What's Cookin'?'

Probably the nicest thing in the area is the Hollywood Stage Door Canteen, where 20,000 to 30,000 are entertained each week. The name of the Canteen is 'The House that Labor Built,' and everyone with any talent—movie stars, musicians, entertainers of all sorts is doing his bit for the boys. The grand thing about it is that all soldiers are welcome and all parts of the community are cooperating to make it a success Better go out that way, boys, Sunset and Cahuenga, because the hostesses are really . . . wall, you know what I mean. I saw one of them.

Sgt. William Mitchell, formerly assistant manager of the Savoy Cash Market is now company clerk of his Quartermasters unit at Harding Field, Baton Rouge, La. Pvt. Melvin W. Leighton who used to live on East Santa Barbara street, is undergoing his basic training at Fort Eustis, Va., an anti- aircraft replacement training center. I hear that he still wants to drive an entry into the Indianapolis speedway classic—after the duration. He is the only Negro member of the Southern California Timing Association and has piloted the "Legion Special," designed and built by him on many California speedways. And Sgt. R. Stokes, another one of our gang, has recently been promoted from Private to Sgt. at the Army Air Proving Ground at Elgin Field, Fla.

The boys at Tuskegee really did themselves proud with this issue of the "The Hawk's Cry," their semi-monthly publication. I even read it. Think of that! Also heard that the first contingent of Negro Air force troops has arrived at Sioux Falls Air force Technical Training School and will form the nucleus of the 85th Aviation Squadron.

I hear that you need skilled men badly these days, so am passing the word along to the fellows who are not part of the gang now. When your number comes up, remember everything that you have done, in the way of work, I mean, for the job or hobby that you think the least important may be just what is needed. Every effort is made, as the gang can tell you, to put the boys where they are most needed and can give the best tervice. There are some nice stories about placements that I'll pass along to you some time.

I don't know what job Corp. Vernon Bilke is performing, but the morale division could certainly use him. He wrote a letter which was sent ont by 20th Century-Fox about 'Tales of Manhattan' in answer to Hedda Hoppers criticism that the Negro episode lacked the 'Green Pastures' quality. For sheer undedstanding of what the whole thing is about, for beauty of style, and for human feeling, this letter's the best contribution to the erstwhile and very warm controversy that I've seen.

He says, in part, "The Negro is human, Miss Hopper. 'His feelings can be hurt as easily as anyone. Perhaps he is more sensitive because he has been hurt so much. That iswhy we die a little every time we see a character showing none of the honest characteristic of the race. That is why we loved "Tales of Manhattan."

He continues, "I was born in a West Virginia village that seemed to me to be the village on the screen. When one of the little boys prayed for a blanket without holes in it, I was that boy When another little boy prayed for shoes and stocking, he was that little boy. When another little boy prayed for shoes and stockings, he was my big brother. My brother didn't have any shoes or stockings until the last war. He enlisted. He was killed. But I know he died happy. Because shoes and stockings can be somethting to die for. When one of the men prayed for carpenter tools, that man was my father. He never had more than a hammer. He loved tools. Everyone of them I knew. Even Mr. Robeson. We had one like that, too. Good as God but never praying out loud because whenever he spoke, he spoke about owning a piece of land. I think his family still pays the installments on the only piece of land he ever owned.--the little plot in the cemetery where he is buried.

"You see, Miss Hopper, he concludes, "We are Negro soldiers and know our race. All we want is understanding that we are not clowns. That given the chance we can give a great deal to America our native land, even our blood and our lives...

And with that, I too, conclude. It's your turn again.

AN EXCLUSIVE CALIFORNIA BOOK SERIAL

"NATIVE SON" ★

From the book by
RICHARD WRIGHT

In the church a crowd of black men and women stood between long rows of wooden benches, singing, clapping hands, and rolling their heads.

Aw, them folks go to church every day in the week, he thought. He licked his lips and got another drink of water. How near were the police? What time was it? He looked at his watch and found that it had stopped running; he had forgotten to wind it.

The singing from the church vibrated through him, suffusing him with a mood of sensitive sorrow. He tried not to listen, but it seeped into his feelings, whispering of another way of life and death, coaxing him to lie down and sleep and let them come and get him, urging him to believe that all life was a sorrow that had to be accepted.

He shook his head, trying to rid himself of the music. How long had he slept? What were the papers saying now? He had two cents left; that would buy a Times. He picked up what remained of the loaf of bread and the music sang of surrender, resignation. Steel away, steal away, steal away to Jesus. He stuffed the bread into his pockets; he would eat it some time later. He made sure that his gun was still intact, hearing, Steal away, steal away home, I ain't got long to stay here.

It was dangerous to stay here, but it was also dangerous to go out. The singing filled his ears; it was complete, self-contained, and it mocked his fear and loneliness, his deep yearning for a sense of soleness. Its fullness contrasted so sharply with his hunger, its richness with his emptiness, that he recoiled from it while answering it.

Would it not have been better for him had he lived in that world the music sang of? It would have been easy to have lived in it, for it was his mother's world, humble, contrite, believing. It had a center, a core, an axis, a heart which he needed but could never have unless he laid his head upon a pillow and humility and gave up his hope of living in the world. And he would never do that.

He heard a street car passing in the street; they were running again. A wild thought surged through him. Suppose the police had already searched this neighborhood and had overlooked him. But sober judgment told him that that was impossible. He patted his pocket to make sure the gun was there, then climbed through the window. Cold wind smote his face. It must be below zero, he thought.

At both ends of the alley the street lamps glowed through the murky air, refracted into mammoth balls of light. The sky was dark blue and far away. He walked to the end of the alley and turned onto the sidewalk, joining the passing stream of people. He waited for someone to challenge his right to walk there, but no one did.

At the end of the block he saw a crowd of people and fear clutched hard at his stomach. What were they doing? He slowed and saw that they were gathered about a newsstand. They were black people and they were buying papers to read about how the white folks were trying to track him to earth.

He lowered his head and went forward and slipped into the crowd. The people were talking excitedly. Cautiously he held out two cents in his cold fingers. When he was close enough, he saw the front page; his picture was in the center of it. He bent his head lower, hoping that no one would see him closely enough to see that it was he who was pictured there.

"Times," he said.

He tucked the paper under his arm, edged out of the crowd and walked southward, looking for an empty flat. At the next corner he saw a "For Rent" sign in a building which he knew was cut up into small kitchenette flats.

This was what he wanted. He went to the door and read the sign; there was an empty flat on the fourth floor. He walked to the alley and began to mount the outside rear stairs, his feet softly crunching in the snow. He heard a door open; he stopped, got his gun and waited, kneeling in the snow.

"Who's that?"

It was a woman's voice. Then a man's voice sounded.

"What's the matter, Ellen?"

"I thought I heard someone out here on the porch."

"Aw, you're simply nervous. You're scared of all this stuff you've been reading in the papers."

"But I'm sure I heard somebody."

"Aw, empty the garbage and shut the door. It's cold."

Bigger flattened against the building, in the dark. He saw a woman come out of a door, pause, look around; she went to the far end of the porch and dumped something into a garbage pail and went back inside. I would've had to kill 'em both if she saw me, he thought. He tiptoed up to the fourth floor and found two windows, both of them dark. He tried to lift the screen in one of them and found it frozen.

Gently he shook it to and fro until it loosened; then he lifted it out and laid it on the porch in the snow. Inch by inch, he raised the window, breathing so loud that he thought surely people must hear him even in the streets.

He climbed through into a dark room and struck a match. An electric light was on the other side of the room and he went to it and pulled the chain. He put his cap over the bulb so that no light would seep through to the outside, then opened the paper.

Yes; here was a large picture of him. At the top of the picture ran a tall line of black type: 24-HOUR SEARCH FAILS TO UNEARTH RAPIST. In another column he saw: RAID 1,000 NEGRO HOMES. INCIPIENT RIOT QUELLED AT 47TH AND HALSTEAD. There was another map of the South Side. This time the shaded area had deepened from both the north and south, leaving a small square of white in the middle of the oblong Black Belt.

He stood looking at that tiny square of white as though gazing down into the barrel of a gun. He was there on that map, in that white spot, standing in a room waiting for them to come.

Dead-set, his eyes stared above the top of the paper. There was nothing left for him but to shoot it out. He examined the map again; the police had come from the north as far south as Fortieth Street; and they had come from the south as far north as Fiftieth Street. That meant that he was somewhere in between, and they were minutes away. He read:

Today and last night eight thousand armed men combed cellars, old buildings and more than one thousand Negro homes in the Black Belt in a vain effort to apprehend Bigger Thomas, 20-year old Negro rapist and killer of Mary Dalton, whose bones were found last Sunday night in a furnace.

Bigger's eyes went down the page, snatching at what he thought most important: "Word spread that the slayer had been captured, but was immediately denied," "before night police and vigilantes will have covered the entire Black Belt," "raiding numerous Communist headquarters throughout the city," "the arrest of hundreds of Reds failed, however, to uncover any clues," "public warned by Mayor against 'boring from within'." Then:

A curious sidelight was revealed today when it became known that the apartment building in which the Negro killer lived is owned and managed by a subfirm of the Dalton Real Estate Company.

He lowered the paper; he could read no more. The one fact to remember was that eight thousand men, white men, with guns and gas, were out there in the night looking for him.

According to this paper, they were but a few blocks away. Could he get to the roof of this building. If so, maybe he could crouch there until they passed. He thought of burying himself deep in the snow of the roof, but he knew that that was impossible.

He pulled the chain again and plunged the room in darkness. Using the flashlight, he went to the door and opened it and looked into the hall. It was empty and a dim light burned at the far end. He put out the flashlight and tiptoed, looking at the ceiling, searching for a trapdoor leading to the roof. Finally, he saw a pair of wooden steps leading upward.

Suddenly, his muscles stiffened as though a wire strung through his body had jerked him. A siren shriek entered the hallway. And immediately he heard voices, excited, low tense.

From somewhere down below a man called, "They's comin'!"

There was nothing to do now but go up; he clutched the wooden steps above him and climbed, wanting to get out of sight before anyone came into the hall. He reached the trapdoor and pushed against it with his head; it opened. He grabbed something solid in the darkness above him and hoisted himself upward, hoping as he did so that it would hold him and not let him go crashing down upon the hall floor.

He rested on his knees, his chest heaving. Then he eased the door shut, peering just in time to see a door in the hall opening. That was close! The siren sounded again; it was outside in the street. It seemed to sound a warning that no one could hide from it; that action to escape was futile; that soon the men with guns and gas would come and penetrate where the siren sound had penetrated.

He listened; there were throbs of motors; shouts rose from the streets; there were screams of women and curses of men.

A Pome of Love and War and Death and Marv's Sweet Shop

BY JOHN KINLOCH

Your are.
A young snot.
Who don't know.
What the war's about.
Or the peace.
That was.
For that matter.
And life is.
A blazing, bright.
Thing.
With a lot of parts.
That don't.
Add up.
And guys that worry.
About it.
Are squares.

Life is.
A Ford V-8
Simoniz shiny.
With your name.
On the registration.

Life is.
A job.
At North American.
It is.
The banging.
And busting.
Of big machines.
That you can run.

You like.
The noise.
And the being a part.
Of something so.
Damn big.

The machines—
The planes they make.

And the men.
Okies and Chinks.
Jigs and the.
Mexican cats.
With their draped britches.
Who gotta.
Run the machines
That bang out.
The planes.

II

Life is.
Mildred.
With them.
Fine gams.
And smart.
Come-backs.
—The way.
She smells clean.
Like.
Palmolive soap.
And her eyes.
That won't.
Keep still.

Mildred.
Scares hell.
Outta you.
Because there are.
Times.
When the thought.
Of somebody.
Else.
And her.
Together.
And her.
Maybe.
Kissing.
This other guy.
Makes you want.
To grab her.
And hold on.

For the next.
One hundred.
And fifty years.

And once.
You dreamed.
Mildred was dead.
And in.
Her casket.
Looking quiet.
And funny.

And you felt.
Like a man.
In the middle.
Of a million.
Square miles.
Of pure.
Empty.
Black.
Space.

III

Life is.
A union meeting.

Which is kind of strange.
Because the white.
Guys—and the gals,
Too, are very.
Friendly.

What the hell.
Are they after.
Anyway?
The dues?
—You guess so. . .

They are all.
Excited about.
The war.
And Production.
And the Seven.
Points.
And political jive.
Like that.
They are against.
Strikes.
Which is funny..
'Cause that was what.
You thought.
Was their.
Racket.

There is a speech.
By Revels Cayton.
A colored fellow.
Who is Vice-President.
Of the white folks.
Union.

But he's excited.
About the war.
Too.

He says a bunch of.
Stuff you don't get.
But he makes.
Lots of noise.
And the white.
Folks like it.
And he makes.
You feel sort of.
Proud.

Generally.
It appears.
He don't.
Like Hitler.
Very much.

IV

You feel more.
At home.
In Marv's Sweet Shop.
With Mildred.

There is a.
Gang you know.
Who play.
Mister five by.
By five.
On the juke-box.
And laugh.
A lot.

You see other.
Guys dig Mildred.
You see how fine.
She is.
In their faces.

When no one's looking.
You can shut.
Your eyes.
And hear.
The friendly.
Sounds:

"MISTER FIVE.
BY FIVE.
FIVE FEET.
HIGH.
AND FIVE FEET.
WIDE."

Glasses rattle.
And kids laugh.
And Mildred.
Does her act.
With a southern.
Accent.

And you know everyody.
And that feels.
Good.

For some nutty.
Reason.
It is like them.
Damn machine.

The Mexicans.
And Jigs and Okies.
In the plant.
Are together.
Too.
Because they make.
The planes.
With their own hands.
(And Mr. Roosevelt's Machines.)

Just like the sounds.
At Marv's.
Are friends.
So is that damn.
Banging a friend.
In the plant.

You help make
That banging.
And it sounds.
GOOD.

V

The other day.
You were thinking.
How you could.
Make a short.
Cut in your department.
And save some.
Time.

It wasn't much.
And you wondered.
Why some big shot.
Hadn't thought.
Of it before.

You took your idea.
To the Union.
And they acted.
Like you was.
Thomas Alva Edison.
And said you had.
Helped the war.
Against.
Hitlerism.

And you asked.
What is Hitlerism ?

And a skinny guy
With a Heinie.
Accent told you.
As follows:

In my country—
Hitlerism is there.

My wife.
It killed.

My job.
It took away.

My synagogue.
It burned.

My nation.
It destroyed.

Hitlerism.
Is a bad dream.
You wake up from.
Dead.
Or fighting.

VI

But I thought of.
Mississippi.
And wondered.
Whether Hitlerism.
Far away.
Was worse.
Than right at home.

And Revels Cayton.
Came in and said.
No.
HELL NO.

He said the guys
Down South.
Who are bums.
Are the same.
Gang.
Who are bums.
In Berlin.

They are one gang.
He said. Here.
In L. A.
In Birmingham.
In Yokohama.

In Mississippi.
A few rotten apples.
Spoiling the whole crate.

And there is.
One big fight.
Against them.
ALL.

And everybody's.
In it.

And to win it

The white folks.
Gotta get hip.
Like F. D. R.
Says.
And quit.
Discrimination.
And jive that.
Only helps.
The dirty bastards.
At Stalingrad.
Who put Russian.
Women and kids.
Ahead of their troops.
For shields.

And the Negroes.
Gotta get hip.

This is their.
Fight.
For their freedom.
rights.
And their future.
And their kids' right.
To live in a world where.
Adolph Hitler.
Is a dirty name.
—And not the Government.
And where they can.
Slap stew.
Out of anybody who calls them.
Little black so-and-so's.

VII

You go back to.
Work.
And think of the planes.
Different.

Cause they.
Ain't just Something you make.

They get made.
To do a job.
To kill people.
Who hate freedom.
To save people.
Who love freedom.

You begin.
To feel.
Queer.

BIGGER.
LIKE A GIANT.

You belong.
In a world.
You never.
Belonged in.
Before.
Because.
It always hung out.
A sign.

FOR WHITE ONLY.

You feel.
Like you.
Belong.
Somewhere else.
Beside Marv's.
And in the plant.
And to Mildred.
You belong.
To the whole world.

You belong.
To the Russian.
Fields where.
Bloody guts.
Have spilled.
From men.
Who won't.
Surrender.

You belong.
To the South.
You hated.
Where the poor.
Folks.
Kicked Talmadge.
Out.
On his behind.

You belong.
To India.
Where some.
Damfool.
Is trying.
To change.
This war.
Into the last one.
And you've got.
To fight to.
Free the hands.
That would help.
Lick.
Hitler.

You belong.
To Africa.
Where black bodies.
First stopped.
Fascist bullets.

You belong.
To life.
But you aren't.
Scared to die.

You belong.
To Mildred.
And three billion.
Other people.
In the world.

You never thought.
Of that before.
And it makes.
You feel.
Good.

DAMN GOOD!

★ BEHIND THE SCENES With Harry

By Harry Levette

NO INTRODUCTIONS OR REUNION ceremonies necessary this time with the return of "The Ol' Kolyum", but cutting short a planned leave of absence here we are by popular demand. This is war, so why should a scribbler take a leave of absence when everybody else is working, ask the movie folk, who according to the office force have been ringing daily asking the whereabouts of "Behind the Scenes." They declared they have been missing that iron-bound lowdown, that inside info, those confidential tips, that gave them a lead on new pictures coming up; new places of amusement opening, the comings and goings of celebrities and unknowns. Fact is one of the most lovable, unassuming, but highly talented of the famous screen players, Jessie Grayson, was not satisfied Harry Levette until she reached "Yours Truly" by phone and received a promise to return at once. So here it is.

NOTICE TO MOVIE STARS, Bit Players, Musicians, Theater Managers: Watch this column closely every issue! to actors it may mean new jobs, to musicians new contracts, to theatre managers advance information on new motion pictures soon to be released or not even filmed yet. Yu can gamble on the authenticity of the statements, for the Ol' Kolyum don't guess, it knows.

First of all congratulations to heavyweight champion Joe Louis, for his wisdom in retiring an undefeated champion. You can rest assured that he has the strength of purpose and determination that cause him to stick to his pledge to stay quiet. Joe is very fond of movies but likes vaudeville better, but when here first in 1934, to fight Lee Ramage he would not stay up after 9:30 to see either. That's one of the things that made him champion. . . . Congratulations to Lena Horne, sweet dispositioned, beautiful, screen star, for her gameness in reporting to work on crutches at MGM for "Cabin In The Sky" on Friday after being so seriously injured on Tuesday of last week. Incidentally so great is her popularity that the Eagle which scooped even the dailies on her accident sold out completely and had to print a second edition . . . Congratulations like wise to Clarence Muse on his birthday last Sunday, and sorry I could not get out to the party, thanks for the invite though, and I just know that bar was jumpin' and that buffet table groaning with the eats that only attentive wifie "Bill" knows how to supervise.

Woman, 92, Dies; Asked 'No Flowers for Funeral'

Death ended the close companionship of a mother, 92, and her daughter, 78, when Mrs. Nancy Huff, who was born in slavery, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Susie Sims, 744 E. 47th street, after being bedfast for two weeks. Until Mrs. Huff's demise, she had never been separated from her daughter.

Born on a plantation in McVille, Tenn., Mrs. Huff was 15 when the Emancipation Proclamation brought freedom to her. Already she was married to Jack Cobbs, and a mother. She, her husband and infant daughter journeyed to Texas. In 1863, Mr. Cobbs joined the Union army; in 1864 he died while in service. She later married Jack Huff, and the family resided there for 59 years.

She came to Los Angeles 17 years ago, and until her death she possessed a clear mind, and unimpaired sight and hearing.

Funeral services for Mrs. Huff were held in the Ivory Chapel of the People's Funeral Home on Monday at 3 p. m., and contrary to custom, no flowers were in evidence. This was because Mrs. Huff had requested that no one send floral tributes as her many friends had given her "many bouquets of kindness" during her life-time.

The funeral was in charge of Rev. Deane, of Phillips Temple, who served in the absence of Rev. Lane Cleaves, who is attending the CME national conference. Mrs. Huff had belonged to the CME church for 70 years.

MRS. LOUISE JAMES DEAD

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise James, 58, of 4317 Compton avenue, who died at General hospital on Oct. 2, were held in the Ivory Chapel of the People's Funeral Home on Oct. 6, with Rev. Taylor of the Holiness church in charge. She is survived by Mrs. M. J. Lewis, of Oakland, and by Mrs. Ophelia Meyers and Mrs. Bertha Johnson, of Los Angeles, sisters.

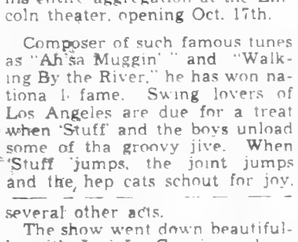
STUFF SMITH AT LINCOLN

Stuff Smith, reputed to be the hottest violinist in the musical world, will present himself and his entire aggregation at the Lincoln theater, opening Oct. 17th.

Composer of such famous tunes as "Ah'sa Muggin'" and "Walking By the River," he has won national fame. Swing lovers of Los Angeles are due for a treat when 'Stuff' and the boys unload some of tha groovy jive. When 'Stuff' jumps, the joint jumps and the hep cats schout for joy.

several other acts.

The show went down beautifully with Jeni Le Gon in a pleasing song and dance number; Albertina Parrish did two vocal numbers which really caught on, I. Harold Browning, baritone ace, was marvelous with two vocal numbers, Mantan Moreland and Ben Carter put on a comedy team act that had the soldiery assemblage in spasms of laughter; Phil Moore followed with some deep and moody boogie woogie piano numbers. Miss Maudie Bilbrew was a delightful surprise with her throaty styled singing.



In the closing act, Mantan lost a comic boxing decisionto actress Jeni Le Gon. The bout climaxed a 3-round boxing exhibition put on by two members of the regiment. The artist group, wihch also included several other camp visitors, were all escorted to mess (Dinner) by Major George Allen. Among the senior officers gathered at the officers quarters were Copts. Marchbanks, York, Harris, and Cleveland. Miss Slayton, AWVS head, assured the soldiers that she would return at an early date with a bigger and better show. This promise was backed up by a similar statement from Bene Carter, member of the Hollywood Victory Committee.

Movie Celebs Fete Encamped 7th Regiment

CORONA, CALIF. Oct. 9—More than 300 soldiers, members of the Californian State Guard stationed at Camp Temescal, 4 miles East of here, were treated to an afternoon of talent-studed entertainment furnished at the request of the Eastside unit of the American Women's Voluntary Service last Sunday. The artist some of whom are top flight screen players, proved beyond a doupt that "Our Own" 7th Regiment has not been forgotten of overlooked because of such large numbers of regular troops located in the vicinity.

Colonel Moody Staten, commanding the 7th Regiment greeted the artists and roundly thanked them for their artistic contribution toward aiding the morale of the members of the State Guard regiment. Miss Laaura Slayton, energetic chairman of the AWVS and members Albertina Parish and Marion Black were on hand to lend additional aid in the effort to further inspire the boys, who are located deep in the San Bernardino mountains, to stick to their arduous task.

Major Carpentier, himself an ex-trooper, proved a very capable master of ceremonies. Among the artists making the trip and giving their talent were Mantan Moreland, Ben Carter, Jeni Le Gon, I. Harold Browning, orchestra leader Phil Boore, Albertina Parrish, Maudie Bilbrew, and

Plan Banquet to Honor Dr. E. I. Robinson, NMA President-Elect

A semi-formal banquet honoring the recent election of Dr. E. I. Robinson, prominent physician, as president-elect of the National Medical association, composed of 3,000 Negro physicians, pharmacists, and dentists throughout the nation, will be held at the Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith, Thursday, Oct. 27.

The banquet is being sponsored by the Citizens Civic committee with the cooperation of presidents of the local medical association andn its auxiliary, the Omega Psi Phi fraternity, Nurses association, the Sojourner Truth Home, and the Second Baptist church, of which Dr Robinson is an active member of the board of trustees.

The election of Dr. Robinson is a signal honor for the West coast. He is the first to be elected to a high office as president-elect. Dr. Robinson is active in the civic life of the community. At present he is a member of the examining physicians of the State Athletic commission. Since his location in the city, he has been the constant supporter of the Sojourner Truth Home and many other charitable institutions. He was former president of the local association.

The theme of the program is "Health for Victory." Many city officials will attend. His excellency, Governor Culbert L. Olson, has been invited and is expected to be present. The banquet will be non-profit. The price for each plate is $1.00. Mrs. Lester, noted cateress, will have complete supervision of the dinner. Reservations may be secured by calling the Second Baptist church, or Frank Maxwell at Silver's Pharmacy, 54th and Central, or Conner-Johnson.

Local NAACP Slates Session

The YWCA services in Wartime will be the subject of an address by Dorothy Guinn, executive secretary of the Young Women's Christion Association at a public meeting of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this Sunday, Oct. 18, at 3:30 at the Hamilton M. E. church, 18th and Naomi streets. The address by Miss Guinn will be the main feature of the program, which marks the beginning of the

DUNCAN TALKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (by Dolores Calvin)—"There is great music after every war," said modest Todd Duncan, the Porgy of "Porgy and Bess" in a short dressing room interview backstage of the Majestic Theatre just before he left on a nation-wide tour with the cast.

"After every war we have a reprecussion in which all art takes a turn upward," Mr. Duncan continued. "There is new inspiration, new ideas for composing, finer cinemas, greater symphonies. But all this will take effect about ten years after the war is over. Tschaikowsky wrote his "Overture to 1812", a famous piece of work, inspired by the war."

Todd Duncan is on leave of absence from professorship at Howard University, Washington, D. C. He discussed how often he finds good undiscovered and undeveloped talent among our race at Howard. Asked what he did about it, he replied:

"I have done my best to help them; I believe a professor's duties don't end in the classroom. He should try to inspire his pupils and help them to be heard when they are fully perfected."

Mr. Duncan says he is slow catching on to modern music for he still clings to the classics. He loves his Schubert and Schumann. Catching on to George Gershwin's intricate rhythms, wasn't hard and he understands Mr. Gershwin's music far better than the other modern composers. It therefore isn't a surprise that he played in "Syncopation" last year.

Todd Duncan is a close friend of William Grant Still, the great composer, whose "Afro American Symphony" and other fine works, he isenthusiastic over.

"All music", concluded the singer, "whether it be jazz, spiritual, swing, semi-classic, symphonic or concert, has turned distinctly upward for the Negro".

CARTER DOES SPECIAL WORK FOR M-G-M

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has assigned Philip M. Carter to do special publicity work on its all-Negro vehicle, "Cabin In The Sky," starring Ethel Waters, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Lena Horne and Kenneth Spencer.

Mr. Carter, a native of Pasadena, where he was a star athlete at Pasadena Junior College has been in New York City for the past ten years where he was engaged as a jouralist, actor and social worker. He returned to California in June of this year.

'BOY MEETS GHOST' AT LINCOLN

Have you ever seen a ghost? Willie Best, famed Negro comedian, has seen three of them, and in three different movies!

The ability to react properly upon meeting a spectre has been one of the main reasons for Willie's popularity during the past few months. He reaches the peak of his career in 20th Century-Fox's "Whispering Ghosts," which arrives at the Lincoln theatre on Saturday, Oct. 17, for four days.

During the course of his experiences aboard a mystery ship, Willie meets several assorted spooks and phantoms, plus several characters who are interested in doing him in. These hair-raising episodes are not particularly suited for people with high blood pressure, but Willie manages to see them through with excellent fortitude—and lots of laughs!

MIDDLETON PLANS CHOIR CONCERTS

Emanual Middleton, young symphonic conductor, plans a season of three major concerts several musicals with the string choir. The first formal concert of the full orchestra will be given early in November at the Mayan theater or Patriotic Hall. The personnel of the orchestra consists of twenty white musicians and twenty Negro.

Mischa Ashley, talented young Jewish violinist, and Emma Smock will be the duo soloists in a violin concerto by Albert Stossell. Samuel Brown, popular professor of music at Jefferson High school, is a new addition to the organization. The orchestra will give the premier performance of his latest work, Blue Grotto.

The first musical of the season will be given at the YMCA Sunday afernoon, Oct. 25, under the auspices of the Junior NAACP. This program will be free to the public. The feature work on this program will be Cold Moon, a work of Middleton's. He states that the melody is of the blues idiom, with the treatment metaphysical rather than earthy.

Hurt Getting Off Streetcar

Miss Evelyn Johnson, 4117 Naomi avenue, was unjured while alighting from a 'U' car at 41st and Central last Friday when her heel caught in the step.

Suffering from an injured ankle and back, Miss Johnson was taken to the hospital by city ambulance. The extent of her unjuries has not been learned.

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Mexico, Oct. 15.—The first Juvenile Stakes to be run at Caliente in some time is now history, and a new champion was crowned.

Carl Junior, held lightly in the betting by the fans, won by two lengths and a half with little Jockey C. Bianco rating the good son of Bargello off the pace and allowing the favorite and close second choice, Boot Black and Tangazo, to run their heads off.

He was given his head as they turned into the stretch and the son of Bargello passed the tiring field like they were standing still. Boot Black held on to be second, while Paula's Lulu came from last place to finish a fast-going third.

The winner paid $30.80 to win and the time for the six furlongs was 1:12 2/5. That's the story of the Juvenile Stakes.

Well, again the longshot fans had their day when five horses hit the winning circle to pay better than 10 to one.

Black Bomber was the longest price of the day, paying $55 for two. Quite a few hunch players had a ticket on the winner as they thought of the world's champion, Joe Louis' nickname. The fans were treated to two dead heats. In the 8th race, Copyright and Perspicacity were so close at the finish that the camera showed that they both reached the wire at the same time, and in the 10th race, the queen of the border sprinters, Border Beauty, and Chabelle were dead-heated for first place in the Osmand Handicap. The card was one of the best in many weeks by director of racing and presiding steward, George Smilling, and racing secretary Joe Walters.

Our generalissimo, Walter Marty, was on the sick list and failed to make his appearance. The entire staff is pulling for him and hopes that he will be with us this Sunday. The daily-double paid $44.60; the Quiniela, $84.

Well, this Sunday another great card of 12 races will be staged with three big features, and on Nov. 1 another big stake will be run with an added value of $2500. Jockey C. Bianco was the outstanding star Sunday, riding four winners, while a close second was Jockey F. Chojnacki with three.

So, that's the news from "south of the border, down Mexico way" where beautiful Caliente stages 12 races every Sunday for the enjoyment of the fans. So until Sunday, keep smiling and have a little fun. Buy more U. S. War Stamps and Bonds. Save all your fats; gather old tin and scrap metal. Uncle needs them. So long, GEORGE.

Muse in Benefit Grid Game

Clarence Muse, famous director and actor, will participate in the Comedians vs. Leading Men football game Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18, when the picture stars of Hollywood face each other in a football classic the likes of which has never been seen on the coast.

Beauteous Rita Hayworth will captain the Leading Men's team, and Betty Grable will skipper the Comedians' team.

Tickets for the game, which is raising funds for the USO and Mount Sinai hospital, will be on sale the day of the game. Reserved seats are $1.10, $2.20 and $3.30. Fifty thousand seats go on sale Sunday.

Turkey Thompson KOs Dorazio

OAKLAND, Oct. 15.—Turkey Thompson, 205-pound Los Angeles heavyweight, technically knocked out Gus Dorazio, 197, white Philadelphia heavyweight, last Thursday night in the second round of the main event at Oakland auditorium.

Dorazio, apparently out of condition, went down twice in the second round before the referee stopped the bout toward the end of that stanza.

Turkey lefthanded Dorazio severely in the first, then sent his opponent down for a six and an 8-count in the second. Dorazio, who barely touched Thompson, was on the ropes when the fight was stopped.

Alex Watson Put on Shelf

J. M. Genshlea, secretary of the State Athletic commission, announced today that the commission Saturday took action in the following cases

Ill and Unavailable—Alex Watson, local boxer, six weeks, injured hand; Chas. W. Miegel, L. A. boxer, two weeks, injured eye

Reinstatement: Frank Marino, boxer, effective Oct. 2

Contracts Filed: Antinony Fradella, boxer, Joseph Arra, manager, effective Sept. 30, for 7 years; Harry Jacobson, boxer—Joe Stanley, manager, effective Oct. 5 for one year.

160,000 in L. A. County Defense

Over 160,00 persons are enrolled in the Los Angeles County Defense Council, according to figures released today by Harold W. Kennedy, executive director. This represents an increase of over 50,00 during the past [illegible] days.

CLARENCE MUSE, acting as combined waterboy and timekeeper, administers some "first aid" to Nat Pendleton, during practice for the Comedians and Leading Men's football game at the Coliseum Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18. Proceeds from the game will go to the USO and Mount Sinai hospital.

Chest Appeal Gets Started on L. A.'s Eastside

Community leaders now are coming forward to take their places in the Community Chest appeal with chairman John E. Hargrove and vice chairman, Mrs. Warner V. Grayson, heading divisions 44 and 47 of the Eastside volunteers respectively.

Now enrolled in key spots are Mrs. Josephine Brown in the Special Gifts committee and Ivan Johnson III in the same group. Majors enrolled with Hargrove in Division 44 are Mrs. Anna Hodge, 859 E. 47th street, and Mrs. Bella Hibbs, 989 E. 42nd place.

Mrs. Grayson's [illegible] are Mrs. Ida Ramsey, 651 E. Santa Barbara street; Mrs. Vivian B. Shaw, 753 E. 3[illegible] street; Mrs. C. E. Cr[illegible], 34[illegible] E. 46[illegible] street; Mrs. M. Cite Africans for Bravery

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Awards for outstanding bravery under fire on the North African Front have just been given to African and Indian soldiers, according to a report received by the Council on African Affairs, this week.

BTW 'Part Morale,' Says Capt. Mulzac

Never has the term "big-little man" been so aptly applied as when it is used to describe Captain Hugh Mulzac, for though small of stature and soft of voice, he has a quiet dignity that is impressive as the importance of his job.

To this sturdy little sea captain of 56 years, the launching of the "Booker T. Washington" was one of those things which he knew would happen some day and for which he was prepared when it did. He has been a seaman for 35 years and, in various capacities, has sailed all around the world. He was at one time captain of the S. S. Yarmouth, the Marcus Garvey ship of the Black Star Line.

Captain Mulzac is a very modest man and somewhat reluctant to talk about himself. When asked why he was not here for the launching, he said simply, "I was not invited." "Ships are launched every day," he continued, "and the captain is not always there."

He did not add that he was busily engaged in New York getting his crew together, which he adamantly insists must be mixed.

"This ship is not only important as a cargo vessel in this war effort, but it is important as a part of the morale of the people. A mixed crew will do much to build unity for the war effort, and it is in this light that I see the Booker T. Washington and the job to be done.

Captain Mulzac arrived in Los Angeles Monday, and at the time of the interview had not seen the ship, which he expects will be ready to sail soon. Due to necessary regulations, the exact sailing date or time is not known and will not be witnessed by the public.

With Captain Mulzac were the First Officer Adolphus Folkes, Ensign Jesse L. Brooks, Third Officer; and I. A. Smith, Chief Engineer. Ensign Brooks, four years with the National Maritime Union, received the commission of ensign from the Coast Guard Base Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn., and has been going to sea for 8 years.

All the men explained that, in spite of rumors to the contrary, a seaman's first love is the ship he sails and upon her he lavishes all his attention.

Woodmen's Head Is L. A. Visitor

While in Los Angeles for a few hours last week, the Supreme Commander, Honorable L. H. Lightner, paid a visit to the local District office of the American Woodmen at 4272 S. Central avenue. He discussed the local situation with the Supervisor, made a general check-up on the situation, and in answer to a question from this writer said the general outline of the local program is allright and that all that is necessary is to stay everlastingly behind the program.

The visits of the Supreme Commander always give inspiration to the local forces, who enter more enthusiastically into the program. The Supreme Commander met the local officers at the District office and there had a heart to heart talk with them, permitting them to ask questions, all of which he answered satisfactorily. His profound knowledge of woodcraft generally, and the American Woodmen in particular, enabled him not only to give information but inspiration as well. He has been in the Home Office as an executive for thirty-one years. The following officers met the Supreme Commander in a meeting set for the occasion For Camp No. 1, Neighbors E. L. Sneed, Tomas Clarke, Mable Horst, Henry Green, Fannie Johnson, Lula Washington, Sarah Wofford, Dr. B. L. Boswell, and Ethel R. Taylor. For the Juvenile Department, W. G. T. Della Mays.

Health Body Invited to Legion Meet

Following the pledge o Commander McClanahan that Benjamin J. Bowie Post of the Americanan Legion would fully partake tement, the Community Betterin activities for community betment comittee of the Post has invited the Southeast District Health Association to meet with the organization next Monday, night, Oct. 19 at the Masonic Hall.

It is believed that the work of the Health Association is in the interest of all veterans, as well as active soldiers and civilians, so the Association is going to present its program to the veterans and their guests at the Monday meeting.

The Health Association is bringing the exhibition its motion picture, "Know for Sure," directed by a prominent Hollywood director and said to be very informative. Free blood tests will also be given to all who desire one. Dunn of Newton street upon com-14 Compton avenue, that she was shot and seriously wounded by a bullet fired by Mrs. Bilbrew [illegible] Friday night.

SP, UP Employees Thank Public for Dance Support

Joint Dance committee meeting of Locals 582, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific Dining Car Employees Union, Local 465, thank the local press, community merchants, social, professional and labor organizations and the public at large for their splendid support of their recent dance.

The committee, which proposed the resolution said, "We cannot stress too highly the deep gratitude for the fine cooperation given us by the community at large. We want to cite especially the business men who permitted placards to be placed in their establishments, members and leadres of organizations who attended our dance, and the public which supported our major social affair of the year."

Messrs. James H. Anderson, chairman of ways and means committee, Local 582; J. C. Talman, Monty Humphrey, Chas. Johnson, R. Hunt, B. Stephens, Syntel Vaughn, Ennis Stamps, S. Phillips and J. Boutte of 582; Leroy Bird, chairman of the entertainment committee, Local 465, together with Woodley "Scoop" Lewis, William "Little" Duley, Lee Toran, Frank G. Allen, William Wintersmith, Andrew J. Smith, Chas. "Buck" Weaver, Stewart Bryant, Wyman H. Burney, Lawrence Cloyd, Wm. Lawson, Harry E. Barnett and William "Pee Wee" Bentley of Local 465, paid particular compliments to the fine coverage and advance publicity given the joint dance by the local press, and expressed the thanks of all their local members to the press for its generous help. To press and radio publicity was ascribed the success of this affair.

Brother Paul M. Grant, president, Local 582, and John E. Hargrove, district chairman, Local 465, also expressed their thanks for the fine cooperation received

Eastside USO Hostesses Visit March Field

The Eastside USO is as busy as the proverbial bee these days. Activities are constantly increasing, as more and more soldiers learn the location of the center, and individuals, as well as organizations are interesting themselves more in the well-being of our soldiers.

A most enjoyable trip was made to March Field this week, 45 junior hostesses being taken by bus, accompanied by three senior hostesses and Vye Aldridge, staff worker. Another trip to this camp is anticipated as soon as transportation and music is arranged. A trip was also made to the American Legion hall, Riverside, where hostesses and soldiers danced to the strains of the Rhythm Rascals. Buses left each trip from the USO.

The Eastside USO Center made Bill Henry's column in the Los Angeles Times, which proves that good news will spread.

Speaking of good news, Mr. Vandiveer of radio station, KFI, made transcriptions of interviews of some of our soldiers, sailors, etc., on Glamour Night.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Education of the City of Los Angeles will receive bids for furnishing all labor and material for the following work:

Kind of Work and Name of School—Repainting and refinishing of the exterior of the following buildings: administration, home economics, auditorium, shop; arcades, yard equipment, and appurtenances at the Lafayette Junior High School.

Date of bid opening—October 30, 1942.

Each bid shall be in accordance with drawings, specifications and other contract documents now on file in the Architectural Section of the Business Division of said Board, 1425 So. San Pedro Street, Los Angeles, California. Prospective bidders may secure copies of said drawings and specifications at the office of said Architectural Section, upon the posting of a guarantee deposit, or deposits, of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars for each set, which deposits will be refunded upon the return of such copies in good condition within five days after the bids are opened.

Pursuant to the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Education has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the contracts which will be awarded the successful bidders; and these prevailing rates are contained in said specifications adopted by the Board, and are as follows:

CLASSIFICATION

Foremen

All foremen not herein separately classified, shall be paid not less than $1.00 per day more than the journeyman rate for the craftt involved.

Apprentices

May be employed in conformity with section 1777.5 of the California Labor Code.

CLASSIFICATION	Hourly Wage Rate	Overtime Rule
Carpenters
Carpenter	$1.35	A
Laborers
General or construction, including all labor not herein separately classified, on all types of construction	.875	E
Painters
Painters	1.25	C
Painter, Swing Stage or Steel Erected	1.375	C
Painter (Spray Gun)	1.50	C

The rates per diem wages for each of the various classifications of work shall be the hereinbefore set forth prevailing rates of hourly wages multiplied by eight (8). Eight (8) hours shall constitute a day's work; it being understood that in the event that workmen are employed less than eight (8) hours per day, the per diem wages shall be deemed to be that fraction of the per diem wages herein established that the number of hours of employment bears to eight (8) hours.

The overtime rule establishing the rates of wages for overtime and holiday work for each of the various classifications shall be in accordance with the following schedule:

A Double time for all overtime and holidays.
C Time and one-half overtime and holidays.
E Time and one-half for all overtime. Double time for all holidays.

Overtime as herein referred to shall be deemed to be work performed in excess of eight consecutive hours per day, between the hours of 8:00 A. M. and 5:00 P. M., Monday through Friday, unless the job is operating on a shift basis.

Holidays as herein referred to shall be deemed to be every Sunday in the year, except as otherwise provided herein, New Year's Day, Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day. If any of the above holidays fall on Sunday, the Monday following shall be considered a legal holiday.

It shall be mandatory upon the contractor to whom a contract is awarded, and upon all subcontractors under him, to pay not less than said general prevailing rates of per diem wages to all workmen employed in the execution of the contract.

Notice is also hereby given that all bidders may submit with their bids, a sworn statement of their financial responsibility, technical ability and experience. Such sworn statement may be required to be furnished before award is made to any particular bidder.

Each bid shall be made out on forms to be obtained at said Architectural Section of the Board of Education; must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bidder's bond (issued by a Surety Company accredited by the Board of Education) for not less than Five Per Cent (5%) of the amount of the bid, made payable to the order of the Board of Education of the City of Los Angeles; shall be sealed and filed with the Purchasing Agent of the Board of Education, Room 200, 1425 So. San Pedro Street, on or before 2:00 o'clock P. M. on the dates shown above and will be opened and read aloud in public at, or about, said time and in the public hall, second floor, of the above address.

The above-mentioned check or bidder's bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into contract if awarded the work, or any part thereof, and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into contract after being requested so to do by the Board of Education.

The successful bidders will be required to furnish labor and material bonds in an amount equal to 75% of the contract price, and faithful performance bonds in an amount equal to 100% of the contract price, said bonds to be secured by a surety company or surety companies satisfactory to the Board of Education.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and/or waive any informality on a bid. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

By order of the Board of Education of the City of Los Angeles, Dated Los Angeles, California, October 9, 1942.

Race Track GOSSIP

By Jay Gould

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—The three glamour girls this week are Mrs. Al Trace, Mrs. Ann Tex, and Mrs. Myrtle Jones of Frisco.

The three best-dressed women of the week are Loretta Scott, Charlotte Linn, and Rose Foster.

Bay Meadows off to a good start with W. C. Buchanan, Jude Kerney and the well-dressed censor man in the background.

Occupation won the Belmont Park Futurity, richest race in the world.

Whirlaway gets the nod over Alsab to add plenty more kale to his long winning.

The St. Louis Cards just would not stop; those lads beat all records as ballplayers.

The sharpshooters robbed Broadway by betting big on the Cards.

Winners at Bay Meadows the opening day: Black Dot, Jimmie Pitts, Sammy Howard, Bob Herford, and A. Love, owner of Jack's Tavern, was betting $50 and $100 to each race and cashed in on four winners, so the box score snowed them a big winner.

Ethel Carter, Betty Lou, Nioma Cleveland, Mrs. Henrietta Whitby and Marie Williams, also betting big money on each race.

Jess Wilson's birthday party for his wife at the Cherryland was a knockout, with 50 chickens, a tub of salad and all eats and drinks free.

Eva Kelly, Grace Lewis and Mary Thompson, beauty operators, pack and jam them in from a. m. to p. m.

Count Basie, James Russian, Sonny Howard of L. A., Miss Lillian Ford of Corpus Christi, Texas; Mrs. Viola Jones of L. A.; Mrs. Bertha Gray, Mrs. Lottie Roscoe, Mrs. Beatrice McCampbell, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, and Sallie Diaz were the guests of Olive Dawson, who gave a dinner in honor of Count Basie and band at 2115 Sutter street, San Francisco.

Aruna Burns, Myrtle Harris, and Ira Osborn, beauty operators, are all big shots.

Artie Graves, Boyd Finchum, Quincy Ford, Jonny Cao and Dennis Randall have dropped Frisco for Los Angeles.

Listen, Mr. Average Public, in case you don't know, this means you, you and you liquor drinkers. There will be no more manufacturing of liquor after Nov. 1.

Wonder why Vera Marshall is in such a mad mood these days; she must be worrying about her heartbeat.

Dorothy Patty, all set to do the middle-aisle act.

Orchids go to Miss Ollis Dawson for staging a swell dinner party for Count Basie and band at her private home, 2115 Sutter street, San Francisco.

Miss Pat Patterson, waitress, wearing a big diamond ring. You can see it from here to Boston.

When you see Jane Foster, you may ask her what happened to her t'other night while flashing a big bankroll in the Town club.

Frank Young jr., whose father is an employe of the Chicago Defender.

Vera Hamilton, Nioma Gibson and Frank Winburn in and out of the best spots spending plenty bananas.

Hamp Hamilton and Julia Bastic paying all checks at the Alabam.

Carl Buckner and wife, Tex Allen, Roy Gardner, Adelle Ward, Minnie Lee, Gene Green, Clarence and Lottie Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Peggie Armstrong, Margaret Odoson, Billy Richmond, Percy Williams, Buck Cannon, Louie Verette, Mr. Hollywood, Cotton Harris, Dickey Boy Lewis and Gladys, Calvin Vincent, Roy Boughnight, Martha Garcia, Ben Brooks, Pete Rector, Be Hill, Duke Browning, Skeeter Bentley, J. D. Charles, J. D. Benton, J. B. Brown, Robert Monroe, Little Brother, and Al Trice ringside all the Frisco fights and bet big on Armstrong at any price. This same bunch plays dances and the races.

Clarence Estelle bet on three winners at Bay Meadows.

Warren George was the biggest winner of any of the boys on the ball games. George won $300.

Little Mama slow down. They had to carry you home t'other night.

Gert, of 1820 Post street, and her party of friends never miss a fight. The same goes for Tom Schaffer, who is now a money man.

Sorry this column missed the deadline last week; will send it early from now on.

Palmer Pickney and wife beat the daily double at Bay Meadows.

Leon Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Robins, along with Mrs. Ella Robins, were big winners on five races.

Lee Thompson won three bets.

Nellie Winslow, manicurist, was among the guests at the launching of the "Booker T. Washington."

Ernest Marshlal, Neal Johnson, Slugging Brown, Frank Burr and Fred Pugh, also Nat Earl, playing the horses and winning big.

Tite Montgomery and wife are money regulars and a swell couple.

George Childs and Black Dot playing Jack's backroom with Bing Crosby.

Bobbie Bell carrying a bale of $100 bills.

Vernon Long at all dances and fights with a bunch of pretties.

Vernon Noble, bartender, taking a rest.

James Jeffries Bara B-Q stand, at 1810 Post. Stop in and look him over.

Barney McNeal and wife, Lucille, at the race track playing the $5.00 winner.

W. D. Allen, former proprietor of Golden West and Medley hotel, now owns farm outside Portland, Oregon. He is doing fine.

A. G. Garett is proprietor of the Ballot Box cafe and Madrona Radio Record shop and various other enterprises around Portland.

Sidney White, playing hard with all his pockets full of money and a lot of pretties.

Mitchell Howard was at Cab Calloway's dance.

Stearn Wright, brilliant young business man, owner of Medley hotel and sportsman of Portland, Ore.

Mr. Ivey and associates are doing land office business in the Oregon Fraternal association, Portland.

Kelley Foster, businessman and sportsman, doing fine with poolhall, restaurant and hotel business.

Jess Hall is in Class 1A and has his induction papers for Uncle Sam's army.

Elvera Lee, Peaches Lee and Richard Lee at the Town club with some more $100 bills, playing hard and setting 'em up.

Patricia Ann Bowers, 1359 Scott street, dining in and out of the best places in town.

Miss Mildred Howze, of Los Angeles, is back in town for a visit.

John Arnold, the great little bar master, is off tonight and playing with his little girl friend and having a very nice time in the Town club and Jack's; looks like love.

Lena Higgins, Mabel Hamilton, out playing at Town club and Jack's; just back from Los Angeles.

Miss Dolores Jackson is really killing herself in all of the night spots.

A. Brown, of Seattle, was seen with streamlined Helen Munson, of San Francisco, playing at the Town club.

LeonardSchipps, Herbert Johnson, Honey Murphy, Sonnie Howard, Jimmie Pitts, Bob Herford, Frank Polk, seen playing the races and dances, and having a wonderful time on both sides of the bay.

Clothilda Woodson, from Los Angeles, Lt. Mapp, Lt. Morton and Miss Ernestine Porter were guests at Cab Calloway's dance, having a wonderful time.

Rufus A. Lyons is seen in the best places in San Francisco.

For any further information, write or wire Jay Gould, 1716 Webster street, San Francisco.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH HONORS 845TH QUARTERMASTERS

RIVERSIDE—About 53 members of the 845th Quartermasters at March Field were honored guests at Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday, Oct. 4, for morning services and lunch. They also participated in the evening program. A hearty standing invitation was given them for whenever they can come, the doors stand ajar to them.

Keep ears and eyes open for Women's Day at Second Baptist the last week of this month. The date will be annouced later. Mrs. V. B. Amstrong is holding tickets for the spread.

Answering the call to the colors is Mr. Harvey Edwards, son of Mrs. Annie Edwards. Also going is Mr. Welington Porter, son of Rev. and Mrs. John Porter. The two were honored guests and participants on the program, to be followed by a reception in the dining hall of Allen Chapel AME church, Sunday evening, Oct. 11.

The boys leave on the 17th. We raise our hats, not only to these, but to all who have gone before them—they, too, are not to be forgotten.

SICK list: Mr. H. B. Gordon, Margaret Broen and Mrs. Sallie Folk remain confined to bed. We regret the passing of Mrs. Stella Alexander, Oct. 4. We bow our heads in submission to our Creator in sympathy with the bereaved.

Mr. and Mrs. Lott and Mr. and Mrs. J. Akins and mother reported a lovely trip thru the beach cities, particularly Venice and Santa Monica Sunday.

FANNIE WILLIAMS EXCELSIOR GUARANTEED HAIR GROWER

Fannie Williams Excelsior Guaranteed Hair Grower has been on the market for years. It is a wonderful preparation. It stops harsh and brittle hair from breaking and falling. It corrects itching scalp, ring worms, tetter and eczema, and keeps your scalp in a very healthy condition. It is not a gummy or sticky grower. It leaves the hair natural and soft and the hair grows rapidly.

You can get the grower at the following places:

Mrs. Corrine Grayson, 1247 East 53rd street.

Dorothy's Beauty Salon, 1821 Imperial highway, Watts.

Ethical Drug Store, 1490 West Jefferson boulevard.

Mrs. Fannie Williams, 1749 S. New Hampshire.

GIRL SCOUTS PREPARE FIRE WARDEN MITTENS—War conditions, relaxed home watchfulness, makes Community Chest group work agencies for young people, community centers and settlement house more than ever necessary. They assure a right place for boys and girls to put their high energies to good use. Greater Chest contributions will open these opportunities to additional thousands of boys and girls in Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Woodcraft Rangers, Young Men's and Young Women's Christian association, and neighborhood meeting places where they will receive good citizenship training. Eastside boys and girls are found in all of these groups, at the 28th street YMCA, Woodlawn Branch of the YWCA, and the Eastside Mothers Club. Also well attended is the All Nations Boys Club on E. Sixth street.

Demos Show Registration Gains Here

Stirred by the apathy of Democrats who stayed away from the recent primary election polls in droves, party workers have just closed a registration drive which has resulted in substantialy increasing the Democratic majority in all the larger cities of the state, figures released here today show.

Largest Democratic gain was shown in Los Angeles county, where Registrar of Voters M. J. Donoghue revealed that Democrats entitled to vote in the November election now number 995,044, an increase of 20,926 over the total eligible in the August primary.

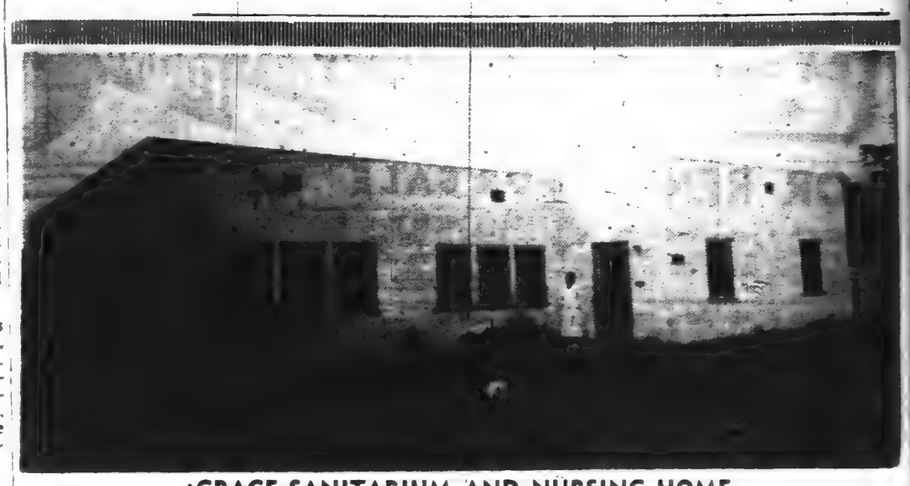
Iowa Students Develop War Bond Plan

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct 15—Negro college students of the University of Iowa have developed a plan to serve their country, buy United States War Bonds and help themselves, too.



The plan is called the "Phoenix Fund." Under it any colored student at the university may enroll and pay a 10 cent War Savings Stamp each week of the school year and one dollar per month during vacation when most of the boys are employed.

No one paying into the fund is assured of receiving a single penny in return, but it is planneed to use the fund which is now past the $3,000 mark to assist returning "Phoenix" members following their tour of duty in the armed forces.

The money is being invested in Series F. War Bonds.

Any schools wishing to obtain further details concerning the operation of the plan should direct their correspondence to the Chief of the Interracial Section, War Savings Staff, Washington, D. C., or to the Phoenix Fund Society, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa.

Several million "V Home" certificates will be distributed to victory householders who have taken adequate precautions, it was announced by the State Council of Defense. Distribution is made by local defense councils.

ARE THEY SAYING THIS ABOUT YOU?

"DOESN'T MARGE'S COMPLEXION MAKE HER LOOK OLD?"

Careful attention to your face can save you from words that take the joy out of life. DO THIS FOR GREATER BEAUTY . . . in making your complexion lighter. Give it a real active arousing with Black and White Bleaching Cream. Skin becomes fairer, softer and lovelier. Blackheads loosen. Dull outer skin clears off. Use only as directed. Get Black and White Bleaching Cream, at all toilet counters, economy sizes, 25c and 50c.

ANOTHER MISSISSIPPI LYNCHING! F.D.R. ACTS—CALL IN G-MEN

THE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM: THEY WITH BULLETS, WE WITH BALLOTS!

Vol. 63—No. 28 Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday, Oct. 22, 1942 Price 5c

WE AT HOME have a job as theirs. We must vote so that our nation may be bulwark of liberty. ESPECIALLY must we guard against the appeasers, the native servants of Hitler and his dizzy theory of racial domination. In California that means EARL WARREN, the windy protege of these great American patriots and Negro baiters—Herbert Hoover and William Randolph Hearst.

BIDDLE PROMISES FBI WILL PROBE CRIMES

WASHINGTON, OCT. 22—A man already convicted of the murder of his white employer, was lynched in Jones county, Miss., Oct. 17.

The new outrage followed close upon the heels of the lynching of two fourteen year old boys at Meridian, Miss., Oct. 11.

Following an unprecedented upsurge in popular protest, the President acted through the Department of Justice. United States Attorney General Biddle announced yesterday, "Assuming that investigation develops a case, there will be RELENTLESS PROSECUTION."

Another unprecedented development was the unexpectedly militant stand of Mississippi's Governor Paul B. Johnson.

In an official statement, the Governor said: "I was just as much shocked and as deeply outraged by the news of this incident as any man in the United States. It is the first lynching during my administration of three years now. I have prevented numerous lynchings by the use of my troops and would have prevented this one had I learned of danger of a lynching.

"I immediately contacted the sheriff and told him what I thought of the situation and of his conduct. I immediately sent my investigator to the county to make a thorough investigation. I expect to do everything I possibly can to see that the lynchers are prosecuted and punished for this outrageous act. I am opposed to mob violence just as much as you are. I agree with you that such conduct does not help

THEY MUST ACT NOW ON ANTI-POLL TAX BILL!

Mass Meeting!

SUNDAY, OCT. 25 AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH, 24th and Griffith

Sponsored by: Mayor Fletcher Bowron, Supervisor John Anson Ford, N. A. A. C. P., Negro Victory Committee, California Eagle, CIO Anti-Discrimination Committee.

On the Sidewalk

by C. A. B.

TWO MONTHS

That's a deadline which is staring all Afro-America in the face today. It is in this brief period that we must organize tremendous mass pressure behind the Geyer anti-poll tax bill, which rang up a signal victory in the House of Representatives last week, and is now confronted with one of the most reactionary Senates in the history of our nation.

—But, as consistently pointed out by this newspaper during the poll tax fight, there is no excuse for our failing in this effort. Reaction is ranged against us in a solid wall. But the people of this nation are engaged in a great PROGRESSIVE war. The poll tax endangers victory in this war to a greater extent even than its oppression of the Negro people. In practical, political terms, what does this mean? It means that the struggle for freedom of the Negro people, in which end of the poll tax is a vital necessity, is bound up with the common interest of every American sincerely determined that his nation will not become a Fascist province.

Poll tax representation, poll tax influence is the most important obstructionist element in the country's national life today. Any cursory examination of the record of voting on the part of poll tax Senators and Representatives shows that they have consistently voted against every progressive win-the-war measure. It was they who effected an allegiance with the so-called 'Farm Bloc' which recently attempted sabotage of the President's 7-point economic program. Mr. Roosevelt's strategy in overcoming this foul coalition bears eloquent lessons for Afro-America. What did he do? He went straight to the American people. He explained to them the vital necesity for economic controls during war time. They answered with such a spontaneous outburst of support that the appeasers, the poll taxers and their supporters were forced to prompt surrender. This, too, is the story of the success of the poll tax fight in the House of Representatives.

Very well. What can YOU do? You, as an individual. First, you can exercise your right to petition this government. You can send one, two, three, four letters to the Senators representing this state now in Washington: Senators Hiram Johnson and Sheridan Downey. If you fail to do this, you fail your country and your people and yourself.

Next, you will attend the giant mass meeting Sunday afternoon at Second Baptist church where Florida's brilliant Senator Claude Peoper, author of one of the two anti-poll tax bills, will launch a broadside at those forces who obstruct both the war and the freedom of Negro and white people in the South through maintenance of restrictions on the right to participate in American democracy.

Third, YOU can see that whatever organization you are a member of dispatches a telegram to

NATIONAL REFERENDUM ON NEGRO -- MACHINISTS

A national referendum to determine the union's policy with regard to Negro membership was held only solution to the problem raised by Negro workers at Lockheed-Vega aircraft plants which a meeting of union officials, Negro workers and members of the Negro Community saw last Thursday at the the 28th Street YMCA.

Negro workers at Lockheed-Vega plants have conducted a long fight to gain entrance in the Local 727 of the International Association of Machinists. Some months ago a campaign led by the Junior Council of the NAACP under militant advisor Clarence O. English resulted in token acceptance of a few Negroes. However, since then, Negro membership has been curtailed, applications by Negroes, according to admission of union officials, filed in the wastebasket.

An AFL, old-line union, the International Association of Machinists has long supported a part of its ritual which forbids membership to any other than "qualified white workers."

Roy Brown, International representative of the union in L. A., emphasized that violation of this injunction by the Los Angeles union might result in its charter being lifted. Dale Reed, president of Local 727 has stated that "My hands are tied."

Negro workers, ranged solidly behind their temporary organizing chairman, young Herbert Ward, have contended that the union regulation violates the spirit of the President's executive order 8802. "We Negro workers ," he told the EAGLE, "feel that we are entitled to full union participation as a protection to our jobs, as an assurance of proper upgrading—and because we believe America is a democracy. At this time more than any oth-

L. G. Robinson Will Be Hailed for 36-Year Work

Recognition of his 36 years of service in the government of Los Angeles County will be paid L. G. Robinson, superintendent of elevator and janitor department of the County, at the regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors next Tuesday morning, Oct. 27.

The special celebration was requested this week by Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough and approved by the Board of Supervisors. Department heads of county service, many knowing Mr. Robinson for many years, will attend the "farewell party," which is scheduled for 11 a. m. in the Assembly room of the Board of Supervisors.

Bringing the plan before the County Board, Supervisor McDonough declared:

'Mr. Robinson has endeared himself to thousands of people, not only county employees but also the general public. He has served the public faithfully and without reproach for 36 years."

SEN. CLAUDE PEPPER WILL SPEAK HERE ON ANTI-POLL TAX MEASURE

Senator Claude Pepper, author of the Pepper-Anti-Lynching bill wil speak Sunday afternoon at the Second Baptist church, as the Los Angeles Anti-Poll tax comittee, headed by Supervisor John Anson Ford, and bodies in the Negro community launch a blistering attack upon those poll-tax elements in the nation's capital which would attempt to employ every underhanded trick to prevent this vast democratic reform from bolstering the war spirit of ten million citizens disfranchised by the tax.

Labor and progressive organizations are joined in sponsorship of Sunday's mammoth meeting.

Every dispatch from Washington streses that the moment of climax has been reached in the anti-poll-tax fight.

An intensive telegram campaign aimed at California Senators Hiram Johnson and Sheridan Downey. Both are in Washington —Downey is one of the few Western Senators who has declared for the bill. Hiram Johnson has not yet spoken on the measure one way or the other.

MOST IMPORTANT objective of mass pressure, however is the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A thorough analysis of the current poll tax situation is contained in the weekly column of Mrs. Charlott A. Bass "On the Sidewalk" on column one of this page.

Senator Pepper, an ardent all-out war suporter, has been the most distinguished progressive in the Senate during the last several years. Representing a state of the deep South, he has been a consistent friend to the liberation of Negroes and poor whites.

'MUST BE FREED,' C.A.B.

Festus Coleman Tells Eagle Editor All

BY CHARLOTA A. BASS
CALIFORNIA EAGLE EDITOR

In San Francisco Sunday, I saw a miracle of mass mobilization. I saw representatives of the CIO and the AFL, of the Knights of Pythias and the NAACP, of the pulpit, the parlor and the sand pit joined in a single cry—"Free Festus Coleman. And I heard the lawyers who conducted Coleman's appeal name Attorney General Earl Warren as the most powerful behind the scenes figure in the railroading of this young Negro.

But, best of all—and worst of all— I saw Festus Coleman. I saw him behind the bars at San Quentin, where he is serving a sixty-five year sentence for the high crime of walking through Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

If Coleman were an odd looking someone — If he were particularly tragic or woebegone character, perhaps my first impression of him would not have been such a shock. Festus Coleman is an average young Negro, with a fair education, neat appearance, and an amazing supply of earthy common sense.

HEARS OWN STORY

For the first time, I heard the whole story of Festus Coleman. It was told calmly, with deliberation —and great dignity. It made me madder than anything I have heard for years. It made me determined that whatever the power of this newspaper, it shall be dedicated unstintingly to the campaign for freeing this young man. Here is the story, all of it:

One night Festus Coleman was walking through Golden Gate Park, a convenient short cut to his street car line. It was about ten-thirty in the evening.

He stumbled upon an army officer in a group of bushes—on a blanket— with a young girl, 17 years of age. Coleman paid them no attention.

But the officer called after him:

"I'm from Georgia, and we lynch niggers for doing what you are doing."

"I'm minding my own business," Coleman answered.

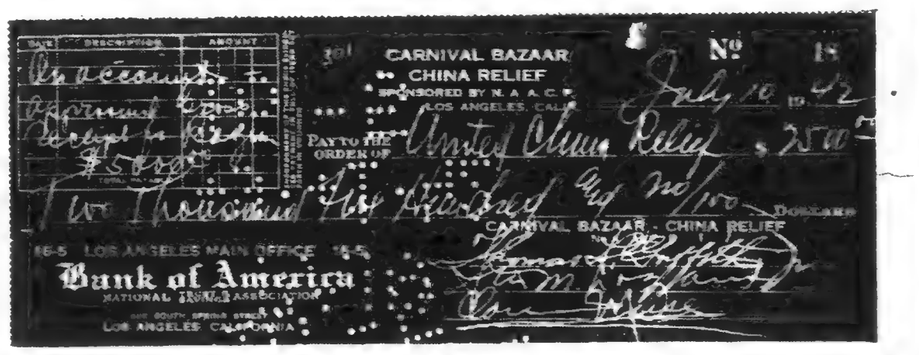
"Don't talk back to me,nigger!" The officer struck the Negro and called out to his companion nearby in an automobile with another young girl.

Between the two, they managed to subdue Coleman. They decided, in true Georgia fashion, to make him pay for this resistance.

With many threats, they carted him off to a local jail.

At first, there was some discussion as to just what he might be charged. One officer volunteered that there had been a series of attacks in the park recently. Another would have nothing to do with this embryo railroading.

Finally it was settled that Coleman should be accused of raping one of the white girls. It was patched up this way: Coleman was to have come along, unarmed, overpowered two armed officers, —take a gun from them and rape one of the girls before their eyes.



Once jailed, Coleman asked his family to secure a lawyer . And here a fatal blunder was made, for his wife and two sisters innocently hired a disreputable shyster who has since been disbarred.

From the day he was hired until the day of the trial, the accused's 'lawyer' never visited him —except once 'to see how he was getting on' two days before coming to trial

During THIS mockery on justice, the courtroom was cleared of all persons, including Coleman's family, no evidence was introduced to prove (1) that Coleman had had a gun (2) that he had raped anyone. Only authority for the assumption of his guilt

WHAT NATIONAL UNITY LOOKS LIKE

A CHECK FOR TWO THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS is the way Los Angeles Negro community feels about our gallant Chinese allies.

Sum represents funds forwarded to Orient from China Relief show sponsored by the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Plans Probe of Mexican 'Boy Gangs'

Mrs. LaRue McCormick, West coast regional director of the International Labor Defense, has been appointed by the Spanish Speaking People's Congress executive committee as their representative to investigate the situation that exists in the Mexican community as manifested through the so-called "boy gangs." She has also been authorized to assist in the defense of these young boys and girls to guarantee that each will receive a fair and unprejudiced trial.

It is the considered opinion of the Spanish Speaking People's Congress that an organized fifth column is working in the Mexican community, taking advantage of every act of discrimination and prejudice which is being practiced against the Mexican people in Los Angeles by unscrupulous city officials, certain sections of the police department and other reactionary elements in the city who serve to divide the people of the city when the need for complete unity for victory is the greatest need of the moment.

That soft-spoken command by Captain Hugh Mulzac, the nation's only Negro master, marked the formal delivery this week by the California Shipbuilding Corp. of its 74th Liberty ship, the S. S. Booker T. Washington.

Tri-County Baptist Body in Parley

By REV. JOHN A. DAVIS

The Tri-County Baptist association held its first quarterly session in the St. James Baptist church, Needles, last week. Rev. W. M. Thomas, E. C. Thornton, and John A. Davis were joined in Needles by Dr. W. D. Carter, and Dr. W. P. Carter, Rev. and Mrs. B. T. Mayfield, from Second Baptist church of Las Vegas, Nev., and Rev. A. Trotter.

Breakfast was served the first morning of the convention by Mrs. Odessa Gregory in the lovely USO building. The Sunday School Association session was opened with the devotions conducted by Rev. E. C. Thornton, with Mrs. Grace Neal, vice president, presiding.

After hearing echoes from the various Sunday Schools present, Dr. W. D. Carter gave a very extended report of the meeting of the National Baptist convention, which was held in Memphis, Tenn. Rev. W. P. Carter and Rev. W. M. Thomas also added their experiences to this report.

The sermon was preached by Rev. B. T. Mayfield. The devotions at the afternoon session were opened at 2:15 p. m. by Rev. John A. Davis, the pastor of the Baptist church and a returned missionary from India, occupied the BTU session.

Because of the sessions of the Southern California Baptist association at Pomona, it was decided to close out Wednesday night. After the devotions and the final reports were heard, the closing sermon was delivered by Rev. John A. Davis, executive secretary of the association.

It was very regrettable to find the pastor, Rev. J. M. Caddell, ill. However, the sight of his brethren caused him to feel much better. The next meeting of the association will be held in the Second Baptist church of Las Vegas in January, 1943.

Postal Workers Have to Wait

Postal employees, who have not had an increase in pay for 17 years, learned today that no action is likely to be taken by the Congress for some time. Consideration of the proposed pay boost has been postponed indefinitely.

Last week the Senate Civil Service Committee met to discuss the postal wage problem, but adjourned without making any recommendations. At the time it was indicated that action might be taken when the tax bill was passed. However, it was announced today that the Senate would adjourn in three weeks.

Alliance Will Meet Monday

The Interdenominational Ministers Alliance will meet in its regular session Monday, Oct. 26, at 11 a. m. Every member is asked to be present without fail. Reports from all committees will be heard. The report of the secretary-treasurer will be given.

The president, Dr. A. Wendell Ross, will deliver the order of the day. Dr. E. W. Rakestraw will bring the current and religious news. The principal business of the day will be the election of officers.

DR. HUBBARD ON CHURCH OF AIR

was the statement of two army men whose testimony would be doubted by any honest observer. When the white girl whom he was supposed to have attacked was on the stand, Coleman demanded to ask her the simple question' "Did I attack you?"

Permission was denied by the judge because—guess why?—he didn't want to 'embarrass' the witness?

Coleman's lawyer made no effort at defense. The judge interposed such prejudicial questions as, 'What were you doing sneaking around the park that time of night ahyway."

--Acording to Coleman, it was this worthy upholder of the law who proposed that he plead guilty and receive a light sentence. My informant told me calmly, "I answered that I'd rather spend a million years in jail than plead guilty to something that I didn't do."

--Festus Coleman was found guilty. The judge sentenced him to sixty-five years at San Quentin.

An appeal to the State Supreme Court has been lost, the dissenting opinion ranking as one of the most significant in the history of California jurisprudence.

Legally, there is only one thing to do now. —To ask that Governor Culbert Olson grant Coleman an unconditional pardon. I believe he will do this. I do not believe that the opposing candidate for his office will do for his office will do anything such thing. He is now, according to the fine young lawyers who conducted his defense, one of the chief conspirators in the singular perversion of justice which has landed the boy where he is today. And I remember the FIRST plank in Warren's campaign. It is against the liberation of 'depraved ed criminals.'

Cornerstone Laying Sunday

Last Sunday was a day of much rejoicing for the members and friends of Providence Baptist church, 507 E. 35th street. The early service at 6:30 p. m. closed the day.

Pastor Taylor requested that all those present go with him to the St. Paul Baptist church for a Christian fellowship and worship service.

The cornerstone laying service will begin at 3 p. m. sharp, this Sunday. Everyone is welcome.

our situation in a crisis like we are going through now."

The Governor's statement was in answer to a wire from the National Negro Congress.

Previous victims of the lynch mob were the children Charles Lanb and Ernest Green of Chubuta, Miss., who were snatched from the Quitman jail where they had been held on charges of "attempted assault." They were hung at the site of a bridge.

Wahs, the new victim, was also hanged to a bridge. A jury deciding his case disagreed on whether he deserved a prison sentence or death.

One of the spectacular developments in the anti-lynch campaign which the atrocities touched off was the formation of a national Stop Lynching Committee by Congressman Vito Marcantonio, New York progressive who swept into office during recent primaries carrying Republican, Democratic and American Labor Party tickets.

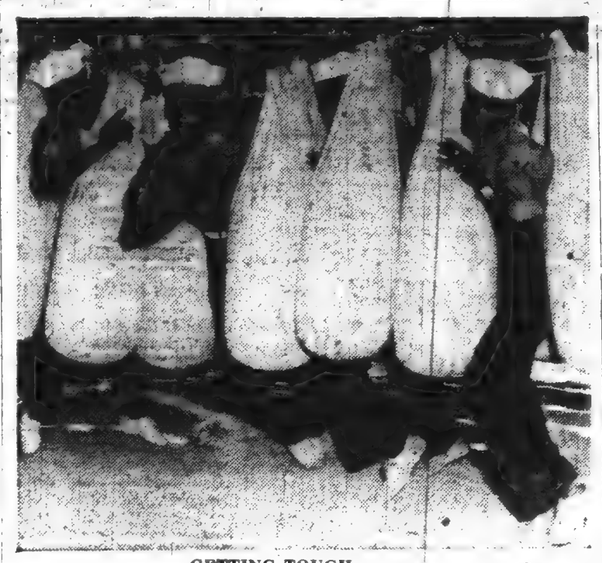
structed to organize an investigation of this situation and to go to its very roots to seek its cause.

There is conviction in the ranks of the congress leadership that the Falangist influence of the Franco Spanish government is directly responsible for the current violence.

Mrs. McCormick's first act was to visit Mrs. Hortensia Tostada, 20-year old expectant mother, who was sentenced to jail for 60 days, despite her condition. After a careful investigation of the facts in the case, Mrs. McCormick is convinced that Mrs. Tostada is the victim of the newspaper propaganda and a biased and prejudiced judge.



Her immediate release is necessary, Mrs. McCormick says, for the sake of the health of both mother and child. Mrs. Tostada's husband is now serving in the armed forces of our country.

eral, State senate, State assembly and other State offices, can be sent only to those applying under California's absent voter's law.

Absentee ballot will be available until the close of business on Oct. 29. After the ballot is marked, and sworn to before a county clerk, one of his deputies, or a notary public, it should be returned immediately to the clerk of the county in which the voter is registered. All such ballots, however, must be in the hands of the county clerk before the close of business on Nov. 9, six days after the election.

To obtain a ballot the absent voter need only write to the clerk of the county in which he is registered, stating that he will be absent from his election precinct on election day; specifying the election at which he wishes to vote; and giving both his present address and his registered address. The signature of the applicant should be the same as that appearing on his affidavit of registration.

(Ed's Note: An application form for an absentee voter's ballot will be found elsewhere in this issue.)

Committee of One Hundred sponsored the festivities.

In vivid contrast to its gala launching, when Marian Anderson, famed Negro contralto, smashed a beribboned bottle of champagne on the ship's bow, no ceremonies marked the formal delivery today.

Named after the late beloved educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, the trim freighter is manned by a United Nations crew and an all-white armed guard under command of Lt. (j.g.) Harold Kruley of Chicago.

Among the crew, as they reported aboard today, were seen Filipinos, Negroes, Swedes, Norwegians, Britishers, Yugoslavs, Spaniards, Russians, and other husky, young subjects of Allied countries.

er our country must be united."

Since a shift in the I. A. M. ritual to admit Negroes would not normally come up until the 1944 convention, a national referendum of I.A.M. workers will be held. Ten percent of all I. A. M. bodies must ask for this referendum. Observers believe, however, that a rigorous national campaign will find machinists everywhere backing the move.

Another side of the picture is the fact that sources close to the War Man-Power Commission indicate that all union discrimination, whether in closed shops or not, will soon come under authority of the Fair Employment Practice Committee.

Senators Downey and Johnson imediately. If there is no regularly scheduled meeting of your organization, arrange one! The anti-poll tax fight is the most important one in the history of our people —at least during this century.

Fourth, and this is a problem largely of the Negro and Labor leadership of this country—common American citizens must know about the poll tax battle. Here is perhaps the greatest need in the whole campaign and the one most difficult to accomplish. This is so because of the corruption of the majority of major newspapers and because the three great newspaper services, Associated Press, owned jointly by a number of reactionary publications; United Press owned by Hitler-helper Roy Howard; and the International News Service, owned by Hitler-helper William Randolph Hearst. The domination of news coverage by these organs of reaction have to date kept knowledge of the vital poll tax issue from most Americans. What must be done now is the break-up of this diabolical arrangement. We must join with white readers in a demand that our newspapers report the whole news concerning the poll tax.

Well, Negro America, this is our job—let's NOT shirk it!

Instructions to Absentee Voters

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22,—Californians in the armed forces who desire to express their views on ballot propositions and on candidates for State offices at the November election will find it necessary to avail themselves of California's absent voter's law, rather than the recently enacted Federal law permitting soldiers and sailors to vote by mail. The new Federal law applies only to Federal offices.

Applicants for ballots under the Federal enactment will receive a specially printed ballot containing only the names of candidates for Congress from California. No other Federal offices are to be filled at the forthcoming election.

DEMOCRACY AT WORK; MEET JOE JOHNSON

Democracy is on the march. Before this war, the Negro's talents and abilities were relegated to jobs of menial capacity. But today, we find true democracy creeping into the economic ranks all over the country. Let's take the case of Joe Johnson, who came to these shores some 7 or 8 years ago from the shores of Lake Michigan—Chicago.

Today, Joseph Thomas Johnson has the rating of senior painter, a master mechanic and acting foreman at the Army Air depot in San Bernardino.

He carries one of those little black books like all other army civilians and the FBI and Internal Revenue agents carry for identification purposes. He is assigned to the War Department Material Division, U. S. Army Signal Section of the Air Corps. He is a civilian employee and draws a salary of $2300 a year for a straight 40-hour week. If he works every Saturday it will run his salary up to approximately $3000 a year.

His duties at the air depot are to supervise and instruct all lower graded employees and classified laborers of all races, nationalities and creeds. Before his appointment the question of his race came up just once, i. e., "Would whites take orders from a Negro?" But all agreed that this was a People's War and all people were affected alike and all people had to make a definite contribution. The vital need of war necessity could not be held up for a racial tradition. If a black man could do the job better than a white one, the Negro would get the job. The thing that matters is getting the job done in the best manner in an all-out effort to win this war.

Praise should be given to the army and civilian officials who unanimously decided on Joe Johnson. The men in all departments cooperate with Mr. Johnson, and Johnson works with the zeal that is truly American.

BITS AND BITS

One of the proudest men at the launching of the "Booker T. Washington" was Police Officer Arthur C. Cole, veteran of World War One. He is past president of the local Tuskegee club.

Baron J. Lawson, whose exploits of daring objective racial advancement and personal necessities keep him on page one, is most proud of the achievements of the Women's Civic Luncheon club. He takes credit for this organization in putting women to work in many of the defense industries. That is, his organization first led the crusade. The officers of the club are Mesdames Myrtle Franklin, president; Jessie B. Hill, Dorothy Brandon, Maxine Heflin, Estelle Hammond, Mary Caldwell, and Dorothy Balou; the Misses are Margaret Webb, and Jacqueline Woods. The Rev. Maybell L. Oliver is chaplain.

Esterlynne Bentley, daughter of that pioneer family of Pasadena and niece to Jim Knight, the biggie-wiggie of Chicago, is reported to be seriously thinking about wedding a lad from the Windy City.

HENRY B. GRAY ELECTED TO POSITION OF TRUST

Henry B. Gray, of the Civilian Defense in Hollywood, has been elected treasurer of the War Activities of Community 7, also promoted to the rank of alternate zone warden. This, too, proves beyond all doubt, that democracy is on the march. The Negro population in Hollywood proper is very small and there are only two or three Negro wardens. Yet, the true principles of democracy are so strong that a Negro is elected unanimously to handle the financial affairs of a great district as Hollywood. However, Mr. Gray was not given this job because he was a Negro, but rather because he was the best American fitted for the job. His being a Negro was incidental.

PRIVATE EVERETTE PORTER OF THE U. S. ARMY

"Hello Earl, my boy; when you receive this letter I will have probably reached my destination at Camp Wheeler, Georgia. I am writing this en route on a fast moving train. I have made numerous acquaintances in the last few days, and we Americans are pretty good fellows when they permit us to be. We are all good sports and all solicitous of the well-being and pleasure of the other fellow. We sleep, eat, work and play together like Americans should. I can't say what will happen when I reach Texas tonight. But so far, so good. I believe you will like it when you get in.

"Learn all you can from the State Guards." From what I have seen it helps. Pvt. E. M. Porter."

Porter left here last week as a volunteer for officer's training.

William G. Roberts and George A. Miller are raiding all the joints in the Central Avenue area. They are cleaning up the Central avenue racetrack (42nd place and Central avenue) of all bookies and touts as fast as they can. No, they are not police officers. They are the officials of Draft Board No. 215. When Roberts, Rev. Miller and Miss Kathryn A. Tolbert get through, 42nd place and Central will look like a vast USO headquarters—there will be so many soldiers.

If the boys at the Post Office should see Armand Hudson trotting up and down the streets, don't get the idea he is training for Joe Louis. He will be trying to lose weight for his VOC exam, or if they see Allen Jones muttering "X equals the unknown quantity." He is getting ready for his Voc exam, and if the boys out at the apartment house ask Wendell Jackson to take a drink and he refuses don't get sore, he is getting ready for his exam. These prospective army officers are good material for army leadership.

BILLY ROWE COMES TO TOWN—OUCH! OUCH!

Billy Rowe, the dapper ink-slinging and picture-taking reporter from Harlem, breezed into a cold town in so far as the members of the black fourth estate are concerned. Harry Levette, the dean, of at least the ANP; Lawrence F. LaMar, the Bard, all have given Billy Rowe a stiff lashing in their column. Even pretty Alyce Keys ribbed Billy Rowe over being photogrpahed so much. The only reporter that has praised him to the skies in his column is Ted Le Berethon, a true follower of Christ. Leon Washington has ripped him up and down the back to say nothing of his own staff.

Billy Rowe thought he would find that he had an office here. But, instead, he found the offices of the DEFENDER-Courier. Heretofore, it was the Defender-Courier office. If a visiting official came West from the Defender--it was his office and vice versa. Today it is the DEFENDER-Courier. No, the two newspapers have not merged. Prviate individuals own the office and no representative can dictate to them. I wouldn't be surprised to learn that a couple of fellows will be taking a trip East to report on Billy Rowe. Rowe is out here to crusade against Hollywood. In next week issue we plan to tell you all the low down about Billy Rowe in Hollywood.

These Questions may decide what laxative to give your child

Ques. Is it true that children take more readily to a child's laxative? Ans. Yes, that's generally so. Ques. What do you mean by a "child's laxative?" Ans. A laxative like Syrup of Black-Draught, designed especially for a child's needs and tastes. Ques. Does Syrup of Black-Draught contain the same laxative-ingredient as reliable old Black-Draught? Ans. Yes, in a form most children find pleasant to take.

Your children should like Syrup of Black-Draught. Follow label directions. The big 50c bottle contains more than three times as much as the old trial size.

GOSSIP IN SONG

The Snooper at East Campus is very concerned about other people's private lives, and "That Ain't Right". Carolyn Collier's singing, "Wonder When My Baby's Coming Home". Thelma J., singing, "I Used to Love You". Gloria B. and Ralph McA, "Side by Side". P. J. and Lucille, "Why Don't you do Right". James Bartlett, Jad Blake, John Carter all trying to be the "Boogie Man". Dickie wants to be a special girl's "Tall Skinny Papa". Julia Jones and Delores Carroll are on the "Assembly LiLne". Hope last week-end's mishaps will get patched up, as I know they will and everyone will be "Happy in Love" again.

Looking into the Future:

I see Betty Benson and Philippa Jones as stenographers in a great Negro doctor's office; Arthur Dun can taking over Arthur Murray's Jessie A. and Lora J. teaching First Aid and Modern Dancing at East Campus; Roy Stenson teaching Math; Carolyn Collier teaching traffic school; Glo Bunch teaching cooking (yours truly at the head of the class); Lois Prince still at West Campus; Rose Brown directing the Vocalettes to musical heights; P.J. King and David Scott getting gears; Ralph McAfee drawing for Esquire and modeling clothes on the side; Taylor Morton erecting a medical school for Negro youth; Eddie Johnson working today, quitting tomorrow; Bartlett, Rufus, Jhn C., still trying to be the "Boogie Man"; Thelma Jackson still sleeping. Harrison Bailey home for good; Jeanne Morrow teaching music at Fiske, Billy Scott visiting Chrystal instead of Hattie; Carl O'Kelly, Frank Batiste, Stan Prather back in So. Cal.; Paul Devine still C.O.C (Casanova of the Campus); Stu Armstrong and Frank Sullivan the same at West Campus; lots of people at Scott's League; the ushers for Young Friendship; our boys coming home; semi-forma s in existence again; and "Somehow" still the finest song.

So long now. See you at the game Sunday.

L. A. Junior Academy Holds Church Program

The Los Angeles Junior Academy of which J. F. Dent is the principal, and Gertrude Muldrow, representative, enjoyed a spiritual program Sunday evening at the Wadsworth church. The proceeds of the program will go toward buying new school desks for one of the rooms of the church school.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Jessie Terry, whose interesting message was enjoyed by everyone present. Berth A Powell, Elijah Rodges, Ernest Rambo, members of the Hall Johnson Choir, rendered spiritual numbers. Others participating in the program were Pastor H. H. Lindsey, Eilene Warmick, pianist; Evelyn Leonard violinist; Mrs. M. C. Masters, accompanist, and James Ellison, trombone soloist.

The Los Angeles Academy wishes to thank Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, the Angelus Funeral Home, Connor-Johnson Mortuary, People's Funeral Home, Mr. Hall Johnson, Dr. J. E. Cooper, Mrs. Martha Whiseker, Earl W. Toddy and Herring"s Auto Service and many others for their loyal support. Anyone wishing to help in this work, please call PA. 6990.

KEEN-O CLUB

The Keen-O Club met with Mrs. Pearl Evans as hostess Sunday evening. The meeting was an extra gala occasion, for this was the first time Mrs. Evans had entertained in her new home.

Following the short business meeting, Mrs. Evans introduced her guests, Mrs. Odessa E. Norton of Illinois, who is visiting Mrs. Evans for a few weeks, and Mrs. Dorothy Lacey, who is on the Coast to be near her husband who is in the Army.

Cocktails and canapes, served in the living room, preceded a delicious chicken dinner served in the beautifully decorated spacious dining room.

Later in the evening the husbands of the women present came and the party continued into the evening.

'PROFESSOR CREEPS' AT LINCOLN

Jed Buell can always be counted upon to inject an out of the ordinary twist into any production he tackles. His experiments with midgets in a comedy Western led to his making another faced oater with an all-Negro cast, and finally to his organization of Dixie National Productions.

"Professor Creeps," which comes to the Lincoln theatre for four days this weekend, is this company's latest colored offering, an uproarious rib-tickler starring F. E. Miller and Mantan Moreland. The original story by Robert Edmunds, as scripted by William X. Crowley, Roy Clements and Jed Buell, has Miller and Moreland comic partners in a down at the heels detective agency.

YOUNG GREGORY 'SKIP' SIMONS CELEBRATES

Oliver is chairman of awards.

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

After a week of checking in classes, program changing, and book buying, the students of UCLA, have settled down for another semester of real study. To the surprise of many, the enrollment of Negroe students on campus is far greater than that of previous semesters. A large majority of the new students hail few old timers have returned to from local high schools, while a complete their education. While looking the campus over last monday, took note of freshmen gracing the Co-op, and the library. Mary LLLouise Thomas, Claude Young, The Hill Twins, Ruth Cage, Vivian Stayton, Alphonsine Paltrone and Gloria Ford, were in evidence. By the way, Ray Bartlette is reasuming his study, minus the football playing this semester. From all outward appearance, Bartlette is going to be a ray of sunshine on campus knowing everybody, everything, and all the answers. Ray back. Also on campus is perras the freshman are glad to see Anyway, the old timers, as well sonality kid Sneed, looking healthier than ever.

Betty Wright, and Gloria Tribble, along with Arthur Trent, Enoch Spann, Frank DuPos, Joye Speights, and Earnie Mae Maxie are back. Earnie Mae is doing extra fine this semester, she's the first Negro girl to become a member of the Spur Club, and wears her white uniform with that certain air. Paul Weaver, owner of a fine new Ford, is transportation man for several of the campus personalities. The sudden increase of Negro students not only occurred at UCLA, but USC as well. All in all, the universities are well filled this semester, and the students expect to study hard, and get in a little social life on the side lines.

RUSH WEEK

DWuring last week-end, the different sororities rushed the freshmen debs of the UCLA and USC campi. The Deltas held their affair alst Friday night, and the Alpha chapter of AKA held its affair last Saturday afternoon in the form of an outdoor picnic, at the home of superiors Corrine and Edith Jones. The girls dressed in play togs, and engaged in ping-pong and badminton games. Potential pledges enjoyin themselves at the different rushes included Gloria Roberts, Muriel Folly, Paulite DeJois, Phyllis Hoxie, Alphonsine Paltrone, Vivien Stayton, Blanche Groggs, Gloria Ford, Mary Louise Thomas and a host of others. At present, the exact number of girls pledging AKA, or Delta isn't known. According to campus folk, a large number of the SC girls plan going Delta, while the UCLA girls are strictly Ivy Leaf conscious.

HALLOWEEN CABARET CLASSIC

On the 31st of this month, the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority is presenting a Cabaret Classic at the Music Town auditorium. The talent scheduled for the floor show is supposed to be tops. All tables are reserved, and tickets for the affair are on sale by sorority sisters, and the pledges, Owen Simmons, ticket chairman, states, that positively no tickets will be on sale at the door. So, if you plan to be at one of the affairs of the season, be sure and purchase your ticket in advance.

WELL, WELL, WELL

Private Robert Boswell had a grand send-off last Monday night, when his Alpha Frat brothers honored him with a going-away party. The party was given at Campus Kids were there in full Music Town Auditorium, and the swing. Bobby left town Tuesday morning . . . By the way, wonder what's happenede to Baby Ruth Williams; is she out of circulation, or what? Hear that Gloria Drake and David Walton plan to tie the knot next month. Speaking of knot-tying, John Lee Johnson and Nancy Pitts ceremony will take place on the 15th day of November at the St. Patrick's church. I'm not certain, but Dame Rumor has it Jacqulyn Wilson has returned her ring, and is making other plans . . . Congrats are in order for LeRoy Beavers and Walter Gordon, Jr., who played some fine footbzall for Cal. University. T. L. Kirk and Donold Bowdion were among the locals who travelled up north to witness the game.

Seems that Gwen Harris no longer spends time with Alpha man 'Artis Grant, but has taken up with his fraternity brother, Jimmy Lewis. Now, how 'bout that? . . . Albertyne Record surprised the younger set in general when she up and married t'other day. John Kinlo h's recent trip up North was strictly on business this time. Doris Garrison, the brain, received another scholarship this semester. Believe it or not, but Elmer Roberts is slowly, but surely, becoming the lady's man of the UCLA campus; Leonard Grimes and the other boys had better keep an eye on this high freshman.

The USO is in dire need of hostesses. Do your part, girls, by offering your services. That's all 'til next press time.

Second Baptist in FDR Appeal

Copy of telegram sent by Second Baptist church, Los Angeles, to President Roosevelt

"Second Baptist, largest Negro church in the Far West, deeply grieved over lynching of three Negroes in Mississippi in one week. For sake of improving Negro morale which is at low tide due to reactionary forces in America, we earnestly beseech you to have Departmnt of Justice investigate these crimes, also that you speedily address this entire nation relative to lynching and other repressive measures against a minority. We have no president but you—for God's sake speak and act. Signed: Second Baptist church, 24th at Griffith Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, minister."

Moss Carries Greetings from Olson

Because of his distinguished service to the community, Jay Warren Moss, young civic leader who enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps this week, has been delegated by the governor to carry greetings from California to the Tuskegee Air Corps.

The message of greeting is printed on a scroll and is signed by the following distinguished citizens of California: Governor Culbert L. Olson, Postmaster Mary D. Briggs, Congressman Thomas F. Ford, Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins, Mayor Fletcher Bowron, Eddie Cantor, Hattie McDaniel, Ann Sheridan, Clarence Muse, Ethel Waters, Walter Huston, Mark Hellinger, George Raft, William Robinson, Humphrey Bogart, Howard Hawks, Paul Williams, John Garfield, LeRoy Prinz, Albert C. Wilson, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson and Louise Beavers.

Moss leaves Los Angeles with a colorful record. He served for two years on the editorial staffs of several Hollywood papers as adviser on interracial affairs. Other distinguished activities include the founding and presidency of the South Central Democratic club, charter membership in the Los Angeles chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, and a contributing figure in the opening up of the Van Ness district to Negroes.

Wed in North, Meyer Kings Leave Gala Festivities Here for Home

As the climax to a week of gay times, and innumerable and gala festivities in their honor, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer King, newlyweds, of Berkeley, left the city last Friday evening, returning to their northern home.

Quietly married Saturday afternoon, Oct. 10, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Presley Winfield, prominent Berkeley residents, the Kings, she is the former Mrs. Portia Pruitt Lewis, were honored guests at a beautiful reception here Sunday, Oct. 11, in the spacious and well-appointed home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Phillip Fortier, 3627 So. Van Ness avenue.

The affair was co-hostessed by Mesdames Marcia Fortier and Ursula Adams, the bride's sisters, and both prominent Los Angeles social and business figures.

Assisting the Mesdames Adams and Fortier in receiving the many guests were Dr. Vada Somerville, Mesdames Clarence Jones, Herman Price, Henry McPherson, Robert Garrott, William Bailey, Gerald Barnum, Venye Luke, Dollie Banks, Morris Finn, J. Cullen Fentress, Rufus Portis, Walter Jones, Allen C. Gard, Ernest Weaver, and L'Ouverture Pruitt.

Messrs. L'Ouverture Pruitt and Fortier assisted in the study serving champagn punch.

The Fall theme dominated the dinner dresses worn by the bride and her two sisters. Mrs. King wore the new blue grey peg-draped skirt dress, featuring jeweled antique gold pearl buttons, long sleeves, with two regal purple orchids. Mrs. Adams wore fall green and peach silm skirt with silver studded jacket featuring three-quarter length sleeves, and white orchid, while Mrs. Fortier wore mulberry peg draped dinner dress, with three-quarter length sleeves, and white orchid.

White dahlias, gladiolas and pink roses dominated the lavishly decorated Fortier home.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. King to Los Angeles were Mr. and Mrs. Winfield, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Johnson, Mrs. Oscar Taylor, Mrs. Jake Wagner, Messrs. Cebe Calhoun, [illegible] Popper.

Mr. King, [illegible] the north, is an official for Southern Pacific at Oakland Pier, while Mrs. King, mother of two children, Marg Lewis and Ursula Jacqueline, plays the role of mother and wife.

FRIENDS ENTERTAIN

Relatives and friends entertained the popular northern visitors during the week. Monday evening, Oct. 12, Mrs. Adams was hostess at bridge in her home, 2244 W. 29th street. A delicious buffet dinner was enjoyed Tuesday evening in the Long Beach home of the Benjamin DeCuirs.

Mr. and Mrs. L'Ouverture Pruitt assumed the role of host and hostess Wednesday at 2224 Hooper avenue, with dinner and bridge. Mrs. Mary Jones and Mrs. Ernest Weaver were co-hostesses at dinner Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, 2122 W. 29th street, which was followed by games and refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.
